Cat's-Eye Courses For Newton Police

Chief William F. Quinn has announced that the Newton Police Department has been notified that it was chosen as one of twenty-five departments in the United States to receive a direct grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration's Pilot Grant Program.

The grant is in the amount of $9,804.00, and is to be used

Truck Size Limit Due On Crescent St.

A decision is expected "in about two weeks" on limiting the size of trucks which can use Crescent St. in West Newton, according to the state district engineering headquarters in Arlington.

It was 10 months ago, in November 1969, when Joseph P. Scialise of 228 Webster St. petitioned the Board of Aldermen to restrict the traffic along this roadway, limiting truck size to three tons.

Chief Quinn stated that the Newton Police Department has been, in cooperation with the Raytheon Corporation, experimenting with night vision devices for the past twelve months.

Quinn said, "This grant will enable us to buy an Aerojet Delft night scope and continue our study of techniques of after-dark surveillance on suspected narcotics peddlers, burglars, accosters, etc."

He went on, "In time, we hope to use the night vision scope, coupled with a Video Tape Unit, to develop procedures for court use."

"I have assigned Captain of Detectives John N. McMullen to work in conjunction with Captain Richard F. Donahue, Commander of the Patrol Bureau, to arrange for the training of our officers in the use of the equipment and guidelines to insure due process of law and acceptance by the courts of this type of evidence."

All Candidates 'Go' With Primary Day Voting Ahead

The tempo of political campaigning throughout the Newtons will be sharply increased next Tuesday as the candidates for Democratic and Republican nominations enter the final week of their drives to Primary Day on Sept. 15.

House parties and door-to-door canvasses are planned across the city next week in endeavors to stimulate public interest in the primary battles and to promote support for individual candidates.

While the greatest attention and interest are centered on the four-candidate fight for the Democratic nomination for Governor, lively primary contests also are being waged in Newton for nominations for seats in Congress, the State Senate, the House of Representatives and county offices.

The big battle which Newton Republicans will help to settle a week from next Tuesday is that between Josiah A. Spaulding of Manchester and John J. McCarthy of Chatham for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator and the right to stand against Senator Edward M. Kennedy in the November election.

An interesting clash between Representatives John McGlennon of Concord and Vahe A. Sarafian of 130

Dickerman road, Newton, for the GOP nomination for Congress in the Philbin district also is nearing a close.

The Republican turnout in the Newtons for the Sept. 15 primary probably will be CANDIDATES (See Page 33)

White-Donahue Race Close; Polls Show White Leading

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White and State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue appear to be coming down toward the finish line in a close race for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

The polls and surveys which have been made point to White as the probable winner of the contest although they show that Donahue has achieved substantial gains since getting the endorsement of the Democratic State Convention in mid-June.

Shortage Of Aldermen Stalls Housing Meeting

By SHIRLEY GOLDWYN

A second special meeting of the Board of Aldermen called for Tuesday night for further consideration of the low and moderate income housing proposals of the Newton Community Development Foundation never got off the ground because of lack of a quorum.

The meeting was scheduled for 7:45 p.m. at Newton City Hall, and when only nine board members were present at 8:10 p.m. the meeting was called off.

Aldermen present included, Alan S. Barkin, Elliot K. Cohen, Thomas B. Concannon, Jr., Harry H. Crosby, Louis I. Egelson, Matthew Jefferson, Andrew Magni, Sidney T. Small, and Robert Tennant.

The announcement of the decision to call off the session was greeted by applause from about 50 spectators, presumably residents of the Hamlet St., Newton Centre and Lakeview Ave., Newton areas.

It was primarily to discuss these two sites that the meeting had been called. They were the only two locations on which the 90 day time limit had not expired.

The law requires aldermanic action on rezoning petitions within 90 days of the public hearings on the petitions. Since the original public hearings were held on five separate nights, the petitions regarding the various sites ran out at different times.

When all of the rezoning petitions came up for vote of the aldermen last week only one was approved — that involving the site at Stanton Ave. in Auburndale.

All the others received charter objections, a parliamentary device which automatically postpones debate or action on a measure before the aldermen for at least one week.

The failure of the aldermen to meet on Tuesday night means that the 90 day time limit has now expired on all of the 10 sites involved in NCDF's rezoning petitions. The group was seeking the rezoning to permit construction of 508 units of the low and moderate income housing.

The aldermen were also expected to act on a compromise resolution developed by the Land Use Committee of the Board. The resolution was approved on a 17 to 6 vote on a first round of voting last week.

However, it was later brought up for reconsideration and then also automatically

17,834 Youngsters Ready For Trek Back To School

Some 17,834 Newton youngsters will return to the city's public schools next Thursday following a summer vacation which appears to have reduced the tensions pervading as school ended last June.

A staff of 1,260 teachers will be on hand to head the classrooms. They will meet as guests of the Newton Teachers Association and the Newton Public Schools on Tuesday at 9 a.m. at Newton South High School and are scheduled for a general meeting on Wednesday morning at Newton High School.

Six new principals and administrators will assume their posts this month. Irwin Freedman will be the new principal of Meadowbrook Junior High School.

Other new administrators include James Hinkle, administrative assistant to the superintendent; Vincent Siluzzo, director of research and evaluation; John Cullinane, director of pupil personnel services; John Harper, assistant supervisor of the arts, for music; Henry Owen, special education program director, Title III; and Daniel Malia, coordinator of technical - vocational education.

Hinkle will occupy the post held by Henry Atkins who will begin a newly created position as curriculum coordinator for all grades in schools in the south side of the city. Harold Beatty, currently associated with the School Department's Division of Instruction, will hold a similar job for schools on the north side of the city.

Hinkle, 33 years old, holds a B.A. degree from Yale University, did graduate work at the University of Virginia Law School and holds a M.Ed. degree from the Harvard School of Education.

He taught history at St. Bernard's School, Gloucester.

Newtonite In Boat Rescue On N.H. Lake

A Newton resident, a sailing and seamanship instructor at Brookline High School summer classes, lent valuable assistance in rescuing the skipper of a capsized boat on Lake Sunapee, N.H. last week and then made repeated but unsuccessful attempts to save the life of a passenger in the tipped craft who had fallen overboard.

Spotting a capsized sailboat on Lake Sunapee, N.H. this past week, Wallace J. Gleekman of 35 Ranglee Road, West Newton maneuvered his sailboat toward the scene of the accident.

As he approached, Joseph Mayer of Hampton, N.H. who had just righted the stricken boat began shouting and signalling. When Gleekman asked him if he needed help, he said that his friend Peter Fiske, a pilot for Executive Airlines, had slipped over the side and gone down.

Self-Help Drug Addiction Center Hails Anniversary

Project Turn-About in Brighton, the self-help drug addiction center serving Newton and other areas, is marking its first anniversary with a flourish.

Turn-About has also been designated for a limited funding and is supposed to receive $300 per month. However, since June that has not come through.

Meanwhile, a group of Newton residents, led by Mrs. Polly Epstein and her co-workers, Mrs. Harold Sparks, Mrs. Kenneth Cline, Mrs. Warren Rabb, Mrs. Irving Paley, Mrs. Allen Tepper and Mrs. Owen Schwam and many others are diligently working to launch a $50,000 fund raising drive entitled Project Awareness to assure that Turn-About will be able to maintain its vital efforts. William McCue, Assistant Director of Turn-About says the four large apartments of the new building will be set up in dormitory style. This means that we will not have to have any of the people sleeping in the basement of our Brighton storefront (545 Washington Street) any longer said a pleased McCabe.

"The building needs a lot of rehabilitation, painting and papering, before we can move in, but this is just great - what we needed all along. We have been having 40-45 kids in Brighton and Hull living in and now we will be able to accommodate more. We will still use Brighton for our 200 commuters." McCue also admitted that Turn-About has been suffering with many problems making it especially difficult to get staff and food for the residents. The money from Turn-About, when it comes, will continue to help McCue because of the great amount of overhead.

"We have just been scraping by on our Brighton rent of $175 a month and it has been a struggle to raise food every day." McCue is also elated over the enthusiasm of Mrs. Polly Epstein who is leading a drive for funds and supplies. "I think it is good for people in Newton to know what Turn-About is doing for the kids. There is no such a center in Newton and so the Newton children are being taken care of in Project Turn-About in Brighton. McCue estimates that there have been 70 during the past year and serious addicts are now in residence with us. The percentage of young people seeking help has tripled this summer. We could have six half-way houses and fill them without difficulty. We are delighted with the great, big, very comfortable house in the and other such things."

Mrs. Epstein and her co-workers have been working on Tuesday night's special meeting had been called by Mayor Monte G. Basbas in response to a letter requesting such a meeting signed by a majority of the aldermen.

If any further action on NCDF's proposals is to be taken, new public hearings on the various proposed sites will have to be scheduled.

Burglary Is Thwarted By Home Alarm

A Newton Highland man reported $950 in cash was stolen from his home last week.

Peter Pierson of 57 Dunklee St., said the cash was taken from a closet in his bedroom between noon and 6 p.m. on Aug. 18. Police investigation discovered no signs of forced entry.

A broken window near the lock of a cellar door of a Newton Centre home was the apparent means of entry for a thief who took a hifi and tape recorder, a coin collection and clock during last week-end.

The alleged theft was reported to police by F. Dowell Smith of 39 Gray Cliff Rd.

Police attribute a home burglar alarm for the apparent thwarting of an attempted theft at a Chestnut Hill home.

Officer Martin W. Daley discovered a break at the home of Kirke A. Neal, 339 Hammon St., while making his routine rounds on Monday morning.

He sighted a broken window in the rear dining room where someone had apparently broken the window and reached inside to unlock the door.

Since nothing appeared to be missing, police theorized that the would-be burglar fled when the alarm system sounded.

successfully submitted grant to the Federal Highway Safety Program, according to Chief William F. Quinn.

The study will be on Traffic Law Enforcement and Accident Investigation.

Mascia was appointed Commander of the Traffic Bureau in January of 1970.

He was born in Newton, attended Newton High School, Pennsylvania State University, and Northeastern University and has studied Criminal Law. Mascia is married to the former Sadie L. Caliguri of Newton, and they have two daughters.

Captain Mascia entered the Newton Police Department in 1941, and was promoted to Sergeant in 1947, Lieutenant in 1959 and Captain in 1970.

Both Chief Quinn and Captain Mascia agree that more education in Traffic Law Enforcement and Accident Investigation is needed to lessen the accident rate in Newton.

Mascia is responsible for all traffic and accident procedural teaching in both in-service and recruit training at the Newton Police Academy.

Philbin Says Congress Has Helped 3rd District

Congressman Philip J. Philbin, who is standing for Democratic renomination and re-election in the third Congressional district, which includes Newton, has reported to the people of his district on his work of the past two years.

He declares that the present 91st Congress has "made numerous contributions to the well-being of the third district."

Congressman Philbin also reported on his work on the House Armed Services Committee and with Banking and Currency and Public Works Committees.

He is chairman of the Massachusetts Congressional Delegation Committee on Flood Control and commented on his successful pressure for adoption of the Charles River Basin water resources development plan and the funding for the study which will give to the communities here "some guidance in meeting such problems as control of flash-type flooding, pollution, wildlife preservation, recreational needs, land use and other water resources priorities."

He points to his sponsorship of a bill to establish a mass transit fund and encourage more Federal help in the solution of mass transit ills and to the support he has given Massachusetts Legislators appearing before Congress on this issue.

He calls the tax reform bill "the most comprehensive" in history and the Equal Rights Bill, of which he was co-sponsor, "long past due." He reports his support of Social Security increases and his sponsorship of the cost-of-living increase provision.

"I am opposed to escalation of the war in Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos or elsewhere and favor a flexible withdrawal of forces timed to meet existing conditions without danger to our troops and the commitments we have made not only to the peoples of Southeast Asia, but to other parts of the free world," wrote the ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee.

"It must be remembered that ending the war by a stroke of the pen cannot be accomplished without assuming the responsibility for what is to follow," Congressman Philbin continued.

He believes his work in the Armed Services Committee toward effecting a compromise on the hotly contested bill to regulate lethal chemical and biological warfare to be important, also his effort to guide through Congress 18 bills relating to the stockpiling of critical military materials.

"I have emphasized my support of Israel's request for additional aircraft," Mr. Philbin declared, recalling his early support of the cause of the Israeli state.

Congressman Philbin cited his vote to override Presidential vetoes of both the Education and Housing appropriation bills as well as his support of the Electoral Reform bill.

Calling himself an early and consistent conservationist, he pointed to his backing of funding for the Cape Cod National Seashore park and of programs in the interest of clean air research, water quality improvement and the endangered species.

Congressman Philbin said he is "proud to have taken an active, vigorous part" in the accomplishments of the 91st Congress.

Temple School At Beth Avodah Opens Sept. 9

School registration for both the religious school and the Hebrew school will be on September 9, at 8:15 p.m. at Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton Centre.

The Religious school will hold its first class on September 13. Several new and exciting changes will occur in the school this year.

A course in Hebrew will be included on Sunday mornings so that all students will have more familiarity with the Hebrew language. Much emphasis will be placed on history this year.

The older children, under the guidance of Rabbi Edward M. Maline, will probe the social problems of the day, as well as the compatibility of Jewish tradition with changing personal and social values.

Classes for the Hebrew school will commence on Tuesday, September 15.

New members are always welcome. Temple Beth Avodah is a warm, friendly temple, with a strong adult education program as well as excellent schooling for the young.

For further information about the Temple and Religious school, please call 527-5783, or the membership chairman, Fred Shapiro, 527-6582.

827 Newton Dwellings Seen "Deteriorating"

There are 827 "deteriorated or dilapidated" housing units in Newton according to an estimate by the city Planning Department.

City Planner E. Michael Ferris described this figure as "not extremely reliable but as reliable as you can get without a complete survey of the city."

The majority of these belong in the "deteriorating" category, Ferris stated, which means they are in need of some exterior maintenance work to repair such items as broken down stairs, foundation cracks, leaking roofs, etc.

The precise meaning of the terms "deteriorating" and "dilapidated" housing is spelled out in the state sanitary code. The "dilapidated" category according to the city planner, includes those buildings which need major structural repair or replacement.

There are no particular sections in Newton where this housing is concentrated, he explained, except that most of them are on the north side of the city, and this is due to the greater age of most of the structures in that area.

The present estimate was reached by taking the number of homes so classified by census enumerators in 1960 (1,325), subtracting the number of units which have been repaired in the 10-year interval (2,160) and adding an estimate of the number which have slipped into the "deteriorating or dilapidated" state in the past 10 years (.75 per cent of the city's approximately 26,000 housing units).

The estimate was necessary, Ferris added, to fulfill certain federal requirements which must be met in order to keep the city eligible for federal funds.

Ferris stressed that the figure has declined considerably in the past decade and attributed this improvement to the city's efforts in the field of code enforcement and the general appreciation of property values.

With the rising value of property, he continued, people tend to take better care of their homes and undertake essential repairs.

At the present time, the city's code enforcement work is advancing on three fronts: the concentrated program in Newton Upper Falls, the systematic program, which covers about one village a year and the whole city about every seven years) and the overall program, which deals with code violations when complaints are made.

These three programs combined add up to what Ferris called "pretty good coverage" of the city's housing, and allows few to reach a serious condition before the city knows about them.

The percentage of houses falling into the "deteriorating" and "dilapidated" categories in the city, in Ferris's opinion, is low for a community with the characteristics of Newton, and he anticipates that it will fall even further from this point.

More accurate figures will become obtainable, he said when the results of the 1970 federal census become available, probably next spring.

Car Crashes Injure 5 In Newton

Two separate automobile accidents in Newton last Friday resulted in injuries to five persons.

Police reported that a car, operated by Jeffrey B. Gainsborg of Valley Forge Military Academy, Wayne, Pa., skidded at the curve at Ascenta Ter. and Highland St., West Newton, at 9:19 p.m. and crashed into a brick wall. The entire front end of the car was demolished.

Richard J. Shriber, 17, of 29 Clifton Rd., and Jeffrey L. Marks, 70 Clifton Rd., both of Newton Centre and both passengers in Gainsborg's car, were taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital by police. They and Gainsborg were treated for abrasions and contusions.

The brick wall, which was shaken loose of two feet of bricks and mortar, is on the property of Thomas H. Terrio at 165 Highland St. Also damaged was an 8-by-10 section of lawn on the property of Mrs. Thomas Cavanaugh at 4 Ascenta Ter., plus $50 worth of shrubbery.

The second accident occurred at Beacon St. and Carlton Rd. in Waban and injured two persons.

According to the police, cars operated by Muriel A. Dumais, 55, of 57 Lexington St., Belmont and James R. Anthony, Brook Trail Rd., Wayland, collided at 5:20 p.m.

Anthony suffered no injuries, while the other driver said she would see her own physician. Her passenger, Fannie Glover of 24 Felch Rd., Natick, also expressed the same wish.

2:30 p.m., Box 421, 268 Grove St., Auburndale, fire in an apartment which was confined to one room. Engines 2, 4, 5, Ladder 1 and Assistant Chief Preble responded and returned to quarters at 4:45 p.m.

8:34 p.m., 300 Commonwealth Ave., Chestnut Hill, electrical problem after a portion of the house was hit by lightning. Fire Department officials said the service was partially interrupted.

Engine 9 responded and Edison emergency crews were notified.

The action of the Board of Aldermen at a special meeting last Thursday night in appropriating $20,000 for a temporary parking lot on the grounds of Newton High School may alleviate the parking crunch that has worried school personnel and city officials.

However, it is causing concern to those interested in physical education since some of the outdoor athletic facilities will be affected by the parking lot construction.

There will undoubtedly have to be some alteration of the physical education program during the three year construction period and arrangements will probably have to be made for certain sports to be played elsewhere.

The first meeting of the year of the Newton School Committee will be held on September 14.

Newtonite Is Chairman For Israel Event

In an effort to provide Israel Bond funds to help strengthen Israel's economy, the Pine Brook Country Club of Weston, will sponsor a dinner in behalf of Israel on Tuesday, October 6, at the Club, it was announced by Edward Bertman, president. Jeremiah Sundell of Newton Highlands, has been named chairman of the dinner.

The function will be the first held by a country club in this area for the purpose of channeling much-needed development dollars into Israel.

In announcing the dinner, Mr. Bertman said, "We cannot overestimate the constructive role that Israel Bond funds have played in the dramatic development of Israel; nor can we underestimate the decisive role of the Israel Bond program as Israel faces the vast economic and other problems of the present and the future."

"As a major source of funds for Israel's Development Budget," he stated, "Israel Bonds take on added importance not only for the urgent and immediate economic tasks, but for the long-range development program. It is our hope that the coming dinner in behalf of Israel will achieve maximum benefit to the Jewish state."

As chairman of the function, Mr. Sundell, a well-known certified public accountant, is forming a committee to arrange for a successful dinner. He is treasurer of the Pine Brook Country Club and a member of its board of governors, a member of the board of directors of Temple Mishkan Tefila and a member of the New England Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League.

Mr. Sundell is a partner in the Clarence Raines Company and a member of its national executive board. He was chairman of the Government

ROBERT F. DRINAN

As Aldermen of the city of Newton, we feel Rev. Robert F. Drinan has displayed the leadership and talent needed to represent Newton and the entire Third District in Congress. As a top administrator at Boston College Law School, as a top national authority on family and Constitutional Law, and as a firsthand observer of the problems of Vietnam and the Middle East, Fr. Drinan has proven he would be an excellent Congressman.

Fr. Drinan's positions indicate that he will be the best man to help the Third District solve the problems of the 1970's. Fr. Drinan has displayed a sincere and innovative concern with the problems of the cities and the nation.

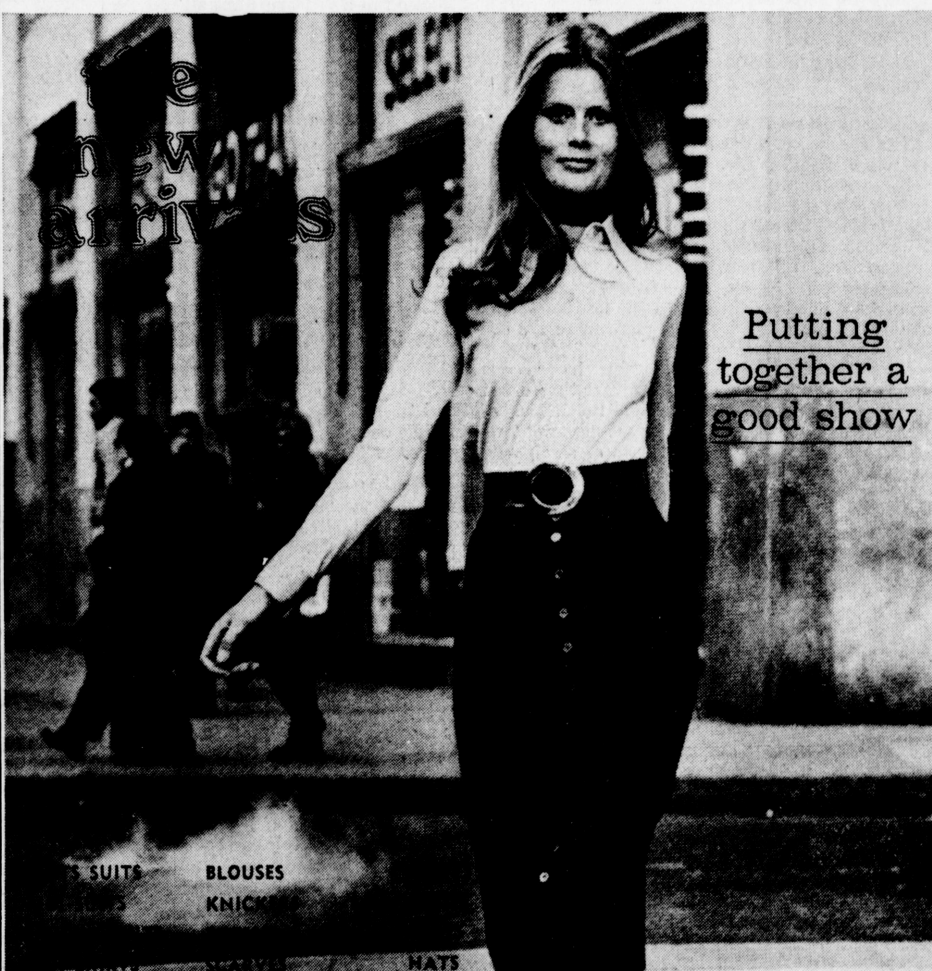

We believe the present Congressman has served well in the past but we also believe the time has come for a change.

We urge the people of the Third Congressional District to vote for Robert F. Drinan on September 15.

New Fulbright?

It's no secret that many Washington big-wigs, including a number of members of his own party, were more mildly amused when U.S. Attorney General Mitchell's wife called for the political "crucifixion" of Senator J. William Fulbright.

If the then voluble Martha only intended to silence the Senator's loquacious tongue she woefully missed her aim. Eventually, it was Martha who got silenced.

Her timing also was bad if she was really trying to achieve Mr. Fulbright's political demise. Even if the voters of Arkansas suddenly found themselves sharing Mrs. Mitchell's views there wasn't much they could do about it right away.

The Senator isn't due to come up for re-election until 1974. Arkansas sent him to Congress for a single term in 1942. In 1944 they elected him Senator and have been re-electing him every six years since—in all for five terms.

He has never been on the favorite person list of three Democratic Presidents — Truman, Kennedy, and Johnson. He was often the target of some of Mr. Truman's sharpest sarcasm. He never figured to be a real smoking room chum of Messrs. Eisenhower or Nixon. Neither ever invited him.

Down through the years J. William Fulbright has thrived on dissent.

However, for the benefit of anyone wishing to dismiss him as a common scold, he recently put on as flawless an example of media-handling as Washington has seen in many years.

His focus was the Middle East conflict. His theme was based on a proposal that some new approach was needed to settle international differences. He correctly pointed out that everything man has tried since before World War I had proved useless. He proposed the U.N. Security Council be given a try at the job and that it impose and guarantee a settlement of the three-year war between Israel and the Arabs.

Whatever political reaction it might have had, Fulbright's ideas not only got respectful attention—they reached every part of the nation regardless of time zones.

On a Saturday he held a widely attended press conference. He had clear, succinct press kits ready. He answered completely and concisely every question thrown at him. He got a most attentive hearing from the reporters. Their stories sharply reflected their respecting moods. The next day—Sunday—he gave a repeat performance on the nationally televised "Meet the Press."

Is it a new Fulbright? He certainly didn't look like a forlorn, never-to-be Secretary of State. He has spent a good part of his 26 years in the Senate making life less than happy for one Secretary of State after another.

Is he aiming at something higher? How do men become presidential dark horses?

"Bad Risks"

Two major life insurance companies in Canada have decided to stop writing policies on marihuana-users. A third has re-instituted questions on the use of all drugs for all future applicants.

Advocates of the legalization of marihuana in the United States might well invest in the postal costs to get copies of the research reports on which the Dominion companies based their action.

Insurance companies are in business to make money. They didn't have to wait until the era of the computer to determine that "bad risks" cost them money. They never end their quest for "good risks", particularly in the field of life insurance.

In labelling the marihuana-user as a bad risk, the companies point out such factors as the drug's influence on the automobile operator and the fact that its use indirectly leads to heroin and other deadly drugs. The conclusion is that marihuana can and does constitute a hazard to life.

Research in the United States continues apace. It has reached the stage where "experts" can be found on either side of the pro-and-con debate.

The public can't be blamed if it finds itself puzzled by the paradox. While marihuana advocates would convince listeners the drug is harmless and relaxing, lawmakers who don't want to go that far, think that penalties for using it or being present where it's used should be virtually eliminated.

Very often on a so-called radio "talk show" a commercial will warn listeners of the devastating effects of a cigarette made of tobacco. Keep tuned long enough and almost certainly a marihuana discussion will be along telling of the harmlessness of a cigarette fashioned of marihuana.

Those Canadian insurance companies aren't concerned with any generation gaps, "mod" cultures or way-out researchers.

If the applicant for life insurance comes under their shrewd appraisal as a "good risk", he becomes a legitimate policy holder and a multi-digit number in their active books.

If the applicant happens to be a marihuana-user, he's out of luck. He might deny his addiction, but if marihuana contributes to his demise, his beneficiary may just as well tear up the policy. Marihuana rendered it fraudulent.

Dr. Nelson To Tufts Medical

Dr. John B. Nelson, III, of Newtonville has been named assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at the Tufts University School of Medicine. It has been announced by Dr. William F. Maloney, dean of the school.

Dr. Nelson, who is married and has four children, was until recently executive director of the Douglas A. Thom Clinic for Children in Boston. At present he is training director and chief child psychiatrist at the South Shore Mental Health Center in Quincy.

He has also taught in the Boston University School of Medicine as clinical professor of psychiatry.

Educated at Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, Dr. Nelson received the Doctor of Medicine degree from Jefferson Medical College in 1954. He has been associated with Boston child guidance clinics since 1959, when he became a training fellow in child psychiatry at the Thom Clinic.

Mayor Member of Visitors Board

Mayor Monte G. Basbas of Newton is among seven new members elected to Boston University's College of Business Administration Board of Visitors.

The Board has 36 members and is presided over by Ross Barzelay, vice president and director of corporate personnel of the General Foods Corporation. It offers information and assistance to maintain effective communication between the academic and business communities.

Year of Study In France Ahead for Marie McMahon

A year's study in the Sweet Briar Junior Year in France, administered by Sweet Briar College, will begin for a Newton college student when she sails from New York Sept. 3 on the Queen Elizabeth II.

Marie Louise McMahon, 3 Moreland Ave., Newton, a student at Yale, is enrolled in the 23rd session of this program, in which more than 2,000 men and women from 198 colleges have participated since 1948.

This year's group includes 29 men and 73 women from 51 colleges and universities, among which are Wellesley, Yale, Wheaton, Denison, Mount Holyoke, Goucher, Moravian, and William & Mary. Ten students from Sweet Briar College are in the group. Sixty-nine are majoring in French and 14 in political science, international affairs and history.

Mme. Edmonde Bissiere, formerly instructor in French at Wheaton College, is assistant professor-in-charge and will sail with the students. On arrival in France they will be met by the director, Dr. R. John Matthew, of Sweet Briar College, and Dr. J. Luke Martel, professor-in-charge for 1970-71, who is on leave from the College of William and Mary.

The students will spend six weeks in Tours, provincial capital of the chateau district on the Loire river, where they will further their studies in language, literature, and contemporary aspects of France. All classes are conducted in French and the students live in French homes. Late in October they will move to Paris to enroll in courses offered at the University of Paris and affiliated institutions.

Named to Bank's Director Board

Harvey H. Thayer, treasurer of the Polaroid Corporation, has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company according to an announcement made today by Nathan I. Greene, Chairman of the Board.

A Harvard graduate, Mr. Thayer joined the Polaroid Corporation in 1956 and served in several manufacturing and administrative capacities both in the United States and abroad.

He organized the film manufacturing operations of Polaroid (U.K.) Ltd., the company's British subsidiary. He later became general manager of the British company. Mr. Thayer resides in Dover with his wife and four children.

Meryl Kalman Enrolled For Nursing Study

Miss Meryl Kalman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kalman of 70 Elgin St., Newton Centre, will enter the Northeastern University School of Nursing this month.

A Newton High School June graduate, she will be in the five-year bachelor of science degree cooperation program. Miss Kalman has earned 500 hours credit for volunteer service at the Beth Israel Hospital.

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

Francis X. Bellotti and Kenneth P. O'Donnell run third and fourth respectively on the poll returns.

Supporters of Donahue, Bellotti and O'Donnell declare that the poll findings are based on the assumption that 100 per cent of the persons interviewed will vote in the primary, when actually that is not the fact.

Their argument has merit up to a point. An attempt has been made by at least some of the pollsters to segregate those men and women who probably will vote in the Democratic primary. Their figures still show White emerging the victor of the four-way battle.

It is true, of course, that some persons who now have every intention of going to their polling places to vote in the primary will fail to do so when Sept. 15 arrives. That would not seem to be a sufficiently great factor to cause any real change in the poll returns.

Some political pundits believe that the fight may be won and lost in the final days just before the primary. They point out that many persons don't pay any real attention to a primary until after Labor Day.

But the period between Labor Day and Primary Day this year is so short it is more likely to result in a smaller-than-usual turnout of voters rather than any change in the outcome of the battle for the right to stand as the Democratic candidate for Governor.

As might be anticipated, Donahue's greatest strength is in Western Massachusetts, and it may be rising there.

One of the observations made frequently by political columnists and commentators is that White is weak in Boston but strong outside the city whose government he heads.

The poll returns contradict that analysis. White appears to be as strong or stronger in Boston than in almost any other section of the Commonwealth.

Donahue's chance of winning the Democratic nomination for Governor seems to hinge on his ability to close out his primary campaign with a great finishing surge.

He has gained since the Democratic State Convention. Donahue still would have to make a big gain to overtake White in the final days of their race. If the momentum is with him, it is possible he can do so.

Bellotti and O'Donnell both are counting on come-from-behind finishes. But it is difficult to figure out how they can generate them.

If White captures the Democratic nomination for Governor, as the polls indicate, he will be only the second gubernatorial contender to topple a convention-endorsed candidate since the convention system of picking State tickets was revived in 1954.

Bellotti defeated Endicott Peabody in the 1964 Democratic primary after Peabody, a sitting Governor, had received the nod of the convention in West Springfield. Bellotti lost the subsequent election to John A. Volpe.

Governor Francis W. Sargent presumably will be gratified to learn that none of the four Democratic gubernatorial aspirants—White, Donahue, Bellotti and O'Donnell—will poll a majority of the Democratic votes.

But the victorious candidate could gain an impetus which would carry on into the vital election campaign.

So far, incidentally, no undue amount of bitterness has been generated, and no wounds have been opened which could not be healed between the Sept. 15 primary and the Nov. 3 election.

Tradition Against McCarthy Because of Convention Loss

If conservative John J. McCarthy defeats liberal Josiah Spaulding for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator, it will be the first time a GOP candidate has overturned an action of a Republican State Convention since the late Christian A. Herter revived the convention system of endorsing candidates for statewide offices in the early 1950s.

Elliot Richardson tried to do it and failed after Edward W. Brooke edged him on the second ballot at the 1962 GOP conclave in Worcester following a pulse-stopping first ballot on which Richardson failed to achieve victory by one vote.

Brooke had better success than Richardson in persuading his supporters to stay in the convention hall and not go home.

Richardson carried his fight on into the GOP primary. So did former Congressman Laurence Curtis and other Republicans of varying degrees of prominence and distinction.

But the Republican voters had been schooled to stand by the choices of their State Conventions in the interest of party discipline and they did.

That feeling may not be as strong today as it was eight years ago, but it is believed to be still potent enough to make liberal Spaulding a favorite over conservative McCarthy.

Tests of strength in the past also have indicated that liberal Republicans outnumber the conservative members of their party in Massachusetts although the latter at times are more vocal, and there is some reason to believe an upswing in conservative sentiment has occurred.

For that and other reasons it would be risky to count McCarthy out of the Republican Senate primary fight although he does appear to be the underdog in the contest.

Despite the fact that President Nixon was overwhelmingly defeated in Massachusetts by former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in the 1968 Presidential election, a number of candidates for Republican nominations have been trying to outdo each other in pledging their loyalty and support to Mr. Nixon.

There are definite signs that President Nixon's popularity in this State has increased since he assumed office 19 months ago.

Republicans, who a year ago were fearful that he might be a millstone around their necks, are now trying to climb onto his coattails. This is true even of a liberal or two.

Some of President Nixon's advisers, while professing their neutrality, are trying to help McCarthy against Spaulding who was beating the drums for Nelson Rockefeller prior to the 1968 Republican national convention.

ADA Straddles The Fence In Several Primary Fights

The ADA is walking a political tightrope in several Democratic primary contests.

For example, the State Chapter of the ADA endorsed Mayor Kevin H. White for the Democratic nomination for Governor, paying warm tribute to the record he has made as head of Boston's municipal government.

Then the ADA "commended" State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue "for his legislative record and for his service on behalf of liberal legislation in the Commonwealth."

A Democratic voter, of course, can pick only one candidate for Governor when he marks his ballot or turns the lever of his voting machine on Primary Day.

The ADA gingerly straddled the fence in several other contests.

It announced its support of both Dennis A. Smith of Sharon and Bertram A. Yaffe of Fall River, opponents for the Democratic nomination for Congress in Margaret M. Heckler's district. Having gone that far, the ADA might have added a good word for Mrs. Heckler. The members of the ADA State Board evidently never heard of LIB.

The ADA declared that State Senator John Joseph Moakley and David S. Nelson, two of the contenders seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat on Washington's Capitol Hill now held by Speaker John W. McCormack, are "outstanding candidates worthy of support."

This not only dodged the issue but also ignored Mrs. Louise Day Hicks, the third contestant in the field, and if LIB doesn't pick ADA headquarters, we'll be surprised.

Two candidates for the Democratic nomination for State Senate in the Newton-Watertown district also were endorsed. The voters must pick between them. The ADA isn't what it used to be.

Spiro Will Not Come Here Unless Requested To Do So

Would Vice President Spiro Agnew be a help or a handicap to the members of the Republican State Ticket if he were to come into Massachusetts to campaign for them?

A sharp difference of opinion is reflected in the answers to that question.

Some Republican candidates want Mr. Agnew to stay well away from the borders of Massachusetts. Others voice the opinion that he could give a big lift to their campaigns.

Most politicians, Democrats as well as Republicans, agree that the Veep's popularity has increased tremendously in Massachusetts this year.

The Democrats, incidentally, generally say privately that they would be just as happy if Vice President Agnew restricted his campaigning to other sections of the country.

Some politicians and political pundits believe that the outspoken, two-fisted Mr. Agnew may be on his way to becoming the most popular Vice President in the nation's history.

If events continue on their present course, they see Spiro Agnew as the Republican nominee for President in 1976. And wouldn't he be an interesting candidate?

Mr. Agnew will be in great demand as a campaigner this coming fall. Republican candidates in marginal states or areas in the Middle West and South will be clamoring for his help. He will not visit any section unless there is a strong request that he do so. Only time will determine whether there will be such a call from Massachusetts for his aid.

Carswell in Florida Senate GOP Primary Next Tuesday

Judge G. Harold Carswell was turned down by members of the U. S. Senate last April for appointment to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Political pundits expect that he will also be rejected next Tuesday by Florida Republicans for the GOP nomination for the U. S. Senate.

Mr. Carswell is running against Congressman William C. Cramer for the Republican nomination for the seat being vacated by Senator Spessard L. Holland, a Democrat.

But Mr. Carswell is campaigning against two Yankee liberals named Senators Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Birch Bayh of Indiana.

Even that strategy, coupled with the sympathy generated for him by his rejection for the Supreme Court, is not likely to save him from a political defeat.

The man President Nixon wanted to place on the nation's highest tribunal is no ball of fire as a political campaigner, if one is to judge by the despatches from down Florida way.

A State legislator would be looked at askance in Massachusetts if he didn't make a better tight.

BRADLEY

SENATOR

Dear Voter:

The new Newton/Watertown district presents a challenging opportunity to solve the area's housing, crime, insurance rates, pollution. My many mutual problems. My legislative record shows a consistent concern for legislation designed to solve these problems — transportation, experience in municipal government makes me especially sensitive to the problems of the cities, and competent in their solution. I can promise that I will bring to the State Senate the same devotion, integrity, and determined independence of judgment which has characterized my public service in the past.

I hope you will have confidence in my commitment and ability to serve as your next Senator and that you will support me on Primary Day, September 15th.

September Is Dedicated To Aid For Peru

Massachusetts Governor Francis W. Sargent has proclaimed September as "Peru Assistance Month" throughout the Commonwealth.

In a statement issued by the Governor last week, he said that, "more than 500,000 persons were left homeless as a result of the earthquake which devastated Peru last May 31st."

"The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, through its several missionary societies, cultural exchange programs, Peace Corps Volunteers and commercial and social enterprises, has always had a continuing and extensive commitment to the Peruvian people," the Governor added.

"I urge the citizens of the Commonwealth to take cognizance of this month and the great need in Peru by sending a contribution to Peru Relief, Merchants National Bank, P.O. Box 9, Prudential Center, Boston, Mass. 02109."

Governors from the other five New England States have issued similar proclamations requesting citizen participation to aid Peru.

Contributions may be sent to Peru Relief, Merchants National Bank, P.O. Box 9, Prudential Center, Boston, Mass. 02109.

Wigmore A. Pierson of Newton is New England chairman for the Peruvian Relief drive.

Chicago, Murray Kamerman chose San Francisco as the most outstanding spot he visited.

His AYH group numbered nine young people aged 15 to 20 and was led by a trained AYH leader as are all AYH groups.

Youth Hostels are usually simple overnight accommodations on sites ranging from remote scenic to cultural in-city. Sleep and eat budgets are minimal. Overnight fees range from 40 cents to $1.25 abroad and $1.50 to $2.00 in the U.S. and Canada.

Murray's group took their own bikes and carried their own gear. Their longest straight biking stint was at the end of their trip heading into the New York City area. They bused into West Yellowstone Park and biked back up through it and then went through the Glacier National Parks.

Murray picked as the best hostel he put up at the one in Teton Village, Wyoming, in a Western resort area.

Up The Alps By Bike Abraham Dietz came back to Newton several pounds lighter after pedalling some 400 miles with pack on his back, many of them in the Tyrol.

His group of six girls, three boys and a leader flew to London, biked to the coast and crossed the Channel by boat.

By bus and train they travelled to Paris and later to see the major cities in Italy. Much of their biking was in the lake and Alp country of Switzerland, in the Austrian Alps, and from their riding up into Germany.

They also biked down the Rhine and into Holland. Most bike miles logged in one day were 45.

The Amherst biology major was disappointed to find so many Americans sharing Europe with him. The European hostels were adequately but very simply equipped, he said, and they varied in atmosphere from country to country.

"In Germany we were often up at 6 a.m. and out at 7 by regulation. Parisian hostels are more relaxed. The most memorable hostel was a beautiful one near Innsbruck, Austria. We reached it after pushing our bikes up the last few miles to find its site to be a castle complete with castle-keeper.

Mrs. Kamerman returned Sunday from her trip to Asia shared with 25 Americans aged 17 to 70 and including teachers, professors and secretaries.

Flying from Alaska to begin and end her trip in Japan she visited Taiwan, Hong Kong,

Country Players Barbecue To Be Held September 13

The Country Players of Newton Highlands, president of the Players, will announce a complete agenda of the forthcoming year's activities. Those planning to attend are advised to park their cars on Grant Avenue.

Founded in 1956, the Country Players of Newton is a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels.

For further information concerning the barbecue, theatre party sponsorship or individual membership, write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159 or phone 969-9737.

Police Sociologist Goes To Prison for Research

By ROBERT D. INDERMAN
 Phillip Lewis, 26, is in jail this summer to rub elbows and swap stories with society's derelicts—the drunks and drifters who spend their lives bouncing in and out of jail.

Lewis is the Dallas Police Department's new sociologist, the city's first. He is a graduate of Sam Houston State University and is charged with trying to help those who need help to stay out of trouble—and out of jail.

He knows the job will be tough. "Solving the problem of a man who has spent every other week in jail for the past 10 or 20 years isn't going to be easy," he acknowledged in an interview. "I have a long and difficult job before me. It's no one day or overnight affair. Not only must I try to find the root of the problem of our habitual offenders but also some way in which to solve it."

Plenty Of Patients

He does not lack for patients... Jimmy the Up and Down Man who works off another sentence between booze binges by running the city jail's elevator... Bill the Cook, a 50-year-old wino who acts as chef for other down and outers... Harmonica-playing Oscar... Screaming Jeff... Bayou Billy.

All told, 200 or more of society's misfits who have taken up virtual residence in the city jail. Every city has their like.

The goal of any society is to reach a point where law and order prevail among its people with minimal enforcement," Lewis said.

"But, ironically, despite all the advances we have made in our technology and our styles of life, we have not reached that level of discipline. And we can trace the problem essentially back to our society."

Won't Help

"We live in such a high pressure society that inadequacy is constantly springing up—inadequacy in our jobs, our education, our social standing, or even in our role as parent and family provider. The inability of the individual to cope with his particular inadequacy leads him to some form of escape, such as drinking or some other social deviation."

Lewis explained that these down-and-outers do not accept this form of life because they like it.

"Alcoholics don't drink necessarily because they like the taste of liquor," he said. "Many of them want to stop, but they don't have the strength or the drive to do so. This holds true for most of the other derelicts. They want help, but they don't know how to go about finding it."

And in that, Lewis said, lies the major portion of the police departmental sociologist job.

"One of my first tasks will be a study to determine the best methods for serving those brought to jail," he said.

Lift Man's Burden

Lewis, who holds a master's degree in social rehabilitation and social services from the Institute of Contemporary Corrections at Sam Houston State, has strong feelings about the concept of rehabilitation.

"You can take a drunk or derelict out of jail, bathe, clothe and feed him, but you still haven't removed his problems," he said. "A person burdened by problems—family dissension, lack of education, lack of job skills—will continue to get into trouble until his problems are solved."

Lewis places primary interest on establishing a stable family atmosphere to which the offender can return.

"The family is the vital key in the rehabilitation process. While working with the offender—helping him with his problems and getting him in contact with the right community services who will continue working with him—I also will be planning to counsel his family as well," he said.

"The root of a man's problem may be in his home. Helping him there could make all the difference in the world."

2 Year Pilot Project

This family counseling may be providing a dual service for the community. "We also may be preventing delinquency of the children by remedying the problems of the parents," he said. "Perhaps another aid in minimizing law enforcement in the future."

In addition to his jail cell tours and counseling, Lewis also will be serving as a consultant to officers manning four "store front" community service centers across Dallas. Laying the groundwork for an effective vocational rehabilitation program also is on his schedule.

"Of course one man can't successfully handle this job alone," Lewis said. "But this program is only a pilot study to find out in what capacity can help the community offender."

The position of departmental sociologist was established by the City of Dallas with a $20,000 grant provided by the National Council of Jewish Women.

Under administrative supervision by the police department, the program is scheduled for two years under its pilot status.

Following the conclusion of the two trial years, the program will either be continued and expanded, revamped, or eliminated.

"I am very optimistic about this service," the young sociologist said. "The need is here. I never would have taken this job in the first place if I felt that it would not work or that it would end in two years."

$400-$500 For Co-Ed Wardrobe

The rumor that a large number of teen-age girls will arrive at college stark naked this fall because they have nothing to wear has no basis in fact.

That's just propaganda. As always, it definitely will be a fully-dressed affair that will cost each girl or her parents - an average $400 to $500.

There is one big and still unsettled question confronting the co-ed-to-be seeking a wardrobe: to mini, or midi?

And it has the college shops and department stores in something of a pickle, too.

Top fashion designers have sounded the death knell for the mini, and a final check of wholesale, ready-to-wear showrooms indicated the midcalf or mid length is the trend for the fall. But it's going to take a while to get the mini off the campus.

At the moment, it looks as though some sort of compromise will be reached during the fall term.

Minis will still be in abundance and not "out." But some midis will be seen around the campuses, too, probably on more formal occasions. And pants, too, of course where the powers that be don't frown on them.

A typical comment came from Karen Scheer, assistant buyer of junior sportswear for a department store in Minneapolis:

"We've ordered mostly a lot of jeans, in corduroy and denim, with knit tops to go with them and striped shirts. Also, the typical back-to-school coordinate, sweater and skirts and sweater vests."

The skirts range anywhere from 16-18 inches, which is above the knee, on down. Also we are testing gaucho pants and midi skirts in combination. We really haven't gotten anything for fall in yet, and it will be tough to tell for another month or so what will be selling the best."

A United Press International cross country survey showed that most teen-age girls still feel midis "look wonderful on old ladies."

The girls mention how difficult longer skirts are to manage in maneuvers ranging from climbing stairs, to dancing, to getting out of cars, but they keep coming back to the basic—legs.

Seventeen-year-old Nancy Kreps of Borah High School in Boise, Idaho, said, "I would never switch from the mini to midi. It would be like constantly wearing gloves—cumbersome and hot—and a girl is covering one of her best and most eye-catching assets."

However, a UPI check with major college shops across the country showed a lot of rack room for the midi, along with nostalgia for the mini.

Many stores have told their sales staff to start wearing the longer lengths by the end of the month. But they're not throwing out the minis. Several key stores said about 5 to 25 percent of their college stock will be above the knee.

Honeymoon In Israel For Mr. and Mrs. Freedman

A wedding trip to Israel followed the marriage of Miss Sherry Ann Morris, daughter of Mrs. Ruth E. Morris and Dr. C. Eugene Morris of Huntington, N. Y., to Mr. Donald Jeff Freedman of Newton Highlands.

A reception followed the pretty garden wedding Sunday afternoon (Aug. 30), at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. David Freedman of 20 Rogers street, Newton Highlands. The Rabbi Stephen C. Lerner of Town and Village Conservative Synagogue of New York City performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory silk organza in turn-of-the-century styling with empire waist and long sleeves featuring tucking on the bodice and lace applique. She wore a full-length veil and carried a single rose.

Serving her as matron of honor was Mrs. Jane Piereth Girdosky of Southampton, N.Y. and bridesmaids were Miss Valerie Meisel of Bridgeport, Ct. and Miss Judy Freedman of Newton Highlands, sister of the groom.

Mr. Daniel Freedman of Newton Highlands was his brother's best man and seated the guests were Mr. Mark Banks of Southampton, N.Y.; Mr. Randall Blaine Morris of Huntington, brother of the bride; Mr. Robert Lubin of Long Island City, N.Y., and Mr. Charles Girdosky of Southampton.

The couple are graduates of Southampton College of Long Island University and the groom will enter graduate school in the University of Oklahoma. They will make their home in Norman, Okla.

Forrest Attends Texas Seminar

Philip Forrest of 88 Vine St., Chestnut Hill, has just returned from a five day seminar on professional financial planning organized by the Channing Company in Houston, Texas.

Forrest is district manager of the Channing Company's local office at 56 Elmwood St., Newton.

The seminar was designed for specialists in the field of corporate and self-employed retirement plans. Forrest joined 28 other Channing financial consultants and members of the home office staff in the four day session of extensive in-depth discussion and professional training in this important area of financial planning.

"Mariculture" — the farming of the sea — could become a major world industry by 1980, according to Marine Office-Appleton & Cox Corp. (MOAC), marine insurance company. MOAC, which insures ships and equipment probing the ocean's food-producing potential, said there will not be enough arable land available in the future to grow food for a population increasing at the rate of 60 million a year.

MRS. WILLIAM BELL

Honeymoon In Bermuda For Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell

A reception in the ballroom of the Sheraton Commander Hotel in Cambridge followed the recent wedding in the Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, of Miss Elaine Theresa Donnelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Donnelly of Newton Centre and Mr. William Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCann of Newton.

The Rev. Warren Donnelly officiated at the 10 a.m. nuptials on Saturday, August 29, and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

The bride wore an empire gown of organza fashioned with a high collar, puffed sleeves and a chapel train, all trimmed with Venice lace. Her matching lace headpiece held a three-tier illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of white daisies accented with babies' breath.

Miss Donna Donnelly attended her sister as maid of honor and acting as bridesmaids were two other sisters, Miss Margaret Donnelly of Newton Centre and Mrs. John Winchenbaugh of Framingham, serving with a sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Mrs. John Bell of Chicago. They were gownned alike in Grecian empire style lilac crepe and they wore headpieces of pink daisies and lilies.

Miss Jacquelyn Winchenbaugh, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a long dress of white lace trimmed with pink satin and a crown of pink daisies and lilies; and she carried a basket of pink daisies.

Mr. Robert Bell of Chicago was his brother's best man. Mr. Gary Collotta and Mr. Robert Velucio of Newton ushered with Mr. John Winchenbaugh of Framingham. Christopher and Michael Winchenbaugh, nephews of the bride, shared honors as ring bearers. They were in white suits worn with ruffled shirts and knee socks and they carried white satin pillows.

The bride, a graduate of the Sacred Heart High School and of the Mount Auburn Hospital School of Nursing, is on the staff at Mount Auburn. The bridegroom was graduated from the Newman Preparatory School and will attend Newton Junior College in the fall.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda the couple will make their home in Newton. (Photo by Bradford Bachrach)

Annis-Jaeger Wedding At Baptist Church

Carrying a wedding bouquet of daisies and wearing a full-length wedding gown of lace and chiffon with a Dutch cap, elbow-length veil, Miss Joyce G. Annis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Annis of Newton became the bride Saturday, August 22, of Mr. Lawrence Wayne Jaeger of Wausau, Wisconsin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milfred Jaeger. Mr. Annis gave his daughter in marriage.

The Rev. Francis Crisci officiated at the double ring, afternoon ceremony at the Second Baptist Church in Newton Upper Falls which was followed by an outdoor reception at the home of the bride's brother in Framingham.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Elaine Annis of Newton as maid of honor. Miss Linda Annis of Framingham and Miss Roxanne Voight of Wisconsin were her bridesmaids, and Miss Lisa Annis of Newton was her flower girl.

Best man at the wedding was Mr. Allen Nass of Wisconsin, a cousin of the bridegroom and ushering were John Annis of Framingham and Rodney Sabatke of Wisconsin. William Annis of Newton served as ring bearer.

The bride is a graduate of the Newton High School and the bridegroom, a veteran of four years service with the United States Navy, was graduated from the Merrill, Wisconsin, High School.

Wedding Bells For Miss Golsen, Mr. Wisefield

Rabbi I. Kenigsberg officiated at the recent marriage of Miss Ingrid Wendy Golsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Golsen of Mattapan, to Mr. Jerome Steven Wisefield of 8 Jaffrey Circle, Waban, at the Chateau Garad in Brookline.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white organza trimmed in pink. Her Camelot cap held a floor-length veil and she carried white and pink tea roses with Stephanotis and ivy.

Matron of honor for her sister-in-law was Mrs. Debra Garren of Somerville and Miss Susan Schulman of Asbury Park, N.J. and Mrs. Helena Campton of East Boston were bridesmaids. Miss Meredith Binder of Birmingham, Mich., was junior bridesmaid.

Serving his brother-in-law as best man was Mr. Scott Garren of Somerville and seating the guests were Mr. John Campton of East Boston; Mr. Theodore Mark of Boston; Mr. Martin Gans and Mr. Frederick Fishlin both of Brighton; Mr. Steven and Mr. Paul Osborne of Newton.

A bridal reception followed the ceremony at the Chateau Garad and the couple left later for a wedding trip to Canada.

The bride is a graduate of Boston University and attended the Institut d'Etudes Francaise, Tours, France. She is a teacher of French in Milton. The bridegroom graduated from Boston University and Boston University Law School where he was vice president of the student bar association.

They will make their home in Stoughton.

Power shortage

Government and utility industry officials warn that much of the Eastern half of the U.S. and perhaps the entire Midwest will experience some form of power disruption this summer, be it a "blackout" or reduced voltage "brownout".

Sharply rising power consumption coupled with a long-term lag in generating capacity has created what the Tennessee Valley Authority is calling "an emergency" situation.

There are 647,353 male teachers in the nation's public schools.

The highest temperature officially recorded in Oregon was 119 degrees July 29, 1898.

Miss Roslyn Weinstein Is Bride Of Mr. Stuart Orkin

Miss Roslyn Beth Weinstein, daughter of Mrs. Jacob Weinstein and the late Mr. Weinstein of Newton Highlands, became the bride of Mr. Stuart Holland Orkin, son of Dr. and Mrs. Lazarus A. Orkin of New York in a recent ceremony in Temple Israel in Swampscott. Rabbi Peretz Halpern officiated at the nuptials.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Abe S. Bloomberg of Swampscott, the bride wore an empire organza gown fashioned with high collar, and lace applique and her bouffant veil was of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of Stephanotis and orchids.

Best man for his brother was Dr. Frederick Orkin of Bryn Mawr, Pa., with Mr. George Lehner of Peabody, cousin of the bride; Mr. Lionel Zatz, cousin of the groom; Mr. Robert Bahr and Dr. Bruce Barron, all of New York, as ushers.

The bride, a graduate of Simmons College, is now a National Institutes of Health pre-doctoral fellow in the department of anatomy at Harvard University. Her husband is a graduate of MIT and is a National Institutes of Mental Health fellow. He will complete his training at Harvard Medical School in the fall.

MRS. STUART H. ORKIN

Following their wedding trip to Europe, the couple will reside in Boston.

New Citizen

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne E. Berry (Helen Donovan) of 40 John street, Newton, are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child, a son, Douglas Andrew, on August 26 at St. Margaret's Hospital, Dorchester. The new arrival weighed seven pounds, 15 ounces at birth.

Sharing grandparent honors are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Berry of 10 Rae avenue, Needham, and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Donovan of 637 South street, Roslindale.

Propose Mayor's Term Be Increased To Four Years

The term of the Mayor of Newton would be lengthened from two to four years under a proposed change in the city charter which will be recommended by the Newton Charter Commission.

Members of the Newton School Committee would be limited to serving four consecutive two-year terms under another charter revision which will be suggested.

A report recommending changes in the city charter will be submitted by the Charter Commission to the Board of Aldermen which is expected to vote to place them on the ballot for approval or rejection by the voters in the 1971 municipal election.

Newton's Aldermen would be granted broader legislative functions under one proposed charter change, and another would give the School Committee control over the repair and maintenance of school buildings.

Preliminary elections narrowing the fields of candidates to two for each office to be filled also will be proposed by the Charter Commission.

A minority report will be filed opposing the suggested revisions on the ground that they would increase the costs of the city government and slow down the municipal operations.

Beauty Care Today

By Edgar of RONALD COIFFEURS

(THE "WASHED OUT" LOOK)

Do you fade away under fluorescent lighting? If you do, wear more make-up, especially on your eyes. And start wearing rosier make-up on the rest of your face. It is the rosy tones in the skin that fluorescent light destroys.

Use pink foundation, rouge, loose powder, and lipstick in your basic application. For touch-ups during the day, keep a compact of pink powder along with pink lipstick and blusher handy.

Are you among the fortunate few who have jet-black eyes and do not know how to set them off?

Try brushing on brown powdered shadow from your lashes to the creases of your lids. Add gray powdered shadow from the creases to your brows. Use navy-black liquid liner. Mascara the lashes with black, and tip them with navy-black.

The result should be a deep-set look.

Takes More Than Pick and Shovel

Many Young Men Here Seek Construction Future

It takes more than the pick and shovel skills of yesterday to be a laborer in today's booming construction market and this Labor Day sees union and management joining hands to teach the newest techniques in construction.
The result is the Massachusetts Laborers' Training Center established in Hopkinton to train men including minority group members, hard-core unemployed and transient workers in the modern methods of a rapidly growing industry.

The Laborers' Training Center is a joint undertaking by Massachusetts contractors

Candidates Nite In Watertown on Tuesday, Sept. 8

Newton residents are invited to attend a Candidates Meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Watertown to be held at the Phillips School there on Tuesday (Sept.
8). Newton is included in the new state senatorial district with Watertown.

Parking will be available behind the school, located on Common st. near the corner of Mt. Auburn st., Watertown.

Introduction of candidates for Senator from the Eighth Middlesex District will begin at 7:30 p.m. Each will speak briefly about issues important to him and then questions from the audience will be answered. The second half of the program will begin at 9 p.m. with introduction of candidates for Watertown's Representative District.

Refreshments and informal discussion will conclude the evening.

Newtonites Are Volunteers At Children's Hos.

Fifteen residents from the Newtons were among the volunteers who devoted time to The Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston this summer. The volunteers, students in high school and college, helped in all aspects of hospital work, assisting as patient escorts, candy strippers and plaster room technicians.

The Newton residents include: Barbara L. Baker, 45
Beethoven Avenue, Waban;
Ruth A. Brown, 35 Samset
Road, Wban; Thomas W.
Casey, 44 Sylvan Road, West
Newton; Liz A. Colton, 29
Dorset Road, Waban; Martha
A. Epstein, 71 Greenlawn
Avenue, Newton; Debra F.
Goldberg, 411 Dudley Road,
Newton; Ellen E. Greenberg,
1701 Commonwealth Avenue,
Newton; and Kathie S. Kaufman, 1389 Walnut Street, Newton.

Also Linda E. Klein, 29
Trowbridge Street, Newton
Centre; Joan L. Mandell, 21
Allen Avenue, Newton; Martin
L. Paley, 1525 Commonwealth
Avenue, West Newton;
Michael Spitz, 35 Oak Cliff
Road, Newton; Marsha B.
Starr, 4 Cotton Street,
Newton; Marleen Croll, 235
Bald Hill Road, Newton; and Thomas T. Boates of 295 Central st., Auburndale.

amount varying according to the number of dependents, plus travel allowances.
Starting pay after graduation is more than $200 per week.

The applicants to date have shown themselves to be capable, ambitious workers, most in the 20 to 29 year age group, who have frequently been earning from $2.25 to more than $4.65 an hour.

Their previous jobs range from officer manager to machine operator; cab drivers and salesmen to loom
tendants, draftsmen, cooks and clerks. A few have had one or more years of college work.

The applications have also reflected the economic picture of a number of Bay State Communities. Former shoe industry employees from Lynn and Salem as well as residents from Lowell, New Bedford and Fall River have applied in significant numbers.

The training program will be extended to six weeks on November 9, according to Mr.
Merloni. "This move will enable our instructors to cover more ground without increasing the size of our training staff or admitting more trainees than the 30 to 35 we've averaged in each class to date. Every trainee will continue to get all the individual attention he needs to become a successful laborer."

Miss Arline R. Weinstein exchanged wedding rings with Mr. Nicholas P. Kardasis of Malden in a pretty garden ceremony at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Weinstein of Chestnut street, Waban.

The bride wore a sleeveless cowl neck and empire waist peau de soie pants gown with banded in seed pearls. A white

Miss Krentzman Becomes Wife of Michael G. Ash

The marriage of Miss Roberta Anne Krentzman of Sharon and Mr. Michael G. Ash of Newton took place Sunday evening, August 23, at Temple Israel, Sharon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Krentzman and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ash. Rabbi S. Kanter and Cantor H. Lew officiated at the double ring ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Temple.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a semi-empire gown of silk organza lace and peau d'ange, highlighted with seed pearls. Her train was cathedral length and she carried a cascade of phalaenopsis and pink roses.

Miss Carol R. Udler of Brookline cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. The bridegroom's brother, Mr. Robert Ash of Newton, was best man at the ceremony and ushering were a second brother, Mr. Paul Ash, Mr. Perry Krentzman of Sharon, brother of the bride, Mr. Jeffrey Wolf of Brookline and Mr. Harold Greenberg of Chicago.

After their wedding trip to the Catskill Mountains, the couple will make their home in Middletown, Connecticut, where Mr. Ash is a salesman with the Ash Steel Corporation and the bride will teach business education in Hebron, Connecticut.

The bride is a graduate of Salem State College and the bridegroom of the Nichols College of Business Administration.

Richard M. Shamban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shamban of 74 Seviand road, Newton, will enter Colgate University as a freshman this fall. A 1970 graduate of Newton South High School, Shamban will begin classes Sept. 6th following orientation at the Hamilton, N.Y. school.

peau de soie cap trimmed in seed pearls held a silk illusion veil and she carried phalaenopsis, orchids and stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Carole Weinstein as maid of honor.

Mr. Peter Delli Colli of Medford served the bridegroom as best man.

A reception was held at the Lakewood Country Club in Natick and the couple left later for a honeymoon on Cape Cod.

The bride is a graduate of Newton South High School, attended Beaver College and received her bachelor of arts degree from Boston University. She will receive her master of arts degree in education from Simmons this June.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Tufts University College of Engineering, cum laude, where he was elected to Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary society. He will receive his master's degree in manufacturing engineering from Boston University this June. He is an engineer for General Electric in Lynn.

MRS. THOMAS ANTHONY CARBEAU

Miss Kathleen Daley And Thomas A. Carbeau Are Wed

The Rt. Rev. Joseph B. Burke of Lawrence officiated at the recent Nuptial Mass and wedding ceremony in Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church in Newton Upper Falls when Miss Kathleen Elizabeth Daley became the bride of Mr. Thomas Anthony Carbeau.

Prayers chosen by the bride and groom were recited during the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Daley Jr. of 90 Circuit ave., Newton Highlands and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Vincent A. Carbeau of 140 Plymouth road, Newton Highlands, and the late Mr. Carbeau.

Escorted to her groom by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white sateen with a lace trimmed empire waist, bishop sleeves and a chapel train. A coronet crown of matching lace held her bouffant, elbow-length illusion veil, and she carried a cascade of white and pink sweetheart roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Lawrence T. Plack of Detroit, Mich., was matron of honor for her sister and Miss Atkins, Mr. Bergart Wed In Washington D. C.

Adas Israel Synagogue in Washington D. C. was the setting for the wedding on Sunday (Aug. 23) of Miss Barrie Joan Atkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice David Atkin of Chevy Chase, Md., to Mr. Jeffrey Glenn Bergart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Bergart of Newton Centre.

Rabbi Stanley Rabinowitz and Cantor Raphael Edgar performed the double ring ceremony at noon and a luncheon reception followed at the Synagogue.

The bride wore a gown of daisy-appliqued, white organza over yellow taffeta. Her short tulle veil was set off by a yellow bow and she carried a bouquet of white daisies and sweetheart roses.

Matron of honor for her cousin was Mrs. Christopher Sanger and Mr. Jonathan Atkin, brother of the bride, was best man for the groom.

Following their wedding trip to Lake Champlain, the couple will make their home in Philadelphia where the groom will attend the Moore School of Electrical Engineering at the University of Pennsylvania. He is a graduate of Newton South High School and received a bachelor of science degree with honors from Brown University.

The bride, who has completed three years at Pembroke College, will be a guest senior at the University of Pennsylvania.

Margaret Hosmer Is The Bride Of Don D. Locke

Rev. Father Chabot of Bates College presided at the recent wedding of Miss Margaret Anne Hosmer to Mr. Don David Locke in Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church in Newton Upper Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas W. Hosmer of 18 Timson Path, Newton Centre, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Locke of Milford, Ct.

Attired in white dotted swiss, she was attended by her sisters, Miss Barbara Jeanne Hosmer of Boston as maid of honor, Miss Joan Hosmer, Miss Martha Hosmer and Miss Kathy Hosmer, as flower girl, all attired in pastel dotted swiss. They carried colonial bouquets.

Best man for the groom was Mr. Charlie Mounce of Marshfield, while Mr. Peter Fleming of Newton and Mr. Richard Franke of Long Island, N.Y., seated the guests.

A reception was held in Waltham.

The newlyweds, both graduates of Bates College, will make their home in Oregon.

Sunday Services At 1st Church Of Christ Scientist

Man as "the highest form of life" has conquered the earth because he expresses the nature of God, the divine Mind, according to the Lesson-Sermon on "Man" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, Sept. 6.

The Golden Text is from the first chapter of Genesis: "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth."

A citation from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, reads "Man and woman as coexistent and eternal with God forever reflect, in glorified quality, the infinite Father-Mother God."

All are welcome to attend services beginning at 10:45 a.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 391 Walnut St., Newtonville.

Wellesley Coll. Registration For Class Audit

Newton women who may wish to audit courses in the first semester this year at Wellesley College may apply on Friday (Sept. 4) and on Wednesday and Friday (Sept. 9 and 11) between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. in room 341, Green Hall, at the college.

Applications will close Friday (Sept. 11) at 3 p.m. Wellesley College alumnae and staff members may audit free of charge and parking facilities are available at $5 per car per semester. The first semester begins Thursday, Sept. 17.

Recent Births At Newton-Wellesley

Among the recent births recorded at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital are the following:

Children Hurt In Auto Accidents

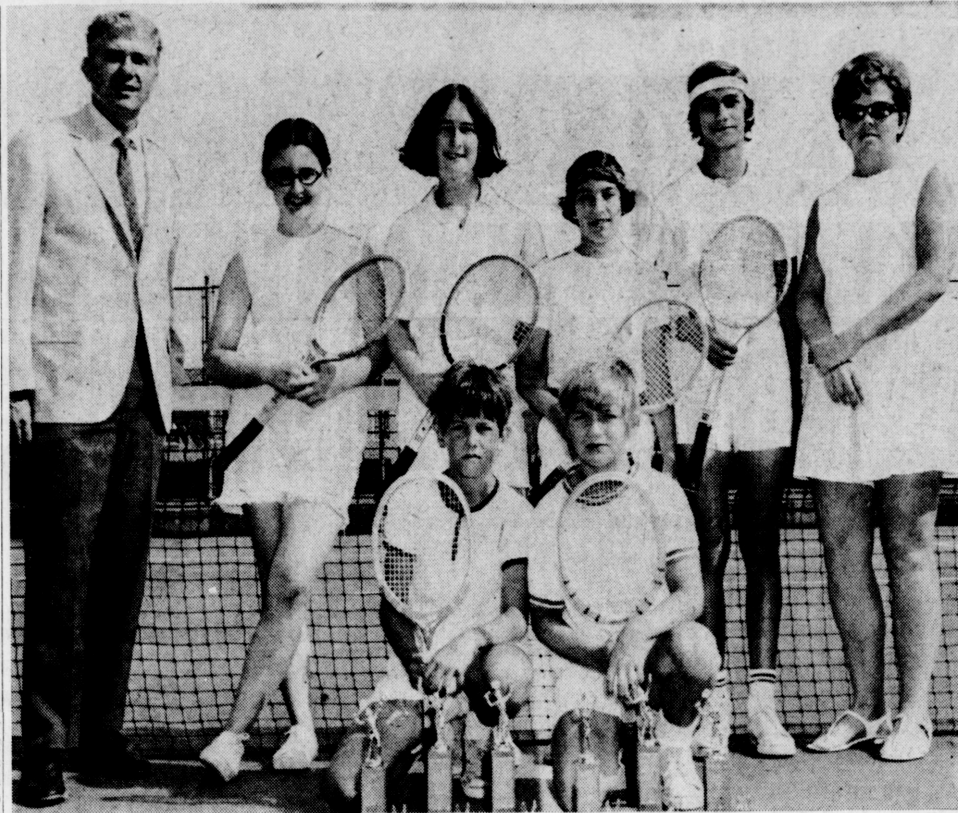

Two Newton children were injured in automobile accidents this week. Kevin Nugent, 6, of 235 Webster street, West Newton, suffered a broken leg and ankle abrasions. Andrea Criscitello, 7, of 2 Raeburn terrace, Newton Highlands, sustained abrasions of the knee and elbow. Both youngsters were treated at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital and released.

Newtonites To Give Evening Courses At BU

Two Newton residents, members of Boston University's physics department, will teach evening courses this fall.

Prof. Edward C. Booth of Waban will teach on the impact of physics on social and political life. The course will deal with the effects of nuclear power and nuclear warfare.

Prof. Bernard M. Chasan of Newton will teach an introductory evening course in "physics for poets." It will be an introduction to the nature of the physical world, and deals with science as one of the liberal arts and a fun-

Tennis Classes For Fall At Y Start Sept. 15

The Newton Y.M.C.A. is offering an early fall tennis class, Tuesday and Thursday mornings, from 10:30 to 12:00 noon. Basic holds, strokes, and approaches, as well as proper serving, will be stressed.

Registrations are now being accepted. The series of five lessons will start Tuesday, September 15. Size of the class will be limited, so early application is advised. For further information and application to be returned with payment call the Physical Dept. of the Newton Y.M.C.A. at 244-6050, or register in person at the "Y," 276 Church Street, Newton Corner.

The regular Tuesday and Thursday morning program for women, with the nursery classes available, will begin October 6.

The fundamental part of modern culture. The courses will be given at the University's Metropolitan College.

'Y' Announces Swimming Lesson Schedule For Fall

The Newton YMCA announces its registration date: Monday, September 14, from 9 a.m. on, for the fall series of Tiny-Tot (ages 3-5) and Polliwog (ages 6-7) swim lessons. Registration in person at the "Y," 276 Church St., Newton, is advised. Mail applications will be accepted if there are still vacancies in the classes.

The series will consist of ten lessons, once a week, with a choice of time. Tiny-Tot classes are held on Mondays, Wednesdays, or Fridays, either at 1 or 1:30 p.m. Polliwog classes are held Thursdays at 2:45, or Saturdays, either at 11:30 a.m. or 12 noon. All lessons are one-half hour in length. Parents may assist their children in the dressing room, but do not accompany them into the pool. Their progress may be observed from the balcony at the last lesson.

Children of members will pay the same price as last year. There will be a slight extra charge for children of non-members.

Classes are limited in size so that maximum individual attention may be expected. Flotation devices are used by inexperienced youngsters until they achieve the necessary confidence and ability in the water. Polliwogs are taught the basic 21 test items of the YMCA Minnow program.

For further information contact the Physical Dept. of the Newton YMCA at 244-6050.

The Lexington Arts and Crafts Society, always seeking to offer new innovations in the cultural field, is enthusiastically completing plans for its First Annual Antiques Show, to be held at the Lexington Art Center at 130 Waltham Street on September 10, 11 and 12.

There will also be a gala Champagne Preview party on the evening of September 9 for the group of prominent Greater Boston socialites, who are sponsoring the affair.

Lloyd A. Hathaway, the well-known and distinguished manager of many superior Antique Shows, author, lecturer, and connoisseur of the choicest in antiques, has accepted the position of director and manager of the Lexington Show; and this, in itself, to the person who knows and loves antiques, promises a uniquely selective showing.

Mr. Hathaway, who began his career as manager of the famous Ellis Memorial Antique Shows, has also managed such outstanding shows as the annual show by the Women's City Club of Boston, the ever-popular Brown and Nichols Show, and the yearly shows at the Restoration of Strawberry Bank in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, to mention a few.

His plan is to bring to Lexington one of the choicest collections of antique rarities and objects d'art available in the country today. He has selected his exhibitions from over 200 applicants, most of whom he has directed in previous shows; in this way Mr. Hathaway is able to present the most comprehensive variety of collector-quality items, representing all the important periods in antiquity, in America, plus some exquisite foreign collectibles.

The Lexington Arts and Crafts Society has a double motivation for presenting this prestige showing of rare antiques. It is in celebration of the Society's 35th year as a moving force in the cultural stimulation of this active suburban community.

But more than that, it is the great desire of the Society to increase its scholarship fund for worthy young artists, and to supplement the Building Fund. The Art Center now offers 21 classes a week in the various creative arts, and the addition of a new studio would increase the educational facility to 36 classes a week, thereby encouraging the further development of art in Lexington and the surrounding communities!

There is a highly capable group of well-known artists and craftsmen working to make this show a memorable event. Mrs. John Belding is the Chairman in charge of the entire show, with a dedicated group of Committee Chairmen under her guidance, including: Mr. and Mrs. John Malaguerra, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Parsons. Programs and Advertising: Mrs. M. Donald Plummer, Mrs. T. Thornton Cowing, Mrs. James Collins; Decorations and Snack Bar: Mr. S. Lawrence Whipple, Invitations: Mr. M. Donald Plummer, Booth Signs: Mrs. Albert Eames, Posters: Mr. Louis Zehner, and Mr. Edward C.

Parking Lot Could Decide Future of Sports

Athletics May Be Crowded Off School Playing Areas

Newton's once proud position in High School sports and athletics will fade into history unless city fathers recognize the need for proper outdoor recreational facilities when the new Newton High School is built.

This is the warning of Athletic Director Reginald E. Smith in the wake of last week's 143 vote by the board of Aldermen in favor of a $20,000 appropriation for a parking lot on a 32,000 square foot area of what remains of the outdoor athletic plant.

"We are naturally upset at losing this land," said Smith. "But we must look at the total picture of the school and understand the action taken."

With the addition of this parking lot, it leaves only Dickinson Stadium and its surrounding track, plus a small parcel of land for the use of both boys and girls and the physical education departments. Although the drill shed, used by the physical education department and the track and baseball teams is still standing, it is slated for destruction.

"We hope to regain the land we lost," Smith said, "and maybe more. Especially in these times where conservation and recreation are being stressed, the city fathers would be making a serious mistake to shortchange the recreational needs of the students and the community alike."

The new outdoor facilities are tentatively scheduled to be built on the sites of Buildings 1, 2 and 3. The status of Building 3 is a bit dubious since no final decision has yet been made on whether to keep the building once the school is built.

During the construction period, which is estimated at three years, the physical education department will have to seriously alter its program. Physical education classes for both boys and girls will have to be cut from a full year to a half year.

Furthermore, the interscholastic athletic teams will have to be bused to other practice and playing sites, costing the taxpayers an additional $25,000 a year, more than double the $23,000 cost of bussing last year. In the past, only the soccer and lacrosse teams had to be bused, but now almost all the teams will be bused daily to and from practice.

It was the athletic department that suffered most when the decision was made to build the new school. It lost its baseball diamond, plus an area used by the football team for practice. Also, five day tennis courts were destroyed.

"If we wish to regain this land," Smith warned, "the community will suffer too. When we have to go to Newton Centre to play a tennis match, the public is denied the right to use the facility. And their complaints are justified."

Further complicating the future development is the fact that only a rough draft of the future athletic fields has been made. Talk of new athletic facilities cannot even begin until construction on the school has been completed, and there is no way to estimate how much longer it would take to properly lay out the fields.

Midget Football Opens

Newton Lions Meet Buccaneers Sunday

The season's opener by the Newton Athletic Association Newton Lions will be held this Sunday with an exhibition game against the Scituate Buccaneers at the Newton Highlands Playground. Kickoff will be at 1:30 p.m.

The Lions will play a minimum of six home games at the Newton Highlands Playground, all to be double-headers with one of the Junior Midget teams.

The team has just chalked up a very impressive scrimmage with the Sharon Red Devils and the coaches are optimistic about the team's chances despite many mistakes against Sharon.

Scituate, like the Lions, is a 2nd year team and had an impressive 13-1 slate last season including a 20-12 victory over Newton.

New Auto Insurance System Explained by Gov. Sargent

A great deal of confusion exists as to what the new automobile insurance system, which will go into effect in Massachusetts next year, will and will not do. As Governor Sargent points out, the new law makes Massachusetts "the nation's first testing ground for a revolutionary new concept in automobile insurance."

But the new law may not do all the things that automobile-owners and operators expect it to do. Some of them, at least, will want additional protection.

One of the highlights of the new insurance plan, Governor Sargent reports, is that "it eliminates the idea that someone must prove someone else was at fault in an accident."

It also permits an injured person to collect up to $2000 from his own insurance company, the Governor explains, adding that this amount will cover most medical expenses and most loss of wages and that the payments should be made without delays.

Massachusetts car-owners now have the most expensive insurance system in the United States. The new plan is expected to result in faster settlement of claims, less red tape, fewer court cases, lower premiums and discounts for drivers with good safety records.

Governor Sargent is now preparing to set up a State Insurance Fund in the event some drivers are unable to obtain automobile insurance coverage.

No one knows better than Mr. Sargent that the State should stay out of the auto insurance business. He would let it get involved only as a last resort and with no other alternative.

B'nai B'rith

Meets Sept. 9

Mayflower Chapter B'nai B'rith will hold its opening meeting of the fall season at the Leydon Congregational Church, 1835 Beacon St., Brookline, on Wednesday, Sept. 9, at 8:15 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Dr. Leo Alexander, M.D., Psychiatrist and Neurologist, of Brooks Hospital, Brookline. His topic will be "Hypnosis: What It Is, How It Is Done and What Its Effects."

Program Chairmen are Mrs. Norman Stiller and Mrs. Walter Silver of Newton. The meeting will be chaired by the president, Mrs. Leo Sherman of Brookline.

Urges All Newton Voters To Cast Ballots Sept. 15

The Newton GOP today urged residents of Newton to exercise their franchise by voting in the primary, Tuesday, Sept. 15. In a statement today by Julius L. Masow, Chairman of the Newton Republican City Committee, "Independent Voters" are reminded that they can vote in the primary by simply asking for a ballot at their usual voting place Sept. 15.

"Of course," Masow added, "we hope that a good share of the voting independents will ask for a Republican ballot. We anticipate that Newton's registered Republicans will most certainly go to their polling places and vote."

"We are very fortunate to have outstanding Republican candidates who are attracting more than the usual attention and support. Even when there are no contests the primary vote offers an excellent means for the expression of support and encouragement of hardworking candidates. Of course, where there are contests, the turnout is most crucial in the decision as to who runs in November. No matter how it is viewed, the primary election is highly important and deserves the time and thought of all voters," Masow commented.

"The right to vote is basic to our system of self-government and this right must be exercised if we are to retain and perpetuate our form of good government," he noted.

Masow suggested that members of families and neighbors, as well as party leaders, remind one another that Tuesday, Sept. 15 is primary day and to go to the polls to cast their ballots.

ROSEMARY G. ASHBY

Rosemary Ashby Named To Pine Manor Position

President Frederick C. Ferry, Jr., has announced the appointment of Mrs. Rosemary G. Ashby as Director of Residence at Pine Manor Junior College. She has already begun her new duties, and she and her husband, Mr. John H. Ashby, an attorney, have moved into the Heath Street Gatehouse at the College.

Mrs. Ashby, who is a British citizen, holds the B.A. degree from the University of Capetown, South Africa, and the B.A. and M.A. degrees from Cambridge University, England. She expects to receive the Ph.D. degree from Cambridge University this fall or early in 1971.

Her fields of specialization are student counseling and 16th century French literature. The subject of her doctoral thesis is 16th century French prose meditations on the Psalms, in particular the Meditations of Jean de Sponde.

From 1968 to 1970, Mrs. Ashby was Head Resident at Eliot Hall, Radcliffe College. In 1969-70, she was also Assistant Director of Career Planning at Radcliffe.

Her extensive travels have taken her to Europe, South Africa, and South America. In addition to her new administrative work at Pine Manor, she will also teach courses in French literature.

President Ferry also announced the appointment of Miss Susan DeForest West as Assistant Director of Admissions at Pine Manor Junior College.

Miss West, a native of Boston, attended the Dana Hall School and graduated from Pine Manor in 1967. Two years later, she received the bachelor of arts degree (with honors) in history from Lake Forest College, where she was a Dean's List student. In 1970, she received the Master of Arts in Teaching degree from Washington University, with a major in social studies.

AUTO WORKERS CHOOSE GM, CHRYSLER AS STRIKE TARGETS

THE UNITED AUTO WORKERS chose giant General Motors and financially troubled Chrysler Corp. Wednesday as strike targets in a precedent-breaking move to reach a contract settlement with the automotive Big Three before contracts expire at midnight Sept. 14. Ford Motor Co., which underwent a seven-week strike in 1967 was exempted by the UAW because it wants one major firm still in production to turn out a minicar to compete with foreign imports. Ford plans to introduce its new Pinto later this month. "We are going with General Motors and Chrysler, UAW President Leonard Woodcock told a news conference after the union's International Executive Board made its decision. But he said the decision for co-strike targets "does not remove the obligation of Ford to negotiate a settlement." The union, which represents 700,000 hourly paid workers at three companies — including 395,000 at GM and 100,000 at Chrysler — may not decide which company it will strike until the final moments of the present contract period. Selection of the strike targets came one day after the big three presented the UAW with nearly identical economic offers which were branded by Woodcock as "the worst they've given us in 20 years."

AGNEW: AMERICANS WOULD CHOOSE POLICEMAN'S TRUNCHEON

CALLING the American system "the greatest engine of change and progress" in history, Vice President Spiro Agnew said Wednesday Americans will choose "the policeman's truncheon over the anarchist's bomb" if forced to make that choice. "But true peace lies neither in bomb nor truncheon," Agnew told a cheering American Legion audience in Portland, Ore. "It lies in that pattern of mutual respect and mutual forbearance that is the essence of a civilized society." Agnew made a brief, unscheduled appearance at the Legion's 52nd national convention. He was en route from conferences at San Clemente, Calif., with President Nixon, to Texas to brief former President Lyndon Johnson on his recent Asian trip. His trip was not announced until the last minute, and his 23-minute visit to the Portland Memorial Coliseum was held under tighter security measures than those already in effect throughout the convention. Gov. Tom McCall earlier had called up National Guardsmen and warned of possible "violent confrontations" with thousands of antiwar protesters who had scheduled a "People's Army Jamboree" in Portland to coincide with the Legion gathering. But the convention has been orderly and quiet. Agnew said: "Their are some who look at the faults and cry that the system has failed. Their problem is that they don't understand the system. Agnew said first amendment rights must be fully protected, "but smashing windows, burning offices, assaulting people in the streets, are not acts of speech or assembly."

NASA ANNOUNCES CANCELLATION OF 2 MOON MISSIONS

THE SPACE AGENCY, going against the recommendation of the nation's top scientists, announced Wednesday it was eliminating two of the planned Apollo moon landings because of reductions in its budget. Dr. Thomas O. Paine, outgoing administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration also said the budget cut would mean an extra 900 civil service employees and 2,100 space contractor personnel will lose their jobs this year. Elimination of the two Apollo flights left the space agency with just four more lunar landings. Paine said these will be flown at approximately six month intervals starting in January and continuing through 1972. He said the Skylab program to build the nation's first embryonic space station and visit it three times in orbit remains unchanged. The Skylab missions will last through June 1973. "Beyond that, our operations will be at a standstill until we come to the space shuttle and space station programs, hopefully around 1976," said Dale Myers, head of the space agency's Manned Space Flight Program.

VINCE LOMBARDI FIGHTS LOSING BATTLE WITH CANCER

VINCE LOMBARDI, who built an almost legendary reputation as a win-or-else football coach, fought a losing battle Wednesday against the ravages of intestinal cancer. The wife of the 57-year-old coach of the Washington Redskins confirmed reports that Lombardi was gravely ill and near death from "an extraordinarily virulent form of cancer."

U.S. TAKES 2 MAJOR STEPS TOWARD VIETNAMIZATION OF WAR

THE UNITED STATES Wednesday turned over control of a complete U.S. Army helicopter company to South Vietnam's air force and transferred responsibility for coastal patrols to the South Vietnamese navy in major new steps toward Vietnamization of the war. The moves followed announcement that nearly 2,000 men from the U.S. infantry units stationed around Saigon were being withdrawn soon and reports that the remaining 10,000 men in the outfits would be redeployed to the United States by mid-October. The helicopter company was handed over to the South Vietnamese control at the Bien Hoa base 18 miles north of Saigon in what a U.S. spokesman called an "historical and significant step forward" in the Vietnamization program.

FLOODS BRING 'STATE OF CALAMITY' IN MANILA

PRESIDENT FERDINAND E. MARCOS declared a "state of calamity and emergency" Wednesday after a record rainfall of more than 22 inches in 30 hours triggered the worst floods in Manila's history and spread death and destruction across the main island of Luzon. At least 14 persons, including two U.S. sailors, were reported dead as the result of the rains spawned by monsoons and tropical storms which have lashed the Philippines. The weather bureau predicted more rain for the next two or three days. The two Americans were killed in a landslide at Cubi Point Naval Station about 90 miles northwest of Manila. Marcos, whose own Malacanang Palace was four deep in water, estimated that the floods covered an area bigger than the state of Florida.

ISRAELI WEIGHS TAKING ACTION ON CEASE-FIRE VIOLATIONS

DIPLOMATIC SOURCES in Jerusalem said Wednesday Israel is considering taking action on its own unless President Nixon acts on Israeli charges of repeated Egyptian violations of the U.S.-sponsored cease-fire. Israeli officials said it regarded the alleged violations as "very, very serious." Relations worsened, meanwhile, between Jordan and Iraq following the attempted assassination of King Hussein and renewed fighting occurred between the Jordanian Army and Palestinian Arab guerrillas in Amman Tuesday. The Jordanian government Wednesday rejected an Iraqi ultimatum threatening intervention by Iraq's 12,000 troops in Jordan on the side of the guerrillas unless Jordans security forces end their "exceptional measures" against the Palestinians.

BOSTON'S STRIKING PLUMBERS SENT TO WORK ELSEWHERE

PLUMBERS on strike in Greater Boston are being sent to other cities for work, a plumbers union official said Wednesday. John J. Tobin, business agent for Plumbers Union Local 12, said the union had sent about 300 of its 1,200 members to work sites in New York, Providence, R.I., Hartford, Conn., and had offers from other locations. He also predicted that more striking plumbers would volunteer for work elsewhere next week — "once Labor Day passes."

Recent Deaths

Rites Held For Family of Four, Crash Victims

The Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church in Newton Upper Falls was the scene of unusually sorrowful funeral rites last Thursday morning when a Solemn High Mass of Requiem was celebrated for the four members of the Kozloff family, of Sudbury, father, mother, and two children, who were killed when their car was struck by another auto in a jumped-median strip accident on Route 128 the Sunday before.

The Rev. Stanislaus J. Miskiewicz was celebrant of the Mass for John P. Kozloff, 44, of 22 Blackmere Rd., Sudbury; his wife, Eleanor (Mack), and two daughters, Maureen E., 12, and Eileen M., two and a half. Mr. Kozloff was an engineer for the Monsanto Co.

Serving as deacon was the Rev. Joseph L. Furilla, of St. Philip Neri Church, Waban; sub-deacon was Msgr. Daniel F. Riordan, pastor.

The Rev. Thomas J. Burke, pastor of St. Anselm's, the Kozloffs' home parish in Sudbury, was seated within the sanctuary. He also read the committal prayers at St. Mary's cemetery, Needham, where he was assisted by Msgr. Riordan and the Rev. Miskiewicz.

James R. Norton

A Mass of the Resurrection was celebrated by the Rev. Robert C. Fichtner at Our Lady Help of Christians Church, Newton, last Thursday morning for James R. Norton of Crafts St., Newtonville.

The funeral was held from the W.H. Thomas Funeral Home, 75 Galen St., Watertown. Organist at the Mass was Richard H. Osgood. John Moore, John MacDonald and Richard Cronin represented Nonantum Post No. 440, American Legion, at the Mass.

George M. Bradley, retired regional manager of the Boston Postal District; Lt. Richard E. Fanning, of the Newton Fire Department, and Officer Peter J. Annesse of the Newton Police Department were also present.

Father Fichtner read the committal prayers at Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Cesidio DiMuzio

A 560-year resident of Newton Centre died Saturday, August 26 in Framingham Union Hospital after a brief illness. Cesidio DiMuzio, 79, a native of L'Aquila, Italy, made his home here at 123 Cypress St.

Mr. DiMuzio had been a landscape gardener until his retirement. He was a member of the Filippo Corsi Society of Newton Centre.

UPPER FALLS PLAYGROUND

The Field Day Events, at the Upper Falls Playground, was a major highlight of the summer playground season. The day included track and field events, novelty races, awards and ribbons presentation, and a free barbecue.

The lengthy list of winners exemplified the enthusiasm and skill of all contestants. The members of the Junior baseball team and the girls softball team were awarded certificates in honor of being district champions.

A special award was given to Timmy Corbett, alias batman, superman, speed racer, and hercules, for his fantastic imagination.

The last few awards were given to certain playground members whose contributions weren't overlooked. The most valuable player of the midjets was Don McElroy.

Francis Colton was recognized as the most spirited player on the midjets. The Junior team singled out Mike Malkasian as the most valuable player. Jim Hall was considered the best sportsman and most enthusiastic Junior player.

At this time of the year, a special award and trophy is presented to the best boy and girls of the year.

This year two boys - Norm Bibbo and Peter Lesbirel - were singled out for their attendance, spirit, contribution, and helpfulness.

Cathy Dippo received the trophy for the best girl of the year.

Hadassah Opens Year Actively At Recent Event

The first get-acquainted gathering of the season for chapter presidents of the New England Region of Hadassah was held last Wednesday, Aug. 26, at the Chestnut Hill home of Mrs. Bernard Garber, region president.

She reported that the New England chapters had exceeded their last year's goal of $20,000 and that the goal for the current year will be $23,000 in honor of Israel's 23rd anniversary.

Nationally, Hadassah has undertaken to raise one million "research dollars" to be donated to the Hadassah Medical Organization in Israel on occasion of the tenth anniversary of the opening of the Medical Center in Ein Karem, Israel.

Mrs. Garber announced that the region board meeting will take place next Thursday, Sept. 10 at the Boston 1800. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Carl Spector, who will talk on the political scene in the light of the current peace talks.

The Sept. 10 meeting will hear complete details on the Hadassah National Convention reported by the new leadership, young delegates for whom this was their first convention. Mr. Bernard Garber will also address the meeting, with an up-to-date account of his recent visit to Israel.

A membership Institute will be held at Hebrew Teachers College in Brookline, on Wednesday, Sept. 16, when the guest speaker will be Mrs. Harry Kane, region membership chairman, and a member of the National Task Force.

The final business meeting before the High Holidays will be on Wednesday, Sept. 23, at the Chateau Garod in Brookline. The meeting will be a special fund raising institute and program showcase.

Mr. Wizard's Science Center Opens Sept. 9

Times have changed since a youngster's make-believe world revolved around pretending to be a doctor, lawyer or Indian chief.

As the world has become more sophisticated so have the dreams of youngsters who now include such professions as scientist and space explorer in their make-believe world.

TV's Mr. Wizard (Don Herbert) and Andy Macalaster of Newton, two experienced gentlemen in the field of science education, have combined their talents in a new venture to aid the youngsters in their pursuit of scientific knowledge.

They are opening a Mr. Wizard's Science Center in Wellesley Hills Square, Route 9 and Route 16, September 9.

Mr. Wizard will be in the Center that day from the time of the opening at 12 noon to 9:00 p.m.

"Science Spoken Here" is the slogan of this unique Center where traditional science apparatus, science toys and hobbies and science books will all be carried under the same roof.

The store has two floors, the first floor exhibits equipment for physics, optics, electronics and space, and the second floor carries chemistry, life and earth science materials.

In addition there is a workshop with raw materials available for project construction. Personnel are carefully selected for their knowledge and experience in science.

Don Herbert, a science teacher by education, has been interpreting science for the past twenty-five years and is well-known for his Mr. Wizard program that was viewed weekly on network TV for fourteen and a half years.

The Wizard show is carried in various parts of the country on educational TV and Herbert is seen frequently on the "talk" shows; Johnny Carson, Merv Griffin, Mike Douglas, Today, etc. His main occupation today is making instructional science films for schools.

Andy Macalaster has been in the science apparatus business since 1940. For the past ten years he has specialized in developing new science curricula materials.

Once the first Mr. Wizard Science Center has been established, Herbert and Macalaster plan to have such centers throughout the country.

Scouts Consider Council Merger

Consolidation of four Greater Boston Boy Scout Councils is under consideration by representatives of the Boston, Cambridge, Minuteman and Norumbega Councils with the aim of forming a new Scout Council to serve Boston and the suburbs.

Better service to existing Scout groups as well as increasing capabilities of reaching boys who are not Scouts with the benefits of the Scouting program are the primary considerations of such a move.

Also a benefit to the groups would be the rearrangement of the staffs of the councils, releasing more men from administrative posts to assignment for field service to the Scout groups. Continuance of already established service centers in the respective councils involved and the improvement of camping opportunities are also factors in the new Council concept.

No time-table yet has been established for the new Council formation and the Executive Boards and attorneys of each of the Councils involved would have to approve this new Council formation once all the recommendations have been reviewed.

Norumbega Council includes the Newton, Oak Hill, Waban, Wellesley, and Weston. Current membership in Norumbega numbers 3,063 out of a possible membership of 10,923. The professional staff numbers three.

Andy Levin of West Newton is on the preliminary roster of the varsity soccer team at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me. for the start of this season's practice sessions. The squad will try to regain the state crown it held alone in 1968. Bowdoin finished in a tie for the state collegiate title last year.

Peretz School Opens Year With Sunday Program

A concert and program will help open the season at the I. L. Peretz School of the Workmen's Circle, the only Yiddish school that is recognized by the Bureau of Jewish Education.

Pupil readings and recitals and a comedy skit by members of the board will mark the event to be held at the School at 1762 Beacon St., Brookline, on Sunday morning, Sept. 27 at 10:30. Principal Leon Forem and Mrs. Diane Roskies, music and dance teacher, will aid preparing the program, which includes refreshments and is open to the public.

There are openings for additional new pupils between the ages of six and 14 and evening classes for adults are also being formed. More information may be had by calling the school.

Jane Ives, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ives of 25 Elmore street, Newton, is registered as a freshman at Mills College this fall. The Oakland, Calif., college will begin autumn semester classes in mid-September.

Pleasure... Or Tragedy?

The 1970 Labor Day weekend is almost upon us and State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard McLaughlin points out that family drivers have a choice - stay home and be sure of having pleasure, or go on the roads and risk tragedy.

"If the usual deadly pattern is repeated, highway patrols, wrecking ambulances and hospital crews and morgues will all be kept busy," says McLaughlin in a sharp reminder to drivers.

"For those who must travel," he re-states some of the safety rules, among them: don't drive if you've been drinking; adjust your speed to weather and travel conditions; keep your distance from the car ahead; use your directional signals and avoid fatigue.

Remember now, we will be looking for you all this Labor Day weekend. What better way to wrap up a swinging summer? A feast that would have made Nero look like a peanut vendor. Steamship round of beef, turkeys, honey baked ham, seafood newburg, plus all the other usual accompanying goodies too numerous to mention here.

That's Saturday night from 6:00 P.M. till 11:00 P.M. A mere $4.50 per person. Sunday is family day, a carbon copy except swinging chicken replaces a battered round of beef. This one definitely makes us a non-profit organization at $3.95 per person, special children's rates. I sure hope to see you then, and in closing, let me remind you, that in all basic recipes, the main ingredient is... "Love".

Candidates Set For Primary

smaller than the Democratic count.

Battling it out for the Democratic nomination for Governor are Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue, former Lieutenant Governor Francis A. Bellotti and former Presidential Aide Kenneth P. O'Donnell.

Each has some support in Newton. Each predicts he will make a good showing in the city. Each will come into the Newtons to campaign before Primary Day.

Five contenders are seeking the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor. They are Boston School Committee member John J. Craven, Representative Michael S. Dukakis of Brookline, endorsed by the Democratic State Convention; Rocco J. Antonelli of Arlington, Mrs. Kathleen T. Ryan Dacey of Milton and James S. McCormack of Arlington.

The battles for the Democratic nominations for Governor and Lieutenant Governor are the only statewide contests on the Democratic ballot.

U.S. Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Attorney General Robert H. Quinn, Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren, State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane and State Auditor Thaddeus Buzcko all are unopposed for nomination or renomination to the offices they hold.

But there are other interesting contests which will help draw out the Democratic voters in the Newtons on Primary Day.

One of the unusual fights in which Newton Democrats will be involved, which is commanding state-wide and even national attention, is that between Congressman Philip J. Philbin, Father Robert F. Drinan, former dean of the Boston College Law School; and Representative Charles O'Hanian of Watertown.

Governor's Councillor Herbert L. Connolly of Newton is unopposed for Democratic renomination.

Nine candidates are seeking the Democratic nomination for the State Senate in the new senatorial district which comprises Newton and Watertown.

The top contenders are believed to be Representatives Irving Fishman, ex-Representative Joseph G. Bradley and Terry P. Segal, all of Newton. The ADA in an unusual move endorsed both Fishman and Bradley as deserving of support.

The other candidates are John F. Boyle, Jr., of 15 Taft avenue, Newton; Edward DerKazarian of Watertown; Peter C. Dwyer of 28 Woodward street, Newton; Howard M. Kahalas of 72 Heasterland road, Newton; Joseph A. McVeigh of 66 Norwood avenue, Newton; and George A. Muldoon of Watertown.

Mayor Monte G. Baasbas is unopposed for the Republican nomination for the State Senate in that district. He will face the Democratic primary winner in the November election.

Eight candidates are vying for two Democratic nominations for the House of Representatives in the 12th Middlesex legislative district which takes in Wards 1, 2, 3 and 7 of Newton.

The big field is attracted by the fact that a vacancy exists in that district as a result of the death of the late Representative H. James Shea, Jr.

Representative Paul F. Malloy is standing for Democratic renomination.

The other seven contenders, all from Newton, are James R. Burke of 99 Fairway drive, Thomas B. Concannon, Jr., of 279 Linwood avenue, Paul H. Guzzi of 9 Joseph road, Peter F. Harrington of 157 Lowell avenue, Terrence P. Morris of 115 Mt. Vernon street, Paul B.

Sibley of 81 Fuller terrace, and Democratic State Committee member Betty Taymor of 44 Fairfax street.

Three candidates are seeking two Democratic nominations for the House in the 13th Middlesex district which comprises Wards 4, 5, 6 and 8 of Newton. Representative Fishman of that district is retiring from the House to stand for promotion to the State Senate.

The three Democratic aspirants, one of whom will be eliminated in the primary, are Robert Cohen of 215 Cypress street, David J. Mofenson of 780 Chestnut street and John E. Young of 2313 Washington street, all of Newton.

There are no contests for Republican nominations for the House in Newton.

Robert Gaynor of 109 Cabot street and Marshall D. Glen of 133 Temple street, both of Newton, are unopposed for the Republican House nominations in the 12th Middlesex district.

Representative Theodore D. Mann and popular police safety officer Sgt. Charles E. Feeley are the only two candidates for the Republican nominations in the 13th Middlesex district. Feeley lives at 102 Floral street and Mann at 21 Littlefield road.

Newton's Democratic voters will play a part in settling several county clashes.

Edward J. Sullivan of Cambridge and Charles L. Buckley of Somerville are opponents for the Democratic nomination for clerk of courts.

Four candidates are seeking the Democratic nomination for Register of Deeds in the Middlesex Southern district. They are Register John F. Zamparelli of Medford, George L. Anderson of Winchester, Charles W. Buckley of Somerville and ex-Representative John F. Cremens of Cambridge.

Five contenders are battling for one Democratic nomination for County Commissioner. John L. Danahy of Cambridge is standing for Democratic renomination. His opponents are Angelo Giangregorio of Everett, Warren D. Pierce, Jr., of Burlington, John D. Pirelli of Everett and Keith H. Weston of Billerica.

Four candidates are fighting it out for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Middlesex County. They are John F. Dever, Jr., of Woburn, Arthur R. Fitzpatrick of Everett, Leonard M. Frisoli of Watertown and Walter J. Sullivan of Cambridge.

Middlesex County District Attorney John J. Droney is unopposed for Democratic renomination and for reelection as well.

There are no fights for Republican nominations for county offices. Sheriff John J. Buckley, possibly the outstanding Republican vote-getter in Middlesex County, is marking time waiting to learn who his Democratic adversary will be before launching his big drive for the November election.

Ohanian To Speak At Newton Meeting

Rep. Charles Ohanian, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Third Congressional District which includes Newton, will be the guest of honor at a Meet the Candidate Reception, to which the public is cordially invited, to be held next Tuesday (Sept. 8) at the Newton Centre Women's Club, 1280 Centre St., at 8:15 p.m.

Rep. Ohanian (D) from Watertown, a Massachusetts Legislator for the last six years, has repeatedly stated he believes in talking to the voters face-to-face in order to discuss all the major issues confronting the people of the Commonwealth today.

In his continued effort to conduct a meet-the-people campaign, Rep. Ohanian has visited the city of Newton many times. He has been invited to speak before several Newton groups and has attended several coffee hours in his honor in Newton homes.

In addition, a lengthy brochure discussing Mr. Ohanian's views on domestic and foreign problems is being distributed by Ohanian volunteers on a door-to-door basis to the citizens. "I welcome the opportunity to talk with the voters of Newton," said Rep. Ohanian, "and will be pleased to answer any questions they have concerning my views and my candidacy as well as my record as a Massachusetts Legislator."

Fishman To Climax Campaign Sept. 10

Representative Irving Fishman, who is seeking the Democratic nomination as State Senator for the new Newton-Watertown district, will climax his campaign with a reception and social evening on Thursday night of next week (Sept. 10) from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Marriott Motor Hotel, on Commonwealth Avenue at Route 128 and the Mass. Turnpike in Newton.

There will be entertainment, music for dancing by Pat Colletta and his orchestra, and free refreshments for all. Admission, which is free, will be by invitation to be mailed out the first of next week to all of Rep. Fishman's supporters and workers.

"In my campaigning in Newton and Watertown thus far," said Rep. Fishman, "I have found that what the voters want most to know about the candidates for State Senator is simply what sort of men they are—their personality, their experience in public life, and their ability and willingness to provide active and effective representation to this new Senate district."

"Therefore my chief effort has been to get around Newton and Watertown as much and as often as I can, and to attend as many social and political functions as possible, in order to meet on a one-to-one basis with the voters whom I seek to represent in the State Senate."

"I have enjoyed this experience, and regret that there has not been time to do even more person-to-person campaigning. My social evening next Thursday offers me one further opportunity to meet informally with the voters of Newton and Watertown, and my wife and I look forward to welcoming a large number of our friends as our guests at that party at the Marriott Motor Hotel," Rep. Fishman concluded.

Droney Announces Donahue Reception

District Attorney John Droney announced today a reception honoring Senate President Maurice A. Donahue will be held September 13 at 8:00 p.m. at the Lexington Motor Inn.

District Attorney Droney is the Middlesex County coordinator of the Donahue for Governor campaign.

Senator Donahue is the officially endorsed candidate for governor of the Democratic State Convention.

"Middlesex County is a key area in the 1970 state-wide election. I am supporting Maurice Donahue because I believe he is the most experienced, capable man to hold the very important job of governor."

"I am asking all my friends who have given me such tremendous support throughout the years to work with me in seeing that Maurice Donahue is our next Governor. "For 22 years he served our state as well as a legislator. He will make a great governor," the District Attorney concluded.

Ramsey Endorses Segal For Senate

Campaign Headquarters for former Assistant U.S. District Attorney Terry P. Segal of Newton, now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senator from Newton-Watertown, this week released the text of a letter endorsing Segal's candidacy from former United States Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

In the personal note to Mr. Segal, U.S. Attorney General Clark wrote, "Your contributions to date are remarkable and your experience a valuable national resource. The following describes my evaluation of your record:

"Terry Segal is a deeply concerned and committed young lawyer. As staff assistant to United States Senator Philip Hart he proved himself a dedicated fighter for civil rights and social justice. As an assistant United States Attorney, he manifested his devotion to law and faith in the rule of law as a fair, even handed and effective prosecutor.

"Terry Segal offers the experience, integrity and energy America needs to solve its problems."

Terry P. Segal served under Attorney General Clark in the U.S. Department of Justice.

Newton Coordinators For Rep. McGlenon

Named to serve as ward coordinators in Newton for Representative John McGlenon, Republican candidate for Congress in the Third Congressional District, are: Mr. and Mrs. Kent Griggs of 40 Bolton Rd., Robert Freeto of 91 Hillside Ave., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh of 53 Arapahoe Rd., Alderman Michael Lipof of 110 Oxford Rd., and Dr. William A. Seegitz of 315 Franklin St., all of Newton, and Anthony Medaglio of 189 Windsor Rd., Waban.

The Representative's Newton office at 95 Union St., Newton Centre (the old Newton-Waltham Bank building), has been operating several weeks under the direction of Miss Pippin McDonough of 227 Temple St., Newton.

McGlenon has been endorsed by all present Newton Republican Aldermen and by former Mayor Howard Whit-

He has picked former School Committee Chairman Haskell Freedman to handle the special events part of his Newton finance drive.

Alderman William Wolf of 205 Mill St., Newtonville, is the McGlenon for Congress campaign committee coordinator for the city.

Drinan Lashes At Policies of Nixon

Rev. Robert F. Drinan charged here last night that the Nixon administration is conducting a phony war against inflation.

"While claiming that domestic programs are inflationary," he said, "they have concealed the fact that excessive military spending is the major contributor to the upward spiral of prices."

Fr. Drinan, campaigning for the Democratic nomination in the Third Congressional District, said that the cost of living had risen almost 6 percent since last July.

"The trend," he said, "would not be reversed unless vigorous and imaginative steps were taken to reorder national priorities."

"The real cure for inflation is increased productivity in areas of high demand, such as housing," he declared, "but we will not have this increase until we stop wasting money on a disastrous war in Indochina and on ABM, which no one needs."

2 More Candidates Get Coalition Nod

The Newton Coalition for New Politics announced that it has endorsed the following two candidates for State Representative in the September 15th primary election: Betty Taymor from the 12th Middlesex District and David J. Mofenson from the 13th Middlesex District.

Also endorsed in the September 15th primary election are Robert Drinan for U.S. Congress, Michael Dukakis for Lieutenant Governor, and Irving Fishman for Massachusetts Senate.

These are the candidates whose philosophy and positions parallel most closely those of the Newton Coalition for New Politics.

West Studies Civil Disorder

Major Worthing L. West, U.S. Army, who resides at 56 Tyler Terrace, Newton Centre, is attending the Civil Disturbance Orientation Course at the U.S. Army Military Police School at Fort Gordon, Georgia.

Persons attending the course come throughout the United States and represent the National Guard, Army Reserve, active Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, state, county and municipal organizations and other Federal agencies.

Alan King Featured On Hub Stage To Assist ORT Drive

With an eye toward mixing business with pleasure, the Eastern Massachusetts Region of Women's American ORT is sponsoring a festal, fun-filled evening of entertainment on Sunday, September 27, at the Music Hall in Boston.

Alan King, famed stage, TV, and screen comedian, will headline this special, one-night benefit performance.

He will share the spotlight with Julie Budd, the Barbra Streisand sound-alike who has made a meteoric rise to stardom in the past two years, and Boston's own Jess Cain as master of ceremonies with Tony Bruno and his orchestra.

While providing for the audience the obvious pleasures of this exciting presentation aptly entitled "King for a Night," ORT will be involved in the all-important business of attempting to raise funds to help build the ORT School of Engineering on the campus of the world-renowned Hebrew University in Jerusalem, since the proceeds will be designated toward this goal.

For over ninety years, ORT, the innovators of the self-help program, has achieved great success in helping man to help himself. The ORT School of Engineering represents an even greater endeavor for helping an entire country to help itself.

Israel, in the midst of the worst crisis of her statehood, urgently needs 14,000 engineers and technicians by 1973. The raw material for fulfilling this vital goal lies within her own borders, but the ability to cultivate this resource has been thwarted due to limited facilities.

Therefore, ORT, ever alert to the continual needs for newer and better methods of vocational education, has committed its entire international organization to the realization of what up to now has been a dream. Once completed, the School will graduate each year more than 850 students with degrees in Nuclear, Electronic, Mechanical and Chemical Engineering.

Krakow New Exec. Director For Jewish Family Service

SIMON KRAKOW

Simon Krakow, of Newton, currently Associate Director of Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston, has been named Executive Director of Jewish Family and Children's Service, Kenneth M. Kurson, JF&CS President, announced this week.

Mr. Krakow will assume his new position effective in early September succeeding Norman Herstein who has become director of a children's residential treatment center near San Francisco.

Mr. Krakow, who has been with CJP for ten years, has had major responsibilities for budgeting, social planning and inter-agency relations. In addition, he is secretary of the CJP Long Range Planning Commission and of the Jewish Community Housing for the Elderly, a separate corporation sponsored by CJP.

"We are indeed fortunate," Mr. Kurson noted, "that we have been able to secure an executive director with the rich social work experience of Mr. Krakow. He has particular insights and skills in bringing together the broad constellation of services that the agency must provide to the community—including services to children and youth, families in areas of urban change and the problems of the elderly. We feel that under his direction JF&CS will be able to grow significantly."

David R. Pokross, President of CJP, stated that Mr. Krakow's resignation this week was accepted by the Executive Committee "with great reluctance." The Boston Jewish community, Mr. Pokross added, "has benefited greatly from Mr. Krakow's unusual ability and dedication. "While we shall miss his services at CJP, we are heartened that in his new position, he will continue to give outstanding professional direction and leadership to one of our most important constituent agencies. He has our warmest good wishes in this important new executive responsibility."

Prior to joining CJP, Mr. Krakow was Executive Director of the Jewish Federation of Delaware. He has served as regional director of the Central Atlantic states for the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds. Following his army service, he became chief social worker for the Veterans Administration in Western Pennsylvania.

He is a graduate of Temple University and received his M.S.W. degree from the University of Pennsylvania School of Social Work. Mr. Krakow resides in Newton with his wife, Dr. Sylvia Krakow, an associate professor at Boston University's School of Social Work, and their five children.

Frisky Finns
Finns like to weekend in Leningrad, according to travel officials here, but Soviet authorities eye this tourist boomlet with mixed emotions. A total of 44,000 Finnish tourists visited the Russian Baltic city in 1969, and 700 of them were accused by the Russians of misbehaving. Offenses included harassing police, breaking windows and damaging cars.

Temples Co-sponsor Adult Education Series Locally

Temple Emeth will be host this year to the tenth annual adult education series which it co-sponsors with Emanuel, Reyim and Mishkan Tefila.

The larger and more varied new program offers students a choice of ten courses, five in Hebrew and Yiddish language and five in Jewish thought. Each week, following the first hour of study, there will be a lecture by an outstanding scholar which all registrants may attend. A question period and refreshment will conclude each session.

The new courses and their leaders are "Modern Molders of the Jewish Heart and Mind" with Rabbi Emanuel S. Goldsmith, "Judaism in a Secular Age" with Rabbi Laurence J. Silberstein, "The Multi-faceted World of Rabbinic Judaism" with Rabbi Joseph Schultz, "Our Profane World and the World of the Spirit" with Rabbi Joel Orent and "The Melton Method of Teaching the Bible" (in the Hebrew Schools and with adults) with Michael Fishbone.

Lectures will be on Oct. 20, with Professor Shemaryahu Talmon of Hebrew University and Harvard speaking on "The Return of the Babylonian Exiles;" Oct. 27, with Professor Nahum M. Sarna of Brandeis University speaking on "Studying the Bible in the 1970's;" Nov. 3 and 10, with Professor David Neiman of Boston College and the Vatican speaking on "Prelude to Henzl - Jewish Nationalism in 19th Century Europe" and "Judaism and Christianity. Their Historical Symbiosis;" Nov. 17 and 24, with Professor Marshall Sklare of Brandeis speaking on "The New American Jew," and "The New American Jewish Community."

Also Dec. 1 and 8, with Professor Yassef Yerushalmi of Harvard University speaking on "Marranos - Spanish and Russian" and "Spain and the Jews in Modern Times."

Registration is $5 and is open to the public as well as to members of the sponsoring temples.

Students are admitted free and golden-agers at half price. Inquiries may be made at the temple offices or from the committee chairmen, Daniel Smalens of Emeth, Eric Ungar of Emanuel, Gerald Cohen of Reyim and Edward Kandib of Mishkan Tefila.

Peretz School Registrations Start Sept. 1

Leon Forem, Principal of the I.L. Peretz School of Brookline and Dr. Edgar Gutoff, chairman of the Board of Education, announce the appointment of Mrs. Diane Roskies to its staff as music and dance instructor.

Mrs. Roskies is presently a research assistant and student at Harvard in Educational Psychology, and has her M.A. in Psychology from Brandeis University. She was a music teacher in Religion School of Temple Albert, Albuquerque, New Mexico and a modern dance instructor at Brandeis University Summer Session, working with Puerto Rican children.

Mrs. Roskies is one of the founders and directors of Brandeis Yiddish Theatre and is also music director for Yiddish Youth Journal "Yugen-truf".

Under her tutelage, the curriculum in Music and Dance this year at the I.L. Peretz School will include Yiddish folk songs, ghetto lieder, Yiddish Children's Theatre and improvised theatre games.

Registration for the school, which includes three days a week and also Sunday classes, will commence September 1, at the School, which is located at

This school is the only local Yiddish-Hebrew School recognized by the Bureau of Jewish Education and also holds evening Adult Classes.

EDWARD J. SULLIVAN

Clover Club, Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, Exchange Club of Cambridge and the National Association of Clerks of the Superior and Supreme Courts.

He is the son of the legendary late City Councillor of Cambridge, "Mickey, the Dude" Sullivan and the brother of current Councillor Walter J. Sullivan.

Mr. Sullivan stated that "During my tenure of office, I have worked closely with the members of the judiciary and all law enforcement officials to solve our mutual problems. I believe we have made great strides in this direction, and with your continued support the entire judicial system will be upgraded resulting in prompt, efficient justice at a saving to the taxpayer."

Arthur Medoff Piano Classes Start Season

Arthur Medoff, noted Brookline pianist, accordionist, teacher and bandleader, is accepting students for the new season at his Coolidge Corner studio. He is also offering lessons at your home with his personally trained assistants.

As a musician's musician and a teacher's teacher, Arthur is justly proud of the many professionals he has trained, proof positive of the superiority of his curriculum.

For example, Chelsea's Ted Simons takes his band into the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. Roxbury's George Cort was headleader at N.Y.'s El Morocco. Revere's Dick Paul is in his 8th year at Miami's Hotel Americana while Chelsea's Larry Pearlstein enjoyed a similar position at The Hotel Americana in New York.

Locally Randolph's Ronnie Zack is the important 4th man with the "Paris Revolution" at the Playboy club. Newton's Shelly Soreff is heading the kind of music, entertainment, trio at the new Marriot etc. etc.

As Boston's most versatile pianist and teacher Mr. Medoff's mix of pop-rock-jazz

Dr. Donald Schon Will Give Annual BBC Talks

Dr. Donald Schon of 291 Otis St., Newton, will give the annual Reith Lectures on the British Broadcasting Corporation in England this year.

Schon, who is president of the Organization for Social and Technical Innovation in Cambridge, is a world expert on the growth, decline and functioning of organization. He will discuss "The Changing Industrial Society" in six half-hour talks.

A 40-year old Harvard Ph.D., Schon also attended Yale University and the Sorbonne. He taught philosophy at the University of California, and has been U.S. Commerce Department Director of the Office of Technical Services as well as Director of the Institute for Applied Technology at the National Bureau of Standards.

Dr. Schon is visiting professor of the department of urban and regional planning at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. As one of the world's outstanding authorities on organizations, Dr. Schon is a member of the "Commission on the Year 2000", appointed by the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

The Reith Lectures, inaugurated in 1947 and named after the BBC's first Director General, are broadcast annually. Their purpose is to publish a piece of original research on radio. They always cause a considerable amount of interest in Great Britain and throughout the world through rebroadcasts in the BBC's World Service and through their publication by the BBC in "The Listener" and in book form.

Past Reith lectures have included such thinkers as Bertrand Russell, Arnold Toynbee, Sir Bernard Lovell, J. Robert Oppenheimer, George Kennan, John Kenneth Galbraith. Lester Pearson gave them two years ago, shortly after ceasing to be Prime Minister of Canada.

Prof. Klein To Speak At Temple Reyim Sept. 23

Prof. Karen Klein will be the principal speaker at the opening meeting of Temple Reyim's Sisterhood on Wednesday evening, September 23rd, at 8:00 p.m.

A native of Fargo, North Dakota, Prof. Klein graduated Summa Cum Laude from Radcliffe College, majoring in English Literature.

She was a recipient of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship from Columbia University, where she obtained her Ph.D. degree in Medieval Comparative Literature.

Prof. Klein has taught at Hunter College, Columbia University, and is currently Professor of English Literature at Brandeis University. A mother of three children, she resides in Wayland with her husband Michael, a Cardiologist at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Prof. Klein will speak on "The Problems of Feminine Identity," and all are welcome to attend. The meeting is co-chaired by Mrs. Milton Levinger, Membership Chairman, and Mrs. Robert Kramer, Jewish Family Living Chairman. Mrs. Arthur Kaufman, Vice-President of the Sisterhood has announced that new and prospective members will be welcome and she plans a capsule report from all committee chairmen on current Sisterhood activities.

For further information, please call Temple Reyim's Executive Director, Mrs. Pressman at 527-2410.

30 Foot Fall At Incinerator Hurts Worker

A 53 year old West Medford man who works at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Chestnut Hill was injured last week when he fell from a pick-up truck while unloading rubbish at the city incinerator on Rumford Ave., West Newton.

Albert Bettosi of 715 Fellsway, West Medford, was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital in the police ambulance. He was treated for chest and back injuries and held for X-rays.

According to Fire Department officials, Mr. Bettosi fell 30 feet to the bottom of the rubbish well.

The Fire Department answered a still alarm at 12:47 p.m. and Engine 2, Ladder 1 and Assistant Chief Harvey D. Preble responded.

Six other calls for firefighters during the past 24 hours were:

Friday, 10:02 a.m., Box 7232, S.S. Pierce Co., 33 Boylston St., Chestnut Hill, fire in the freezer room. Engines 3, 6, 7, 9, Ladders 2, 3 and Brookline Engine 4 and Ladder 3 responded, along with Assistant Chief Preble. Apparatus returned to quarters in 40 minutes.

1:27 p.m., opposite 50 Crestwood Rd., West Newton, brush; Engine 2.

Temple Emeth Choral Group to Start Season

Temple Emeth Choral Group is resuming weekly rehearsals in the Temple Emeth Vestry, Grove Street South Brookline, in preparation for the fall and winter season. The opening meeting will be on Thursday, September 10, at 8:00 p.m.

The group will review its extensive repertoire of Hebrew, Yiddish, folk, Classic, popular and show-tune numbers, as well as learning some new arrangements by its director, Dr. Rose W. Shain. Accompanist is Mrs. Walter Levine.

Starting its eleventh season under the direction of Dr. Shain, well-known voice teacher, coach and choral director, Temple Emeth Choral Group has entertained extensively in the greater Boston area. It is prepared to present varied and appropriate programs for any occasion. Its opening engagement will be for the Framingham chapter

Building 3 Layout In Preparation

"In the next couple of weeks" there will be a decision on the permanent status of Building 3 at Newton High School, according to the city commissioner of public buildings.

Charles R. Herbert said the decision would be made jointly by Mayor Monte G. Basbas, the School Committee and the Board of Aldermen.

They will decide after tentative layouts of the grounds of the new high school have been received from Architect Willoughby Marshall of Cambridge who was hired last week by Basbas.

According to Herbert, these plans, which will show possibilities of site development with and without the area now occupied by Building 3, will be one of several factors used in making the final decision. He cited demolition costs and the price of fixing up the aging structure as two additional considerations.

The other two buildings in the present high school complex are to be razed to make room for parking and athletic fields for the new school, which is now under construction at the rear of the school, located on Walnut St. in Newtonville.

Herbert said that no deadline has been set for the completion of the architect's work but that he has been supplied with all the relevant information, and that the city is now awaiting word as to his time requirements.

Building 3 is the least old of the high school buildings and has been considered for possible administrative use by the School Department.

The architect's fee will come out of money which has already been appropriated for the $18.5 million school.

Sargent Names 4 To Serve As Notaries Public

Four residents of Newton have been named by Governor Sargent to be notaries of the public; three are reappointments.

Leonard Atkins of 43 Royce Rd., Newton Center, Guy Caiola of 14 Driftwood St., West Newton and Alfred Kaplan of 30 Glendale Rd., Newton, will continue serving until 1977.

Christopher F. Connolly of 80 Claremont St., Newton has been appointed for the first time, also for seven years.

of B'Nai B'rith, on Tuesday evening, September 15.

There are a few openings for both men and women in the Choral Group, which is sponsored by the Sisterhood and Brotherhood of Temple Emeth. New members will be welcomed. Anyone interested may come to the opening meeting September 10.

For further information, call Sisterhood Chairman, Mrs. Henry Ellison (469-0588); Brotherhood Chairman Nathan D. White (566-4233); or Dr. Rose W. Shain (277-2503).

Prizes Awarded At Closing Of Peabody Summer Day Camp Here

The end of the tenth summer program for exceptional children conducted by the Newton Recreation Department at the Peabody School in Oak Hill which closed recently was marked by a Parents' Day program.

Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney presented awards to the retarded and handicapped children. Prizes were based on improvement, achievement and effort in the crafts, athletics, and general activities of the camp.

In addition to the free play on the merry-go-round, swings and sand boxes, the 30 children enjoyed organized play in games of kickball, dodge-ball, sense games and many other group games.

On rainy days they concentrated on quiet games, craft projects, including the making of bracelets and necklaces. Story time was one of the daily favorites.

The children also enjoyed dancing and exercising to special records designed especially for the retarded and handicapped. The large family sized pool again proved to be an extra source of recreation.

Mr. Penney also presented awards to the volunteers who helped greatly with the activities of the camp, they were: Sue Campbell, Susan Gentile, Cathy Hershberg, Arlene Kanter, Carol Rosoff, Tricia Ruden, Amy Turnbull, Ellen White, Michael Madeson and David Edelstein.

After the presentation of awards, coffee and cookies were served to the parents, where they had a chance to meet the camp staff of Jack Mooney, camp director, Stacey Dorris, Ass't director, and Jane Albert and Diane Rubinoff, recreation leaders. Camp Supervisor Robert E. Doherty along with Mr. Michael Moriarty of the State Department of Special Education also were in attendance.

Library Players To Stage Productions Sept. 11, 12

"Winnie The Pooh," a Newton Free Library Players production directed by Carole Power, will be staged twice in Newton at Meadowbrook Jr. High on Friday, September 11 at 7:30 p.m. and at a special showing on Saturday morning, September 12, at 11 a.m. for all Newton boys and girls who have completed the Newton Free Library summer reading program, "Summer Reading is Out of This World." Both performances are free.

Lisette Marcotte of Newton will make a personal appearance as Winnie, with the entire cast in costume and makeup, at the New England Book Festival on Saturday afternoon, September 12, the finale in the Players' summer production schedule.

Young Newton actors also in the A.A. Milne play are Nancy Rose, Lillian Spatz, Nicole Marcotte, Ann Pasbrig, Karen Bronk, Amy Tighe, Stephen Bronk, Sandra Silver, Peter Bronk, Irene Lombard, Monique Marcotte, and Cheryl Goldberg.

The crew is led by Bill Thomas as assistant director with Nancy Wolfe, stage manager; production coordinator Judy Banks; costumes, Stephanie Lent; properties, Irene Lombard; makeup, Carole Power; technical crew, Dick Power and Hal Bronk; Jim Laning; lighting; and backstage assistance by the Players.

The Library Players, jointly sponsored by the Newton Recreation Commission and the Newton Free Library, are an open-end group of Newton teen-agers now in their second year of theatre productions.

Other plays produced by the group under the leadership of directors Carole and Dick Power have been "The Mouse That Roared," "Pride and Prejudice," "Tom Jones," and "Up The Down Staircase." "Winnie The Pooh" was performed earlier this summer by the group on August 12 for an audience of 500 boys and girls as part of Auburndale Playground summer recreation activity.

The Players welcome newcomers for their fall productions, which will be original works by members. The fall schedule, starting September 15, is Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7 p.m., Newtonville Library Hall. Membership is free and open to all Newton teen-agers.

Mrs. Rose Is Staff Writer For PR Dept.

Harriet Rose of 22 Bonad Rd., West Newton has been named a staff writer in the public relations department of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

The announcement was made by W. Edward Boughton, vice president, advertising-public relations.

In her new position, Mrs. Rose will be responsible for the preparation of press releases and other media contact.

Prior to joining John Hancock, Mrs. Rose was affiliated with Epley Associates of Charlotte, N.C. where she handled the public relations duties for several political campaigns. She has also been affiliated with Emerson College as News Director.

Mrs. Rose is a graduate of Boston University and a member of Tau Mu Epsilon, an honorary public relations fraternity.

Temple Reyim to Have Homecom'g Party Sept. 13

Two Newton men are among those who have organized unusually successful fund raising campaign for Cornell University this year. They are David J. Palmer of 119 Wood End Rd., in Newton Highlands, who is associated with the Boston Law firm of Spencer and Stone, and George D. Rauthenburg of 70 Nesbobe Rd., in Waban, who is associated with the Plymouth Rubber Company in Canton.

According to recently released figures, Cornell is one of the few major American universities not showing a decrease in alumni giving this year. The fund includes only unrestricted, individual alumni gifts for the operation of the University and does not include gifts for buildings or other restricted purposes.

In all the Cornell Fund raised $4,995,164 an increase of nearly $1.5 million over the previous record-breaking total in 1968-69. The increase came about through gifts of $1,005,164 from nearly 28,000 alumni, up approximately 2000 from last year and from a $1 million "challenge grant" from an anonymous donor.

Four Residents Participate in Summerthing

Participating in the Summerthing Festival Orchestra this summer are four students from Newton. The 60-piece orchestra has given two-hour free concerts during August at the historic Charles Street Meeting House on Beacon Hill, in the Fenway in the Back Bay and at Columbus Park in South Boston. Conducted by Louis Fantasia, music director of the Georgetown Symphony Orchestra, the group was organized especially for the 1970 season of Boston's Neighborhood Festival.

Local orchestra members are Suzanne Perles of 37 Everett St., Newton Centre; Thomas Morris of 99 Kirkstall road, Newtonville and Betsy and Ann Drinan of 8 Lakewood road, Newton Highlands.

Newton Democrats Back Housing Here

The Newton Democratic City Committee has reaffirmed its support of the immediate building of family housing in that city by both the Newton Community Development Foundation and the Newton Housing Authority.

Gordon A. Martin, Jr., vice-chairman of the City Committee and chairman of its housing committee, stated that the committee regards as critical the recent Monday night vote before the Newton Board of Aldermen on the NCDF proposal to erect 506 middle-income units at ten scattered sites.

Martin noted that a portion of these apartments would accommodate low-income families under either leased housing or rent supplement programs.

The Newton Democrats also requested the Newton Housing Authority to move for the first time to build apartments for families.

The City Committee's action was taken following a meeting at which two candidates for the party's gubernatorial nomination, Senate President Maurice Donahue and former Presidential assistant Kenneth P. O'Donnell spoke.

The full text of the Democrats' statement follows: "The Newton Democratic City Committee affirms its support for the goal of adequate housing within the financial reach of all. This is not yet a reality in Newton.

"We believe in diversity; we do not want to see our city become a place where only the wealthy and middle-aged can live.

"Therefore we support efforts to bring attractive moderate-income housing to Newton, specifically the proposals of the Newton Community Development Foundation now under consideration.

"We believe that these 506 units would fill a need without overburdening the resources of the city; and as we have for many years been proud to see our school system a national model, we should also take pride in setting an example for other suburbs throughout the country with this innovative plan.

"Nearly two years ago the Newton Planning Department issued a detailed report setting forth the need for low-income housing and analyzing prospective sites.

This excellent report has, however, not been implemented. We support the concept of dispersing such housing as widely as possible to avoid the stigma, unwarranted though it be, of the "housing project," and therefore we urge the Newton Housing Authority to continue and intensify its efforts to find apartments which can be leased through a federally funded program and rented to low-income families.

"There are today 42 families in such leased units, but approximately that number on the waiting list. More such units are needed, both in existing buildings and in new construction, including that proposed by NCDF.

"We commend the Board of Aldermen for its policy, which we have supported, of requiring private developers to commit a percentage of proposed apartment units for this use.

"However, because of the limited number of apartment units in Newton, and because of cutbacks by the Nixon Administration in funds for this program, the leased housing concept cannot by itself solve the low-income housing shortage even in Newton.

"The Housing Authority is no longer restricted to construction for the elderly, a function which it has been carrying out. The Authority is empowered to build units for low-income families, and it should undertake this work at once.

The Authority's pending plans to build groups of 20 attractive and spacious town houses on small sites of two acres or less seem designed to avoid the usual flaws of massive public housing.

However, in accepting without study the only two sites suggested to it the Housing Authority has failed to give adequate consideration to the site problem, since the site at the Myrtle Baptist Church was known at the time to have well-founded opposition within that community. We urge the Authority to look further for suitable sites, bearing in mind that it need not restrict itself to land the city wants to dispose of.

"At the same time we agree with the Housing Authority that federal subsidies are inadequate to offset the high rents in the Northeast and join with the Authority in asking our representatives in Congress to work for higher subsidies for public housing, as well as for somewhat higher limits on tenant income, to protect those people who now fall between the guidelines for low and moderate income housing.

We commend the General Court for its passage of portions of House Bill 5700, which will expand and strengthen the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency and provide increased subsidies for housing authorities in the state.

Out late representative Jim Shea worked on the subcommittee which developed this far-reaching legislation.

Finally we urge the Board of Aldermen to support the NCDF proposal which will be before it Monday evening. The Democratic City Committee has supported this plan from its inception. We reaffirm that total commitment and our belief that this well-conceived proposal will benefit the city and all its people.

Temples Co-sponsor Adult Education Series Locally

Temple Emeth will be host this year to the tenth annual adult education series which it co-sponsors with Emanuel, Reyim and Mishkan Tefila.

The larger and more varied new program offers students a choice of ten courses, five in Hebrew and Yiddish language and five in Jewish thought. Each week, following the first hour of study, there will be a lecture by an outstanding scholar which all registrants may attend. A question period and refreshment will conclude each session.

The new courses and their leaders are "Modern Molders of the Jewish Heart and Mind" with Rabbi Emanuel S. Goldsmith, "Judaism in a Secular Age" with Rabbi Laurence J. Silberstein, "The Multi-faceted World of Rabbinic Judaism" with Rabbi Joseph Schultz, "Our Profane World and the World of the Spirit" with Rabbi Joel Orent and "The Melton Method of Teaching the Bible" (in the Hebrew Schools and with adults) with Michael Fishbone.

Lectures will be on Oct. 20, with Professor Shemaryahu Taimon of Hebrew University and Harvard speaking on "The Return of the Babylonian Exiles;" Oct. 27, with Professor Nahum M. Sarna of Brandeis University speaking on "Studying the Bible in the 1970's;" Nov. 3 and 10, with Professor David Neiman of Boston College and the Vatican speaking on "Prelude to Hensl - Jewish Nationalism in 19th Century Europe" and "Judaism and Christianity, Their Historical Symbiosis;" Nov. 17 and 24, with Professor Marshall Sklare of Brandeis speaking on "The New American Jew," and "The New American Jewish Community."

Also Dec. 1 and 8, with Professor Yaseff Yerushalmi of Harvard University speaking on "Marranos - Spanish and Russian" and "Spain and the Jews in Modern Times."

Registration is $5 and is open to the public as well as to members of the sponsoring temples. Students are admitted free and golden-agers at half price. Inquiries may be made at the temple offices or from the committee chairmen, Daniel Smalens of Emeth, Eric Ungar of Emanuel, Gerald Cohen of Reyim and Edward Kandib of Mishkan Tefila.

Peretz School Registrations Start Sept. 1

Leon Forem, Principal of the L.L. Peretz School of Brookline and Dr. Edgar Gutoff, chairman of the Board of Education, announce the appointment of Mrs. Diane Roskies to its staff as music and dance instructor.

Mr. Sullivan stated that "During my tenure of office, I have worked closely with the members of the judiciary and all law enforcement officials to solve our mutual problems. I believe we have made great strides in this direction, and with your continued support the entire judicial system will be upgraded resulting in prompt, efficient justice at a saving to the taxpayer."

Arthur Medoff Piano Classes Start Season

Arthur Medoff, noted Brookline pianist, accordionist, teacher and bandleader, is accepting students for the new season at his Coolidge Corner studio. He is also offering lessons at your home with his personally trained assistants.

As a musician's musician and a teacher's teacher, Arthur is justly proud of the many professionals he has trained, proof positive of his superiority of his curriculum.

Locally Randolph's Ronnie Zack is the important 4th man with the "Paris Revolution" at the Shelly Soreff in heading the trio at the new Marriott etc. etc. As Boston's most versatile pianist and teacher Mr. Medoff's mix of pop-rock-jazz and classical music and his unique teaching method is acclaimed by the multitude of students from 6 to 60 and beginners to professionals.

The Arthur Medoff orchestra demonstrates similar versatility and excellence playing a slew of dates ranging from weddings and Bar Mitzvahs to house parties, business organization dinners, dances, country club dances and industrial shows. Arthur's promise that "my style is your style" means that he will personally provide exactly the kind of music, entertainment, direction and m.c.'ing you desire. The Arthur Medoff orchestra is a virtual guarantee of a successful party.

Dr. Donald Schon Will Give Annual BBC Talks

Dr. Donald Schon of 291 Otis St., Newton, will give the annual Reith Lectures on the British Broadcasting Corporation in England this year.

Schon, who is president of the Organization for Social and Technical Innovation in Cambridge, is a world expert on the growth, decline and functioning of organization. He will discuss "The Changing Industrial Society" in six half-hour talks.

A 40-year old Harvard Ph.D., Schon also attended Yale University and the Sorbonne. He taught philosophy at the University of California, and has been U.S. Commerce Department Director of the Office of Technical Services as well as Director of the Institute for Applied Technology at the National Bureau of Standards.

Dr. Schon is visiting professor of the department of urban and regional planning at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. As one of the world's outstanding authorities on organizations, Dr. Schon is a member of the "Commission on the Year 2000", appointed by the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

The Reith Lectures, inaugurated in 1947 and named after the BBC's first Director General, are broadcast annually. Their purpose is to publish a piece of original research on radio. They always cause a considerable amount of interest in Great Britain and throughout the world through rebroadcasts in the BBC's World Service and through their publication by the BBC in "The Listener" and in book form.

Past Reith lectures have included such thinkers as Bertrand Russell, Arnold Toynbee, Sir Bernard Lovell, J. Robert Oppenheimer, George Kennan, John Kenneth Galbraith. Lester Pearson gave them two years ago, shortly after ceasing to be Prime Minister of Canada.

Prof. Klein To Speak At Temple Reyim Sept. 23

Prof. Karen Klein will be the principal speaker at the opening meeting of Temple Reyim's Sisterhood on Wednesday evening, September 23rd, at 8:00 p.m.

A native of Fargo, North Dakota, Prof. Klein graduated Summa Cum Laude from Radcliffe College, majoring in English Literature.

She was a recipient of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship from Columbia University, where she obtained her Ph.D. degree in Medieval Comparative Literature.

Prof. Klein has taught at Hunter College, Columbia University, and is currently Professor of English Literature at Brandeis University. A mother of three children, she resides in Wayland with her husband Michael, a Cardiologist at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Prof. Klein will speak on "The Problems of Feminine Identity," and all are welcome to attend. The meeting is co-chaired by Mrs. Milton Lewinger, Membership Chairman, and Mrs. Robert Kramer, Jewish Family Living Chairman. Mrs. Arthur Kaufman, Vice-President of the Sisterhood has announced that new and prospective members will be welcome and she plans a capsule report from all committee chairmen on current Sisterhood activities.

For further information, please call Temple Reyim's Executive Director, Mrs. Pressman at 527-2410.

30 Foot Fall At Incinerator Hurts Worker

A 53 year old West Medford man who works at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Chestnut Hill was injured last week when he fell from a pickup truck while unloading rubbish at the city incinerator on Rumford Ave., West Newton.

Albert Bettosi of 715 Fellsway, West Medford, was taken to Newton-Wellesley Hospital in the police ambulance. He was treated for chest and back injuries and held for X-rays.

According to Fire Department officials, Mr. Bettosi fell 30 feet to the bottom of the rubbish heap.

The Fire Department answered a still alarm at 12:47 p.m. and Engine 2, Ladder 1 and Assistant Chief Harvey D. Preble responded.

Six other calls for firefighters during the past 24 hours were:

Friday, 10:02 a.m., Box 7232, S.S. Pierce Co., 33 Boylston St., Chestnut Hill, fire in the freezer room, Engines 3, 6, 7, 9, Ladders 2, 3 and Brookline Engine 4 and Ladder 3 responded, along with Assistant Chief Preble. Apparatus returned to quarters in 40 minutes.

1:27 p.m., opposite 50 Crestwood Rd., West Newton, brush; Engine 2.

Temple Emeth Choral Group to Start Season

Temple Emeth Choral Group is resuming weekly rehearsals in the Temple Emeth Vestry, Grove Street South Brookline, in preparation for the fall and winter season. The opening meeting will be on Thursday, September 10, at 8:00 p.m.

The group will review its extensive repertoire of Hebrew, Yiddish, folk, Classic, popular and show-tune numbers, as well as learning some new arrangements by its director, Dr. Rose W. Shain. Accompanist is Mrs. Walter Levine.

Starting its eleventh season under the direction of Dr. Shain, well-known voice teacher, coach and choral director, Temple Emeth Choral Group has entertained extensively in the greater Boston area. It is prepared to present varied and appropriate programs for any occasion. Its opening engagement will be for the Framingham chapter

Building 3 Layout In Preparation

"In the next couple of weeks" there will be a decision on the permanent status of Building 3 at Newton High School, according to the city commissioner of public buildings.

Charles R. Herbert said the decision would be made jointly by Mayor Monte G. Basbas, the School Committee and the Board of Aldermen.

They will decide after tentative layouts of the grounds of the new high school have been received from Architect Willoughby Marshall of Cambridge who was hired last week by Basbas.

According to Herbert, these plans, which will show possibilities of site development with and without the area now occupied by Building 3, will be one of several factors used in making the final decision. He cited demolition costs and the price of fixing up the aging structure as two additional considerations.

The other two buildings in the present high school complex are to be razed to make room for parking and athletic fields for the new school, which is now under construction at the rear of the school, located on Walnut St. in Newtonville.

Herbert said that no deadline has been set for the completion of the architect's work but that he has been supplied with all the relevant information, and that the city is now awaiting word as to his time requirements.

Building 3 is the least old of the high school buildings and has been considered for possible administrative use by the School Department.

The architect's fee will come out of money which has already been appropriated for the $18.5 million school.

Sargent Names 4 To Serve As Notaries Public

Four residents of Newton have been named by Governor Sargent to be notaries of the public; three are reappointments.

Leonard Atkins of 43 Royce Rd., Newton Center, Guy Caiola of 14 Driftwood St., West Newton and Alfred Kaplan of 30 Glendale Rd., Newton, will continue serving until 1977.

Christopher F. Connolly of 80 Claremont St., Newton has been appointed for the first time, also for seven years.

of B'nai B'rith, on Tuesday evening, September 15.

There are a few openings for both men and women in the Choral Group, which is sponsored by the Sisterhood and Brotherhood of Temple Emeth. New members will be welcomed. Anyone interested may come to the opening meeting September 10.

For further information, call Sisterhood Chairman, Mrs. Henry Ellison (469-0588); Brotherhood Chairman Nathan D. White (566-4233); or Dr. Rose W. Shain (277-2503).

Prizes Awarded At Closing Of Peabody Summer Day Camp Here

The end of the tenth summer program for exceptional children conducted by the Newton Recreation Department at the Peabody School in Oak Hill which closed recently was marked by a Parents' Day program.

Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney presented awards to the retarded and handicapped children. Prizes were based on improvement, achievement and effort in the crafts, athletics, and general activities of the camp.

In addition to the free play on the merry-go-round, swings and sand boxes, the 30 children enjoyed organized play in games of kickball, dodge-ball, sense games and many other group games. On rainy days they concentrated on quiet games, and craft projects, including the making of bracelets and necklaces. Story time was one of the daily favorites.

The children also enjoyed dancing and exercising to the special records designed especially for the retarded and handicapped. The large family sized pool again proved to be an extra source of recreation.

Mr. Penney also presented awards to the volunteers who helped greatly with the activities of the camp, they were: Sue Campbell, Susan Gentile, Cathy Hershberg, Arlene Kanter, Carol Rosoff, Tricia Ruden, Amy Turnbull, Ellen White, Michael Madeson and David Edelstein.

After the presentation of awards, coffee and cookies were served to the parents, where they had a chance to meet the camp staff of Jack Mooney, camp director, Stacey Dorris, Ass't director, and Jane Albert and Diane Rubinoff, recreation leaders. Camp Supervisor Robert E. Doherty along with Mr. Michael Moriarty of the State Department of Special Education also were in attendance.

Library Players To Stage Productions Sept. 11, 12

"Winnie The Pooh," a Newton Free Library Players production directed by Carole Power, will be staged twice in Newton at Meadowbrook Jr. High on Friday, September 11 at 7:30 p.m. and at a special showing on Saturday morning, September 12, at 11 a.m. for all Newton boys and girls who have completed the Newton Free Library summer reading program, "Summer Reading is Out of This World." Both performances are free.

Lisette Marcotte of Newton will make a personal appearance as Winnie, with the entire cast in costume and makeup, at the New England Book Festival on Saturday afternoon, September 12, the finale in the Players' summer production schedule.

Young Newton actors also in the A.A. Milne play are Nancy Rose, Lillian Spatz, Nicole Marcotte, Ann Pasbrig, Karen Bronk, Amy Tighe, Stephen Bronk, Sandra Silver, Peter Bronk, Irene Lombard, Monique Marcotte, and Cheryl Goldberg.

The crew is led by Bill Thomas as assistant director with Nancy Wolfe, stage manager; production coordinator Judy Banks; costumes, Stephanie Lent; properties, Irene Lombard; makeup, Carole Power; technical crew, Dick Power and Hal Bronk; Jim Laning, lighting; and backstage assistance by the Players.

The Library Players, jointly sponsored by the Newton Recreation Commission and the Newton Free Library, are an open-end group of Newton teenagers now in their second year of theatre productions.

Other plays produced by the group under the leadership of directors Carole and Dick Power have been "The Mouse That Roared," "Pride and Prejudice," "Tom Jones," and "Up The Down Staircase." "Winnie The Pooh" was performed earlier this summer by the group on August 12 for an audience of 500 boys and girls as part of Abundant Playground summer recreation activity.

The Players welcome newcomers for their fall productions, which will be original works by members. The fall schedule, starting September 15, is Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7 p.m., Newtonville Library Hall. Membership is free and open to all Newton teenagers.

Mrs. Rose Is Staff Writer For PR Dept.

Harriet Rose of 22 Bonad Rd., West Newton has been named a staff writer in the public relations department of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

The announcement was made by W. Edward Boughton, vice president, advertising-public relations. In her new position, Mrs. Rose will be responsible for the preparation of press releases and other media contact.

Prior to joining John Hancock, Mrs. Rose was affiliated with Epley Associates of Charlotte, N.C. where she handled the public relations duties for several political campaigns. She has also been affiliated with Emerson College as News Director.

Mrs. Rose is a graduate of Boston University and a member of Tau Mu Epsilon, an honorary public relations fraternity.

Temple Reyim to Have Homecoming Party Sept. 13

The courtyard of Temple Reyim, 1860 Washington St., Newton, will be the scene for a gala homecoming cocktail party for all members of the Temple on Sunday, September 13, between 7:00 P.M. and 9:30 P.M.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served compliments of the Membership Committee of the Temple. All members are welcome and any prospective new members are invited to attend.

For those who wish to affiliate with a young, active Conservative congregation, the cocktail party will provide an informal opportunity to become acquainted with the facilities of the Temple and the Temple family.

To make reservations, please call the Executive Director, Mrs. Sylvia Pressman, at 527-2410 or 527-9585. In the evening, contact Marvin Milton at 527-2313 or Sid Fruman at 332-5246.

Two Participate In Cornell U. Money Raising

Two Newton men are among those who have organized unusually successful fund raising campaign for Cornell University this year. They are David J. Palmer of 119 Wood End Rd., in Newton Highlands, who is associated with the Boston Law firm of Spencer and Stone, and George D. Rautenburt of 70 Neshobe Rd., in Waban, who is associated with the Plymouth Rubber Company in Canton.

According to recently released figures, Cornell is one of the few major American universities not showing a decrease in alumni giving this year. The fund includes only unrestricted, individual alumni gifts for the operation of the University and does not include gifts for buildings or other restricted purposes.

In all the Cornell Fund raised $4,995,164 an increase of nearly $1.5 million over the previous record-breaking total in 1968-69. The increase came about through gifts of $1,005,164 from nearly 28,000 alumni, up approximately 2000 from last year and from a $1 million "challenge grant" from an anonymous donor.

Four Residents Participate in Summerthing

Participating in the Summerthing Festival Orchestra this summer are four students from Newton. The 60-piece orchestra has given two-hour free concerts during August at the historic Charles Street Meeting House on Beacon Hill, in the Fenway in the Back Bay and at Columbus Park in South Boston. Conducted by Louis Fantasia, music director of the Georgetown Symphony Orchestra, the group was organized especially for the 1970 season of Boston's Neighborhood Festival.

Local orchestra members are Suzanne Perles of 37 Everett St., Newton Centre; Thomas Morris of 99 Kirkstall road, Newtonville and Betsy and Ann Drinan of 8 Lakewood road, Newton Highlands.

Newton Democrats Back Housing Here

The Newton Democratic City Committee has reaffirmed its support of the immediate building of family housing in that city by both the Newton Community Development Foundation and the Newton Housing Authority.

Gordon A. Martin, Jr., vice-chairman of the City Committee and chairman of its housing committee, stated that the committee regards as critical the recent Monday night vote before the Newton Board of Aldermen on the NCDF proposal to erect 566 middle-income units at ten scattered sites.

Martin noted that a portion of these apartments would accommodate low-income families under either leased housing or rent supplement programs.

The Newton Democrats also requested the Newton Housing Authority to move for the first time to build apartments for families.

The City Committee's action was taken following a meeting at which two candidates for the party's gubernatorial nomination, Senate President Maurice Donahue and former Presidential assistant Kenneth P. O'Donnell spoke.

The full text of the Democrats' statement follows: "The Newton Democratic City Committee affirms its support for the goal of adequate housing within the financial reach of all. This is not yet a reality in Newton.

"We believe in diversity; we do not want to see our city become a place where only the wealthy and middle-aged can live.

"Therefore we support efforts to bring attractive moderate-income housing to Newton, specifically the proposals of the Newton Community Development Foundation now under consideration.

"We believe that these 506 units would fill a need without overburdening the resources of the city; and as we have for many years been proud to see our school system a national model, we should also take pride in setting an example for other suburbs throughout the country with this innovative plan.

"Nearly two years ago the Newton Planning Department issued a detailed report setting forth the need for low-income housing and analyzing prospective sites.

This excellent report has, however, not been implemented. We support the concept of dispersing such housing as widely as possible to avoid the stigma, unwarranted though it be, of the "housing project," and therefore we urge the Newton Housing Authority to continue and intensify its efforts to find apartments which can be leased through a federally funded program and rented to low-income families.

"There are today 42 families in such leased units, but approximately that number on the waiting list. More such units are needed, both in existing buildings and in new construction, including that proposed by NCDF.

"We commend the Board of Aldermen for its policy, which we have supported, of requiring private developers to commit a percentage of proposed apartment units for this use.

"However, because of the limited number of apartment units in Newton, and because of cutbacks by the Nixon Administration in funds for this program, the leased housing concept cannot by itself solve the low-income housing shortage even in Newton.

"The Housing Authority is no longer restricted to construction for the elderly, a function which it has been capable of carrying out. The Authority is empowered to build units for low-income families, and it should undertake this work at once.

The Authority's pending plans to build groups of 20 attractive and spacious town houses on small sites of two acres or less seem designed to avoid the usual flaws of massive public housing.

However, in accepting without study the only two sites suggested to it the Housing Authority has failed to give adequate consideration to the site problem, since the site at the Myrtle Baptist Church was known at the time to have well-founded opposition within that community. We urge the Authority to look further for suitable sites, bearing in mind that it need not restrict itself to land the city wants to dispose of.

"At the same time we agree with the Housing Authority that federal subsidies are inadequate to offset the high rents in the Northeast and join with the Authority in asking our representatives in Congress to work for higher subsidies for public housing, as well as for somewhat higher limits on tenant income, to protect those people who now fall between the guidelines for low and moderate income housing.

We commend the General Court for its passage of portions of House Bill 5700, which will expand and strengthen the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency and provide increased subsidies for housing authorities in the state.

Out late representative Jim Shea worked on the subcommittee which developed this far-reaching legislation.

Finally we urge the Board of Aldermen to support the NCDF proposal which will be before it Monday evening. The Democratic City Committee has supported this plan from its inception. We reaffirm that total commitment and our belief that this well-conceived proposal will benefit the city and all its people.

Wilmington Cir., West Newton, told police at 10:30 a.m. that jewelry and silverware of undetermined value had been taken between Friday night and Sunday.

Edward White of 22 Chandler St., Newton Corner, called police at 9:23 p.m. to report a stolen television set plus $18 cash and some credit cards. Police said that an open front door served as an entry for the thieves.

Thieves stole four to five hundred cartons of cigarettes from a Chestnut Hill supermarket Sunday morning, according to a police report.

Thieves got Cigarettes, TV, Cash, Jewelry

Thieves stole four to five hundred cartons of cigarettes from a Chestnut Hill supermarket Sunday morning, according to a police report.

Edward White, manager of Stop and Shop at 200 Boylston St., called police at 6:47 a.m. and said the break occurred after 10:45 p.m. Saturday.

An investigation revealed that entrance was gained by removing a piece of glass 2 1/2 feet by 2 1/2 feet on the florist shop on the east side of the building.

On Saturday, a portable television and stereo equipment, plus jewelry, were reported stolen from an Oak Hill home.

The incident was reported at 6:47 p.m. by Samuel M. Blacker, 169 Spiers Rd. Entrance was gained through an unlocked garage door.

Mrs. Pauline V. Coletti of 30 Walsh Rd., Newton Centre, reported at 9:41 p.m. that her home had been entered and that a light brown pocketbook containing personal papers and cash was missing.

Police believe that an unlocked rear door was the avenue of entry.

Two more housebreaks were reported to police on Sunday. Justin L. Altschuler of 12

Mrs. Fisher Is President Of Brandeis Women

Mrs. Jack Fisher of Newton Centre has been elected president of the Greater Boston Chapter Brandeis University Women's Committee.

Mrs. Fisher, whose son is a Brandeis University graduate, has served the Women's Committee in many capacities including area vice president for Newton and administrative vice-president.

She also is a past-president of the Sisterhood of Temple Shalom of Newton.

More Democrats May Cast Ballots 15,000 Seen As Voting Total Here On Tuesday

An estimated 15,000 voters will go to the polls in Newton next Tuesday to help settle a number of hard-fought battles for Democratic nominations for high public offices and an interesting contest for the Republican endorsement for U.S. Senator.

A much bigger turnout of Democrats than Republicans is expected since most of the lively fights are in the Democratic primary.

Polling places will be open from 7 o'clock in the morning until 8 at night. Everyone in line at 8 p.m. will be allowed to vote.

Automatic voting machines, which were used in last November's city election, will be utilized again next Tuesday.

Heaviest voting is expected between 5 and 8 p.m. Persons who can vote prior to 5 p.m. were requested to do so by executive Secretary Alan W. Licaries of the election department.

Mayor Vetoes Stanton Ave. Housing Site

Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas "reluctantly vetoed" the Board of Aldermen's rezoning of land on Stanton Ave. for construction of low and moderate income housing.

A letter from Mayor Basbas was read to the aldermen in which the Mayor said that since the Stanton Ave. property was part of Newton Community Development's package of low and moderate

Plan Special Election For Alderman Post

A special election will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 8, to fill the vacancy in the Board of Aldermen created by the resignation of Franklin N. Flaschner. Flaschner, who was one of the two Aldermen at large from Ward 5, is now Judge of the Newton District Court.

ment in order to lessen the congestion during the last three hours before the polls are closed.

A four-cornered fight for the Democratic nomination for Governor heads the list of primary contests. Candidates are Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue, former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti and former White House Aide Kenneth P. O'Donnell.

Mayor White and Senate President Donahue are considered by political experts to be engaged in a hard fight to capture Newton. Each has extensive support in the city, and each expressed confidence last night that he would top the list of gubernatorial contenders when the Garden City vote is tabulated next Tuesday night.

One of the contests expected to draw the Democratic voters to the polls in the Newtons next Tuesday is the nine-candidate fight for the State Senate in the new senatorial district which includes all of Newton and the town of Watertown.

Rated as the top contenders are Representative Irving Fishman, ex-Representative Joseph G. Bradley and Attorney Terry P. Segal, son of a well known labor lawyer, former Assistant U.S. District Attorney and former legislative aide to Congressman Thomas P. O'Neill of Cambridge.

Next Tuesday Important Day In State's Political History

Next Tuesday will be an important day in the history of Massachusetts politics. It will be a day of grief and glory, a day of jubilation for some candidates and disappointment and despair for others.

Democratic and Republican nominations will be won and lost as the Bay State voters settle the primary fights, some of which have been waged since last spring.

In some cases the primary victories will be tantamount to election. In others they will merely allow the winners to go on to battle again in the November election.

Drug Seminar Continues At N-W Hospital

"Bridging the Communications Gap" is title of the second session of a drug seminar consisting of 10 weekly sessions to be held next Thursday (Sept. 17) at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital in the Tunnel Classroom according to William S. Brines, Administrative Vice President.

Meeting on successive Thursdays through November 19 from 1-4 p.m., the seminar has been developed to enhance community understanding and effective communication among drug users, nurses, probation officers, social workers, clergy and teachers.

The purpose is to give participants the facts about drugs and the drug subculture while discussing methods of breaking down barriers in the communication process.

Sponsor of the seminar is the Department of Nursing at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, a 260-bed teaching hospital. Mrs. Eileen Crosby, Clinical Specialist in Psychiatric Nursing is the seminar's consultant. Mr. Robert B. Pillsbury, instructor in social science, is coordinator of the program.

Fee for the complete series is $75, payable to Newton-Wellesley Hospital. Inquiries should be made by calling 244-2800, extension 286.

The seminar is presented by Newton-Wellesley Hospital in its continuing effort to assist the community in solving health care problems.

Church School To Open For Methodists

The First United Methodist Church in Newton Upper Falls announces its church school to begin this Sunday, September 13, with registration and classes starting at 9:30 a.m.

The Reverend David S. Hill, who took over as pastor in June, reports that Mrs. Virginia Dolph will be the church school superintendent, and that classes will be held for young people in grades kindergarten to high school.

Topic for the sermon in the regular 10:45 worship service will be "Let's Celebrate." Child care will be provided during the service.

Authority has run out of apartments available for lease under this program.

Alderman David Jackson stated that all the planning documents of the city seem to favor Victory Field as a site for housing but are adverse with regard to the land abutting Myrtle Baptist Church.

If the land next to the church were granted for housing it would compound the deficit of recreational land in that area, Jackson said.

Alderman Louis I. Egelson, who cast the dissenting vote in the Finance Committee, said he opposed the land purchase not because there isn't a need, not because of the lack of tax revenue or because he questioned the ability of the Housing Authority or the location or the limitations of low income housing, but he said he felt it was wrong from a sociological standpoint to put low income people except for the elderly in an isolated project.

Egelson said these projects should not be approved as a "salve to the conscience" after the board's failure to act on the Newton Community Development foundation's housing proposals.

Alderman Peter Harrington said the Myrtle Baptist property is a "lousy place to put housing." "In this day when we are trying to integrate, it is nonsense to put low income housing in a predominantly black neighborhood." He also opposed the Victory Field site because of the heavy traffic in the neighborhood.

Uehlein responded saying that since the Housing Authority's waiting list contained the names of only a couple of black families it was logical to assume that white people would occupy many of the apartments on the West Newton site. "And what's wrong with that if you're talking about integration?" Uehlein asked.

Land Use Committee Chairman Alan Barkin noted bitterly "From my experience on this board in recent months it appears the chances are we never will in the near future have any low or moderate income housing. We will have only high rentals because we love that type of stuff and that type of people."

Barkin pointed out that the issue before the aldermen was merely the purchase of the land. "Even if we do vote it we are merely inching along. We're going to have plenty of time to turn it down." He referred to the fact that even after the land was purchased the Housing Authority would have to come back to the board for rezoning, site plan approval and would have to get federal funding before any construction could occur.

Alderman William Wolf opposed the motion to send the purchase proposals back to committee. "I'm afraid it's an effort to shelve it. I'm afraid we are being treated to the spectacle again of 'we want low income housing but not here'."

Alderman Harry Crosby said he favored the scatterization concept of NCDF's proposal but felt the Housing Authority offer "seemed to be trying to shove something down one side of the town. Other areas in the city should also share the responsibility."

Alderman Matthew Jefferson called the plan "only tokenism." He feared that the pilot program would become the only program.

Alderman William Carmen noted that there were no members of the Newton Housing Authority present to hear the discussion. "These two sites were accidental, in my opinion and did not involve planning on the part of the Authority," Carmen said.

There are records of a piranha fish reducing a 100-pound animal to a skeleton in less than a minute, says the Miami Aquarium.

Newton Man Hit While Sitting On Park Bench

A West Newton man is recovering in Newton Wellesley Hospital from a leg broken when he was allegedly hit by an Auburndale motorcycle while sitting on a park bench.

Leo Wyman, 74, of 22 Greenough St., was sitting on a bench off Commonwealth Ave., near the intersection of Auburn St. in Auburndale when the accident occurred at about 2:45 p.m. Saturday.

Edward R. Stoler, 31, of 44 Bourne St., Auburndale, told Newton Police that he was making a right turn from Auburn St. onto Commonwealth Ave. when he lost control of his side-car motorbike.

Earlier in the week the Hospital reported Mr. Wyman in good condition.

The Man Is Vahe Sarafian

EDITORIAL, MARLBORO CITY-POST, SEPTEMBER 3

There is a Republican candidate for Congress from the Third District who believes that there is no such thing as "American Republicanism in Massachusetts," who states that it is "high time the party rejoined the USA politically... we have isolated ourselves long enough. He is strong in his endorsement of the President's foreign policy, and particularly his decision to send US troops into Cambodia. He favors the limitation of government with maximum opportunity being given to the people to help themselves. He favors curtailment of public spending until the inflation is brought under control. He urges tax write-offs for industry so that modernization of machinery and methods may be accelerated to lower production costs and prices. He favors pollution control, but would not make industry the "whipping boy," since providing jobs has a most important place in the maintenance of the equilibrium of our economy. He harkens to the constant over-riding of the Presidents vetoes by a profligate Congress more intent on trying to please everyone, rather than facing up to the hard facts of economic reality, and says that the President should have a Congress comprised of members who will support his attempt to bring inflation under control. He decries the lack of response expressed by a recalcitrant Congress which deliberately undermines and fails to act on proposals suggested by the President. His name is Vahe Sarafian.

As a professor of history, he recognizes the danger of communism and the need to prevent its further encroachment upon the free world. He has studied the rise of the tyrannies of the past, and recognizes that they have only grown and flourished in the face of timidity, cowardice, and ignorance of their very nature. They have only been brought to destruction by forces greater than they themselves could muster. Sarafian has taken a hard line on the advance of communism, and supports the President's policy of following the tyranny called communism to extend its terror and suppression no further.

The President should be backed down the line on foreign policy, since it is in this area that America's and the free world's chance to win the deadly game with communism could well be lost. He has demonstrated he has the grasp, understanding, and courage to deal most effectively with a foe and an ideal which understands only strength. This necessary support may be bi-partisan, but it must essentially come from the Republican party. It is essential, therefore, that the people elect representatives who will give him the necessary backing when the chips are down. That man in our district is Vahe Sarafian.

Man of Greatness

From his early days as a slender, dynamically energetic curate, to his period as a Prince of the Church, known far beyond the confines of his own Archdiocese, Richard Cushing has served his fellow man, with a devotion and understanding that has never weakened.

To the poor and afflicted his hand was ever open. Because he recognized the true dignity of all men, he held the close esteem of those of other faiths.

As he leaves his trying post for a long deserved surcease from every-day labors, he may well look back on the long trail he has blazed. It is peopled with the humble and the great. Its monuments are many.

During much of the latter part of his service to his fellows, he has known too often the frailties of a body often punished by illnesses which would have prostrated the less strong-hearted, the less indomitable.

For living generations privileged to see him and to listen to his words, Richard Cardinal Cushing will always rank high among the top leaders of his time.

Vote on Tuesday

About half the eligible men and women across Massachusetts will not take the time and trouble to go to their polling places to vote in next Tuesday's primary.

In most nations of the world that would be a national disgrace. In the United States it is taken for granted that a large percentage of the people will shirk their duties and responsibilities as good citizens on election and primary day.

Many of those who will not bother to go to the polls next Tuesday would fight to the death to protect their right of self-government if another country were to try to take it away from them.

Yet, they don't exercise that right when they have it. It's a difficult thing to understand.

In many instances the nominations which are won next Tuesday night will be tantamount to election.

In the other cases where that is not true you will only be able to choose in the November election between those candidates who are nominated on Tuesday next.

It is your duty as a good citizen to vote next Tuesday. Please don't leave that duty for someone else to perform.

It seems to be a principle of politics that the quality of government we get rises in relation to the percentage of voters who go to the polls. We need the best government we can get. Please vote next Tuesday.

Needs Investigating

"Ball Four" by former major league pitcher Jim Bouton is not a book we would recommend. As an author, Bouton combines the poorer qualities of a Peeping Tom and an eavesdropper upon personal and private conversation.

But one statement by Bouton should be investigated by President Joe Cronin of the American Baseball League.

Bouton says that word went out that one American League umpire was irritated with George Scott of the Red Sox and that a pitcher need not throw the ball over the plate to get a strike while Scott was at bat and that umpire was behind the plate.

Bouton asserts that when this situation developed while he was on the mound he threw his first two pitches to Scott outside the strike zone and that both were called strikes.

His third pitch, he declares, was in the dirt. Scott swung at it and was called out. He adds that Scott never had a chance.

This statement or allegation or claim, whatever you may wish to call it, strikes at the basic integrity of major league baseball.

If a major league umpire can do what Bouton says one umpire did—and he names the umpire—then major league baseball does not have the integrity we have been led to believe it possesses.

Bouton pitched in the American League after his book was published, and there is no evidence he ever retracted anything in it.

An umpire has normal feelings and emotions, but when he allows those feelings and emotions to influence him to make dishonest decisions, he no longer belongs in major league baseball. American League President Cronin should at least ascertain whether Bouton's statement was accurate.

Yet, despite the fights being waged for party nominations for Governor, U.S. Senator, Lieutenant Governor, Congress and other offices, the turnout of voters on Tuesday next is expected to be smaller than for any primary in recent years.

The reason is that there is not enough time between Labor Day and Primary Day to wipe out the voter apathy and lethargy and to arouse and excite the public interest.

Polls which have been made to ascertain trends in major primary contests may provide the information for misleading conclusions in some fights since

LETTER

Thanks Fire Dept.

Editor of The Graphic:

I would like to thank the men of the Newton Fire Department who controlled the fire at 268 Grove Street, Auburndale on August 28.

My apartment is directly across from the one which caught on fire. The firemen entered my apartment and opened the windows to diminish the smoke while I was at work. They also allowed my mother to enter the apartment to insure my cat's safety.

The efficiency and skill in handling the fire, which I heard about later in the day, is commendable, but the humane performance of your men toward my comfort is truly admirable.

My thanks to all of them.

Sincerely,
Jeanne L. Kimball

sworn in as Judge of the Newton District Court on Feb. 13 of this year. He succeeded the late Judge Julian Yesley.

Flaschner was a Newton Alderman for 12 years. He was first elected in 1957 and in recent years had acted as vice-president of the Board of Alderman.

He is 49 years old, a graduate of Boston Latin School, Yale College, the Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration and Yale Law School. At Yale he was managing editor of the Yale Law Review.

Flaschner served in the United States Navy from 1944 to 1946 and was discharged with the rank of Lieutenant Junior Grade.

they usually are based on the assumption that 100 per cent of the voters will go to the polls for the primary.

Even where the pollster starts out by asking a voter whether he intends to go to his polling place on Tuesday, the intention now to fulfill the civic duty of voting may crumble Tuesday night under the temptation of remaining at the television set with a beer after dinner or not taking the time to stop to vote on the way home from work.

The politically-minded, the public employees, the civic-minded, those conscious of the responsibilities in our system of self-government will go to their polling places to cast their votes on Tuesday.

But a great many other persons won't. And they'll be the ones who will grumble most loudly when they don't like something done by one of the candidates nominated next Tuesday.

Against a background of uncertainty as to who will vote in the primary and who will not, here's our forecast as to the decisions which will be recorded when the returns are tabulated on Tuesday night.

In some instances these predictions are based on polls and surveys made as carefully as possible but yet unable to foretell who among those questioned will not bother to vote when Primary Day comes. In other cases they stem from observations and spot checks, studies and political analysis. Here we go!

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White appears to be holding a small lead over State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue as they come down to the final rounds in their fight for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Former Lieutenant Governor Francis X. Bellotti seems to be running third and former Presidential Aide Kenneth P. O'Donnell fourth.

The struggle between White and Donahue shapes up as a close one. Donahue conceivably could come from behind and capture the biggest political prize at stake in Tuesday's primary. But as this is written, White must be rated as a slight favorite.

On the Republican side Josiah Spaulding looms as a likely winner over John J. McCarthy in their battle for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator and the right to stand against Senator Edward M. Kennedy in the November election.

Spaulding and McCarthy, whose clash has been marked by bitter exchanges, are confronted with the mutual problem of getting out the Republican voters. In some sections their contest is the only one of the GOP ballot.

A small turnout will improve McCarthy's chances, and that is Spaulding's big problem.

The liberal Republicans outnumber the conservatives in Massachusetts, but the conservatives are more likely to vote in a situation such as this one.

If a big percentage of the conservatives turn out to vote and a large portion of the liberal Republicans stay at home, McCarthy could produce an upset next Tuesday night.

Congressman Philip J. Philbin is considered a favorite to beat back the challenge of Father Robert F. Drinan, former dean of the Boston College Law School.

Representative Charles Ohanian of Watertown, a substantial candidate but overshadowed by the other two, is seen running third in the race.

This has been an unusual contest. Congressman Philbin is a moderate Democrat with an excellent record of public service. He has supported administration politics in Vietnam to a greater extent than some of his constituents would wish. They advocate an immediate withdrawal from Vietnam by our forces.

Father Drinan's entrance into a political campaign in the sprawling third congressional district drew a mixed public reaction. Some persons applauded the action of a Catholic priest in seeking a high elective office. Others felt strongly that Catholic priests should not become involved as participants and candidates in election fights.

The sharpest criticism directed at Father Drinan for putting aside his role as a priest to become a politician has come from Catholics and fellow priests.

Father Drinan is a peace candidate and a liberal. He is able and articulate. He is convincing when you sit and talk with him. But the cold political evidence is that the probably will be defeated next Tuesday.

The clergyman has been endorsed by former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg and former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark. He received a pat on the back from New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay.

But they don't vote in the third Massachusetts congressional district, and the Democratic figures who do vote in that district are mostly supporting Philbin.

Philbin is known as a bread and butter liberal on domestic matters. He stresses that he wants peace in Vietnam just as much as the most ardent peace advocates but that there is a question of how it can best be accomplished.

The indications are that he will achieve Democratic renomination on Tuesday.

No polls are necessary for this writer to feel an overwhelming sense of regret that House Speaker John W. McCormack will soon leave the political scene.

This is the first even-numbered year since we began writing politics that John McCormack is not a candidate for renomination and reelection. We were a college freshman when he first went to Washington's Capitol Hill.

It is difficult to visualize what it will be like in Washington without John McCormack. He did so much to advance the common good and promote the public interest in Massachusetts simply by picking up the telephone and calling the right person. But an era is sadly coming to a close.

Tests of sentiment taken by this writer indicate that City Councilwoman Louise Day Hicks will win the Democratic nomination for the seat in Congress from which John McCormack will retire.

State Senator John Joseph Moakley of South Boston and David S. Nelson of Roxbury, black chairman of the Boston City Hospital trustees, are splitting the vote in such a manner that it is difficult to see how either can defeat Mrs. Hicks.

In a two-candidate head-to-head contest Moakley probably would have a good chance. But the votes are being split three ways in this fight. That militates to the advantage of Mrs. Hicks and the disadvantage of Moakley. Former Congressman Laurence Curtis will meet the Democratic winner in November.

An interesting fight is being waged between Boston School Committeeman John J. Craven and Representative Michael S. Dukakis for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

There are three other candidates in the field, but the battle almost certainly will be between Craven and Dukakis when the votes are counted Tuesday night.

Craven, in hard-hitting campaign speeches, has linked Dukakis with abortion advocate Bill Baird. He has produced evidence to show that Dukakis filed bills in Massachusetts Legislature for Baird.

One bill Dukakis filed for Baird, according to Craven, would legalize homosexuality, and a second would legalize sodomy. Craven cites official records to show that Representative Dukakis, after filing those two bills, voted against legalizing beano.

Craven, a former Assistant Attorney General and Governor's Councillor, voices agreement with the assertion of AFL-CIO President George Meany that extremists on the New Left will destroy the Democratic party if they are not curbed. Dukakis is regarded as an ultra-liberal.

Other candidates in the contest, in addition to Craven and Dukakis, are Rocco J. Antonelli of Somerville, Kathleen T. Ryan Dacey of Milton and James S. McCormack of Arlington.

Don Dwight Walks Streets Making A Pitch For Sarge

Donald R. Dwight of South Hadley is the first candidate for Lieutenant Governor in Massachusetts history to campaign by asking support for somebody else.

He walks the streets, introduces himself and asks the people he meets to vote for Governor Francis W. Sargent with whom he will be running in tandem in the November election.

"Hello, I'm Don Dwight. I'm running for Lieutenant Governor with Governor Sargent," he was telling a woman he had buttonholed on a Dedham street.

The woman at first looked puzzled but smiled when he mentioned Mr. Sargent's name. It was a low-key pitch, and it seemed to be an easy political sell.

Dwight, a far cry from the bombastic type of politician, estimated later that about one person in every three he meets knows who he is.

"I get a great reception," Dwight declared. "The people really like Frank Sargent."

An Ivy Leaguer who reminds this writer of the late John F. Kennedy, Dwight considers that his function as a candidate is to campaign for Governor Sargent but also show himself enough and demonstrate

—POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS — See Page 48 —

We think Ken O'Donnell should be our next governor.

We think so because he was one of the first men in the country to speak out against the war in Vietnam, and to call for the withdrawal of American troops.

We think so because he's the only candidate to bypass a party convention because it failed to reflect the will of the people.

We think so because he's the only candidate who has never held political office, so he owes an obligation to no one but you.

We think so because he's the only candidate who has had experience in government beyond the State level. (He spent five years with the Senate and served as special assistant to two United States Presidents.)

We think so because he's the only candidate with the courage to call for a Constitutional Convention to deal with the problems that face us, like taxes, crime, pollution, unemployment, housing, education, transportation, drug abuse.

We think all this with all sincerity: Ken O'Donnell will make a great governor.

Think about it.

Citizens of Newton

We are proud to endorse the candidacy of Representative John McGlennon, of Concord, for the Third District Congressional seat presently occupied by Philip Philbin.

As Newton Aldermen, we share your concern over our country's mounting social, economic and environmental problems. The present incumbent has not demonstrated either his concern or his ability to deal with these complex problems.

John McGlennon, as a State Representative, has been a leader in designing legislation which anticipates and responds to the needs of the future. We are certain that he will demonstrate in Congress an understanding of Newton's "big city suburb" problems, which seems to be lacking in the present Congressman from this District.

Representative McGlennon's qualifications in the broader areas of state and national government are attested to by the Republican leaders, whose endorsements appear on the reverse of this letter.

John McGlennon is a dynamic, progressive Republican who will furnish constructive leadership in the seventies. The vote in Newton will be the deciding factor in this contest. We hope you will join us in supporting John McGlennon, by signing and returning the enclosed volunteer and endorsement card.

The following Republican leaders are among those who support the candidacy of John McGlennon for Congress:

Senator Leverett Saltonstall:

"Massachusetts and the country need sound, thoughtful, imaginative, and conscientious men in the Congress. I know when you win the election you will give that type of service."

Senator Edward Brooke:

"In November the voters of the 3rd District are going to astound the Commonwealth and the country by electing a new, young, dynamic, and imaginative Congressman. In the interim, I will join Governor Sargent and the many other Republicans who will be campaigning at your side in helping you to bring your message to Democrats and Independents as well as the Republicans of the District. I proudly salute you on your past achievements and I pledge my enthusiastic and whole-hearted support from now until the closing of the polls on November 3rd."

Governor Francis Sargent:

"It's time to give John McGlennon a chance to bring a new kind of bold and forceful representation to the people of this district and the nation. Let's elect him Congressman in November."

Rogers C. B. Morton, Chairman, Republican National Committee

"The nation needs individuals of your background and qualifications in the Congress of the United States in this crucial period of the nation's history. Rest assured all national Republican leaders shall endeavor to be as helpful as possible to you during the campaign and we will look forward to greeting you next January as a new member of the House of Representatives."

Lasell College To Open With New President

Auburndale's Lasell Junior College begins a new year on Thursday of next week (Sept. 19) with a new president, Dr. Kenneth M. Green, formerly chairman of the Department of Education at Simmons College.

This year will see the 120th class of entering Lasell freshmen. More than 500 new students are expected from all parts of the United States and 12 foreign nations who, together with nearly 400 returning students, constitute another capacity student body.

Formal classes begin Monday, September 21. Prior to that time, new students will be given orientation courses, tours of the campus and a chance to get acquainted with returning students who are due back Saturday, September 19.

Panel discussions for the benefit of parents of freshmen are scheduled opening day, as well as a

Your Congressman PHILIP J. PHILBIN

A Vigorous, Effective Voice For Our Region

The Third District deserves more than an inexperienced Congressman to meet the challenge of these troubled times. Endorse proven ability, integrity and distinguished service by voting for Congressman Philbin. On his record, he has earned your support!

Keep Philbin
In Washington
Working For You!

Congressman Philbin is the sponsor of the first Soil and Water Resources development bill in the Congress. This law has provided increased Federal help in providing protection, development and use of land in urban areas through local conservation commissions.

Congressman Philbin has been a consistent critic of unfair trade policies which are threatening American jobs. He is sponsoring legislation to restrict unlimited imports of shoes, textile, electronics and other products from cheap labor countries.

Congressman Philbin is the strongest voice in Washington for the continued funding of the Charles River Basin water resources development plan. This year, he was successful in his efforts to get $275,000 to complete the $660,000 Army Engineer study of the basin's water resources priorities.

Congressman Philbin is a pioneer in social security legislation and has worked for perfection of existing social security, medicare and medicaid programs. He is the sponsor of cost-of-living increase in Social Security benefits.

Congressman Philbin is working for the modernization of the Boston Naval Shipyard so that this vital facility will be retained in New England. In the 91st Congress, he was successful in getting transfer of the Boston Army Base to the Navy and $7.3 million to begin the modernization program.

Congressman Philbin, long a dedicated conservationist, sponsored the first bill in Congress, seeking the establishment of the Cape Cod National Seashore. He also successfully sponsored legislation to enlarge the Minute Man National Historical Park.

Great Books Season Opens Next Tuesday

The Great Books season at the Newton Free Library opens Tuesday evening, September 15, at the Newtonville Branch Library Hall with Irving Sanders, leader, and a discussion of Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard" and "The Three Sisters."

The group, which meets every other Tuesday at the Newtonville Branch, welcomes potential members at this opening meeting with companionship, coffee, and simple refreshments.

This year a seasoned group of Great Bookers who have been studying together for 10 years will amalgamate with a newer Newton Library group who have been reading together for about 4 years, thus forming one solid band of adult students.

Newtonites who have already enjoyed reading Great Books over the past 10 years and who are continuing are Mona Brown and Rita Barron of Newtonville; Helen Drinan, Mary McCarthy and Doris McMahon of Newton Highlands; Bea Hanke, Mimi Kramer, Jean Sudhalter and Faith Schlager of West Newton; Mr. A. Chatter and Nancy Myetta of Newton; and Diane Peters of Waban.

The eight paperbacks used in the Great Books meetings are available at the Reference Department of the Main Library. The Reference Department will also supply additional telephone information about Great Books to patrons who call Reference at 527-7700.

Sees lower pork prices
Pork prices, on the rise of late, will start a downward trend early next year.
So says Verle Houghaboom, an economist with the University of Vermont Extension Service. Costs have gone up because not enough hogs were being slaughtered but now hog producers are increasing their output.
Demand, coupled with greater supply, will mean a lowering of prices, the specialist said.

Five Arrested For Shoplifting At Chestnut Hill

Five young women, including one from Newton, were arrested for shoplifting at the Chestnut Hill Shopping Center last week.

All were charged with larceny in the Newton District Court. All cases were continued until Sept. 11.

The arrests were made by Mrs. Mildred Cooper, head of security at Filene's Department Store. She called Newton Police who in each instance took the women to the Newton station.

Mrs. Ronnie Ferestein, 31, of 175 Chestnut St., Newton Highlands, was released on $500 personal recognizance on a charge of larceny under $100 on August 31.

Carol A. Larson, 27, of Brighton, was arrested Tuesday, released on $50 personal recognizance, charged also with larceny under $100.

Linda Furey, 21, of Boston, and Linda, 19, and Joyce, 21, Ranson, both of Watertown, were all arrested Wednesday and charged with larceny over $100. They, too, were released on personal recognizance.

Newton Players Present Hit 'See How They Run'

A call for open tryouts for their initial stage production of the season, "See How They Run," was sounded today by The Country Players of Newton. Director of the farce, a smash London hit, is Daniel Kosow of Chestnut Hill.

Auditions for the mystery-comedy, authored by Philip King, will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 15 and 16, from 8 to 10 p.m., at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton.

Cast of the Players' curtain-opener features six male and three female characters. Local residents interested in any phase of the production are most cordially invited to attend.

Performance dates are slated for consecutive Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 13-14 and Nov. 20-21, at the College Hall of Newton Junior College, on Washington Park (off Walnut Street). Blocks of tickets or the entire house with its seating capacity of approximately 200, are available at reduced rates to sponsor groups and theatre parties interested in fund-raising.

In reviewing "See How They Run," Theatre World reported, "An apt title for an excellent farce of the most involved variety. . . Nor is there any offense anywhere in this admirably written play which deserves a long run for its rollicking good humor."

Galloping in and out of the four doors of an English Vicarage are an American actor and actress (he is stationed with the Air Force in England), a cockney maid who has seen too many American movies, an old maid who touches alcohol for the first time in her life, four men in clergymen's suits presenting the problem of which is which, for disguised as one is an escaped prisoner, and another a sedate bishop aghast at all these goings-on and the trumped-up stories that are told him.

So swift in the action, so involved the situations, so rib-tickling the plot that at the finish London audiences were left exhausted from laughter, as though they themselves had run a footrace. Variety commented, "Breathless show; fast tempo, plenty of laughs!"

and the Denver critic reported, "It was a positive riot! In all my fifty years in the theatre I've never heard such laughter! The audience didn't just laugh, they screamed and howled."

Entering its 15th season, the Players is a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre actively on community and educational levels. President of the Players is Mrs. Marilyn Krassin of Newton Highlands.

For additional information concerning individual memberships or theatre party sponsorship, write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159 or phone 969-9737.

What's-his-name. For Whatcha-ma-call-it.

We try to keep up with all the candidates, and all the offices, but in the excitement of an election year, it's possible for people to slip unnoticed into some of the minor offices.

That's unfortunate. All government offices are important. Because they spend money. Our money.

The Office of Register of Deeds is a good example. Did you realize that the budget for this office (in Southern Middlesex) is in excess of one million dollars? And employs 144 people?

Keep that in mind. And before voting for a what's-his-name for Register of Deeds, consider John F. Cremens.

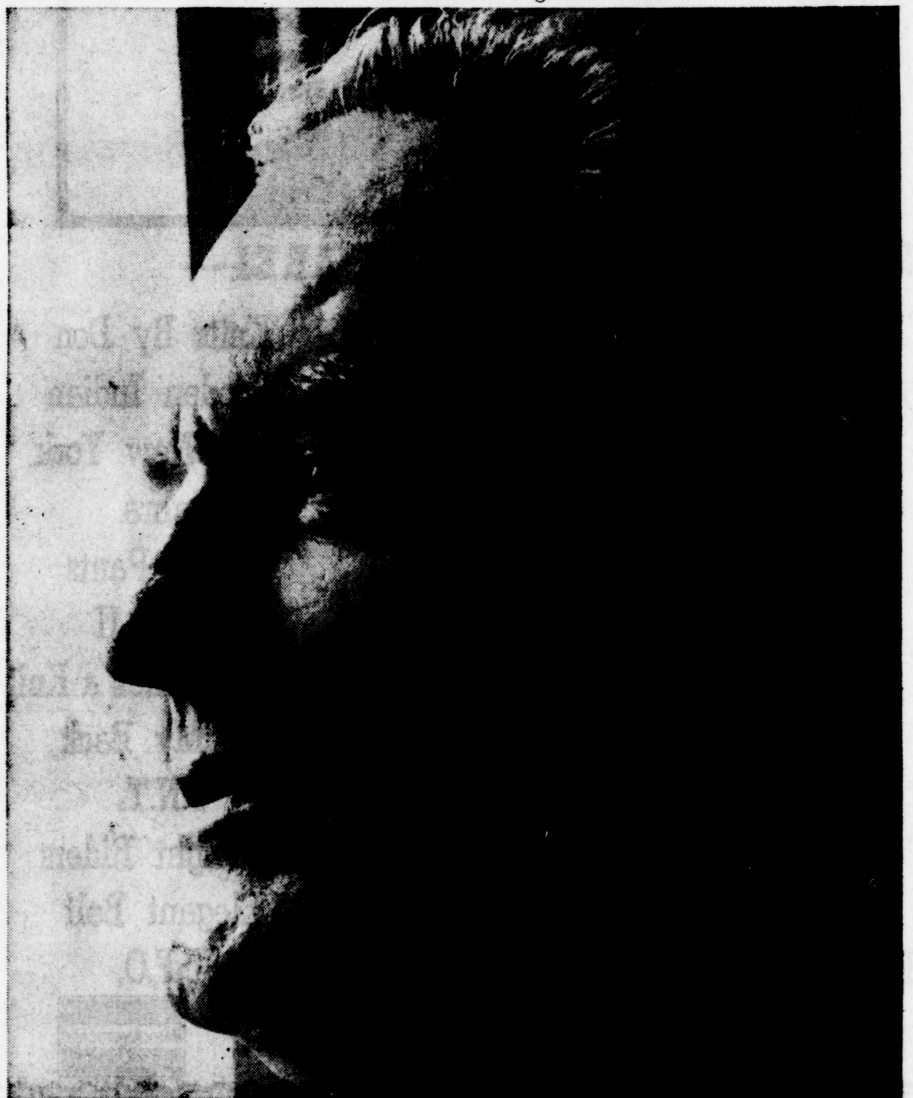

Here's a man with outstanding qualifications. As a state legislator, a school committeeman, a Cambridge attorney, and as a man who has given a lifetime of service to his country and his community. And still has had time to raise five children.

John Cremens has been there. And as an established public servant, he should have the support of all the people who demand good government.

The Democratic primaries on September 15 represent an opportunity for all of us to see that this job is done right.

John F. Cremens. Not a what's-his-name.

Two Rings Exchanged At Harlow - Krasner Wedding

Two rings were exchanged at the recent marriage of Miss Nancy Gail Krasner to Darragh Eugene Harlow Jr., which took place at Tony Parker's Restaurant in Middleboro.

Mr. and Mrs. George Krasner of 28 Dorothy road, Newton, and Mr. and Mrs. Darragh E. Harlow of Middleboro are the couple's parents.

Mr. Marshall Maranville performed the pretty summer wedding. A reception followed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown of white silk organza was appliqued with precious jeweled lace, entraine. Her empire bodice had a high neckline and long sleeves.

Similar lace outlines her full length mantilla and she carried a Spanish fan enhanced with lilac colored roses and stephanotis.

Miss Maureen McGrath of Brighton was maid of honor. She wore a gold embroidered purple and beige pant suit and her flowers were orchids.

Identically attired, the bridesmaids were two cousins of the bride, Mrs. Bruce Gordon of Glencoe, Ill., Miss Lana Krasner of Marlboro, Vt., Miss Elizabeth Wyman of West Roxbury and Mrs. Paul Letendre of Middleboro, sister of the groom.

The best man was Frank Mendes, cousin of the groom, Irving Krasner of Newton, brother of the bride, Bruce Gordon of Glencoe, Ill., cousin of the bride, Richard Allen and Paul Letendre, both of Middleboro, were ushers.

Puerto Rico was the honeymoon destination of the couple who will live in Columbia, South Carolina.

The bride was graduated from Newman Preparatory School and attended Boston University.

The groom is a graduate of Middleboro High School and the University of Bridgeport. He taught physical education in New York state and plans to study for his master's degree in physical education at the University of South Carolina. (Photo by Alan Lee).

Trip To Canada Followed

Brusie - McPartland Bridal

The marriage of Miss Maureen Elizabeth McPartland to Charles Elwood Brusie Jr., took place recently at the Sacred Heart Church, Newton.

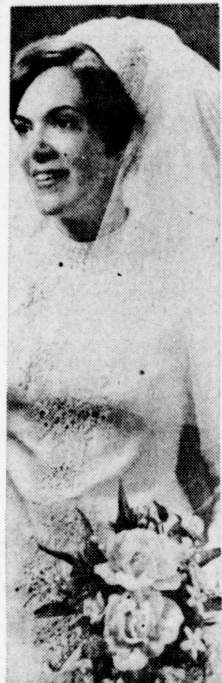

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McPartland of 1565 Centre street, Newton Highlands. Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brusie of Oregon City, Oregon, are the groom's parents.

The Rt. Rev. William Granville officiated at the 11 o'clock morning nuptials at which two rings were exchanged. A reception followed at the Longwood Towers in Brookline.

Given away by her father, the bride's A-line skirted gown of ivory silk organza was marked with Venice lace on her jewel neckline, long sleeves as well as the front of her gown.

A matching jeweled cap held in place her full length silk illusion veil. She carried traditional white flowers.

Mrs. Thomas E. Martin of Washington, D.C., was her cousin's matron of honor. The other attendants included Miss Ann M. Morrison of Newton, Mrs. Barbara A. Bodenstein of Salamanca, N.Y., Miss Fileen Brusie of Oregon City, Oregon, Miss Anne F. Rourke of Brighton and Miss Sheila M. O'Leary of Quincy.

MRS. CHARLES BRUSIE JR.

Leslie Brusie of Oregon City, Oregon, served as best man for his brother. Ushering were David S. Bodenstein of Alameda, N.Y., Kevin M. Noone of Dorchester, Richard A. Spillane Jr. of Dedham and Steven Campbell of Melrose.

Montreal, Canada, was the honeymoon destination of the couple who are now living in East Orleans.

The bride was graduated from Mount Alvernia Academy and Framingham State College. She taught school for one year in Wailawa, Hawaii.

Mr. Brusie, who attended the College of Idaho, served with the Navy in both Alaska and Hawaii. (Photo by Duette).

Newton Parish Sees New Religious Role

"The times they are a-changing." So sang Bob Dylan a few years before receiving his Ph.D. How much the times have changed is evident to all—how much they are yet to change only time will tell.

"Institutions," and "Establishments" all over the country are being affected by the currents of society. Hopefully the affect will produce results which assist people in understanding their world, and their relationship to it.

Rally At Newton Marriott

Immediate withdrawal from Vietnam, a clean environment, and equality for women are major concerns of Newton attorney Lois G. Pines, an Independent running for State Representative from wards 4, 5, 6 and 8. Mrs. Pines, chairman of the Newton Citizens for Clean Air and author of the school bus safety bill, is planning an organizational meeting at the Marriott Motor Hotel on Thursday, September 10, at 8 P.M.

"I am running as an Independent," Mrs. Pines states, "because I wish to be free to concern myself with the issues of our time which cut across political party lines. Since I will not have a party organization working for me, I must depend on you, the citizens of Newton."

Those interested in working with Lois G. Pines are welcome to attend the Thursday, September 10, meeting at the Marriott Motor Hotel, or may call Mrs. Pines at 969-5195.

Sacred Heart Parish in Newton Centre is trying to do just that—help the people who form the community that comes to Sacred Heart to understand their world, one another and their God. It isn't an easy role—but it is one the parish has accepted. Like Avis they're trying harder.

Over the summer months various steps have been taken to continue the process of providing an educational and relational community for the parish.

A new concept in High School Religious Education has been devised. This year high school students will elect several "mini-courses" from a selection which provided challenging and provocative topics.

Some of these topics include: "Come Let Us Play God" a discussion of medical ethics in a world of transplants and generic engineering; "Escapism - the Slow Suicide" what methods does modern man use to duck the sometimes painful reality of life; "Will the Real Jesus Christ Please Step Forward" a look at the Gospel in the light of what man has discovered about his world; "Current Moral Issues" a course designed to investigate the challenges of contemporary society to a man who chooses to call himself a Christian.

Registration for these and other courses will be Oct. 4, at 7:30 p.m. at Bishop McKenzie Center, Centre Street, Newton Centre.

Sacred Heart will also be the location for a Theology Course to be given by Dr. Thomas

Hub Hadassah Chapter Meets September 14th

Mrs. Walter Brecher, National Vice-President and Chairman of the National Education Department, will introduce this year's Education Program at the Opening Meeting of the Boston Chapter of Hadassah, September 14, 1970.

Dr. Isaac M. Fein, well-known historian and author, will keynote the afternoon program at Temple Kehillath Israel with a lecture on "The Land of Israel and the Jewish People." Dr. Fein, Professor Emeritus of History, Baltimore Hebrew College, is the author of "The Making of the American Jewish Community" which will be published early next year. The Salute to Education will commence with a continental breakfast at 9:30 a.m. hosted by the Education Department Chairman, announced Mrs. Rashi Fein, Boston Chapter Education Vice-President.

Immediately following breakfast, Mrs. Brecher will present and narrate Hadassah's new study guide "Palestine: The Years Between 395 and 1917." A petite lunch will be available at a nominal charge and the afternoon will begin at 1:30 p.m. Reservations for both breakfast and lunch must be made to the Hadassah Office, 568-3592.

Chairmen in the Boston Chapter Education Department are: Mmes. Philip Fein, American Affairs; Sten Lukin, Youth Activities; Leo Meiselman, Zionist Affairs; Saul Richman, Study Group Leaders; Mordecai Shore, Institute; Miss Anna David, Secretary and Mrs. Herbert L. Shulman, Librarian.

Wangler of Boston College. In his seven week course beginning Oct. 7, at 8 p.m. at the Bishop McKenzie Center, Dr. Wangler will discuss many topics of interest to the person with an interest in theology in 1970. This course is open to all interested participants.

In addition to programs such as these, the parish has recently hired a full time Religious Education Coordinator.

Miss Loretta Butcher came to Sacred Heart this summer after working a year with a catechetical publishing company in Boston. Her experience has also included teaching on various levels, and she has published extensively in the various educational and catechetical periodicals throughout the country.

From her office in Sacred Heart rectory, she is assisting the priests and parishioners in devising programs responsive to the individual needs of the parish.

Yes, the times are a' changing, and so is everything about us. Why not drop into Sacred Heart Parish and see what it has to offer to a youngster, teenager or adult living in this world of constant motion.

petition to ban all vehicles over five tons on Winchester St. between the intersections of Dedham and Nahatan Sts. and requests for "stop" signs at Bowdoin and Forest Sts. Newton Highlands and Lawmarissa Rd., Moffat Rd., and Carolyn Park in Waban.

The Commission denied the request for the lifting of the parking ban on Chapel St. and the requests for the installation of "stop" signs in four locations in the city due to the findings of the state DPW.

The DPW reported "no restricted cross-corner visibility" and "lack of accident data" to be behind its denial of "stop" signs at these locations: Waban St. at Pearl in Newton Corner; Avalon Rd. and Upland Rd. in Waban; Greenwood St. and Brandeis Rd. in Oak Hill; and Greenlawn Ave., Park Lane and Brentwood Ave. in Newton Centre.

U. M. Schiavone, city engineer, was acting chairman at the commission meeting which was also attended by Willard S. Pratt, director of public works, Police Capt. A. Charles Mascia, Police Sgt. William Vedeuco, Assistant Fire Chief Henry L. Murphy and John L. Simmons, city planner.

OHANIAN ... "SENSIBLE is the WORD for HIS PLATFORM"

"Ohanian is a hard man to classify politically. The usual adjectives, "liberal", "leftwing", or "Conservative", just doesn't seem to apply. Sensible is more the word for his platform."

THE NEW YORK REPORTER
July 2nd, 1970

I wish to thank all of the people in the Third Congressional District for the courtesy extended to me during this campaign.

I only ask that you compare my position on the critical issues of South East Asia, the Middle East and our serious problems here at home with those of my two opponents. I am convinced that my firm approach to resolving our problems is more realistic and sensible than those of the other candidates. Your support on Sept. 15th would be greatly appreciated for I sincerely believe that I can best represent you in the U.S. CONGRESS.

THE IMPORTANCE OF VOTING IN THE PRIMARY

1. Less than 30% of the people care enough to exercise their right to vote in the Primary Election.
2. This 30% usually consists of: Politicians and other members of political machines. Extremist groups who are constantly agitating will be out in full force hoping that 70% of the people will stay home as usual.

Charles OHANIAN • DEMOCRAT • U.S. CONGRESS

*ATTENTION INDEPENDENTS: Independent Voters — you need not show reluctance to vote in the Democratic Primary for fear of losing your Independent status. It requires no more than your request, following the Primary to remain as an Independent.

Mitchell Freeman, 2 Club House Lane, Wayland

You've seen Nixon's economic policy at the check-out counter. Now you can challenge it at the polls.

no matter what happens to his company.

People

- More than 20 million Americans live in poverty. Proper diet, health care and adequate housing must be guaranteed to all.
- Social Security benefits for Senior Citizens must be drastically increased and must include an automatic cost-of-living adjustment.

Vietnam

- We must end the War in Vietnam. The McGovern-Hatfield amendment for a phased withdrawal of all U.S. troops would allow us to commit the $24 billion we spend yearly on that tragic War to the needs of the American people. It would be a beginning of a redirection of spending from military hardware to human need in America.

Environment

- The Nixon Administration offers a meager and totally inadequate effort to stop the destruction of the environment. Massive new programs, with stiff prosecution of polluters, must be initiated in Congress.

- Father Drinan is the strong voice we need to speak for all of the people of this district. The strong voice to call for a sane and stable economic policy. The strong voice to call for a new age of people-first priorities in this country.
- Robert Drinan. The man to vote for on Tuesday.

You only have to go as far as the supermarket to understand how well Nixon's economic policies are working.

Nineteen months ago the Republican Administration took office.

They said they had some strong new ideas about the economy. Curb inflation without rising prices and unemployment: That was their story.

Today it's a different story. In those nineteen months, prices have gone up 10%.

In those nineteen months, unemployment has risen to more than 4,000,000 Americans. An unemployment rate of over 7% in some parts of the Third Congressional District!

Nineteen months ago not too many people challenged the Administration's ideas about the economy.

But today someone must challenge those ideas.

And Tuesday, September 15, we must choose a man to make that challenge in Congress. That man is Robert Drinan. A noted legal authority and Dean of Boston College Law School. He is the man with a positive program that can begin to make this country really work for the people. And to begin to work right away.

This is his program:

Economy

- Unemployment is unacceptable as a tool for fighting inflation. An energetic Congressman can also fight unemployment by working hard to attract new industry to this district.
- Comprehensive tax reform must be established which eliminates loopholes, and guarantees that every American pays only his fair share.

- We should bring modern management techniques and cost-efficiency programs to the government. Experts say billions could be saved this way each year.

Health Care

- We must establish a federally guaranteed system of comprehensive health care to protect families against unexpected and costly medical emergencies.
- Attack the drug problem head on. With massive drug education programs for our young people. With better treatment and rehabilitation centers in local communities. And with stiffer penalties for drug pushers.

Housing

- We must guarantee every citizen a decent place to live. That means alleviating the critical shortage of housing which has been worsened by Administration cutbacks of federal funds.
- There must be a ceiling on mortgage rates and funding for housing programs so homes are again available and the 10.7% unemployed in the construction industry will again be at work.

Labor

Section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act must be repealed. Under this crippling law, jobs have been taken away from the skilled 3rd District working man and given to cheap, non-union labor in the South.

- Unemployment and workmen's compensation must be extended to all workers.
- A workman's pension must be guaranteed, just like Social Security.

"Most of us tend to take the protective services offered by our Fire and Police Departments for granted. Until we need them, that is. On Friday, August 28, 1970, a fire occurred at the Woodland Park Apartments on Grove Street in Newton, which are owned and managed by us. The fire was confined to one unit and there were no injuries. In spite of our firewalls and other safeguards insisted by the City (and us) during construction, the fire might have been much worse had it not been for the quick response and prompt action by the Newton Fire Department. We were equally impressed by the courteousness and helpfulness of your men after the fire was out. Their attitude was indeed a credit to you and to the City of Newton. Apartments such as ours do not require many City services, since we have no school-age children and plow and maintain our own streets. On the few occasions when we have required Fire and Police Department services, however, we have found the men of both Departments to be prompt, courteous and helpful and we want to show our gratitude by sending copies of this letter to the local newspapers, feeling that a word of well-deserved praise should be expressed as quickly as criticism."

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

All are invited to attend services beginning at 10:45 a.m. this Sunday at the First Church of Christ Scientist at 391 Walnut Street, Newtonville.

Standards for judging the true value and substantiality of the things mankind desires are set forth in the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, September 13.

One of the Bible quotations is from Paul's letter to Timothy, in which he wrote, "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy."

A citation from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, read:

"To himself, mortal and material man seems to be substance, but his sense of substance involves error and therefore is material, temporal. On the other hand, the immortal, spiritual man is

Total Of 15,000 To Vote Here Tuesday

Fishman, Bradley and Segal all are from Newton.

Other Newton candidates in that field are John F. Boyle, Jr., of 15 Taft avenue, Peter C. Dwyer of 28 Woodward street, Howard M. Kahalas of 72 Heatherland road, and Joseph A. McVeigh of 66 Norwood avenue.

Watertown candidates in the race are Edward Derkarian and George A. Muldoon.

Representative Fishman's action in seeking promotion to the post of State Senator and the death of former Representative H. James Shea, Jr., have resulted in lively battles for Democratic nominations for the House of Representatives.

Eight candidates are fighting for two Democratic House nominations in the 12th Middlesex district comprising Wards 1, 2, 3 and 7, from which the late Representative Shea served prior to his death.

They are Representative Paul F. Malloy of 66 Wildwood avenue, who is seeking Democratic renomination; Democratic State Committeeewoman Betty Taymor of 44 Fairfax street; James R. Burke of 99 Fairway drive; Thomas B. Concannon, Jr., of 279 Linwood avenue; Paul H. Guzzi of 9 Joseph road; Peter F. Harrington of 157 Lowell avenue; Terrence P. Morris of 115 Mt. Vernon street and Paul B. Sibley of 81 Fuller terrace.

Three contenders are seeking two Democratic House nominations in the 13th Middlesex district. That is the district now served by Representative Irving Fishman. It takes in Wards 4, 5, 6 and 8 of Newton.

The three candidates are Robert Cohen of 215 Cypress street, David J. Mofenson of 780 Chestnut street and John E. Young of 2313 Washington street.

A Democratic primary battle which has aroused great interest in Newton is that between Congressman Philip J. Philbin, Father Robert F. Drinan, former dean of the Boston College Law School, and Representative Charles Ohanian of Watertown.

This is a contest which has generated considerable feeling as well as interest. Both Congressman Philbin and Father Drinan have extensive support in Newton and Rep. Ohanian has made a vigorous campaign in this city.

Representative John McGlennon of Concord and Vahe A. Sarafian of 130 Dickerman road, Newton, are opponents for the Republican nomination for Congress in the third congressional district.

The big contest which Newton Republicans will help to settle, of course, is that between Josiah A. Spaulding of Manchester and John J. McCarthy of Chatham.

Boston School Committee member John J. Craven, who formerly represented Newton in the Executive Council, is making a strong bid for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

Craven has been making a hard fight against Representative Michael S. Dukakis of Brookline who was endorsed by the Democratic State Convention. Craven bypassed the convention, as did Kenneth O'Donnell.

Craven has brought out that Dukakis filed several bills in the Legislature for William Baird, the birth control and abortion advocate, including one which would legalize homosexuality and another which would legalize sodomy.

He has charged that the nomination of Dukakis as the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor would weaken Democratic chances for the November election.

Also listed on the ballot as candidates for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor are Rocco J. Antonelli of Somerville, Kathleen T. Ryan Dacey of Milton and James S. McCormack of Arlington.

Political experts, however, say the fight is between Dukakis and Craven.

"Mr. Dukakis votes against church beans but would like to destroy the sanctity of our homes," declared Craven.

Five members of the Democratic State ticket are unopposed next Tuesday. They are Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Attorney General Robert H. Quinn, Secretary of State John F.X. Davoren, State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane and State Auditor Thaddeus Buzko.

Six members of the Republican State ticket - Governor Francis W. Sargent, Donald R. Dwight, the candidate for Lieutenant Governor; Donald L. Conn, the contender for Attorney General; Mary B. Newman, the candidate for Secretary of State; Frederick D. Hannon, the candidate for State Treasurer; and Frank P. Buccl, former newspaper reporter and columnist who is running for State Auditor - are unopposed for their party's nomination. All were endorsed by the Republican State Convention.

Spaulding also carried the endorsement of the GOP State Convention, and this is considered to give him an advantage over McCarthy. No candidate tapped by the Republican State Convention ever has been defeated in a GOP primary.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas is unopposed for the nomination for the State Senate in the Newton-Watertown district. This was created as a Democratic district, but Basbas was persuaded to seek election in it in an effort to gain a Senate seat for the Republican party.

There is no competition next Tuesday for the Republican nominations for the House in the two Newton districts.

Robert Gaynor and Marshal D. Glen are unopposed for the GOP nominations in the 12th Middlesex legislative district.

Representative Theodore D. Mann and popular Police Sergeant Charles E. Feeley are unopposed in the 13th district.

A five-way fight is being waged for one Democratic nomination for County Commissioner. John L. Danahy is standing for Democratic renomination. In the field against him are Keith H. Weston of Billerica, John D. Pirelli of Everett, Warren D. Pierce, Jr., of Burlington and Angelo Giangregorio of Everett.

A four-way contest will be settled next Tuesday for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff. Contenders in that clash are John F. Dever, Jr., of Woburn, Arthur R. Fitzpatrick of Everett, Leonard M. Frisoli of Watertown and Walter J. Sullivan of Cambridge.

John J. Buckley, who was appointed Sheriff by Governor Sargent after the death of the late Howard Fitzpatrick, is unopposed for the Republican nomination for Sheriff.

District Attorney John J. Droney is unopposed for Democratic renomination and reelection.

Four aspirants for the Democratic nomination for Register of Deeds in the Middlesex Southern District are Register John F. Zamparelli of Medford, George L. Andersen of Winchester, Charles W. Buckley of Somerville and former Representative John F. Cremens of Cambridge.

Opponents for the Democratic nomination for clerk of courts are clerk Edward J. Sullivan of Cambridge and Charles L. Buckley of Somerville.

Representative Irving Fishman will be endorsed for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate by Congressman Michael J. Harrington during a reception to be tendered Fishman tonight (Thursday) at the Marriott Motor Hotel.

The north-shore Congressman, who made national headlines when he took a key congressional seat from the Republicans in last year's special election, has announced his strong support for his former colleague, Rep. Fishman.

"It is a great pleasure for me," Cong. Harrington said, "to be able to recommend the candidacy of my good friend Irving Fishman for the State Senate in the Sept. 15 Democratic Primary. Having served with him for six years in the State House of Representatives, I know that Rep. Fishman will make a real contribution to the deliberations of the State Senate, and will provide the kind of effective, experienced representation that the people of Newton and Watertown want and deserve."

"In his eight years of service in the House of Representatives, Irving Fishman has earned a reputation for integrity and dedication. He is a man who is known to be independent-minded and sensible, and finally, a man who works hard to further the good of his district. In our years together in the House I learned to value Irving both as a colleague and as a trusted friend. This experienced legislator certainly deserves to be promoted to the State Senate by the voters of Newton and Watertown on September 15," Harrington concluded.

Congressman Harrington will appear and make his endorsement formal at the reception and social to be held tonight from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Marriott Motor Hotel on Commonwealth Ave. at Route 123 and the Mass. Turnpike.

There will be entertainment, music for dancing and free refreshments for all Rep. and Mrs. Fishman say they are looking forward to welcoming a large number of Newton supporters and workers as their guests tonight.

Newton voters are invited to attend an Open House this Sunday (Sept. 13) from 2 to 5 in the afternoon at the home of Terry F. Segal, former Assistant U.S. District Attorney, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the state Senate in the new Newton-Watertown district.

"In this way," explained Terry Segal, "we hope to be able to say thank you to the people of this State Senate district for the courtesy, interest and support they have shown to myself, to my wife and to my campaign workers throughout the past two months."

Admission is open and free to all and refreshments will be served.

Mr. Segal lives at 74 Sylvan Avenue, West Newton.

As of this writing, State Senate candidate Segal says he and his campaign workers have personally visited over 95 percent of the stores, factories and shopping centers in the Newton-Watertown district.

In a broadcast aired last 11:30 p.m. over WHDH-TV, Segal appealed to all voters to exercise the right to vote.

"One of the most basic rights of a Democracy," Mr. Segal stated, "is the right to vote. I urge everyone to support the candidate of his choice this coming Tuesday, Sept. 15."

The television program will be re-broadcast tonight at 11:30 p.m. over WHDY-TV, Channel 5.

attack on the police, but an attack on law-abiding citizens everywhere.

Frisoli, who has had special training in riot control, juvenile delinquency, and community relations, pointed out "with regret" the accuracy of his prophecy made last week that the brutal courtroom tragedy, that happened recently in California could happen here in Middlesex.

"It could - and it did," said Frisoli.

"Despite the recent volley of bullets and bombs aimed at police and their headquarters throughout the nation," emphasized the former FBI agent with 25 years of service, "I am here to tell you that over 90 percent of the American people back the police as a stabilizing force in our society."

"When our police are singled out for vicious acts of terror such as the Burlington bombing," continued Frisoli, "All of us must realize that the police do not stand alone as either targets or victims. An attack upon the police is an attack upon all of us."

"Courtrooms, police stations - and now even at a Major League ballpark," asserted Frisoli. "Terror tactics, besides

An Ex-FBI Man Is Picking Up Steam in Middlesex

Will There Be a New Look Sheriff?

LEONARD M. FRISOLI

By THOMAS C. GALLAGHER
NY Political Writer

One of the most interesting contests in the coming September primary involves the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Middlesex County.

Out in front are two of the best known names in Middlesex County politics, County Commr. John F. Dever Jr. of Woburn and Cambridge City Councilor Walter J. Sullivan. Considered certain to end up as an also-ran is Arthur Fitzgerald of Everett, although he could siphon off some votes from Dever and Sullivan.

BUT A DISTINCT THREAT, and a candidate who has been coming on strong in recent weeks, is Leonard M. Frisoli of Watertown, a member of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for 25 years and a neophyte in elective politics.

Dever and Sullivan have launched high-powered, lavishly-financed campaigns. Each has rented a dozen or so billboards, which cost approximately $3000 each.

Frisoli, on the other hand, while he has some money which is mainly the result of small contributions from friends and voters in the county who are desirous of a change, is running his campaign on a comparative shoestring.

However, Frisoli is convin-ed he can win the nomination on the basis of his long experience as an investigator for the FBI - experience which more than qualifies him for election to the office of sheriff of Middlesex County.

Frisoli believes county government must be reorganized in order to eliminate the "waste, duplication of effort and political patronage" which are costing the taxpayers millions.

HE POINTS OUT that the Middlesex County budget rose from $670,000 in 1969 to $1,125,000 in 1970, and that the salaries, expenses and other appurtenances of the county commissioners doubled during this one-year period.

Frisoli points out that county jobs, not being covered by civil service, can be dangled as patronage plums.

He deplores the fact that various county departments purchase supplies independently, rather than through a central purchasing agency, at obvious additional cost to the taxpayers.

"When I say the Middlesex County Sheriff's office demands professionalism, I don't mean professional politics," declares Frisoli, who currently heads a Boston-based security consulting and investigating firm composed of former FBI agents.

"The people of Middlesex County deserve a sheriff who will bring his experience in law enforcement to the job rather than one who seeks the job in order to gain experience."

"When unlawful assemblies must be dispersed to keep order and save property, who will most effectively guarantee to protect the rights of all concerned, a sheriff with 25 years of experience in protecting those rights or someone who is getting on-the-job training?

"When reforms have to be made - and they must - in the areas of penal standards, higher minimum qualifications for law enforcement personnel, and county government itself, who can the people of Middlesex County rely on most to make these reforms, a sheriff experienced in efficient administration and well known for setting and meeting high professional standards or someone who is inseparably linked to the system we are determined to change?"

Frisoli is counting on more than his FBI background, which includes over 20 awards and commendations for outstanding performance from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, and the playing of a major role in the investigation of the Brinks robbery, to pull him through the primary successfully.

IT IS EXPECTED about 220,000 Democrat votes will be cast in the September primary. Of this number, there will be 55,000 votes of Italo-American ethnic background, and Frisoli expects to pick up the lion's share.

Frisoli is confident he can attract enough additional votes to win not only because of his obvious qualifications, but because of the vulnerability of the other two major candidates.

Dever, as county commissioner, has been caught up in the investigation of the construction of the new Middlesex County courthouse in East Cambridge, the cost of which has ballooned to unbelievable proportions for reasons which have yet to be adequately explained.

Even those close to Dever admit he has been badly hurt, politically, by the courthouse fiasco, since its construction is under the supervision of the county commissioners.

As for Sullivan, he is a professional pol who is a former ceremonial mayor under Cambridge's Plan E form of government, and is also an assistant Middlesex County clerk of court.

Since Sullivan's brother, Walter J. Sullivan, is clerk of court, the charge of nepotism has been raised. Understandably, some voters in Middlesex County are wondering just how many public jobs the Sullivan brothers want.

Clerk of Court Sullivan may not be in a position to campaign for his brother in his bid for the Democrat nomination for sheriff.

THE CLERK HAS BEEN challenged for renomination by Charles L. Buckley of Somerville, and a protest against his nomination papers was dismissed as invalid by the State Ballot Law Commission.

However, the matter has not yet been resolved, since the commission's ruling to the superior court.

Meanwhile, Frisoli, who has strong support among members of law enforcement agencies across the county because of his long experience in that field, is plugging away, attempting to convince the voters of Middlesex County they should elect "a pro, not a pol," as their sheriff.

The Boston College graduate is admittedly the underdog at this point, but he is confident that in the weeks remaining before the primary he can convince the voters he has the background and experience to best carry out the duties of the $15,500-a-year post he seeks.

If he does, he will be facing in the November election a Republican incumbent named John J. Buckley, who was appointed by Gov. Sargent to fill out the unexpired term of the late Sheriff Howard Fitzpatrick.

And Buckley, a Republican with an Irish-American name, will be tough to beat.

FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE
INDEPENDENTS & DEMOCRATS

Newton Junior College will hold registration for its Adult Education Program from 6:30-9 a.m., Monday and Tuesday, September 28 and 29, at Administration Hall, Washington Park, Newtonville.

This program is open to all adult residents of Newton and neighboring communities. It includes academic, cultural, and general education courses without credits or prerequisites.

The courses are designed for adult citizens who wish to continue their formal education in evening classes at the College. The program is sufficiently broad in scope to provide ample opportunity for adults to promote self-development, to meet specific educational needs, or to fulfill a particular cultural or civic goal.

The courses will meet one night a week, 7:15-9:15 unless otherwise indicated, from October 5 through December 17, 1970, and from January 4 through March 18, 1971.

The courses offered are: Newton Junior College Choral (Thursday); A choral group designed for those who like to sing, but who do not necessarily have formal training. A variety of secular and religious choral music from various periods will be used as well as folk songs, musical comedy, jazz and other popular material. Time will also be spent on improving the voice through various vocal exercises.

Seminar in Interpersonal Relations (Wednesday): The goals of this seminar are to enhance the individual member's ability to communicate with others, to become more aware of an individual's sensitivity to interpersonal dynamics, and to increase personal openness. Emphasis will be placed on the individual member and his responsibility for self-growth. Limited to 15 members.

Creative Writing (Wednesday): In an informal group those people who have always wanted to write learn the different types of writing, try their skill, and discuss the results with other students of similar interests. For members who wish to submit material for publication, the professional techniques of manuscript preparation are taught, and information about markets open to the beginning writer is given.

Adult Education Program Registration Sept. 28, 29

French, Beginning (Tuesday): An opportunity to begin the fundamentals of French and to use them in extensive oral practice. Conversations, narrations, and brief discussions among class members are designed to increase the students' vocabulary and to acquaint them with idiomatic expressions. Topics are based on common occurrences. Dictation, grammar, and comprehension work aid students to parler Francais.

French, Intermediate (Monday): Designed to help students acquire the habit-forming processes of spoken language, construction, patterns, and speech sounds. This course makes possible greater facility in self-expression. A thorough and systematic review of the fundamental principles of grammar with intensive practice is included.

Italian, Beginning (Tuesday): A course for those who have no previous formal knowledge of the language. Those who have had some familiarity with spoken but not written Italian should find this course especially helpful. Emphasis on conversation provides a background of vocabulary and grammar as the students learn to understand and speak the language.

Italian, Intermediate (Wednesday): A course for those who have had beginning Italian or its equivalent. The student is encouraged to think in Italian in order to acquire ease in expressing himself orally and in writing.

This class may expect to review quickly the grammar covered in Beginning Italian and to complete the study of the basic principles of Italian grammar. As soon as the student learns an adequate simple vocabulary, discussion, especially on Italy today, are conducted in Italian.

Spanish, Beginning

(Tuesday): The course is especially adapted for the adult student. By means of objective-conceptive and audio-phonetic methods, the student will be guided in the use of basic elements of the Spanish language as a means of communication.

Spanish, Intermediate (Thursday): A course in spoken Spanish stressing the most frequent structures and idiomatic expressions in the language. Classroom discussions will focus on assigned reading materials that deal with family life, travel, customs, traditions, and attitudes of the Spanish people. The progressive development of listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills will be emphasized.

Operadventures (Tuesday): A series of slide illustrated programs, each devoted to a different opera, will both introduce and entertain. The series will clarify the stories, introduce the great singers, past and present, who have interpreted the roles, and place each work in the career of its composer and in musical history.

Interesting anecdotes and emphasis on the enjoyable aspects of opera will make the course suitable for the most inexperienced beginner; rare recordings of unusual interest will attract even veteran opera goers. The course includes both repertory and revival operas and will emphasize those operas to be performed by the Metropolitan and Boston Opera Companies.

Modern Literature (Monday): A reading and appraisal of modern novelists, dramatists, essayists, and poets whose creative intuitions have illuminated the human condition. Joyce, Hemingway, Faulkner, O'Neill, Russell, Yeats, Frost, and Eliot are among the major writers who are resources in the search for an answer to the central question: What can modern authors reveal to us of ourselves and of the critical plight of humanity?

Speed Reading (Thursday): The principal focus of this course will be on advancing the skills of comprehension and speed in reading. An analysis of the organizational patterns of writing will provide the basis for increased reading comprehension. Speed as a function of comprehension will be emphasized, and provisions will be made for practicing it. Such critical reading skills as drawing inferences, determining fact or opinion, and analyzing propaganda will also be highlighted.

Language Laboratory (Tuesday): The Learning Laboratory at the College will be used in all beginning language courses to give students the opportunity for individual and group practice in basic oral expression and listening comprehension. Recordings of student responses to audio tape statements under the supervision of the laboratory instructor will help the student develop his skill in conversation and understanding.

Educational Program for Adult Women (Monday Mornings - 9:30-11:20 a.m.): A series of eight morning sessions for adult women of the community who have not attended school for several years and wish to begin or resume college study leading to an associate or bachelor's degree.

This program will include improvement of study skills; listening; reading, notetaking, and reviewing; aptitude tests with interpretations; educational and vocational counseling in groups and individually.

Each member of the group will be helped in finding an understanding of her own ability, interests, and goals. This program will be conducted by a professional Counselor of the College Faculty.

Counseling Services for Adults (Wednesday - 6:30 to 9:30): An opportunity for Newton adults to meet individually with a professional Counselor of the College Faculty to discuss educational or vocational concerns.

Persons seeking aid on such matters as future schooling, career possibilities, and personal decision making as related to vocational or educational choices are invited to schedule an appointment. Interested persons should call the College at 969-9970 to schedule an appointment with

BRADLEY DEMOCRAT SENATOR

Dear Voter:

The new Newton/Watertown district presents a challenging opportunity to solve the area's many mutual problems. My legislative record shows a consistent concern for legislation designed to solve these problems—transportation, housing, crime, insurance rates, pollution. My experience in municipal government makes me especially sensitive to the problems of the cities, and competent in their solution. I can promise that I will bring to the State Senate the same devotion, integrity, and determined independence of judgment which has characterized my public service in the past.

I hope you will have confidence in my commitment and ability to serve as your next Senator and that you will support me on Primary Day, September 15th.

Sincerely,
Joseph G. Bradley, Esq.

TAX REFORM and INFLATION

"Relief from the unjust burden of taxation on homeowners and rent payers would result from a reformed and flexible state tax structure, from increased aid to the cities and towns for education and from federal financial responsibility for the welfare system."
"The first way to combat the problem of inflation is by withdrawing from Viet Nam and thus reducing military spending."

THE ENVIRONMENT

"I urge the immediate initiation of long range plans which will set up programs to cope with the problems of water and air pollution, waste disposal, and pest control and greatly increase the enforcement of anti-pollution measures."
"I will introduce legislation providing for a Department of Ecology in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

OUR VOTE COUNTS

She will respond to your needs and problems.
On September 15 vote Lever 28B for Betty Taymor

and make your vote count!

Betty Taymor stands for efficient and responsive government. Efficiency can be achieved through reduction in the size of the legislature, and responsiveness can be achieved by a representative who serves no special interest group.

Historic Hub Church Moves To New Site

The congregation of Boston's historic Ruggles Baptist Church, located on the original site of New England Baptist Hospital and founded under its auspices in 1870, is moving Sunday (September 13) to its new house of worship on the corner of Beacon and Park Drive, eighth edifice of the 320-year-old Second Church of Boston.

Harland Bradley, Newton Centre; Ernest Witschi, Newton Centre, and Edwin Hancock, Newton Highlands, are members of the Relocation Committee.

The Reverend Larry McGuill, recently named pastor of the church formerly known as Ruggles Street Baptist, will preach at the 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services.

Sunday school classes will continue to meet in the edifice on Ruggles Street until the $150,000 renovation of the colonial structure on Beacon Street, erected in 1914, is completed.

An expanding church program requiring larger quarters necessitated the move. The recent merger of the Second Church with the First Church in Boston made the property available.

Pierson In Peru For Relief Com.

Wigmore A. Pierson of Newtonville, chairman of the New England Affiliate of the Peru Earthquake Relief Committee, left Sunday for an eight day fact finding trip to Peru to visit the devastated areas caused by the May 31st earthquake.

In Peru, Mr. Pierson will determine the communities and projects which will receive grants from the New England Committee.

Before leaving he emphasized that expenditures for the trip were privately donated expressly for the trip and that no monies contributed to the Peru Relief Fund were to be used.

Arrangements have been made for the Relief chairman to meet with Peru's President Juan Velasco Alvarado, United States Ambassador to Peru G. Taylor Belcher, and Peru Peace Corps Director Edward Baca and numerous other officials outside Lima.

Mr. Pierson plans to spend most of his time in Chimbote where he spent two years as a Peace Corps Volunteer and the Huaylas Valley where the destruction was also very heavy.

On September 16 Mr. Pierson is scheduled to be in Washington at the State Department for a final meeting of the Peru Earthquake Voluntary Assistance Group and a meeting with Mrs. Richard M. Nixon to review his trip and the plans for the New England Committee's fund drive during September.

When Natural Gas heat comes into your home it brings along a good friend

Of course Boston Gas and your Gas Heating Contractor appreciate it when you decide to change to Gas Heat. What we appreciate even more is the chance to show you what kind of people we are after you switch. That's when you can tell people care about you as a person, not as "just another customer." And that's when you can expect your contractor's personal installation work to be as dependable as cheaper-than-oil Natural Gas heat itself.

Because it is.

Your Gas Heating Contractor is easy to reach, reliable and efficient. Call and see for yourself.

And if you switch to Natural Gas heat now, there's even a little bonus: We'll arrange to remove your old oil tank at no charge and pay you for its contents. As well as save you from the "Montreal Express."

HERE ARE HEATING CONTRACTORS WHO HAVE SOLD AND INSTALLED GAS HEATING FOR BOSTON GAS CUSTOMERS.

MRS. MARSHALL J. PALMOSKI

Cousin of Bride Officiated at Palmoski - Corey Bridal

Miss Mary Louise Corey, daughter of Mrs. Francis J. Corey of 10 Regent street, West Newton, and the late Mr. Corey, and Marshall John Palmoski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Palmoski of Oakville, Conn., were married at St. Bernard's Church, West Newton.

The Rev. Charles M. Crowley, S.J., cousin of the bride, officiated at the 11:30 o'clock nuptials at which two rings were exchanged. A reception was held at Woodland Country Club, Newton.

Mr. Frederick C. Corey of Valley Cottage, N.Y., gave his sister in marriage. Her white silk dupioni gown, made with a wedding band collar and long sleeves, was marked with pearl embroidered motifs.

A becoming pearl crown was fastened with her full length sheer illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of orchids, stephanotis and baby's breath. Mrs. Peter V. Peterson of Plainville, Ct., cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Frederick C. Corey of Valley Cottage, N.Y., Miss Catherine M. Donnelly of Hyde Park, and Mrs. William M. Maffie of Quincy were the other attendants.

Master Paul Corey of New York was ring bearer for his aunt.

The best man was Kenneth Palmoski of Oakville, Ct., brother of the groom. Ushering were Edward K. Dzielski of South Hadley, Alan Matak of Cumberland, R.I., and Charles A. Corey of West Newton, brother of the bride.

Following a trip to Lake Placid and Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Palmoski will live in Lakewood Heights, Coventry, Ct.

The bride, a graduate of Newton High School and Salva Regina College, Newport, R.I., has been teaching French at the Warren Junior High School.

Mr. Palmoski was graduated from Providence College and is

Beverly Rich Becomes Bride Of Mr. Robert Mark Kahn

Miss Beverly Louise Rich became the bride of Robert Mark Kahn at a recent evening ceremony in the Fairfax Room at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Rich of Weston. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kahn of Silver Spring, Md., are the groom's parents.

The Rev. F. Norman Totten Jr., officiated at the six o'clock nuptials service. A reception followed in the Constitution Ballroom at the hotel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length white silk organza gown. Her empire bodice had a high neckline and long sleeves. Peau d'ange lace with blue satin ribbon highlighted the gown.

A lace cap held in place her elbow length sheer bouffant illusion veil. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white miniature carnations, stephanotis and light blue delphinium.

Mrs. Betsy Joyce Smith of Columbus, Ohio, was her sister's matron of honor. Miss Kimberly Susan Rich, another sister of the bride, was flower girl. They were dressed alike in empire gowns made of light blue taffeta trimmed with white lace. They carried bouquets of white miniature carnations, yellow sweetheart roses and light blue delphinium.

Similarly attired but in pale gold, the bridesmaids were Mrs. Maria Meyer, cousin of from the University of Rhode Island, class of 1970. He plans to enter Suffolk Law School in the fall.

Beauty Care Today

By Edgar of RONALD COIFFEURS

(EASY CARE FOR LONG HAIR)

Do you think your long luxurious hair will not travel?

That is a myth that is easily dispelled. The trick is a nightly set with two rows of pin curls. Then with all of your artistic creativity, casually arrange the curls to frame your face.

A tortoise-shell clip on one side gives it a sporty look. You are ready for window shopping or horse back riding. Now change the clip to something jeweled or elegantly simple. Your hair will be your best accessory for an evening of dining and dancing.

Do you and your long hair have a date with the wind? Try a part on one side and a ponytail on the other. Those same soft curls are tossed gently over the shoulder and tied with a ribbon.

WATCH NEXT WEEK FOR The Curly Look

One sure way to look your loveliest for him is to have our experts style your hair. RONALD'S COIFFEURS is famous for our expert stylists. We take great pride in our work... and you benefit! Make an appointment today. RONALD'S COIFFEURS, 901 Walnut St., at the Four Corners, phone 527-8291. Open Mon.-Wed. 9-5, Thursday 8:30-5, Friday 8:30-8:30, Sat. 8:30 till 5.

Newton YMCA Announces Its Registration For Fall Classes

September 14 is registration day for swimming instruction classes and all other youth programs offered by the Newton YMCA.

Registrations will be accepted for the following swim classes: Tiny Tots (3-5 year olds), Polliwogs (6 and 7 year olds) and members (boys and girls 8-17 years old). In addition to these swim instruction classes, the YMCA will offer the Children's Music Theatre for boys and girls 5½ to 13 years of age, directed by Mrs. Hilda K. Moses, and assisted by Mr. John Duane, choreographer, and Mrs. I. Mady Wolff, musician. Skills in elocution, dance, and music combine to produce a stage show in full costume. Ballet for boys and girls six years old and up will be offered again by John Duane at the beginner, intermediate, and advanced intermediate levels.

Mrs. Victor Karoblis and Mrs. Barbara Riley will teach sewing to girls ten years old and over. Other classes will include Piano, taught by Mrs. Janet Giannotti; Art by James Lochiatti; Creative Dance by Miss Wendy Martz; Folk Dance by Mrs. Nancy Loh; and Guitar by Robert Gahton. Youth members may also participate in Flag Football and Floor Hockey programs in addition to the Physical Fitness competitions.

Information on fees, days, and time may be obtained by calling the YMCA at 244-6050.

The same day, Sept. 14 is registration day for 9:00 a.m. on, for the fall series of Tiny Tot (ages 3-5) and Polliwog (ages 6-7) swim lessons starting the week of October 5. Registration in person at the "Y", 276 Church St., Newton Corner, is advised. Mail applications will be accepted if there are still vacancies in the classes.

The series will consist of 10 lessons, once a week, with a choice of times. Tiny Tot classes are held on Mondays, Wednesdays, or Fridays, either at 1:00 or 1:30 p.m. Polliwog classes are held Thursdays at 2:45 p.m., or Saturdays, either at 11:30 a.m. or 12 noon. All lessons are one-half hour in length. Parents may assist their children in the dressing room, but do not accompany them into the pool. Their progress may be observed from the balcony at the last lesson.

U. Rochester Names Eight To Dean's List

The Dean's office at the University of Rochester has announced eight Newton students to be among those achieving scholastic excellence during the spring semester.

They are: Mitchell R. Bornstein of 57 Westgate Rd., Judith V. Branzburg of 343 Cabot St., Scott B. Lunin of 25 Brandeis Rd., and Richard H. Slivkin of 91 Oak Hill St., all of Newton.

Also Harold H. Lichtin of 195 Morton St., Richard I. Miller of 25 Alderwood Rd., and James M. Snider of 79 Elmore St. of Newton Centre and Roger S. Wyner of 15 Bound Brook Rd., of Newton Highlands.

Children of members will pay the same fee as last year. There will be a slight extra charge for children of non-members.

Classes are limited in size so that maximum individual attention may be expected. Flotation devices are used by inexperienced youngsters until they achieve the necessary confidence and ability in the water. Polliwogs are taught the basic 21 test items of the YMCA Minnow program.

For further information contact the Physical Dept. of the Newton YMCA, at 244-6050.

Registrations are being accepted for the last Newton YMCA tennis class for 1970. A series of five morning lessons, 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, will be held at the outdoor "Y" courts, 376 Church St., Newton Corner, starting September 15.

Basic holds, approaches, and strokes, as well as proper serving will be stressed. Rules of the game, supervised playing, and application of techniques will be included as the class progresses.

For applications by mail, contact the Physical Dept., Newton Y.M.C.A., at 244-6050, or come in and register in person. Size of the class will be limited on a first come, first served basis. There will be no more evening classes because of the early hour of darkness.

The Fitness Program for men beginning Monday, October 5. This progressive exercise program will meet three times weekly — on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Participants may have their choice of a 7:15 a.m., 12:15 p.m., or 5:30 p.m. class.

Couples Club Prepare Gay Nineties Party

The opening event of the season for the Young Couples Club of Temple Israel, Boston, will be a Gay Nineties party which will feature Charley Chaplin movies as well as a banjo and piano player. The party will begin at 8:30 p.m. in the Temple Israel Meeting House on Saturday (Sept. 19).

The Couples Club is a group of young married couples in the Boston area who wish to get together with other couples for social and cultural activities. Membership is not contingent upon Temple membership and yet some of the privileges accorded Temple members are included.

There are monthly meetings as well as special study and discussion groups. Future events include a speaker from the Jewish Defense League, a noted folksinger, an International Gourmet Dinner Party and a Theatre Party. New couples are always welcome. Please contact Joan Kramer (444-5248) or Elise Rosenfeld (244-8575) for more information.

Reception By AJC At Longwood Towers Wed.

Mrs. E. Louis Friederman will be hostess for the reception to new members of the Metropolitan Region, American Jewish Congress, to be held at Longwood Towers in Brookline on Wednesday (Sept. 16). Mrs. Friederman is immediate past president of the Newton-Chestnut Hill chapter, an affiliate of the region and Mrs. Louis Meisner is president.

"The Current Israeli Picture" is the title of the address to be delivered by the main speaker Mrs. Theodore B. Feinberg, distinguished Hadassah and communal leader.

Mrs. Feinberg has been affiliated with Zionist life for many years. Her interest in Jewish education and her experience as a religious school teacher for many years has closely identified her with Jewish culture. She has been active in Combined Jewish Philanthropies Women's Division and in the work of the Hebrew College. She is knowledgeable in leadership training and is at present serving as the Organization Chairman for her region as well as an Area Expansion Chairman for National Hadassah. She has visited Israel many times and for the past four years has been a tour leader for National Hadassah.

Mrs. George Kramer will report on the Annual Region Donor Luncheon to be held Tuesday, November 10, at the Sheraton Plaza, Boston. Mrs. Kramer is the immediate past president of the region and Luncheon Chairman.

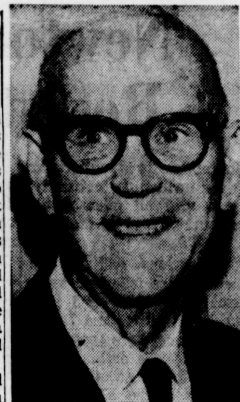

The invocation will be rendered by Mrs. Rose Loitman Lerner, honorary president of the Brookline-Brighton chapter, an affiliate of the Metropolitan Region.

Mrs. Charles Brown will give a report of the membership committee, of which she is chairman.

Mrs. Louis Mersky will lead the group in the singing of the American and Israeli national anthems, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Rosenthal.

Mrs. Jay Gilfix, chairman of the study group, will report on the current series being conducted at the home of the president, Mrs. Meisner.

First Census
First United States census was taken in 1790.

SPEAKER — Rev. Dr. Vaughan Dabney of Newton Centre, member of the Board of Trustees of the Massachusetts Bible Society, will be one of the speakers at the Society's 161st annual luncheon program to be held Monday, Sept. 21 at the historic Bible House on Bromfield street in Boston. The Society is one of the oldest in the world.

Registration Dates Listed At Jr. College

Newton Junior College will hold registration for full-time students Monday and Wednesday, September 14 and 16, at College Hall, Washington Park, Newtonville, from 8:30 to 12 noon, and from 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Part-time and evening students will register on September 15, from 4 to 8 p.m.

Accredited since 1963 as a Junior College by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Newton Junior College offers opportunities to young and older adults to continue or to start work toward an Associate Degree on a full time or part-time basis. Secretarial Technology, leading to an Associate in Science Degree, is especially designed for students interested in preparing for a secretarial career in business, industry, government, or professional fields.

Opportunities are provided in the program for major in the Electronics, Executive Legal, and Medical areas, and provision is made for cooperative work experience and courses in the Humanities, Natural Sciences, Mathematics, and Social Sciences are included.

The Data Processing program leading to the Associate in Science Degree is a sequence of courses to prepare students for careers in Data Processing. Both the general education and technical training necessary for competence in the basic areas of machine operation and programming are provided.

Registration for Late Afternoon and Evening Classes will be held on September 15 from 4 to 8 p.m. at College Hall.

For more information about the full time, part-time, or other programs, please call the College at 969-9570.

Huge Membership
The national PTA lists more than 10 million members.

Creative Living Seminar on Law

A two-day seminar on "Law and Lawyers in a Radicalized Society" was completed this past weekend at the Center for Creative Living in Tuftonboro, N.H. Richard I. Miller, a Boston lawyer, conducted the seminar.

This program was the latest in a series of programs on contemporary developments in the arts and humanities at the Center which is operated by Dr. and Mrs. Elliot Baker of Newton. Other recent sessions have included programs on drug addiction, problems in the nursing profession and psychological self-expression.

Mr. Miller reviewed two hundred years of legal history on law and revolution in the United States. He drew a distinction between theories about law which have been largely conceived by political and social theorists and theories of law created by courts and the legal profession. He found the former attributed moral qualities to law which justified revolution under certain conditions in the name of law, while the latter were concerned with orderly processes and procedures devoid of moral content.

He discussed the dilemma of lawyers who sympathize with those who seek radical change, but are sworn to uphold procedures which often frustrate the changes radicals desire.

To PREVENT CRIME
INCREASE SAFETY
SPEED-UP TRAVEL

The "EXACT FARE" PLAN Begins SEPT. 27, 1970

On this date and thereafter, patrons of the M & B must have the exact fare before boarding a bus. This should prove no problem when measured against the safety of the men who operate the buses and the patrons who ride. Bus Drivers, under the "EXACT FARE" PLAN, will carry no money and therefore will not be subject to assault and robbery.

The "EXACT FARE" PLAN has been requested by the ATU (Bus Drivers Union) for the safety of their drivers and the public. It is also the same plan that over 100 city transportation systems have adopted throughout the United States, and they report these criminal incidents have been drastically reduced as a result.

When the change-over to the "EXACT FARE" PLAN takes place, it will only involve the rider dropping the exact fare into the farebox. Travel routes and time schedules will not change.

Please co-operate, remember the date, September 27, 1970. Have the exact change handy. You'll lend a big helping hand in preventing crime. Thank you.

Marcia Lurensky 1st Prize Winner In Essay Contest

Marcia A. Lurensky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Lurensky, Newton, has been awarded First Prize in the Fifth Annual Jewish Studies Essay Contest, a competition open to College students in the Greater Providence area under the sponsorship of Congregation Sons of Israel and David, Temple Beth-El, Providence.

The paper for which she has been awarded a grant for travel and study in Israel is titled: "An Introductory History of the Jewish Immigrant and Citizen in the United States."

A 1970 Magna Cum Laude graduate of Wheaton College, where she majored in History, Miss Lurensky is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. She is a member of the Class of 1973, Boston College Law School.

Making Plans For Scout World Jamboree in 1971

Sanborn Partridge, Regional World Jamboree Chairman, has announced that Dr. Donald D. Hastings, 39 Brady Rd., Weston, has been selected as the Region One contingent's physician and a Troop leader for the 13th World Jamboree to be held August 2-10, 1971 in Japan.

Mr. Partridge of Proctor, Vt., stated that over 200 Scouts from the six New England states will make up the Region One delegation of six troops. Each troop will have four adult leaders accompanying the Scouts in an eight-day tour of Japan and ten days at the Jamboree.

Scouts from over 100 countries are expected to participate in this international event and over 4,000 boys from the United States will attend. Approximately 20,000 Scouts and leaders will camp at Asagiri Heights on the west side of Mt. Fuji.

Local Scouts signed up for this international event include: From Weston - Philip J. Hutchings, Andrew Salzman, Jonathan P. Whitaker, Kevin O'Hara; From Newton - James E. Long, Jr., Peter Wald, Barry Wald, Gabor Korthy, Michael Turner.

Additional applications are being accepted. Arthur Goodwin, Norumbega Council Jamboree Chairman, announced that interested Scouts and Explorers should contact the Norumbega Council office at 332-2220 for further details.

Avoiding embarrassment
Persons arriving at Cairo airport who are "embarrassed" to display the contents of their luggage in the main customs hall will be allowed to use special facilities screened from other arrivals, customs officials announced.

Lee Loumos Says:

The primary innovation in color TV this fall is the new 25" color tube. It is 315 sq. inches (only 20 sq. in. larger than the 23" tube) but the principal advantage is its square corners which allow it to have an almost perfect aspect ratio of 3 to 4. The importance of this is that TV pictures are transmitted with that aspect ratio so the reproduction on the 25" tube will be almost perfect as to the height and width. The difference is so slight, however, that considering price, the 23" size continues to be your best buy. Come in at your first opportunity and see it for yourselves.

Travelers spend $30 billion a year on meals away from home, or 25 per cent of the American food budget, says Stewart Bainum, president of Quality Courts Motels. The figure is expected to rise at the rate of 8 per cent annually and reach $50 billion by 1975.

Newton Temple To Get Israel Honor

Ambassador Shabtai Rosenne, Deputy Permanent Representative of Israel to the United Nations, and one of his country's outstanding diplomats, will be the principal speaker at a dinner in Temple Mishkan Tefila, Newton, on Sunday evening, September 20. The occasion is for special honors to the congregation for consistent and outstanding support of the Israel Bond program in providing substantial amounts of development funds for the Jewish State. Hon. Theodore D. Mann and Alan J. Tichnor are dinner co-chairmen.

Ambassador Rosenne, who served with distinction as the chief legal adviser of Israel's Ministry for Foreign Affairs from the establishment of the State in 1948 until 1967, was born in 1917 and educated in London, where he received his Bachelor of Laws degree.

He studied for his Ph.D. at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. In 1960 he received an "Israel Prize" from former Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion.

His numerous books and articles on international law and the law of Israel include a two-volume work on the International Court of Justice, and many other books and articles in Hebrew, English and French on problems of Israel and international law. He is one of the sub-editors of the Hebrew Encyclopedia.

In urging attendance at the dinner, Messrs. Mann and Tichnor lauded the past performance of members of the congregation in lending Israel funds through Israel Bonds. But they pointed out that since vital defense measures constitute an enormous drain on Israel's financial resources, the country has insufficient funds for necessary economic development.

"Israel cannot carry the burden of economic development alone," they said. "Our help is needed to strengthen the economy. Already taxed more heavily than any other people anywhere in the world, they just don't have the funds to continue industrial development without our help. It is our hope that the men and women of Temple Mishkan Tefila will respond to Israel's urgent request for Bond dollars with record purchases."

Members of the Dinner Committee include: Joseph M. Linsey, Philip W. Lown, Joseph Schwartz, Irving Usen and Lewis H. Weinstein, Honorary Chairmen; Austin L. Cable, Joseph Copleman, Marvin M. Adult Courses At Y To Open September 21st

The registration period for the fall term of adult courses at the Y.M.C.A. in Newton started Tuesday, September 8, 1970, with classes beginning the week of September 21st.

Several new subjects have been added to the fields of endeavor being offered by this west suburban Association. In the field of arts and crafts there will be Drawing, Ceramics, Enameling and Sculpturing plus the newly popular French art of Glass Beaded Flowers, Fleur Decor (the making of pictures and decorations with real dried flowers), Book Craft and Weaving.

In the fields of health and recreation, Creative or Rhythmic Dance has been added to the ever popular Yoga, Ballroom Dancing, and Total Woman which is a course in charm and well being - total self development for women.

New courses in the fields of skills and knowledge are Cooking, Knitting added to the old favorites Dressmaking, Auto Driving and Contract Bridge.

These offerings are informal in that no credits or degrees are given but they add new interest and are self satisfying in knowledge gained.

For further information regarding the above courses and others offered at the "Y" in Newton, feel free to contact the Adult Department at 244-6050.

Joseph Kooris, Jack Kosow, Dr. David I. Kosowsky, Melvin D. Kraft, Harold Kravitz, Dr. Marshall Kreidberg, Harvey C. Krentzman and Paul I. Kriensky.

New Fashions In Tiles At Route One Showroom

The opening of Tile Fashions on 525 Providence Highway, Norwood, brings to New England a new concept in ceramic and glazed quarry tiles—new only in the respect that they are now available. Many of the designs and shapes of these tiles date back thousands of years.

Ernest Nader and Louis Reale, owners of Tile Fashions, have after extensive research and travel, put together a spectrum of shapes, sizes and colors of tiles up to the present time was not known even to the most knowledgeable designers and decorators.

Mr. Reale states "For years the public has associated ceramic tile with bathrooms and kitchens only. However with these new (old) ceramic and quarry tiles, the areas in which they can now be used is limited only by the imagination of the homeowner. Some of the most obvious areas are dining room floors, kitchen floors, entry walls and floors, etc."

The public is cordially in-

James V. Sidell, Ralph Snyder, Leopold M. Sonnabend, Harold N. Sparks, Jason Starr, Milton Starr, Edward S. Stavis.

Bennett H. Stayman, Herbert M. Stein, William Stein, Leon Steinberg, Hyman Stiller, Harmon R. Stone, Dr. Louis Strauss, Julius R. Teich, Dr. Bernard Tolnick, A. Raymond Tye, Maxwell J. Theatre Costume Designs On View At Free Library

Category: Costume, a showing of costume designs for the theatre by Barbara Matheson of Auburndale, goes on view at Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, this week through late September.

The five-faceted display of costume sketches, photographs, watercolors, plus actual costume pieces is spread throughout the first floor of the Main Library on free-standing panels and on mannequins, with color slides continuously projected on a daylight screen.

Mrs. Matheson, whose husband is chairman of Lasell Jr. College's Department of English, estimates she has designed between 2500 and 3000 costumes over the past 10 years, and has worked with more than 30 directors in nearly 60 shows.

Equally at home on both sides of the asbestos curtain, Barbara started her theatre career singing in "Pirates of Penzance" at Arlington High School and later with the Arlington Community Theatre in "Brigadoon" and "Carousel."

A Boston University alumna, she is currently in costume design at Rhode Island College, and has just completed a project for Newton's Jackson Homestead, cataloging, researching, photographing and restoring vintage costumes for the city-owned museum.

She will continue her work as the collection continues to grow as director of the costume collection. Photographs of some of the Homestead's choice pieces are included in the Library show.

Previously production designer and workshop supervisor as well as instructor at Emerson College, Mrs. Matheson innovated costume design in foam rubber.

Photos and slides of her foam rubber workshop are also on view in the one-man show, which features designs for "Bells are Ringing," "Jack and the Beanstalk," "Hippolytus," "Heartbreak House," "Finian's Rainbow," "Peer Gynt," "Hasty Pudding '66," some Shakespeare and dozens of others.

Library patrons and theatre goers are invited to an informal reception to meet Mrs. Matheson and see her designs at the Main Library, Tuesday evening, September 15, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Mrs. Matheson, who lives in the Auburndale section of Newton, is the mother of Bonnie, 14, a Warren Jr. High student, ad Mark, 11, a sixth-grader at Williams School.

4 New Homes Authorized Here

Four building permits were granted in Newton during the month of August for single family homes, marking a slight reversal in the general slump in single home construction here.

Two homes are on Vine St., near the West Roxbury line, and two are in Waban, on Beethoven Ave. and Pine Ridge Rd.

One two-family dwelling which will be located at 1246-1248 Walnut St. in Newton Highlands has also been authorized.

Estimated costs for the five homes range from $23,000 to $29,000.

Private construction is still overshadowed by two major school building projects, the new high school and the Frank A. Day Junior High.

Most of the building permits were for alterations or additions to existing buildings, including three swimming pools, signs, sheds, as well as modifications for non-resident buildings.

She Lost 110 Pounds; Diet Classes Glow

The Diet Workshop is proud of Rita Riffe and Rita Riffe is proud too! The reason for all this is that she lost 110 pounds and in anybody's book, that's a lot of weight gone but not forgotten! She lost the equivalent of another person so it's no wonder everyone thinks of her as a celebrity.

Rita is not ashamed to say now that her weight used to be 248½ pounds before she started on The Workshop program and her dress size was a 24½. Now she can wear a 13-14 and looks and feels ten years younger. When asked why she went to The Diet Workshop she said that her doctor had diagnosed angina and advanced hardening of the arteries plus severe high blood pressure at the age of 38! He told her if she didn't lose weight she'd be killing herself so Rita went to The Workshop on the recommendation of a friend and her doctor applauded.

Now that she's a graduate of the program and loving every minute of being thin, she hopes this poem which she wrote herself will inspire others to follow suit.

Rub a Dub Dub
Rub a dub dub I fit in the tub
Just barely made it before.

The thrill of it all though I'm still not small,
I'm not extra large anymore.
I walk down the street and people I meet
Don't seem to believe what they see.

So I smile with a grin -
Gee it's great to be thin, everyone's looking at me!
In honor of Rita all Diet Workshop classes in Newton will hold Open House the week of September 14 through 17.

The public may visit these groups without charge or may join if they wish. More information is available through the main office in Newton Corner.

MELVIN A. ROSS

Anti-Ciggle Forces Name New Director

Melvin A. Ross of Newton has been appointed executive director of Smokers Anonymous.

Director Ross and his staff are currently planning three seminars in September; at the Harvard Medical Countyway Library on September 14th; at Lynn Hospital on September 22 and at the Glover Hospital in Needham September 24.

A former smoker himself, Mr. Ross stresses the importance of the Smokers Anonymous method of curing cigarette addiction.

He is president of Harvard Folding Box Co., and the Spring Valley Country Club. He is also active in the Newton Development Foundation, Temple Mishkan Tefila, and the Combined Jewish Philanthropies.

Mr. Ross has three daughters, and lives with his wife, Eleanor, on Glendale Rd.

Guided tours of Antwerp sewers have become so popular that the Antwerp Tourist Board had to place an announcement in Belgian newspapers warning visitors that the tours are "regrettably fully booked for August."

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JANICE E. KAPLAN

Summer days faded into the background today as Newton South officially begins the 1970-71 school year. Sophomores have a regular day today before the juniors and seniors join them tomorrow, (Friday, Sept. 11). Regular school hours this year will be 8 a.m. to 2:05 p.m. on Wednesday all students are dismissed at 12:45 p.m. The afternoon is left for curriculum development and meetings.

Students who do not have a first period class need not report to school until 8:55 for homeroom. There are no first period classes on Thursdays.

There is also early dismissal for students with last period studies. Students may leave at 1:10 on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, and 11:50 on Wednesday.

With the new school year, come several new innovations and policies. Among them are the Newton South Union, a student-faculty curriculum review board, and a new policy on final examinations.

In explaining these new policies, Principal William D. Geer, Jr., noted that: "The school, during the past year, has made every attempt, as it will during the coming year, to guarantee the individual civil rights of every student in it, while maintaining political neutrality and the academic quality of its program."

The Newton South Union is a new form of student government. All members of the Newton South community are members of the Nomination papers are now available for persons who want to run for the post.

They must be returned to City Hall by Tuesday, Oct. 20, with 50 signatures. Executive Secretary Alan W. Licarie of the Newton Election Department told the Graphic.

There will be no primary election.

Notary Public

John R. Lamont, 28 Noble Street, West Newton, has been appointed a Notary Public by Gov. Sargent and confirmed at a recent meeting of the Executive Council according to the office of Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren. Lamont's term will expire in 1977.

Union and may found or participate in Union projects. Union funds are allotted to all projects. Hopefully the Union will give more individuals a chance to participate directly in student government. Rusty Phillips was elected president of the Union for the coming year.

Unit tests will replace term tests this year. The function of the unit test is primarily to review the ideas and fundamentals presented in the unit.

Final examinations including structure, content, and methodology. Principal Geer will assess the board's operations and determine a final plan for curriculum review by the end of the year.

The Newton South newspaper, Denebola, will once again ensure the exchange of news and opinions throughout the Newton South community.

Student Activities Tickets may be purchased during the first weeks of school. The SAT admits the student to paid activities and allows a reduced rate on school publications.

The new school year is beginning, and it appears to be an exciting one.

N. Community Center Begins "Art for Everyone" Program

"Art for Everyone" is the theme of the 1970-71 Creative Arts programs at the Newton Community Service Centers which announces the opening of classes for all age groups under the direction of Linda Janower.

Classes are being arranged for Mother and Tots (ages 2 and up) for Mothers and Children (Elementary Age) Elementary Children (with a new 2 hour open workshop) and Adults.

Details are as follows:
For Mothers and Tots and Mothers and Children

Monday, beginning October 19:

9:20-10:20 a.m. — Mothers and Tots — Bea Lewis, Instructor; 10:40-11:40 a.m. — Mothers and Tots — Bea Lewis, Instructor; 1:00-2:00 p.m. — Mothers and Tots — Bea Lewis, Instructor.

Thursday, beginning October 22:

9:30-10:30 a.m. — Mothers and Tots — Judy Kelleher, Instructor; 1:00-2:00 p.m. — Mothers and Children — Judy Kelleher, Instructor.

This class offers the child his first opportunity to enjoy Creative work and social awareness through the special effort of mother and teachers. Children will expand their sensory perception by experimenting with many forms of art media (visual and tactile) in an atmosphere free of restraint and worry about mess. Mothers gain ideas for home use with children, as well as a new perspective for themselves using various media. Seeing mothers and children (ages 2 and up) involved in a mutual creative effort like puppet making, splashing in paint with bare feet to music, building constructions from boxes, etc., has made it clear to us that this special time together makes this venture doubly meaningful.

This group was so successful when we started it two years ago that additional class sections were added. We now offer both Mothers and Tots classes for mothers and children 2 years of age and older, and Mothers and Children classes for mothers and children of elementary age. It would be helpful if you could indicate a second choice of hour for this semester, in case the class you request is filled. Also, this gives us an opportunity to group the two, three and four year olds together, making a more homogeneous class. Register early; spaces fill quickly.

For Elementary Children
Tuesday, beginning October 20 (Meet-the-teacher session, October 13):

9:30-10:30 a.m. — Kindergarten, Avis Jacobson, Instructor; 12:50-1:50 p.m. — Kindergarten, Avis Jacobson, Instructor; 2:15-3:15 p.m. — Kindergarten, Sandy Olansky, Instructor; 3:30-4:30 p.m. — Grades 1-3, Sandy Olansky, Instructor.

Thursday — beginning October 20 (Meet-the-teacher session, October 15):

2:30-4:30 p.m. — All Elementary Workshop, Joanne Holland, Instructor.

This program is an unusual offering. The teachers are interested in a wide open experience for all children. An experienced staff is geared to building a child's awareness of himself and the world around him. With this orientation they draw on natural sciences and experimentation, improvisation, body movement, feelings — all paths of communication and perception open to him and all culminated in the artistic experience. The atmosphere is one of discovery. Each child will be challenged to solve problems in new ways. Color, form, design, light, and an appreciation of aesthetic concepts will permeate all of these areas.

There is a great variety of two and three dimensional materials used for exploration. The staff draws on many community resources such as Match boxes from the Children's Museum, materials from E.S.I., film libraries, etc. However the emphasis is not on the media, but rather on the interests and needs of the individual and the group. The goal is not the finished product, but rather the Total Experience within the child.

Meaningful learning about art is for the teachers a shared experience between student and teacher. The child brings curiosity, motivation and personal experience of varying amounts; a wide array of materials and processes are provided to the student for his exploration and discovery. The teacher is both a resource, and a guide to the student as he explores. Aware of each child's experience and goals, she assists with technique and helps the child relate artistic processes to his world. The purpose of these classes is to stimulate children to express their ideas, feelings, and experiences visually, thus helping them to become happy, confident, creative people.

If your child is drawn to projects which tap the intellect, the senses, the emotions, the body — indeed involve him totally as a person, he will find this program very exciting, very meaningful and a great deal of fun!

This is a continuing program. Teachers build on the experiences and understanding gained of your child's needs during the first semester. For the greatest individual growth of your youngster and a real contribution to his development, try to plan on a complete year.

The first session for all groups is designed for all parents and children. We cordially invite you to participate.

THIS MAY BE MESSY... BUT IT'S FUN — Youngsters of all ages enjoy Creative Art classes at Newton Community Service Centers, Inc. Busy people in this photo, left to right, are, Linda Marie Rando, Cynthia Curtis, David Levitan, Paul Capasso, Alan DerMarderosian, Ben Berg, Melanie Baker, Lisa Gray. Special open workshop will be offered this year for two hours of uninterrupted pleasure.

dially invite you to participate. No previous painting or drawing experience is necessary to join. If you have always wanted to learn to paint, but have been too timid to try, this course is for you. If you have painted and would like to develop a personal style that expresses what you want to say, this course will help you. The emphasis will be on how to use space well, create a good composition, use color expressively and freely, and make a unique personal statement, rather than a photographic representation of reality. Students will progress at their own rate. Informal critical reviews offered.

Acrylic paints will be supplied by the student, as these are easier to paint with than oils. A complete list of materials will be sent to each student before the first class. Mrs. Lipsitt is a gifted instructor and artist in her own right, and has guided adults in their artistic endeavors for many years.

For Adults
Note: Babysitting available at a nominal cost. (Must be requested with registration and paid for at the first session).

Tuesday, beginning October 13, Painter's Workshop, 10:50 a.m.-12:20 p.m. — Carol Lipsitt, Instructor.

This course in painting is geared especially to the beginning motivated kids who love art and want lots of time to work. The Workshop group enables a child to work at his own pace and choose the materials that appeal to him. (e.g. a boy who loves woodworking may spend as many sessions in this media as he desires; an older girl may request instruction in ning and intermediate painter. Schools sessions. If there is no school due to a holiday or inclement weather, there is no art class. All make-up classes will be held in the form of special double sessions, either for an art event or a field trip, and special notification will be sent home. This type of activity has great benefit to the student and adds another dimension to the art program. They should not be missed.

It is essential that children and parents participating dress in old clothes at all times to provide maximum freedom and pleasure during these sessions. A Daddy's shirt with a nametag (printed large) and sleeves rolled way up with rubber bands around the sleeves should be worn and buttoned to every class. This simple preparation by parent will save precious class time. Smocks must be taken home, and worn to each weekly class.

Most materials are supplied by the Center, but from time to time special materials will be brought from home. Please help your child if he asks you for something for the next sessions.

Effective the first session, we can use cardboard rollers (from foil, gift paper, toilet paper), boxes of all sizes and shapes, cardboard or plastic containers, fabric scraps, tinsel and Christmas decorations, styrofoam, packing materials, (straw or scraps), yarn, wood scraps, old toys and gadgets, utensils, cans, paper cups, wire, and any household discards. If a parent has any special connection with an industry or profession which could donate wood, telephone wire, paper products, cork, screen, ice cream containers, fabric rollers, metal scraps, glass or any special materials (almost anything) we urge you to help us collect unusual resources.

The staff is comprised of experienced teachers who possess a great understanding of children. Assistants are parents or college students who share the teacher's enthusiasm for the program. If there is any special need or problem your child has, however incidental, the staff urges you to write or talk to them about it. Many parents like to enclose a short note giving particular insight into their child. It helps teachers get to know him more quickly. If he is coming to class with a friend, you may want to indicate this. With the young, shy child a friend from the neighborhood or school is sometimes very helpful. For further information call 969-5906.

Additional Information
All classes are limited in size to insure individual attention, and places are filled in the order in which forms are received. Do not delay. Register now. There are no make-up sessions due to illness. Please note: Classes follow the Newton Public

Newton Library Booths At N.E. Book Festival in Hub

Newton Free Library... With People is the theme of the Newton Library booths at the Boston Globe sponsored New England Book Festival, September 11, 12, 13, at John B. Hynes Auditorium, Prudential Center. And Newton people will help their Library illustrate the theme.

At the Festival, which is open Friday the 11th from 5 to 10 p.m., Saturday the 12th from noon to 10 p.m., and Sunday the 13th from 1 to 6 p.m., members of the Newton Free Library Bridge Club, the Library Camera Club, the Chess Club and the Teen-Age Drama Workshop will appear by appointment to put across the People motif.

Friday night Bill Renke and other Bridge Club members will play a few hands at the Newton booths, while Saturday at one p.m. the cast and crew of Winnie the Pooh, in costume and makeup, will hold forth in impromptu style immediately after their morning performance at Meadowbrook Jr. High for Newton youngsters.

Saturday afternoon Boys' and Girls' Librarian Jane Granstrom will demonstrate shadow play, while Saturday night and Sunday afternoon Eric Sollee of the Library's newly forming Chess Club will join with other Club members in chess games. During the entire Festival Camera Club members, with president James Saret, will snap pictures, talk cameras, and present a continuous slide show.

Newton's Acting City Librarian Virginia A. Tashjian will lead two mammoth storytelling sessions for Festival patrons in the main hall on Sunday afternoon, at 1:25 and at 3:25.

Decor for the Library booths in red, white and blue, designed by Barbara Michaels and Jody Baker of the Library staff, has been worked out in cooperation with 4 Newton firms, including Jim Bottomley of Spaceforms (lotus meditation spheres); Ronnie Brooker of From the Ends of the Earth (cable tables and chairs); Steve Tenanty of Auburndale Wallpaper Studio (wallpaper motif); and Joseph O'Brien of Treck Photographic (projector and screen).

The Newton Free Library is one of 6 Eastern Region libraries participating in the Festival as guests of the Boston Globe. The Newton booths will be manned by regular Library staff members.

Note Signing Of Mental Health Reform Bill

Newton representatives of both the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Children and the Massachusetts Mental Health Association were present when Governor Sargent signed the Mental Health Reform Bill which revises laws on admission, treatment and discharge of persons in the State's institutions for the retarded and the mentally ill.

They report that one of the bill's most important provisions is that it eliminates family responsibility for residential care of a retarded or mentally ill person if he or she is over 21 and has been in the care of the Department of Mental Health for at least five years.

This provision also eliminates the hardship which came to families when they discovered that if the parent of a State institutionalized make or receive phone calls,

HAROLD ROGERS

Harold Rogers
Lectures On
'Family of Man'

Man's ability to utilize the laws of God which can establish harmony in personal and world affairs will be discussed in a Christian Science lecture to be given on Tuesday, Sept. 22 in Newtonville.

Harold Rogers, C.S. of Milan, Italy, formerly arts and entertainment editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will lecture on "The Family of Man" at the church auditorium, 391 Walnut street, Newtonville, at 8 p.m. under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Mr. Rogers, who became a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship in 1968, will relate several instances of healing through a deeper understanding of the divine Principle contained in the "two greatest commandments" — love for God and love for man.

He will recount his experience at an international music critics' conference in Finland when he applied his understanding of Christian Science to resolve nationalistic conflict among the delegates. The lecture, which lasts for one hour, is free and open to the public.

person died without a will, the State had first claim on his estate for all unpaid back board and treatment fees.

The legislation aims to individualize and humanize treatment. Open-ended commitments for indefinite periods are outlawed.

Among the many archaic State institution rules which were repealed by the new bill were those forbidding patients to send or receive mail or

N.A.A. Lions Romp 40-0 In Exhibition Win Here

The N.A.A. youth football league Lions launched its 1970 season with a 40-0 exhibition over the Scituate Buccaneers last Sunday at the Newton Highlands Playground.

The opening game of the season will bring the Newton Lions and Walpole Golden Knights together on Sunday the 13th.

Spearheading the attack was Quarterback, Kevin Hoban, who in addition to an 80 yd. punt return for a score, completed 5 of 7 passes for 125 yds. and 3 touchdowns. On the receiving end for two scores was half back John Vizakis who hauled in receptions of 55 and 30 yds.

The other passing score was tallied by halfback Rick Paglia who dashed 30 yds. after a Hoban fling. Paglia was also the team rushing leader picking up 84 yds. in 7 carries.

The other touchdowns came on rushes by John Vizakis on a 5 yd. rush, his third of the day, and the "Baby Bull" fullback Jim Vizakis who rammed his way into the end zone on a 10 yd. sweep.

The real story, however, was up front where many of the "Lions" linemen turned in stellar performances on offense and defense. Defensive end Pete Toyias blocked two punts and scored a safety. Pete received help from counterpart Greg Moan who continually pressured the passer and broke up Scituate sweeps.

Middleguard Ron Collins who has been sub-par with a minor leg injury throttled the inside attack with help from Dennis Cameron and Dave Prince. Linebacker Matt Sabetti was making tackles from sideline to sideline along with Rick Paglia. Cornerback Jack Ryan also did a fine job. The Lions did not punt all day and that was largely due to the offensive line.

They were Drew McAuliffe center, Kevin Brooks and Mike Lanciotti guards, Pete Toyias and Dave Prince tackles and ends Jack Ryan and Allan Flynn and Ken Shulman.

BULLETIN From The Castle Keep Restaurant Located in the Waltham Motor Inn
Winter St. at Rte. 128 899-8700

Great news for frustrated seafood addicts... It's gonna be a real girdle buster this Friday night at the Castle Keep Restaurant. However, we will provide blow out patches along with a tremendous fun filled evening of aquatic goodies. So make a note of it on your waist line... Your response to our Saturday & Sunday buffets has been so great, that we will go along with Fran's wailing, foot stomping desire to include Friday nights, with the Seafoodrama Buffet in loving color. Our patrons have been delighted up to this point, and we will do our utmost to maintain our standard of quality, at the fairest possible price. We are going to give this a whirl at $9.95 per person. I thought the owner was going to explode when Fran told him what he's ordered for seafood. His complexion went from ashen gray to hot plate red. His hands shot up into the air, and let me tell you, he was just about to peel the paper off the wall, when thank God his clutch grip failed him in the clutch. By time he recovered from his blush with strangulation, we managed to smuggle Fran out. Do not look for lobster, at their present prices it's an impossibility. We'd have to surround it with pretzels and potato chips. Now how does this sound??? Swinging clinging chowder, cherry stones, claims casino, steamers (Ahh). Fantastic newburgh, stuffed filet of sole, fish n' chips, scallops, broiled chicken, sweet corn, watermelon, a pot of chicken paprika for Mr. Moldoff, and whatever else I can sneak by the boss. You ask Ed for it, now come and get it please. (Or I'm dead). And Mr. Newspaperman give me a break please... Two weeks ago my ad was stuck under Horace Something for something or other, and last week under a panty hose sale. What a crowd we had, you never saw so many campaign workers with runs in their panty hose... I love ya', till Friday then:

Will Address Sisterhood

Miss Karen Klein, a teacher of English literature at Brandeis University will be guest speaker at the opening meeting of Temple Reyim Sisterhood, Wednesday, Sept. 23 at 8 p.m. She will speak on "The Problems of Feminine Identity."

Meeting co-chairmen are Mrs. Milton Lewinger and Mrs. Robert Kramer. Mrs. Arthur Kaufman, sisterhood vice-president, will welcome new and prospective members to the meeting.

Miss Johnson Bride-Elect of Mr. McSweeney

Mrs. Ralph R. Johnson of North Easton has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Linda Christine Johnson to Barry Paul McSweeney. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Paul McSweeney of 805 Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre.

Daughter of the late Mr. Johnson, the bride-elect is a graduate of Oliver Ames High School. She is now associated with Arkles Switch Corporation in Stoughton.

Mr. McSweeney was graduated from Newton High School and attended Boston State College. He is affiliated with New England Telephone in Newtonville.

A September 19 wedding is planned.

Fund Raising Drive Started By Newton GOP

Campaign activities of the Newton GOP are now moving into high gear, according to Julius L. Masow, Chairman of the Newton Republican City Committee.

Reporting a "highly satisfactory" response to the recent call for volunteers to assist candidates, Masow states that special emphasis is now being given to two major fund raising projects.

"Funds are needed," Masow stressed, "so that the Republican candidates in this area can get their message through to voters through the use of newspaper advertisements, posters, and other means. Our job is to raise the funds with which to assist our candidates. A special letter appeal for financial support is now going out to our membership and there is every reason to believe they will respond generously," Masow said.

Additional funds are expected to be raised by the gala Theatre Party scheduled at the West Newton Theatre late in September under the direction of Mrs. William L. Bruce, State Committee woman and local GOP Vice-Chairman. She is being assisted by Mrs. G. Nicholas Dawson and a large committee.

A special meeting of the Newton Republican City Committee's Executive Board is being called for Tuesday evening Sept. 22 at which time election activities will be reviewed and carried forward.

Crystal Lake Carnival Ends Summer Vacation

Greased watermelon, clowns, sailboat races and swimming contests were all part of the gala Crystal Lake Carnival held here to mark the end of summer vacation. The two-hour event was planned by the Crystal Lake management and staff under the sponsorship of the Newton Recreation Department.

One of the highlights of the day was a new Indian Swim and Peace Dance performed by two groups of synchronized swimmers under the direction of Miss Kathy Delaney. The five little Indians were Andrienne Bailey, Dottie Barry, Gina Rowland, Leslie Pollock, Phyllis Rosenberg.

The five peace swimmers were Anne Kroeker, Martha Snodgrass, Jennifer Snodgrass, Cathy Capstick, and Patty Scanlon.

The Jeanette West Award for 1970 was given to Carol MacKavey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William MacKavey of 28 Hyde St., Newton. She is a member of the Newton Swim Team and a volunteer for the summer swim program.

The Jeanette West Award is given each year to a girl who contributes and benefits most from the summer swim program.

Preliminary Plans Made For 'Celebrities Night'

Sunday, Dec. 13, will be the date of 21st annual Celebrities Night show for benefit of Jewish Memorial Hospital, according to an announcement today by Joseph M. Linsey, Brookline, hospital president, and George Roberts, Newton, general chairman.

Negotiations are underway by committee officials to book one of the top motion picture attractions for this hospital benefit. Last year, "Cactus Flower" premiere was the attraction, and the prior year was the fabulous musical hit, "Oliver."

This will be the third time in the two decades that the hospital auxiliaries will present a motion picture as the entertainment extravaganza for Celebrities Night which is staged annually by the thousands of volunteer workers in the hospital's auxiliaries.

All proceeds of this Celebrities Night Show in the Music Hall will benefit the research and medical care programs of Jewish Memorial Hospital.

The hospital's volunteer workers for the show include members of Hospital Group, Brookline Auxiliary, Chelsea Auxiliary, Young Women's Auxiliary, Malden Auxiliary, West End Auxiliary, Evening

Babe Ruth Team Sets Fine Record Waban Chiefs Champs Of International Div.

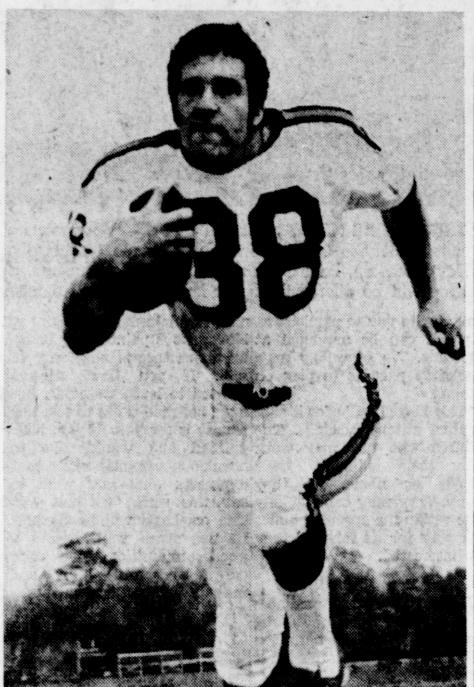

The Waban Chiefs captured the Newton International Division championship at Lincoln Park on August 19th.

Waban finished first during the regular 20-game season. The club won the finals over the second place Totem Pole team 2 to 1, in games with scores of 7-0, and 8-0.

The entire team contributed to its own success over the season compiling a 16-3-1 record.

First year coach, Al Huberman, could not single out one most valuable player but said that Paul Goldman, a 14-year-old pitcher with a 12-0 record, Peter Alevises shortstop with a .350 batting average and Paul Winnick another 14-year-old with a .420 batting average were the mainstays of the team.

Each of the other boys contributed much in their own ways to make this one of Waban's finest Babe Ruth League teams.

BROWN VARSITY BACK — Robert Cohen returns to halfback position with the Bruins this fall having recovered from a back injury sustained mid-way through last year's season. Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cohen, was former All League selection and co-captain at Newton High.

Cohen Back as Halfback On Brown Varsity Team

Former Newton High football star, co-captain and All League selection, will help bolster the Bruin running attack this fall. The Brown University junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cohen of Newton, is 5 ft. 10 in. and weighs 195.

Cohen saw only limited action last year after sustaining a back injury midway through the season. An excellent blocker he was a vital cog in the 5-1 freshman record of two years ago when he gained 136 yards on 49 carries.

Cohen will be situated behind incumbent Gerry Hart, who led the Bruin rushers last year.

As a break from the rigors of athletics and a heavy academic schedule, Bob is aiming at a career in medicine. He trains horses during the summer.

New South Lions Face Grid Season In New Loop

Two years ago the Newton South football team compiled the worst mark, 0-7-1 in its history. Last year the Lions did not reach even that plateau, finishing 0-8. This year, with a new schedule, in a new league, the Lions hope that some old faces will provide a winning record.

1970 finds Newton South as the latest addition to the Dual County League.

The opposition is a mystery, but traditionally fields teams of less stature, with less depth than Wakefield, Fitchburg and Melrose — three of the first-rate teams South met as an independent.

The fall schedule lists Westwood, Weston, Wayland, Acton-Boxboro, Bedford, Lincoln-Sudbury, Lynnfield and Xaverian on Thanksgiving Day.

Head coach George Winkler returns for his eighth season as Lion mentor and should have an interesting team.

His problem this fall will be different than that of the last two seasons when he fielded an explosive offense which suffered because of an inexperienced line and a potent aerial game which was supported by a good running attack.

The offense is still there, but the all-important quarterback job is open. South has had more than able signal-callers the last three seasons in spectacular Tom Rezzuti and strongarmed Tom Nelson, but at the moment the spot is a question mark.

Senior Rich Lerner, who has some experience at the post is the logical candidate, but has an injury left over from the baseball season which may slow him. The other candidate is Russ Small who quarterbacked the JV last year.

There is also the question of who to throw to when the quarterback job is settled. Last fall, Emmons Levine caught a school-record-tying 26 passes, but this year the only able receiver in evidence at this time is his brother Bob.

The backfield abounds with talent. Its powerful and swift. Bruising co-captain fullback Bob Staulo crunched out over 500 yards rushing and bulled his way for eight touchdowns and 48 points.

Dave Leyton jumped from the JV to a starting role on the varsity for the last three games of 1969 and had two games of 75 and 83 yards and should be set for stardom.

Track sprinter Howie Halmes showed flashes of brilliance before being injured, but was even more effective in the defensive secondary.

Junior Dave Lechhook was a top-notch rusher and kick return man for the JV last year, but will have trouble breaking into the starting lineup. He will most likely see heavy duty as a kick-off and punt return specialist.

Last year the runners had an inexperienced line in front of them and often had to make their own holes, but this year the same group is back-surviving their bumps and bruises and having gained experience that hopefully will prove worthwhile.

The line is anchored by honorable mention all-state performer and team co-captain Dan Celli, who will hold down a guard position. Joe DeLuca, Arman Kojoyan, Jon Neuhaus, Lenny Adelman, Larry Feldman and Roger Cooper will divide their playing time between the offensive and defensive lines. It is a big, strong group, though on the slow side which on defense can be a terror against the run.

Other returnees from which Coach Winkler will choose the rest of his starting line-up and his specialty squads are Dan McDonald, Peter Dana, Ira Singer, Mike Sutter, Andy Cutler, Paul Modern, Gerry Tilden, Bruce Gordon, Bill Hallet, Frank Fontecchio, Steve Malchman, Rick Kolach, Bob Price, Bruce Brown, Tom Ward, Ken Lourie, Dick Hill, Jim and Phil Sellinger, Al Backer, Dick Dolitka, and Bob Passarini.

Summing up — Because of the new schedule it is impossible to discern how the Lions will fare this fall, but if Lerner emerges as a top grade quarterback South should return to the win column after a two-year absence, and if the other questions are answered South could enjoy a winning season.

Sports Arena Bill Backed By Newton Solons

Representative Theodore D. Mann today drew attention to the new legislation for the construction of the John A. Ryder Sports Arena for Schoolboy track and field use.

Rev. Mann joined with Newton's other Representatives in the State Legislature in supporting the bill under which the Metropolitan District Commission will select a site and build the facility.

"It was apparent that a real need exists for this youth activity and I am glad to have participated in support of this worthwhile project," Mann commented.

He pointed out that the activities of the twenty-four school Metropolitan League with more than twelve hundred High School athletes were threatened with suspension because of the loss of a home when the old East Newton Street Armory was torn down. The prospect of new facilities averts this.

"The building of new facilities assures continuation of this important health and recreational activity for our youth," Mann added.

his ability sufficiently to let the people know he's competent and qualified to become Governor if for any reason the office should be vacated by Mr. Sargent.

Since John A. Volpe resigned as Governor to become Secretary of Transportation in President Nixon's Cabinet, the people are more conscious that the man they elect as Lieutenant Governor, could be called upon to assume the Governorship, Dwight has found.

Under a change in the Massachusetts Constitution, Francis Sargent and Donald Dwight will be running as a team and ticket for Governor and Lieutenant Governor in November, as do the candidates for President and Vice President.

Donald Dwight is devoted to Francis Sargent and feels he couldn't be teamed with a better man. That attitude is reflected in the way Dwight campaigns and in what he says and does.

If the Sargent-Dwight ticket is elected on Nov. 3, Dwight's pay as Lieutenant Governor will be $2600 a year less than what he received as Commissioner of Administration and the so-called Deputy Governor.

As Commissioner of Administration, Dwight received $27,600. As Lieutenant Governor he would get $25,000 annually.

In typical fashion, Dwight resigned from his job as Commissioner of Administration after being endorsed for Lieutenant Governor by the Republican State Convention. He wouldn't take the salary for the job when he was out campaigning and was not putting in a full day's work. He is now devoting himself entirely to the campaign and seems to be quite a success as a goodwill ambassador for Governor Sargent.

As Dwight sees it, the real issue in the upcoming gubernatorial campaign is whether the people of Massachusetts like the type and style of the leadership given them by Governor Sargent or if they want a change.

"If they want a calm, candid, reasonable man who tries hard—and they know he's trying to do the best job he can—then they'll vote for Frank Sargent," is the way Dwight puts it.

He voices the conviction that Francis W. Sargent has demonstrated enough while heading the State government to warrant his election to a full four-year term as Governor.

"I think the people like what they have seen of Frank Sargent so far and want to see some more," declares Dwight.

A former newspaper reporter Dwight believes newspaper work "is a great training for politics."

"You have to be interested in people and like them to be successful either in newspaper work or political life," Dwight asserts.

He is the son of William Dwight, publisher of the Holyoke Transcript Telegram and one of the most respected newspapermen in Massachusetts.

Don Dwight worked a two-year stint as reporter for the Holyoke Transcript Telegram, a six-year period as assistant to the publisher and three years as associate publisher and general manager of the paper.

Francis Sargent and Donald Dwight first met when they were the two Republicans named to the State Public Works Department Board under former Democratic Governor Endicott Peabody late in 1963. Under ex-Governor Volpe, Sargent became chairman of the board, and Dwight was associate commissioner.

When Sargent became Governor at the start of 1969, he wanted Dwight as Deputy Governor and his right-hand man.

Dwight was educated in the Holyoke public schools, Deerfield Academy and Princeton, where he received his A.B. degree in 1953. He served in the marines for two years, leaving the service with the rank of lieutenant, and was a captain in the marine reserves for six years.

Until now the only public office he has sought has been that of Town Meeting Member in South Hadley. He is modest when he is asked if he believes he will draw any votes to Governor Sargent in western Massachusetts. (Most political experts think he will.) Dwight says he doesn't feel people really are influenced by geographical considerations in casting their votes.

Seasoned political observers, who have watched the 39-year-old Donald Dwight in action, are pretty well convinced he will be quite an asset to Governor Sargent and the Republican State Ticket when the political chips are on the table this autumn.

The pleasant-mannered, handsome Dwight makes friends easily. He's a sports buff, will shift his conversation from the political campaign to the Red Sox or the Bruins if his listener provides any opening.

After watching Donald R. Dwight and listening to him, a political columnist gains the impression that he will carry his full share of the campaign burden when he marches down the political highways with Francis W. Sargent in October.

8122 Vote Here For Jesuit; Mayor White Pulls 2-1 Victory; Basbas, Fishman, McGlennon Win

Newton's Democratic voters made possible the stunning upset victory scored by Father Robert F. Drinan, former dean of the Boston College Law School, over veteran Congressman Philip J. Philbin in Tuesday's primary and helped Boston Mayor Kevin H. White on his way to a win in the close race for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Newton gave Father Drinan an 8122-vote plurality over Congressman Philbin, and that proved to be the cushion which enabled Father Drinan to go on to win by 6480 votes in the entire district.

Philbin topped Father Drinan by 1642 votes in the rest of the congressional district but was unable to overcome the big lead Newton had given to the former Law School dean.

Mayor White carried Newton by a margin of better than 2-1 over Senate President Maurice A. Donahue, polling 7992 votes in the Garden City to 3048 for Donahue, cushioning himself with a 4944-vote plurality in the city, about half the margin by which he finally defeated Donahue.

Representative Irving Fishman defeated former Representative Joseph G. Bradley, his closest competitor, to gain the Democratic nomination for the State Senate in the new Newton - Watertown district. Fishman and Mayor Monte G. Basbas will be the Senate opponents in the November election.

Fishman polled 7311 votes in Newton and Bradley 3914 as Fishman got off to a big lead in his home city. Terry P. Segal ran third with 1857 votes. The other six candidates received only small vote totals.

Basbas Veto Of Housing Site Is Hit

Gordon A. Martin, Jr., vice chairman of the Newton Democratic City Committee, speaking on behalf of its housing committee, has deplored Mayor Basbas' veto of the Stanton Avenue site which was rezoned by the Board of Aldermen on August 24th to permit the erection of moderate-income housing.

"Mayor Basbas cannot have it both ways," Martin said. "Either he favors the building of such housing or he does not. By this action he has negated the one concrete result of years of effort by concerned Newton citizens and dedicated aldermen."

Martin cited the fact that 51 Newton families are presently eligible for low-income housing in the city and stated that if it is not practicable for the Newton Community Development Foundation to build upon just this one site, either the

Parking Garage And Home For Priests Are Opposed

A petition for a parking garage, one for a parking lot and a third seeking permission to use a single family home as a small dormitory drew neighborhood opposition at public hearings held Monday night before the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen and the Planning Board.

Permission to erect a two-story, plus an underground level, parking garage on its existing parking lot is being sought by the Marriott Motor Hotel Corp. The garage would increase the Auburndale hotel's parking capacity from the present 734 to 982 cars.

"The only place the garage could be seen would be from the Charles River and we intend to provide extensive landscape screening in keeping with the rest of the hotel decor overlooking the river," Richard Lovell, the attorney representing Marriott told the aldermen and the Planning Board.

"Because of the number of cars driven to the Marriott, it is considered necessary to expand our parking facilities in order to eliminate the on-street parking that occurs when our lot overflows," he added.

Several neighbors and Mrs. Helen Heyn representing the Charles River Watershed Association expressed the view, however, that the proposed structure would "deface the river bank area," "constitute a

Newton Priest New Regional Superior

Rev. Francis B. O'Hara, M.M., a Maryknoll missionary from West Newton, has been named regional superior of the Maryknoll Fathers in Bolivia.

Father O'Hara, who went to Bolivia in 1955 shortly after his ordination to the priesthood, will direct the work of 59 priests and brothers scattered in all parts of that country.

He will make his headquarters in the city of Cochabamba, where Maryknoll operates one of the most modern language institutes in Latin America.

Father O'Hara will also be responsible for educational radio stations in three of Bolivia's largest cities - San Gabriel, San Rafael and San Miguel.

Father O'Hara, who has spent all but two of his 15 years as a missionary in Bolivia, is well qualified to meet the responsibilities of his new position.

During his first years in Bolivia, Padre Francisco, as he is known to the people he serves, was stationed in the Diocese of Santa Cruz, which is the fastest growing agricultural area in the country.

He also served in a city parish in San Pedro. Most recently, Father O'Hara has

Freeport March Is Set For October 3

A "Hike for Freeport", a 25-mile walk through Newton, will take place on Saturday, October 3rd, it was announced today.

The walk is for the purpose of raising money for Freeport, a student-initiated organization providing and staffing a home for Newton high-school students living in a strained family relationship.

The march will start from the parking lot of Boston College at 8:30 a.m., and will continue for approximately six hours, ending at the Grace Episcopal Church in Newton Corner.

"The route is designed to pass through every part of Newton, as a symbol of the whole community's involvement in the Freeport project," Miss Judith Davidson, coordinator of the Hike Committee, said.

"We hope to involve many members of the community in this march, either by marching themselves, or by sponsoring a hiker," she added.

Each marcher will be sponsored by individual donors for each mile walked, and will be responsible for collecting pledges after the hike. The total donation will go to defray costs of operating the house.

There will be 12 checkpoints along the route at regular intervals, for the purpose of validating hike cards carried by every marcher.

Refreshments, as well as first aid care, will be available at the checkpoints, and cars will escort the march, ready to transport any tired hikers to the Grace Church. Freeport is optimistic, however, about the number of people who will

White, Sargent Square Off For Big November Showdown

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White made a sufficiently impressive showing in Tuesday's primary so that he looms as a formidable adversary against Governor Francis W. Sargent in the November election.

Governor Sargent will be the favorite, but Mayor White will be a very potent underdog. The outcome of their upcoming battle could hinge on what developments between now and Nov. 3.

White has the momentum. The close primary contest could prove an asset to him. He was out selling his candidacy while Governor Sargent was marking time and waiting for the Democratic voters of Massachusetts to pick their nominees for Governor and Lieutenant Governor.

Creative Art Program Announces New Staff

Art Director Mrs. Linda Janower of the Newton Community Service Centers' creative art program today announces six new staff members to head up one adult and several children's courses. "All art programs are compiled jointly by the teachers and projects are the result of many weeks of thought and research," says Mrs. Janower, who points out that this procedure brings to the students the diverse philosophies, resources and experiences of all instructors.

Details of the classes, including schedules and registration information can be obtained from the Community Center at 429 Cherry St., West Newton, or by calling 969-5906 or 5907, she reminds. The staff is comprised of several outstanding and experienced art teachers, supplemented by assistants from the Harvard Graduate School of Visual Education and other interested students.

Sandra Olansky comes to Newton with experience as former art supervisor of the Winthrop Public Schools and art teacher in the So. Braintree High School. She will teach the Tuesday afternoon kindergarten class and the grade one through three classes.

Mrs. Olansky has worked in visual education with children since her graduation from the Univ. of Illinois in 1958 and subsequent graduate work in art education at Boston Univ. She emphasizes the process in art. "What the child discovers, recalls, feels emotionally or reasons as he creates is what is of real value — the joyous, spontaneous expression that he as an individual has to offer," she says.

Avis Jacobson will work with kindergarten children Tuesday mornings. "Mrs. Jacobson offers a special warmth and sense of humor," says Mrs. Janower. She is devoted to broadening a child's background in many fields related to art — such as music, science and dance.

Mrs. Jeanne Holland, who will teach the special two-hour workshop for all elementary children Thursday afternoons, brings a wide variety of experiences with children to the creative art program. She is a graduate of Centenary College for Women and Southern Connecticut State.

complete the hike. A thousand marchers are expected, and hopefully 800 of those will finish the whole trip. In case of rain, the hike will be held on Saturday, October 10, at the same time.

Prospective marchers may obtain information from: The Freeport Office (969-2969 3-6 p.m.), The Freeport House (969-3874), Kathryn Humphrey (244-7444), Judith Davidson (566-7235).

Sponsor cards and other information may be secured from: Newton Free Library Main Office at Newton Corner and Newton South High School and Newton High School libraries; Freeport Office Basement, First Unitarian Church, West Newton; or any Freeport student or adult member.

College. A mother of three, she is working toward her M.A. degree in children's education at Wheelock. She is currently teaching nursery school at the Brookline Brighton Jewish Community Center; has taught summer workshops for fifth and sixth grade children and adults; and has taught nursery through third grade in Connecticut.

Beatrice Lewis and Judy Kelleher are covering mothers and tots classes on Monday and Thursday mornings and afternoons, with Mrs. Lewis as coordinator.

Bea, as Mrs. Lewis is known, aims to give children the chance to have fun in a variety of visual and tactical media in an atmosphere that is free of worry and restraint. She is interested in finding the new and unusual in art media and equipment and projects. Mrs. Kelleher is a graduate of St. Vincent's and a former teacher of adults as well as children. She will also teach a class for mothers and older children.

Carol Lisitt will continue teaching the Adult Painters Workshop on Tuesdays. She is an experienced artist and teacher having worked at both M.I.T. and the DeCordova Museum. She is interested in guiding both beginning and intermediate painters.

Fordham's development and fund-raising efforts; and he will represent the new campus on the University's Administrative Council.

Father Mackin has been rector of Cranwell School, a Jesuit preparatory school since 1964 and in those years brought about many new academic and physical developments.

The new Fordham administrator attended Boston College High School and the College of Holy Cross. He entered the Society of Jesus in 1942 and studied at the New England Province Novitiate in Lenox.

During his course of study as a Jesuit, he taught at Fairfield Preparatory School in Connecticut. He was ordained in 1954.

From 1955 until 1964 he served in a variety of posts at Boston College, first as a theology teacher and later as assistant director of admissions and director of resident students.

In 1959 he became executive assistant to Father Walsh, then the College president. He was responsible for coordinating the $15 million Boston College development program, and he was also involved in faculty and student recruitment.

Father Mackin holds a graduate degree in government from Boston College and a licentiate in sacred theology from Weston College. He is a member of the American Council on Education, the National Catholic Educational Association and the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

In addition, he is a member of the Board of Trustees and of the Board of Directors of Boston College and president of the Advisory Board of Berkshire Community College in Pittsfield, Mass.

On the secondary-school level, he is a member of the Corporation of Cranwell School and of the Advisory Board of Kenwood Academy in Albany, N.Y.

GOP Theatre Party to Be On Sept. 29

Newton's Gala GOP Theatre Party will take place Tuesday evening, Sept. 29 at the West Newton Theatre. It was announced today by Julius L. Masow, Chairman of the Newton Republican City Committee.

Feature of the program will be the comedy, "If It's Tuesday, This Must Be Belgium," starring Suzanne Pleshette and Dan McShane.

During the intermission there will be a social hour which will be attended by Governor Francis W. Sargent and Mrs. Sargent and along list of invited Republican candidates, including Mayor Monte G. Basbas, and Representative Theodore D. Mann.

In making the announcement Masow stated that the purpose of the event was to raise funds with which to bolster the local GOP election campaign. "Finances are of prime importance at this point and we can only look to our fellow Republicans of Newton for this assistance. We want to do all we can to help our excellent, hardworking candidates in their efforts to achieve victory at the polls in November. We are sure that our neighbors will respond to our appeal and will spend an enjoyable evening with us Sept. 29."

Tickets may be obtained from members of the Committee who are Mrs. William L. Bruce, Chairman; Mrs. Nicholas Dawson, Co-Chairman; Julius L. Masow, Joseph I. Weinreb, Mrs. Morgan Campbell, Mrs. Spencer Deming is Treasurer for the Theatre event.

Father O'Hara has been a leader in Bolivia in setting up radio stations, organizing farm cooperatives and instituting community development programs.

For several years, he was director of Radio San Gabriel, the first of three stations established by the North American missionaries.

Father O'Hara's success in working with the people of Bolivia prompted a request that he go to the Dominican Republic in 1965 to aid in establishing community development programs there.

He worked with two other Maryknollers on that assignment for two years before being reassigned to Bolivia.

Father O'Hara was a U.S. Navy Aviation Radioman during World War II and attended Boston College before entering the priesthood. He is the son of Mrs. Florence M. O'Hara and the late Patrick J. O'Hara, 21 Lindberg Ave., West Newton.

He has three brothers: Patrick of Framingham, William of the West Newton address, and Thomas, who is Brother Kevin, a Trappist monk. He also has one sister, Mrs. Frank Napier, 61 Parker Road, Wellesley.

Registration At St. John's Here After Services

On Sunday, September 20, the Church School of St. John's Episcopal Church, 297 Lowell Avenue, Newtonville, opens for registration following worship at the 10 o'clock service of Morning Prayer.

The Church School staff welcomes all children and young people from kindergarten through eighth grade. In addition, nursery care is provided for pre-schoolers regularly during the 10:00 a.m. service.

The Fall and Winter schedule of services has resumed at St. John's as follows: Sunday mornings at 8:00 Holy Communion; Morning Prayer or Holy Communion and Sermon at 10:00 a.m.

A coffee hour to which all are cordially invited in the Loring Room of the Parish House follows the 10:00 a.m. service.

Also, each Wednesday morning at 10:00 a service of Holy Communion is scheduled, followed by the Women's Workshop.

St. John's Gift and Thrift Shop reopens for receiving and selling on Tuesday, September 22, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., and will be open each Tuesday thereafter according to the prepared schedule of the Shop for the 1970-71 year.

The Rev. Edwin S.S. Sunderland, Jr. is Rector.

Citizens for Education Meet Tonight at Church

The first fall General Council meeting of the Newton Citizens for Education (NCE) will be held tonight Thursday, September 17, at 8 p.m. at Grace Episcopal Church, 76 Eldredge Street, Newton Corner.

Representatives elected from eight wards of the city last May will meet with the officers to discuss plans for implementing the organization's goals to involve students, teachers, parents and administrators in understanding and proposing solutions to current educational concerns in the Newton schools.

Lively forums of discussion last year centered on such subjects as educational policy-making, student evaluation of teachers, expansion of the Murray Road School program into the High School, drugs, and political action among students.

Officers for the 1970-71 season are Mrs. Newton Press, President, Mr. Daniel Ryter, first Vice President, Mr. Alex Quinn, second Vice President, Dr. Leston Havens, Treasurer, and Mrs. Lee Speike, Secretary.

The first general meeting of the year will be held Wednesday, October 21, at 8 p.m. at the Second Church, Highland Street, West Newton. The public is cordially invited to attend both of these meetings.

Newton Ballet Company Holds Auditions Sat.

An open audition (inter-racial) for children's and young people's roles in the "Nutcracker Ballet" with the Civic Ballet Center Company of Newton will be held Saturday, Sept. 19.

All girls and boys with an introductory knowledge of classical ballet are invited to attend the 4 p.m. audition at the Metropolitan Civic Ballet Center, Inc., 417 Lexington St., Auburndale (Newton), corner of Commonwealth Ave.

A chaperone of mother, dance teacher or other adult is welcome. Children should wear any kind of simple practice clothes.

A series of performances will be given during Nov. and Dec., five of which are already scheduled. Children from other schools who are accepted for performance will need a note from their current season's dancing teacher certifying his/her knowledge and approval before the child is allowed to attend rehearsals.

Three boys are needed to alternate in the non-dancing title role of the Nutcracker. Boys reasonably built (no faties, please), appearance of age 8-12. No audition is required but child and parent will be interviewed.

Don't be shy - come try. YOU might be chosen! (Somebody will be!) For information, call the Metropolitan Civic Ballet Center, Inc. at 969-2135.

Family problems?

Families are facing many problems today. Separation, divorce, parent-child conflict, financial pressure.

But with God's help, every family problem can be solved.

Hear Harold Rogers, C.S., of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship tell, for instance, how a wife's understanding of God's love for His children brought her unfaithful husband back to his family.

Mr. Rogers will share ideas to help you meet any human relationship problem.

Installing Natural Gas heat means more to us than warming up a "cold house."

To Boston Gas and your Gas Heating Contractor, this is a chance to show you the kind of people we are. People who treat you like a person, not as "just another customer."

So you can expect your local Gas Heating Contractor's personal installation work to be as dependable as cheaper-than-oil Natural Gas heat itself... because it is.

Your Gas Heating Contractor is easy to reach, reliable, and efficient. Call and see for yourself.

And if you switch to Natural Gas heat now, there's even a little bonus: We'll remove your old oil tank at no charge and pay you for its contents. As well as save you from the "Montreal Express."

Gala Show Opens Art Association Season

The Newton Art Association's Annual Fall Outdoor show will be held on City Hall, Walnut Street, Saturday, September 19 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. (In case of rain, Saturday, Sept. 26.)

A competent jury will judge the paintings, with first prize receiving the James King Bonnar Award. Prizes will be awarded to second and third place winners, with two Honorable Mentions.

There will also be an award given to the winner of popular vote by the public.

Mrs. Marguerite E. Daly, Association president, announces that this show with its many "friends" heralds a new look for the organization.

STUDY PAINTING TO BE AWARDED—Ruth Wynn holds her watercolor painting, "Nor'easter" to be awarded at Newton Art Association gala show and drawing, while Marguerite Eichorn Daly, center, Art Association president, and Phyllis Church Maloney, exhibition chairman, admire the storm-tossed scene.

eyesore" and set an "ugly precedent."

Neighbors also maintained that Marriott really doesn't need the facility but merely wants to use it as a 6,000 ft. indoor area which is supposed to allow for the parking of 35 cars as an exhibition room for conventions, seminars, etc. being conducted at the hotel.

This, the area residents who opposed the parking garage claimed, would increase the hotel's facilities and bring added parking and traffic headaches.

The parking garage is planned for the river-end of the present lot and according to Marriott officials the height of the proposed structure would not exceed the crown of the present parking lot.

Twelve property owners from the area remained at Newton City Hall until 1:30 a.m., when the hearing concluded, to register their opposition. None appeared in favor.

A second hearing held Monday night which drew considerable neighborhood opposition involved a petition by the Trustees of the Stigmatine Fathers Inc. for permission to use a large single family home at 16 Fairmount Ave., Newton as a dwelling for five priests, four brothers and about five students.

Attorney Kenneth Zimble representing the petitioners said that the home was purchased for the training and lodging of seminarians while they are educated at local schools. He maintained that the state laws permit religious uses of property without the necessity for rezoning by local officials.

The Stigmatine Fathers are now housed on property in Dover but find it too expensive to maintain, Zimble said. That property is now for sale, he added. In addition, the attorney explained, the Catholic order wants its students to live in the community with people and not in isolation.

He also indicated that this effort is regarded as one which might help to recruit more prospective priests. The number of students is steadily declining, Zimble said.

Alderman William Carmen declared that he was not referring to this petitioner alone, but found it "distasteful" when petitioners come in for permission "after the fact." He claimed that the property is already occupied by the priests.

Zimble responded that two priests have been living there but that he had been told by city officials that this was not in violation of any ordinance.

Several neighbors in the area who appeared to oppose the petition claimed that they did not want any institution in their single family neighborhood.

They said that this would permanently change the character of the neighborhood and would be the opening wedge for other institutions to come into the area. They also expressed fears that the property values would decline.

Mrs. Betty Jean Uzman said "Each of us on the street is already a hostage of the Stigmatine Fathers." She maintained that she is a widow and can't afford a decline in the value of her property.

One area resident expressed fears that if a chapel on the premises were made open to the public it would create traffic problems.

Twenty property owners in the area expressed opposition to the petition at the hearing and one appeared in favor.

A third petition heard on Monday night that drew opposition was by Clarence b. Clay for a zone change on one parcel of land and permissive use on another to locate a parking lot adjacent to Clay Chevrolet Co. The land involved in the petitions is at 13 and 15 Hovey St., Newton Corner. The two lots contain 34,547 square feet.

Clay said that a serious parking situation exists in the area since construction of the Massachusetts Turnpike extension and the air rights development.

He maintained that during periods of automobile inspection and as a result of the current national auto safety campaign, because of which all cars of a particular year may be called back for correction of a manufacturing defect the problem becomes particularly acute.

Neighbors who opposed the petition said the business development should not be allowed to intrude any further into the residential neighborhood. Property values would drop and there would be no benefit to the area, they maintained.

Music School Opens Oct. 5 For 60th Year

The All Newton Music School at 31 Chestnut St., West Newton, will begin its 60th season on Monday, October 5.

The school offers individual instruction in all string instruments, woodwinds, brass, harp, piano, voice, classical and folk guitar, recorder, and percussion, for children and adults. Every instrumental and voice student is eligible to enroll in a musicianship class at not extra cost.

The All Newton Music School is a non-profit organization founded in 1911 by Elizabeth Fyffe. She, along with a group of public-spirited people of Newton, believed that music study of a high quality should be made available for all children and adults — anticipating the widespread influence and contributions of the many community music schools that exist today in the United States.

For younger children, the All Newton Music School offers pre-instrumental music classes, which give the child the necessary ear training, elements of sight singing, rhythm, and melody.

The school also offers a wide array of courses for intermediate and advanced students, children and adults. An adult recorder beginner's class and more advanced recorder workshops are offered in the evening.

The school's dance department consists of creative dance for children age five and older and ballet classes for children eight on up.

Guitar-folk-singing classes are being scheduled for beginners on Saturday morning.

Registration for former students will begin September 14, and for new students on September 21. Catalogues will be sent on request. Please call the school at 527-4553 for further information.

Sunday Services Announced By Lutheran Church

The Rev. Robert L. Griesse, pastor, announces that worship services at the Lutheran Church of the Newtons, Centre and Cypress St., Newton Centre, will be conducted at 9:30 and 10:30 a.m.

Holy Communion is celebrated each Sunday at the early service and at both services the last Sunday of each month. Sunday school meets at 10:30 a.m., and a nursery school is provided for pre-schoolers. A coffee hour takes place in the parish hall after the late service.

On Wednesday evening, Sept. 23, the congregation will gather at the home of Dr. Dick A. J. Brown for discussion about Christian and ethical problems at the high school level. Richard Staley and Alton Earle, both high school teachers, will lead the discussion.

Antoine, said he was "terrified at the thought of more fumes, odors and noise advancing up to my front door."

Clay has "legally petitioned for increased congestion, noise and air pollution without regard to our health safety or welfare," he said.

Four residents appeared in favor of the petitioned and 10 in opposition to it.

Also heard by the Land Use Committee and Planning Board were petitions by Homes, Inc. for permission to construct 11 attached single family residences. Six would be built at 40 Highland Ave. and five at 154 Lowell Ave. in Newtonville. There was no opposition to the petitions.

Other petitions heard involved permission to erect signs. The Howard Johnson Co. seeks to place one on the Red Coach Grille on its building over the Mass. Turnpike at Newton Corner. In addition, Charles Spinelli requested permission to place one at a gasoline station at 367 California St., Nonantum.

The Land Use Committee will meet on Sept. 23 to consider the petitions and will make their recommendations to the full Board of Aldermen for final action at a subsequent meeting.

'Hair Affair' Of Newton At Brockton Fair

Hair Affair of Newton, one of New England's largest importers of wigs will appear for the second time this season at the Brockton Fair which opens on Saturday, September 19 through the 26th featuring their new 1970 collection of synthetic Fall styles fair grounds officials announced today.

The company, the first in New England to appear on any fair grounds in this part of the country, sets-up a specially designed 12x12 round screen house that is colorfully decorated with a floral top canvas at major state fairs.

Hair Affair opened their new main office at 880 Walnut Street in Newton Highlands last March and within the past six months, have opened up nine wig style shops located in Malden, Medford, Fields Corner, Waltham, Needham, Newton, Chelsea, Everett and Dorchester.

According to Mrs. Edith Shane, president of the company and a well-known figure in the beauty field circles, their imported wig collection features an entire wig cap that stretches to conform to the customer's head providing more comfort and a more secure feeling when wearing a wig.

To PREVENT CRIME INCREASE SAFETY SPEED-UP TRAVEL

The "EXACT FARE" PLAN Begins SEPT. 27, 1970

On this date and thereafter, patrons of the M & B must have the exact fare before boarding a bus. This should prove no problem when measured against the safety of the men who operate the buses and the patrons who ride. Bus Drivers, under the "EXACT FARE" PLAN, will carry no money and therefore will not be subject to assault and robbery.

The "EXACT FARE" PLAN has been requested by the ATU (Bus Drivers Union) for the safety of their drivers and the public. It is also the same plan that over 100 city transportation systems have adopted throughout the United States, and they report these criminal incidents have been drastically reduced as a result.

When the change-over to the "EXACT FARE" PLAN takes place, it will only involve the rider dropping the exact fare into the farebox. Travel routes and time schedules will not change.

Please co-operate, remember the date, September 27, 1970. Have the exact change handy. You'll lend a big helping hand in preventing crime. Thank you.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris H. Burakoff of Newton Centre have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Judith Burakoff, to Leonard Margolis. He is the son of Mrs. Bella Margolis of New York and the late Mr. Joseph Margolis.

Miss Burakoff received her bachelor of science degree from Boston University and her master's degree from Columbia University School of Social Work.

Sunday Services For 1st Church of Christ Scientist

All are welcome to attend services this Sunday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, 391 Walnut street, Newtonville beginning at 10:45 a.m.

Emphasis on materialism is a modern form of idolatry and can be counteracted by an understanding of the Ten Commandments as explained in the Lesson-Sermon on "Matter" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, September 20.

"We bow down to matter, and entertain finite thoughts of God like the pagan idolater," states one of the readings from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science. "Mortals are inclined to fear and to obey what they consider a material body more than they do a spiritual God."

The Bible citations include the First Commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me," and the other nine commandments.

MRS. ROBERT E. MARSTON

Miss McCarthy, Mr. Marston Wed In Afternoon Ceremony

The Reverend Thomas Synan officiated at the recent double ring ceremony at the Sacred Heart Church at which Miss Eileen Claire McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. McCarthy of Roslindale became the bride of Mr. Robert E. Marston of Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Marston. A reception followed at the Bell House in Sharon.

The bride, who carried a bouquet of roses, mini-carnations and babies breath around an orchid center, wore an A-line gown of Ottoman applied in lace and a headpiece of lilies of the valley and to which was caught a bouffant veil. She was given in marriage by her father.

Her attendants wore lilac gowns and carried bouquets of pink and purple toned carnations. They were Miss Kathleen McCabe of Mattapan, Mrs. Mary Adams of Roslindale and Mrs. Barbara Menendez of Readville. Miss Victoria Marston of Melrose, a niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Master James Pike of Jamaica Plain served as ring bearer.

Mr. Albert P. Marston was best man for his brother and ushering were Mr. Richard McCarthy, brother of the bride and the Messrs. James Donnelly of Newton, Harold Walker of Woburn and Harold Wenger and John R. Brophy of Waltham.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple are making their home in Norwood. Mrs. Marston, who holds a bachelor's degree in education from Boston State College is teaching in Stoughton. Mr. Marston, also a Boston State graduate holding both bachelor's and master's degrees, is teaching in Boston. (photo by Pagar Studio)

MARGERY STONBERG

Spring Bridal for Miss Stonberg, Mr. Berti

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Stonberg of Chestnut Hill have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margery Elin Stonberg, to Alberto Luciano Franco Berti. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernani Luciano Enrico Berti of Rome, Italy.

Miss Stonberg is a graduate of Winsor School and Radcliffe College, class of 1967. She also attended the University of Grenoble, France.

In Rome Miss Stonberg has worked as a reviser of the forthcoming Italian-English Dictionary, to be published by Sansoni Editors. She has also been an instructor of English at the Shenker Institute.

Mr. Berti received degrees from both the Santa Cecilia Academy of Music and the Duca d'Aosta Technical Institute, both in Rome. Having given operatic concerts in Rome and in Florence, he is now associated with ITALCABLE, Rome.

A spring wedding is planned.

Soiree for Jewish Memorial Hosp.

Carolyn Nodell of Chestnut Hill is among a group of women serving on a committee preparing for a cocktail soiree sponsored by the Evening Auxiliary of Jewish Memorial Hospital. The event will be held on Sunday, Sept. 20, from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Boston Club, 967-969 Commonwealth Ave.

Senior Citizens Alerted to Many Local Services

With the opening of schools for 1970-1971, Aaron Fink, Superintendent, Newton Public Schools, today renewed the offer of the Newton School Committee to permit senior citizens to purchase federally subsidized lunches at the cafeterias in the secondary schools.

He added that they may also attend school athletic events, plays, concerts, and other activities, without charge.

The School Committee has also waived tuition charges for resident citizens 65 and over for Adult Education courses.

There are about 11,000 people 65 and over residing in Newton.

Sisterhood Of Temple Opens Season Sept. 23

The Sisterhood of Temple Mishkan Tefila will hold their opening meeting on Wednesday, September 23 at 12:15 p.m. in the Temple Social Hall, 300 Hammond Pond Parkway, Chestnut Hill.

Highlighting the program will be Sonya Hamlin, TV personality who will deliver a dialogue entitled, "Ethical Values: Their Relevancy In Our Day."

Her educational background includes a Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts degree in Education from New York University. She also has done graduate study in music, dance and theater at the Juilliard School of Music.

Mrs. Jacob Sieve, president of the Sisterhood will preside. Chairman of the day will be Mrs. Eugene Behrman. D'var Torah will be given by Mrs. Alvin I. Lieberman. Program chairmen are Mrs. William Silberstein and Mrs. Morris Levy. Mrs. Edward Bardfield is in charge of hospitality. Coffee and dessert will be served.

Brings New Music Approach To Young People in Newton

There is a new and exciting approach to the musical training of young children in the Newton area. Gone is memorizing by rote, counting up the lines with "Every Good Boy Deserves Fun," and stern admonitions to a seven-year-old to "practice, practice, practice."

Mrs. Sylvia Worters, believes that the beginning is very important, that it sets the tone for the relationship of the child to music. She feels that this relationship should be a natural, friendly bond, one that is woven into the emotional fabric of the child, not forcibly tacked on the outside.

Asked how this is accomplished, Mrs. Worters said, "Through games! We play games, sing songs and make music as a group. Only they are not just ordinary games of songs. They are specially devised to teach the basic concepts of rhythm, melodic structure and interval relationships."

Here Mrs. Worters really seemed to warm up to her subject. "You see, there is a terrible hurdle for the beginner to overcome: rules, notation, note values — even the words for tempo and phrasing are in a foreign language. If we make it fun, teach what's behind the rules, then the first musical experience can be a rewarding, even thrilling time for the child."

To avoid musical drop-outs at age eight, Mrs. Worters likes to start beginners in her classes. The children are involved in all aspects of music: listening, performing, writing it as they listen and even composing songs themselves using a special simplified notation. Watching the children in the class it is clear there is real joy in music in these children and an enthusiasm for learning.

Looking at the specially equipped classroom in the basement of the Worters home in Newton, we saw oversized notes, a wooden G-clef three feet tall, bowling balls and beanbags for musical games, rhythm instruments and, of course, a piano.

After if the approach is a set one year after year, Mrs. Worters said, "No, each year it is different. Last year, we did new, marvelous things with chants and rhymes in various rhythms and meters. The boys in the class especially liked that. And I did too. I adapt each year to the needs of the individual children, their strengths and their weaknesses. And then, sometimes, I change it a little bit more to keep me interested."

Thinking back on our own first year of piano lessons, we wished that we could be that young again.

Lowell ave.; and Judith S. Singer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Singer of 89 Beaumont avenue, all of Newtonville and Joel I. Reisman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernarde Reisman of 28 Fairway drive, West Newton.

From Newton South High winners are George A. Berman, son of Mrs. Frances Graubard of 164 Quinobequin road; Jonathan S. Mark, son of Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Mark of 17 Larch road, both of Waban; Andrew N. Cohen, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur I. Cohen of 16 Country Club road, Newton Centre and Mark A. Ziering, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin B. Ziering of 1376 Walnut street, Newton Highlands.

Also a semifinalist is Elaine M. Stieger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stieger of 115 Manchester st., Newton Centre, a student at Sacred Heart School.

The Semifinalists constitute less than one percent of the 710,000 students who were tested from 17,000 schools nationwide. The Semifinalists may become Finalists by receiving the endorsement of their schools, substantiating their high NMSQT performance on a second examination and providing information about their achievements and interests.

About 96 per cent of the Semifinalists are expected to become Finalists. Each will be considered for one of the 100 National Merit Scholarships which are allocated by state.

Many will also be considered for the renewable four-year Merit Scholarships provided by some 500 corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, trusts, professional associations, other organizations, and individuals. Each Finalist will receive a Certificate of Merit in recognition of his outstanding performance in the program.

Winners of four-year Merit Scholarships may receive up to $1,500 a year for four college years, depending on their individual need. Winners of the National Merit $1000 Scholarships will receive their non-renewable one-time awards upon enrollment as full-time students in accredited U.S. colleges or universities.

High school grades, accomplishments, leadership qualities, and extracurricular activities of the Finalists are evaluated, along with test scores, in selecting Merit Scholarship winners.

NMSS identifies the Semifinalists to all regionally accredited colleges and universities and to certain scholarship-granting agencies and other sources of financial aid. Studies in former years have shown that about half of the Semifinalists received financial aid from sources other than the Merit Program.

Names of the winners in the 1970-71 Merit Scholarship Program will be announced in the spring of 1971. Some 24,800 students have received Merit Scholarships in the fifteen annual programs to date.

University to be asked by the undergraduate student organization to address their annual meeting last year.

She attempts to reduce the impersonalization of courses, even those with 400 students. For example, she learns the name of every student in the class, and she insists that each student see her individually during the semester.

Mrs. Rebelsky received bachelor and master's degrees from the University of Chicago and the doctorate from Radcliffe. She has been teaching at BU for eight years.

During 1965-67 she was on leave in Holland, where she lectured at the University of Utrecht and was also instrumental in setting up psychological services in a group of well-baby clinics.

The APA award consists of $1000 which is given to the Department of Psychology for use by Mrs. Rebelsky in her teaching. The University is asked to contribute a matching amount.

Scholars and their colleagues has been expended or committed through the Merit Program.

Edward C. Smith, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) in announcing the names of the Semifinalists said, "These students deserve credit and honor. They bring credit to their families, communities. They have already demonstrated both high intellectual capacity and a readiness to develop their abilities."

Library Chess Club To Start On September 28

Pull up a chair in Chaffin Eliot A. Cohen, Carl Hall, Main Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, on Monday evening, September 28, at 7 p.m., when the Newton Free Library Chess Club goes into action.

Aldermen Ask Rec. Area On Pine St. Dump Site

A multi-purpose recreation facility on the former Pine St. dump site in West Newton is the object of a just filed resolution.

Aldermen Peter F. Harrington and Richard J. Bullwinkle cite the need of such a facility north of Washington St. to serve "approximately 30 per cent of Newton's population."

They are asking the mayor to direct the Recreation Department to plan a playground to include "some of the following: playing fields for baseball, football, soccer, field hockey and track and field events; a quarter-mile track; lighted courts for basketball, tennis, handball and bocci; volley ball; an open field for children; swings and other tot equipment; a shallow pool which may be flooded in the winter for skating; facilities for winter sports; an outside picnic area planted with trees and shrubs."

The aldermen point out that there is a major facility at the Newton Centre playground, one planned for Cold Spring, but none north of Washington St. to "substantially provide

We'll replace your furnace with a heating system that will make your house feel like a Florida resort all winter.

And we can guarantee the operating cost in writing.

Heat easier. This 24-room house was heated for $15 a week with Radiant Electric Glassheat. It used to cost $24 with oil. No wonder the contractor was glad to guarantee the operating cost.

Thousands of people all over this country and Canada enjoyed Radiant Electric Glassheat in their houses and apartments last winter. Some people have been enjoying this amazingly comfortable, trouble-free heat for over 20 years.

Glassheat is the easiest heating system in the world to install. There are no ducts. No pipes. No tanks.

And Glassheat is direct heat. Unlike other heat systems that only warm the air, Glassheat warms you direct. Glassheat is almost instant heat: seconds after the panel is turned on, your skin begins feeling heat rays like the rays of the sun.

Handsome baseboard installation. Original slab hot-water heat system in this Levitt-built home ruptured. Conversion to Radiant Electric Glassheat was made easily.

Clean heat. This Radiant Electric Glassheat wall panel never deposits a speck of dirt on these lacy curtains. For the first time in years the curtains haven't needed monthly washings.

Ordinary convection heating. Pushes hot air around in a sweeping, circular motion. Pushes dust and dirt too, streaking walls.

Radiant heating with Glassheat. It "broadcasts" heat rays evenly. There's only a 2-degree temperature difference from floor to ceiling. With conventional heating systems, the difference may be as much as 20 degrees.

Since Glassheat is electric heat, there is no burning. So there is no dust or soot. No moving parts either, so there's nothing to break down. And you get a thermostat in each room. If you aren't using a room, turn the heat off and save money.

Why we can afford to guarantee the cost of operating Glassheat.

We expect you to spend less on heating after you install Radiant Electric Glassheat than you're spending right now. For one thing, electric heat is more efficient. No heat goes up the chimney. No heat is wasted in rooms you aren't using. And glass, which is the heart of Glassheat, loses heat more slowly than metal constructions. What's more, if you're in the Boston Edison or Massachusetts Electric area, your power company will give you a special low electric rate and a generous installation allowance. We're glad to tell you how much lower your annual heating bill will be with Glassheat—and guarantee it in writing.

In just a few minutes, without obligation, we can show you how Radiant Electric Glassheat will turn your house into a toasty warm, Florida resort, eliminate heating problems, and cut the cost of heat compared with your present system.

Fill out the coupon or call 237-3994 and ask for Bill Doherty.

School Lunches

A new law enacted during the recent session of the Legislature provides that Newton public schools, as well as all other public schools in Massachusetts, must provide lunches for their pupils not later than September, 1973.

That provision is contained in a law, the principal objective of which is to supply free breakfasts and lunches to needy children. Titled, "An Act Requiring that School Food Services Be Made Available in All Public Schools in the Commonwealth and Providing for Free Lunch to Children," it says in part:

"The board shall establish minimum nutritional standards and regulations for all school food services and shall require all public schools operating on a 'one session day' to make lunches available to children no later than September, 1972. The board shall also require all public schools to make lunches available to children no later than September, 1973. The board shall further require all public schools which draw their attendance from areas with a high number of needy children, as defined by the bureau of nutrition education and school food services in the department, to make school breakfast programs available to children no later than September, 1972."

College Contributions

News reports say that alumni contributions to colleges are down at a time when just about every expense, including the premiums for fire insurance are up. The colleges tend to argue that their alumni should not abandon them in their hour of need. The alumni, on the other hand, seem to feel that about the only effective way they can express their displeasure at the manner in which colleges are now being run is to withhold donations.

A bomb explosion in Wisconsin which killed one person and injured several others and a bomb scare at Harvard were two of the recent spectacular disturbances at colleges. However strange it may seem, the bombs are not—at least not yet—the most disruptive force in colleges. The worst thing about American colleges is that a great part of the effort which should be devoted to studying serious subjects is being spent discussing politics. This is known as making college relevant.

Relevancy means many things to many people. To some students it means that which they understand easily. To others it means current events. To others it means a socialist political platform.

Incidentally, it may come as a shock to some people, that some young professors and students openly call themselves Marxists and socialists. Those terms are no longer McCarthyite smears, even though certain liberal act as though they were.

What most parents do not know, according to some college professors who violently disapprove of the trends at their institutions, is that families of the students themselves often are paying to have professors argue in class about subjects which only a few years ago were discussed in a leisurely fashion over a cup of coffee or a beer. Which is to say that the serious work is very frequently just not getting done.

It is difficult to assume that college administrators do not know that this sort of thing is going on. College administrators, however, are highly educated people, and this permits them to reply to complaints voiced by the less articulate general public with a swarm of half-truths.

For example, one prominent administrator of a local university boasted about the educational opportunities afforded his students by the anti-Cambodia strike last spring. This description of the strike is close to being an outright lie. The strike — and this can be said without praising or condemning it — was obviously aimed at political action and at putting across an already formulated position. Any discussion was about techniques.

Looking ahead to the coming academic year, one can expect periodic disruptions because of the war in Vietnam and on behalf of our ecology. Some voices have been heard asking for time off during the November campaign. But readers may rest assured that if the war were settled tomorrow and if great strides were taken to combat air and water pollution, other issues would be found. Race problems, population explosion, a student voice in university policy: any of these things will serve along with other issues that arise, to touch off minor explosions. Then, of course, there will probably be a few explosions in the literal sense of the word.

Such public indignation as may be provoked by happenings on college campuses will probably have little effect. Universities are close to being a world by themselves.

Silent Mr. Brewster

On the eve of the trial of a defendant in an alleged Black Panther murder case many weeks ago, the city of New Haven suddenly found itself catapulted into an unenviable, near-crisis.

The city experienced an influx of volatile, far-left radicals eager to voice their wildest anti-American rhetoric. A number of downtown business places boarded up their windows and some shopkeepers decided to close up for "the duration." American flags were burned. Viet Cong flags appeared in plentiful supply.

A small segment of Yale students played host to the radicals. They made their dorms available. Yale property was used for "teach-ins", "raps", and "talk-ins." Even a few members of the Yale faculty joined in denunciation of the United States and its institutions.

That was the atmosphere when Kingman Brewster, Jr., succeeded in attracting to himself the spotlight's full glare. Commenting on reports that the trial might be moved to some distant locale he expressed the opinion that it would be impossible for a black revolutionary to get a fair trial anywhere in this country.

If he was seeking to shock all thinking Americans, he succeeded.

To their lasting credit Mayor Richard C. Lee, the chief of police, the court, the district attorney, and defense counsel maintained an ethical silence.

Because he was president of Yale University, one of the nation's oldest and most respected institutions of learning and culture, Brewster's shocking, abominably untimely remarks commanded far more widespread attention than the wild rantings of Jerry Rubin and his ilk.

The trial of Black Panther Lonnie McCluskey got underway. It dragged on through the summer. When Atwood of the LaSelle Junior College faculty in Auburndale — are members of the Board of Directors of the Boston Branch, American Association of University Women (AAUW), for 1970-71. Branch activities for the new season will get under way with an informal picnic luncheon-meeting Saturday (Sept. 19).

Miss Larson, former Vice President for Membership of the Boston AAUW, is continuing on the Branch's Board this year as chairman of the Nominating Committee. A graduate of St. Olaf College with a master's degree in education from Radcliffe College, she is a guidance counselor at John W. Weeks Junior High School, Newton Centre.

Miss Atwood, re-elected Treasurer of the Boston Branch of AAUW, is an instructor in secretarial studies as LaSelle Junior College. A Brookline resident, she holds two degrees from Boston University.

Founded in Boston in 1882, AAUW is the national organization of more than 170,000 women who hold college degrees. Through some 1,700 branches in all 50 states, the Association carries forward a program enabling members "to continue their intellectual growth, further the advancement of women, and discharge their special responsibility to society," as defined in the AAUW By-Laws.

The Boston Mayor did not win the race by a big margin. But he won over a strong opponent, and he won despite handicaps.

He lost his home city by a slim margin but then he won his fight in the other cities and towns of the Commonwealth.

White was as careful as he could be throughout his run for his party's nomination for Governor to avoid causing any scars which could not be healed after the primary.

He was the target of some searing attacks, but he avoided firing any harsh charges, obviously trying to place himself in as strong a position as possible to pull together all segments of the Democratic party after the fight for the nomination.

Kevin White got up off the floor after Maurice Donahue defeated him at the Democratic State Convention in mid-June.

He conceded Donahue the advantage of carrying the convention endorsement, of having the benefit of first place on the ballot, of having the support of organized labor and most of the Democratic politicians across the Commonwealth.

Then he went out and won the nomination without attacking anyone and while looking beyond the primary to the November election. It was quite a performance and feat for Kevin H. White.

Father Drinan Tops Philbin In Dramatic Primary Upset

Perhaps the most dramatic upset of the 1970 primary in Massachusetts was the victory scored by Father Robert F. Drinan, former dean of the Boston College Law School, over veteran Congressman Philip J. Philbin.

This was a fight on which nation-wide attention was focused. Few political experts thought Father Drinan could win. Almost to a man, they expressed the opinion that Congressman Philbin, with 11 terms on Washington's Capitol Hill behind him, would survive the challenge.

Many Catholics were upset that Father Drinan was involving himself in a political battle. A large number of fellow priests agreed that he should not be running.

Politicians felt Father Drinan was following poor strategy in going outside Massachusetts in quest of endorsements. But he obviously did something right.

Now he faces State Representative John McGlennon of Concord in what promises to be an interesting clash. Father Drinan is a Democratic peace candidate. McGlennon is a moderate Republican.

Spaulding Aid To Democrat Weakened Him In Own Party

Former Republican State Committee Chairman Josiah A. Spaulding of Manchester won the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator.

But he did it after going through the political wringer, and he stands today without the good will of many members of his party which he desperately needs as he prepares to meet Senator Edward M. Kennedy in the November election.

Disclosure that Spaulding made a contribution to David S. Nelson, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the John McCormack district, hurt Spaulding within the Republican party.

Nelson is a Black, is chairman of the Board of the jury was out considering the case, super-radicals had trouble recruiting much more than a corporal's guard to demonstrate in front of the courthouse.

McLucas was found guilty of one of the four indictments brought against him.

Then came the most dramatic incident of this minor chapter in the history of American jurisprudence. Theodore Koskoff, chief counsel for the defense, rose in open court.

He thanked the judge for — "A FAIR TRIAL." Mr. Brewster has had no comment. It takes a big man to admit a mistake.

Trustees of the Boston City Hospital and is well qualified to serve in Congress. But Nelson isn't the real issue. Many Republicans were shocked that Spaulding, a GOP candidate for the United States Senate, mixed into a Democratic primary fight and, in effect, endorsed a Democratic candidate by making a $50 contribution to his campaign.

Former Congressman Laurence Curtis was persuaded to help the Republican cause by running as the GOP candidate for Congress in that district.

Curtis needs all the help he can get. He is running in one of the most overwhelmingly Democratic congressional districts in the United States.

He is doing it for two reasons. One is to help the Republican party. The second is that it gives him a forum from which to present the administration story of its conduct of the war in Vietnam.

The ex-Congressman, who for 10 years represented several wards, which are now in the McCormack district, on Washington's Capitol Hill, must have been a bit surprised when he read in the newspapers that Spaulding had made a campaign contribution to a Democratic candidate.

The fight looming ahead between Curtis and Mrs. Louise Day Hicks should be an interesting one even in the old 10th congressional district which was Gerry-mandered out of existence.

Mrs. Hicks, incidentally, made a strong run, as it was expected she would. She conducted a careful, cautious campaign, skirting controversial issues in her efforts to avoid costly mistakes. Her strategy paid dividend at the polling places. She was simply too strong for her opponents.

Mrs. Hicks Is Dem. Winner In McCormack's District

Mrs. Louise Day Hicks was the target of a barrage of attacks in the closing days before the primary. She played it cool, stayed apart from controversy and followed a don't-tip-over-the-applecart strategy.

The Councilwoman from South Boston knew she was in the lead, and she took no chances on losing that advantage.

When the returns were tabulated, her strategy paid dividends.

She coasted home a winner by a comfortable margin over State Senator John Joseph Moakley and David S. Nelson, black chairman of the Boston City Hospital Board of Trustees, who cut each other up to set the stage for a victory by Mrs. Hicks.

Mrs. Hicks will be opposed in the election by former Congressman Laurence Curtis who lives in Newton but who once represented several wards in this district from which John W. McCormack is retiring.

Mayor White Given Rough Treatment By TV Panel

This writer adheres to the school of thought that a candidate for public office knows the risk he is taking when he submits to questioning by a panel of newscasters and announcers on a television show.

But from where we were sitting Boston Mayor Kevin H. White was treated roughly and even unfairly when he was interviewed by a Channel 7 panel on election eve.

It did not seem to us that White was given the same treatment as his three opponents or that he was allowed the same time in which to make his answers, though Mrs. Hicks will be a heavy favorite. Curtis always was able to draw his share of Democratic votes

Secret Of John McCormack's Success Was Long Hard Work

It is a tragedy that John W. McCormack is going out of office while his suspended chief administrative assistant, Martin Sweig, is awaiting an appeal from a court decision sentencing him to jail.

John McCormack is a man of integrity who represented his district, his state and his nation with great honor.

He has a record of tremendous accomplishment and achievements as he prepares to leave public office for a life of retirement and a well-earned rest.

This man should be feted in one of the biggest testimonials Massachusetts ever has seen for what he had done for Boston and the other cities and towns of the Commonwealth.

If a Massachusetts Congressman was seeking something of public good for a community in his district and could not accomplish it, McCormack for years has made a practice of stepping in and using the power of his office to get it done. That was true whether the Congressman involved was a Democrat or a Republican.

The story of McCormack's public life offers an object lesson to the young men and women now starting in politics. It also poses the intriguing question of whether they are willing to pay the price John McCormack paid to achieve great success in politics. Quite understandably, most of them are not prepared to do so.

The secret of John McCormack's great success on Washington's Capitol Hill was plain, old-fashioned hard work.

McCormack did the work other Congressmen didn't want to do. While they were out to dinner, playing cards, enjoying a few drinks with friends or seeing a movie, John McCormack was in his hotel room studying a bill which was coming up for debate and discussion.

John McCormack was not one of the boys. He didn't relax with a drink at a nearby bar after a congressional session. The truth was he didn't drink.

He had dinner with his wife every night in their hotel room unless it was necessary for them to attend a Presidential function at the White House. Washington's social life had no attraction whatever for John McCormack.

After dinner he worked in his room so that when a Congressman asked him about a bill the next morning, he had the answers.

During the last years in the life of Sam Rayburn, John McCormack ran the House of Representatives, and he was completely devoted to Rayburn. When some Congressmen talked about dumping Sam Rayburn from the Speakership because he was too old, John McCormack stopped it sternly and quickly.

The only time McCormack and Sam Rayburn were on opposite sides was at the Democratic national convention in Los Angeles in 1960 when McCormack directed the campaign of John F. Kennedy and Rayburn was the strong hand behind Lyndon Johnson.

John McCormack didn't like to fly in an airplane. He travelled by train between Boston and Washington and still does. He went to and from Los Angeles across the entire country twice by

Dysautonomia Assoc. to Meet Here Sept. 22

The Greater Boston Chapter, Dysautonomia Association's First Annual Raffle Drawing will be held Tuesday, September 22, at 8:30 p.m. at the Parker House, 21 Parker Street, Newton.

Grand prize in the drawing, which will precede the Chapter's first meeting this fall, will be a 12-inch color television set.

Immediately following the drawing, Mrs. Leah VanDam of Newton will conduct a demonstration in the antique French art of glass flower beading. Both individual and floral arrangements will be demonstrated. Refreshments will be served.

An open meeting of the Chapter's Board of Directors will be held at 7:30 p.m.

The Greater Boston Chapter, Dysautonomia Association, Inc., sponsors numerous projects throughout the year to raise funds to underwrite research to find a control and cure for familial dysautonomia, a hereditary disease which afflicts the central an autonomic nervous systems. The Chapter, one of six affiliated with the National Dysautonomia Association, Inc., has more than 350 members.

"Proposition" Performs Here This Sunday

A special performance this Sunday (Sept. 20) will be given by "The Proposition," Boston's longest running show, at a cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Bell of Newton. This performance will be for the benefit of Pregnancy Counseling Service, Inc., a volunteer non-profit organization incorporated last February to assist all women seeking advice on pregnancies.

The entire cast under the guidance of their director, Allan Albert, will perform a series of musical, improvised scenes.

This event will be co-hosted by Dr. Archie Abrams, Dr. Theodore Steinman, Dr. Somer Sturgis and Dr. Louis Sherwood, members of the Board of Directors of Pregnancy Counseling Service, Inc.

Next Week To Be Nat'l Dog Week

Kathryn A. Barry of 364 Linwood ave., Newtonville, is local chairman for National Dog Week which will be from Sept. 20 to 26th. The special week, honoring man's best friend, is to encourage dog ownership and help dog owners to learn how to care for their pets.

Traditional slogan for this week's observance is "Deserve To Be You Dog's Best Friend." National Dog Week observances all over the country are aimed at achieving the following objectives.

1. To educate dog owners in the basics of good dog care.
2. To help every dog find a good home.
3. To increase dog owner participation in dog clubs, obedience training classes, or animal welfare organizations.
4. To pay tribute to the dog's role as a companion and protector.
5. To achieve fair and effective legislation for dogs and dog owners.
6. To encourage dog owners to be considerate of others and to observe laws regarding censing, leashing and curbing.

Quote of the Week

I think student activists should consider very seriously whether their announced dedication to social welfare is as deeply and as ideologically rooted as they claim.

John Koller To Teach At Salem State

John D. Koller of 11A Richardson Rd., Newton, has been appointed to the faculty of Salem State College in Salem, as an instructor in the speech department.

Mr. Koller is director of the Everyman Players. He has taught psychology and theatre courses at Bryant and Stratton College and Suffolk University.

He holds a bachelor of arts degree in psychology and master of arts in theatre from Emerson College and a master of arts in education from Suffolk.

Plan New Art Workshop For Local Kiddies

A new opportunity for Elementary Children who love art is planned in a workshop setting at the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton (969-5906).

The All-Elementary Art Workshop which will meet for two hours Thursdays from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. will give children a chance to work uninterruptedly for as long as they wish in many different art media. (For example string and plaster of paris sculpture; mobiles; wood constructions; stitchery and wall hangings; enameling; clay; puppet making; cork; film-making; batik; tie-dyeing; gadget and finger printing etc.).

They may work with their brothers, sisters, or friends, alone or in small groups. They may choose one media or try several. And they may work at their own paces, choosing the materials that appeal to them, and leaving and coming at anytime within the two hour limit.

Specific requests for materials will be considered. For example a girl who wishes to learn stitchery may request this of the instructor; a boy may decide to spend the entire semester in woodworking, etc.

The class will be taught by Joanne Holland, an experienced art teacher of many years and a mother of three children. Mrs. Holland believes that meaningful learning about art is a shared experience between student and teacher.

She and her assistant will work towards motivating the children and helping them to evaluate their own work objectively. She will help youngsters both as a resource and as a guide as each student explores. And she will try to help him relate his work to his own experience of the world around him.

This class will begin October 20, but advanced registration is strongly recommended. There will be a special Meet-the-teacher session on October 15 when children will be able to indicate their favorite choice of activities. For further information please call 969-5906.

County Leads Bay State in Job Increases

An upward trend in business and industrial employment in Massachusetts is recorded by the U.S. Bureau of the Census from March 1968 to March 1969 with Middlesex County leading in the state.

An increase of 11,300 employees was reported in Middlesex County over a year earlier with Suffolk County second with an increase of more than 5,800.

The state as a whole registered an employment increase of 2 per cent and taxable payrolls in the first quarter of 1969 are 8 per cent higher than that reported for the comparable quarter of 1968.

These figures are published by the Bureau of the Census in the "1969 County Business Patterns, Massachusetts" an annual volume.

Tips On Dips

A little common sense can save dollars and cents when it comes to purse "dips," says veteran Boston police investigator.

Mrs. Josephine Donelan of the Shopping Squad, who has been on the force for 27 years, says the "dips," normally work in pairs — "one opens the bag and the other dips the wallet."

One dip, she explained, will distract or decoy a woman by opening a door with one hand as he unfastens her pocketbook with the other, while the second dip reaches into the purse for the woman's wallet.

Mrs. Donelan, who carries her wallet in a coat pocket offers these tips:

—Choose a safe pocketbook, such as one with handles on each side or drawstrings, instead of ones

First Child, A Boy

Of interest here is the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Milender Abrams which makes known the recent birth of their first child, a son, Charles Jeffrey, in Springfield.

Mrs. Abrams, the former Ina Starr, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Starr of Newton Centre. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Abrams of Newtonville are the paternal grandparents. Mrs. Joseph Abrams, Mrs. Charles Milender and Mrs. Edward Nathanson, all of Brookline, are the great-grandparents.

with a single clasp.

—Try to avoid carrying large amounts of money.

—Be wary of standing in a crowd of shoppers. Dips frequently drape an item of merchandise over their arm to conceal the hand slipping into a pocketbook.

MRS. GENE L. KRONER

Pretty Summer Wedding For Miss Krupp - Mr. Kroner

Temple Emeth, was the setting recently for the marriage of Miss Karen Krupp to Gene Lawrence Kroner.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Krupp of 36 Audubon drive, Chestnut Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. William Kroner of 21 Tennyson road, West Newton, are the couple's parents.

Rabbi Zev K. Nelson performed the two o'clock afternoon service which was followed by a reception in the gardens at the home of the bride's parents.

Given away by her father, the bride wore an empire gown made of Belgian lace and styled with a wedding band collar and long sleeves fashioned with double cuffs.

A matching cap was fastened with her bouffant silk illusion veil. She carried traditional white flowers.

Miss Williams - Mr. Harris Wed At Candlelight Service

Second Church in Newton was the recent setting for the marriage of Miss Nancy Gail Williams to John Grant Harris.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stone Williams of West Newton. Mr. and Mrs. G. Calvin Harris of Ottawa, Canada, are the groom's parents.

The Rev. Ross Cannon officiated at the 7:30 o'clock candlelight service. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride wore a princess gown made of white crepe. The molded bodice had a scoop neckline and bell sleeves. The smartly styled skirt terminated in a chapel length train.

A pearl headpiece was fastened with her Chantilly lace veil. She carried a cascade of cymbidium orchids, miniature carnations and imported white heather.

Miss Kathleen Williams, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while another sister of the bride, Miss Sheila Williams, was bridesmaid. They were dressed alike in flowered organza in shades of bronze, avocado, lavender and gold, with long sleeves. They carried old fashioned nosegays made of daisy mums in bronze and lavender to match the wreaths they wore in their hair.

Roger Harris of Ottawa served as his brother's best man. The ushers were Roger Harrison Williams of West Newton, brother of the bride, and Roger Victor Williams of Ottawa.

Following their honeymoon, Mr. Harris and his bride will live in Hull, Province of Quebec.

The bride is a graduate of Wilson College. Her husband was graduated from McGill University.

Miss Medoff - Mr. Rubin Wed At Newton Temple

The marriage of Miss Susan Frances Medoff to Ronald Louis Rubin took place recently at Temple Shalom of Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Medoff of 555 Weld street, West Roxbury, and Mr. and Mrs. George J. Rubin of Weston are the couple's parents.

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman officiated at the six o'clock service. A reception followed at the temple.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown made with a high neckline and elbow length puffed sleeves. A high crowned cap held in place her lace edged illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white flowers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Harriet Burstein of Rochester, N.Y., sister of the bride. Mrs. Judith Masters of Framingham, Mrs. Harriet Rubin of Brockton, Mrs. Carol Strulowitz of Marlboro, sister of the groom, Miss Barbara Nedbor of Great Neck, N.Y., and Miss Gail Nedbor of Sands Point, N.Y., both cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The best man was Ronald Strubwitz of Marlboro, brother-in-law of the groom.

Home Residents Are Entertained

The residents of Newton convalescent Center, 25 Army Street, West Newton, were entertained by a talent-packed show on Thursday, September 10. Mr. David Connors of Framingham, a teacher at the New England Conservatory of Music performed and directed a piano singing and group participation.

Miss Margaret Jones of Newton and Mrs. Noreen Benoit of Woburn, staff members at the Newton Convalescent Center, augmented the program by performing solos and leading the residents in group song.

All favorite songs and special requests were performed with Mr. Connors at the piano. Refreshments were served.

Ushering were Philip Bechick of Burlington, Arthur Marcus of Newton, Norman Zarkin of Norwood, Murray Cohen, also of Norwood, and David Burstein of Rochester, N.Y., brother-in-law of the bride.

Following a trip to Nantucket, Mr. and Mrs. Rubin will live in Hyde Park.

The bride attended Long Island University and Boston University. She is associated with Continental Insurance Company, Boston.

Mr. Rubin attended the University of Toledo and is affiliated with New England Gift Associates, Newton. (Photo by Zolan Studios).

(THE CURLY LOOK)
How is the curly look for hair accomplished?
The cut is generally short at the bottom with a tapered neckline. The large rollers are out, and the small, permanent wave rollers and pin-curl clips are in.
The rollers are placed in all directions. The pin-curl clips are used around the face and at the sides. The theory is that small rollers give small curls.
A setting secret is to avoid taking too much hair for each curl. Strands to be set on rollers should be only as wide as the center portion of the roller. A general rule in sectioning hair for pin-curl clips is to take a strand about one quarter inch wide for each pin curl. The purpose is to get curls, not clumps.

The rule for the comb-out is to follow the natural tendency of the hair. Minimize teasing and spraying.

Election-

Paul H. Guzzi of 9 Joseph road, Newton, won the Democratic nomination for the seat in the Massachusetts House of Representatives formerly held from the 12th Middlesex legislative district by the late Representative H. James Shea, Jr. Guzzi was a former Harvard football star and the son of a father well known in Newton a decade ago.

Representative Paul F. Malloy topped the field of Democratic House candidates in that district with 2765 votes as he gained Democratic renomination. Guzzi drew 2587 votes running only 178 behind Malloy, and defeating Democratic State Committeewoman Betty Taymor by a scant 121 votes. Mrs. Taymor received a total of 2466 votes.

Malloy and Guzzi will be opposed in the November election by Robert Gaynor of 109 Cabot street and Marshall D. Glen of 133 Temple street who were unopposed Tuesday for the Republican House nominations in the 12th district. Gaynor polled 1280 votes on Tuesday and Glen 1237.

Alderman Peter F. Harrington finished fourth in that 12th district Democratic House contest, drawing 1315 votes. James R. Burke was fifth with 1196 votes, and Alderman Thomas B. Conannon, Jr., was sixth with 1026. Harrington was endorsed by Mrs. H. James Shea, Jr., widow of the late legislator.

David J. Mofenson of 780 Chestnut street and Robert Cohen of 215 Cypress street won the two Democratic House nominations in the 13th Middlesex district.

The Democratic vote totals in that district were 4725 for Mofenson, 4315 for Cohen and 1884 for John E. Young of 2313 Washington street, Newton.

Representative Theodore D. Mann and Police Safety Officer Charles E. Feeley, unopposed for the Republican nominations in the 13th district, polled 1896 and 1657 votes respectively.

Josiah A. Spaulding, who won the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate and the right to stand against Senator Edward M. Kennedy in the November election, topped John J. McCarthy of Chatham in Newton, but not by as much as had been expected.

Newton gave Spaulding 2076 votes and McCarthy 1815, a margin of only 261 for the liberal Spaulding over the conservative McCarthy.

Representative John McGlennon topped Suffolk University Professor Vahe A. Sarafian by better than a 2-1 margin in their contest for the Republican nomination for Congress.

The Newton totals were 2464 for McGlennon, who will contest with Father Drinan in the November election, and 1069 for Sarafian.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas received an excellent complimentary vote in view of his position on the ballot. Basbas is carrying the Republican banner in the State Senate fight in the November election. The turnout of voters in Newton was larger than had been predicted. A total of 20,125 voters — 15,938 Democrats and 4,187 Republicans — went to the polls. This was remarkable in view of the rain on Tuesday.

New York and Boston Museum Exhibit Opens

Mrs. Franklin K. Hoyt of West Newton is one of the members of the Ladies Committee planning the opening festivities for the exhibit this fall at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts of 100 masterpieces from New York's Metropolitan Museum.

The exhibition is part of an unprecedented exchange between two of America's greatest museums and has been arranged as part of the celebration of their Centennials this year.

The display will feature works which range over nearly seven centuries from Giotto of Morris Louis, highlighting the great periods and styles of Western art with the masterpieces of their most celebrated artists.

The show will open to the public today and will continue through November 1.

Pioneer Women Meet in Newton

The Metropolitan-Kinneir Chapter of the Greater Boston Council Pioneer Women will have their first meeting of the new season tonight (Sept. 17) at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Paul Goodman of 5 Voss Terrace, Newton.

Mrs. Paul Libenson, president, will conduct the meeting and will welcome members of the Nitzanim-Shalom Chapter as guests at this meeting. Refreshments will be served and a social hour will follow.

The following members, who have visited Israel this summer, will give their impressions of the country: Mrs. Morris Eisenberg, Mrs. Max Spivack, Mrs. Eli Segal and Mrs. Jacob Rassen.

MRS. DAVID C. ISENBERG

Two Rings Exchanged At Isenberg - Leshay Wedding

Miss Dianne Sandra Leshay, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leon Leshay of Newton Centre was married on Sunday, September 13, to David C. Isenberg. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Isenberg of Providence, R.I.

Mrs. Jerrold Greenberg of Norwood was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. John Ladge of Norwood, and Miss Jane Klein of Newton. Young Dobritte Joslin, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Similarly costumed, they wore yellow A-line skirted empire gowns trimmed with embroidery at the cinched necklines, flowing bishop sleeves and high rise waistlines. Wearing matching Dior bows, they carried felt baskets of multi-shades of yellow and white daisies, roses and lilies.

European Trip Followed Tremblay - Broderick Bridal

Planning to live in Roslindale when they return from a trip to Germany and Austria are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Tremblay (Patricia M. Broderick), who were married recently at the Blessed Sacrament Church, Jamaica Plain.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Broderick of 15 Whitford Street, Roslindale, are the bride's parents. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tremblay of Billerica.

Mr. Broderick gave his daughter away. She wore a full length white organza gown marked with jeweled lace and styled with a high neckline and long sleeves.

A matching sequin and lace Juliet cap was fastened with her bouffant illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor was Miss Mary A. Galeota of Roslindale. The bride's three sisters, Miss Susan M. Broderick, Miss Ellen A. Broderick and Miss Elizabeth A. Broderick, all of Roslindale, were bridesmaids.

Dry Beans High in Energy And Protein, Low in Cost

Hullo, old bean — what say we discuss your virtues today? After all, you're worth getting to know better. You're a high protein, high energy food that's low in cost. And you supply Vitamin B and iron, too.

Now, dry bean, you've made it onto the Plentiful Foods List of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service. So you're an especially good buy for economy-minded homemakers.

You cook up a storm, dry bean. One pound makes about seven to nine three-fourths cup servings.

With your mild taste and smooth texture, you team well with something salty or sour, fresh and crisp, or bright and spicy.

You're a real winner in unusual and nourishing salads. Here are some ideas for using cold, cooked beans in combination salads.

Lima beans and peanuts, moistened with salad dressing mixed with tomato ketchup. Red kidney beans, chopped green pepper, raw onion rings, and sliced tomato.

Beans, chopped pickle or pickle relish, chopped cooked beets on lettuce and dandelion greens.

And that's only the beginning, bean. You're great in soups, casseroles, stews, and sandwiches. So hang in there.

bean. With all you've got going for you — including a crop this year that's expected to be three percent above 1969, when there was a surplus supply — your popularity can do nothing but climb!

Here's a menu for a day's good eating using dry beans and other foods that are plentiful and reasonable in price:

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Waffles with Syrup
Milk

Coffee or Tea
LUNCH
Vegetable Soup
Cheese Omelet
Fresh Plum

This recipe for MEXICAN CASSEROLE uses plentiful dry beans and makes a zesty and hearty dinner main dish:

3 cups cooked dry beans, or lentils
1 cup cooked or canned tomatoes
2 tablespoons chopped green peppers

1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
Garlic salt
4 strips bacon

TO PREPARE: Combine all ingredients except bacon. Turn into greased baking dish. Arrange bacon strips over top. Bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) 1 hour. Makes 4 servings.

CURRENT PLentifuls: Peanuts and Peanut Products, Canned Peaches, Dry Split Peas, Canned Applesauce.

To Study At Berklee

Stephen Levenson of 33 Bellevue street, Newton, will study piano as a private student in Berklee College of Music, Boston.

Berklee offers a B.M. degree with majors in music education, composition and applied music.

Nora Irinova Resumes Classes In The Dance

Nora Irinova is resuming her classes in ballet at her Newton Highlands studio at y Hartford St.

The well-known ballet mistress and choreographer teaches also in New York, Philadelphia and at Radcliffe College in Cambridge, and in summer is in charge of the dance department at Belvoir Terrace, a fine arts center for girls in Lenox. Part of her time in Lenox is spent at Tanglewood, where she teaches under the auspices of Boston University.

Nora Irinova began her studies with Leticia de la Vega, Esme Buines (current director of the corps de ballet at La Scala in Milan), and Michael Borowsky. After outstanding performances in March, 1955 in the Colon and Municipal theaters in Argentina, she left for what turned out to be an extremely active career in Europe.

She was presented at La Scala, performing the famous scene of Four Steps of Puri. Invited by Tatiana Gsovsky, she staged the complete "Swan Lake" in Munich. She made her debut in Italy at the Lorentine Music Festival, considered the peak of artistic dance expression in Europe. As first solo ballerine she danced the ballets of Aurel Millos, "Prometheus" by Beethoven and Glazunoff's "Four Seasons."

She appeared in the Venetian International Festival in an Homage to Respighi, an open air spectacle prepared by Margaret Walman on the Isle of Wight and choreographed for the ballet "The Birds," based on the Italian "Lauda per la Navita Signore." She also danced for both English and Italian television in Milan, doing choreography at La Scala concurrently, and performing as prima ballerina in "Manon" and many other ballets.

In 1956-57 Miss Irinova worked at the Massimo theatre in Palermo as director of choreography and ballet mistress. During this same time she did the choreography for several operas and had exceptional success in the starring role of "The Adventures of Pinocchio" with music by Marinuzzi and choreography by Nieves Poli. Critics rated as outstanding her appearances at the Carlo Felice Theatre in Milan, the Opera de Roma at NEWTON WORKERS FOR KING GALA—Newton (Women's American) ORT members, left to right, Mrs. Monte Yoffe, Mrs. Donald Perrin, Mrs. Herbert Kaufman, and Mrs. Jason Diamond, Central Section Education co-ordinator, who are working on committee planning "King for a Night" gala at Boston Music Hall, Sept. 27, for benefit of ORT School of Engineering in Jerusalem. Also on the program with comic Alan King are songstress Jule Budd, and Jess Cain, Boston radio personality, who will act as master of ceremonies.

Century Club To Meet

The New Century Club will hear Martin Agronsky, renowned news analyst, comment on the Middle East crisis, at its opening meeting of the fall season to be held at the Sidney Hill Country Club on Sunday, Sept. 27. A social hour at 6:15 will be followed by dinner at 7:15. The meeting will take place after dinner.

The Reggio Theatre, the Donizetti of Bergamo, the Paris Opera, the Austrian Opera, Covent Gardens in London, and La Scala where she collaborated with Margaret Walman.

In order to return to Argentina, she refused contracts in Yugoslavia, Turkey, Parma, Viareggio, etc.

For the 1958-59 season, she was ballet mistress and director of choreograph of the Colon Theatre in Buenos Aires. She managed many choreographic spectacles, with special success in Bizet's "Symphony." She was director general of her own company, considered one of the finest in the Americas until she came to the United States with her husband in 1965.

BU Urban Degrees Awarded Two Here

Two residents here are among the first four to receive Boston University's new design who has been active in a wide variety of civic affairs in Newton, anticipates applying his training both in his job, and working informally toward such goals as increased low and moderate income housing in Newton.

Receiving their diplomas Sunday at the University were Victor M. Kumin of 40 Bradford Rd. and Marian Riss.

B'nai B'rith Women Install Officers Here

Emeth Chapter of B'nai B'rith women, District 1, announce that they will celebrate their institution and installation of officers, Wednesday evening, September 23 at Newton Highlands Women's Club, Newton Highlands.

All young married and single women who would like to become charter members are invited to telephone Mrs. Bertram Alkon, president, of Brookline, Mass. or B'nai B'rith headquarters at 566-2067.

Women Voters Meeting Will Discuss Women in Politics

Women in Politics will be the subject of an open meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Newton, to be held on September 24 at the Pierce School in West Newton at 8:00 p.m.

The panel of speakers discussing the role of women in government and politics will include Rep. Mary Newman, and Betty Taymor of Newton, School and staff physician at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. They have three children.

The third speaker and moderator will be the Commissioner of Civil Service, Nancy Beecher, who will talk about opportunities for women in administrative positions in government.

Responding to the current interest in women's roles, the speakers will deal with some of the pertinent issues concerning women in politics. Although it is fifty years since women won the vote, they still hold few prominent political positions.

Massachusetts has only one state Senator and four Representatives who are women; at the federal level, women are represented in Congress by only one Senator and ten Representatives; while other countries have women Prime Ministers, the United States has only twice had women in Cabinet posts. The League's meeting will be concerned with how to attract more qualified women to public office and government service.

The panel will bring to these issues a wide range of experience. May Newman of Cambridge has been a State Representative from the Second Middlesex District for fifteen years.

Before holding public office she was active in the League of Women Voters and served as both legislative chairman and Vice President of the state League. In the Legislature, Mrs. Newman was a sponsor of the bill to provide coterminous terms for key executive appointments. She was also a leader in the House-cut fight and led the signature drive for that petition.

Among the many bills for which Mrs. Newman has been responsible are a bill to broaden employment opportunities for women, the parole reorganization bill, and a bill to authorize public employment of vocationally trained retarded persons.

As a member of the "low Income Housing Commission," she has helped draft and enact numerous housing bills. Mrs. Newman is married to Edwin B. Newman, Prof. of Psychology at Harvard University.

Retired Persons Chapter To Meet Here Sept. 21st

The Fall Meeting of the Newton Chapter of American Association of Retired Persons opens Monday, September 21, at St. Paul's Parish hall, 1135 Walnut street, Newton Highlands.

Coffee and social hour at 1:30 p.m. Singing conducted by Frank Pickett, followed by President Richard B. Simmon's welcome.

The program director, Harold E. Marr, brings Charles Holland, Needham, of the Retired Men's Club, the featured speaker. Last year Mr. Holland took us on a trip across our country. We welcome him back with his Nova Scotia co-ordinated tape recorder slide talk. Included will be St. Johns — a trip around Gaspe — Halifax — together with other interests. Admission is free and all interested persons are invited to attend.

The AARP is a non-profit, non-partisan organization of persons age 55 or older, whether retired or not. The $2.00 per year membership provides a beautiful magazine having information on national developments and local activities of practical value. An included News Bulletin is included. The founder, Dr. Ethel Percy Andrus, stressed the purpose of reinvigorating the lives of older persons. Further information at meeting.

Office copying machines use between 1 and 2 million tons of paper a year.

Now. The world of science has been put all in one place.

Mr. Wizard's Science Center. It's a unique kind of place. A place where students as well as amateur and professional scientists and naturalists can buy materials and equipment and get information to advance their interests — all under one roof. Two floors full of equipment and apparatus, chemicals and supplies, toys and games, books and magazines, and construction materials. And as if that isn't enough, the personnel all "Speak Science" and there is workshop space for rent.

So if you are struggling with a Science Fair project or watching bulbs grow or launching rockets or looking for a gift for somebody who is, this is your new place.

Local Woman Is Speaker at Doll Artist Meeting

Mrs. Mary Russo of 129 Edinboro St., Newtonville, well known in Doll Club Circles, was guest speaker at the opening meeting of the fall and winter season of Minute Man Crafts, Inc. of Massachusetts. A large audience of members and friends heard Mrs. Russo speak about and show slides of hand-crafted dolls of the National Institute of American Doll Artists. The Newton woman is an active member of this organization. The N.I.A.D.A. consists of many talented and renowned artists who are world famous for their beautiful, blue-ribbon winning dolls at doll shows. All types of dolls were shown, kings, queens, famous people in the political world and movies, and lovely life-like children dolls. These dolls are all collector's items and many of them are in famous collections.

Newton Students On Dean's List

Eight students from the Newtons were named to the Dean's list at the University of Rochester for scholastic excellence during the Spring semester there. They are: Mitchell R. Bornstein of 57 Westgate road; Judith V. Branzburg of 343 Cabot st.; Scott E. Lunin of 25 Brandeis road; and Richard H. Slivkin of 81 Oak Hill street, all of Newton. Also Harold H. Lichtin of 195 Morton st., Richard I. Miller of 25 Alderwood road and James M. Snider of 79 Elmwood street all of Newton Centre and Roger S. Wyner of 15 Bound Brook road, Newton Highlands.

There is less than one resident for every 3,000 acres in Nevada.

South Harriers Switch Again; Face Dual County Competition

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

For the second year in a row the Newton South cross-country team moves into a new league.

The new teams on the schedule — Weston, Ashland, Acton-Boxboro, Bedford, Lynn, 3 field, Westwood, Wayland, and Lincoln — Sudbury who traditionally have first-rate individuals, but lack depth.

With last year's squad, which was only 3-5 in the rugged Suburban League South would have been much closer to the league roof. But key losses have weakened the team and it shapes up the same as the rest of its new league.

Far and away the best runner the harriers possess is senior Chuck Pottery, last year's number one man who has toured the home 2.6 mile course in an excellent 15:59. Pottery earned a 20th place medal in the Suburban League meet and went on to record mile and 2-mile times of 4:49.4 and 10:24.8.

Captain Mike LeBlanc will be the second man. He has covered the home route in a good 14:38.

There is quite a drop after that and here is where the question marks come into play. The remaining fastest runners, all of whom should run varsity are seniors John Seeler, 15:44 and Paul Nissen, 16:23 and juniors Ed Forman, 15:57, Pete Harvey, 16:16 and Ayran Halpern, 16:16. Matt Williams, who surprised in his sophomore year with a good 15:05 ran into difficulties during the track seasons and must also be listed as a question.

South was considerably weakened by the graduation losses of Captain Steve Sahl, Dave Glaser, Scott Lampert, and John Scheff.

Glaser was third man and Sahl fifth last season. The real blows to this year's hopes came in the unexpected departures of Dick Dickinson (14:38), who moved to Minnesota and Steve Reef, (15:21) who is attending private school.

The ingredients are there and the opposition is weaker. If all the pieces fall into place the South harriers could experience their first winning season since 1966.

Pollution Theme Of Garden Club's Meeting Sept. 29

Howard Whitmore, Jr., former Mayor of Newton and M.D.C. Commissioner for Gov. Volpe, will address the first meeting of the Newton Highlands Garden Club. Pollution is on the agenda for the evening. "Cleaning Mother Nature's House" is the title of Mr. Whitmore's talk. The meeting will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Walnut Street, Newton Highlands, on September 29th at 8:00 p.m. Tickets on sale at the door. Refreshments will be served.

NAA Auxiliary Meets Sept. 29

The Newton Athletic Association Women's Auxiliary will hold a meeting Monday evening, September 29th at the Newton South High School, at 8:00 p.m. This meeting is to familiarize all the new mothers with the program and make plans for the upcoming October 24th Masquerade Dance. All mothers of boys participating in the N.A.A. youth football league are automatically recognized as members of the Women's Auxiliary. The women look forward to a prosperous year and hope to contribute their share in helping develop and equip the boys.

Cecilia Society Organizes For 1970-71 Season

Prospective members from the Newtons are invited to rehearse with the Cecilia Society, one of Boston's oldest established choral groups (now in its 95th season), who met for the first rehearsal of this season on Monday. Mrs. Stephen Rosenfeld, membership chairman, of 44 Charlotte road, Newton Centre, can be contacted for further information at 244-8575.

The Society has reappointed Mr. Donald Teeters as their conductor for the coming year. An honors graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, he has been assistant conductor for the Boston Chorus pro Musica and is currently assistant conductor of the Handel Hayden Society. During his past two years with the Cecilia Society he has established a unique musical identity for the 50-member chorus on the Boston music scene. Mr. Teeters has planned a three concert season, consisting of an all-Mozart program for Nov. 15, works of Handel for March 14 and an acappella program for June 20. Rehearsals are at All Saints Church, 1773 Beacon st., Brookline.

Dr. Margaret MacVicar, an Associate Professor at M.I.T., will lead the discussion entitled "New Trends in Education at Tech." All M.I.T. faculty and staff wives are cordially invited to join the group. To obtain more information please contact Mrs. David N. Wormley of Needham.

Soccer Hopes Uncertain At Newton South

Most of the 1969 Newton South soccer team graduated, and if ever a team faced a season with more uncertainties it hasn't been in recent times.

Thankfully, the backbone of the team's defense All-Suburban goalkeeper Dave Cohen is one of the few returning lettermen. Steve Aronson, Henry Gilman, Rich Dizen, Fred Klashman, Alex Landy, Dave Smith and Salid Zarrabian are the others, boasting a total goal production last year of zero.

South was 2-10 in the Suburban League last year and the change of leagues isn't going to help much with a team lacking any experience.

Hole-In-One At Pine Brook

Gus Brown of 280 Boylston St., Newton Center may win a trip for two to Scotland plus $1,000 cash as a result of scoring a hole-in-one recently at the Pine Brook Country Club.

Brown has been entered in the Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes, a national competition for golfers. The winner will be announced early next year.

Sacred Heart Opens Courses For Auditing

The Newton College of Sacred Heart at 885 Centre St., Newton Centre today announces that its regular curriculum will open to audit.

It also is offering to the public education courses that may be applied towards certification; a new gourmet cooking class and an educational film series.

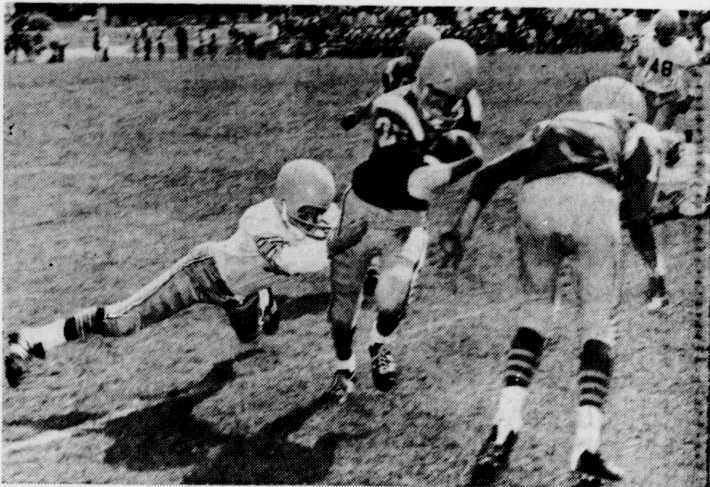

Registration for the auditing must be done in person at the college registrar's office, in Stuart House on the campus, not later than Wed., September 23. There will be a charge for the course.

The non-credit gourmet course will be given by Jacques Noe, member of the Epicurean Club of Boston, in eight two-hour sessions, 7 to 9 p.m., every other week beginning Wednesday, Sept. 23. There will be a charge.

Free to the public will be the Kenneth Clark Civilization Films, recently shown on Channel 2. They will be Wednesday evenings at 8 p.m. at the Barry A. Science Auditorium.

Gay Nineties Party Sat.

The Couples Club of Temple Israel of Boston reminds Newton couples who may be interested that they are opening their season with a Gay Nineties Party this Saturday night at 8:30 in the Temple Israel Meeting House. The party will feature Charles Chaplin movies, a piano and new couples are most welcome.

NEWTON SURPRISES — The Newton Pop Warner team surprised all in the Bay State Division of the Pop Warner League when they pulled a 14-6 upset by defeating the defending champion Walpole eleven. One of the outstanding players for the Lions was halfback Rick Paglia, who is making one of his several gains in the contest as Walpole lineman Mike Connolly closes in to make tackle. NAA Lions Score Upset in 14-6 Pop Warner Win Over Walpolers

The Newton Athletic Association Lions pulled an upset surprise victory over the Walpole Golden Knights 14-6 and definitely established itself as a contender for the South Shore Pop Warner Bay State League crown. Walpole is defending two-time champs and owners of a 20-4 mark over a three year span.

The Lions, in addition to scoring 14 points had two touchdowns by Kevin Hoban nullified by penalties. Two plays later Punter Bob Kinsella was nailed at the three and Walpole quarterback Bob Iaello scored Walpole's only T.D. The conversion attempts failed.

Most of Walpole's offense was tallied in the first half as they accumulated 70 yards of their 117 yard total. Third period action saw Hobans second T.D. try on an interception nullified by a clip.

Newton's pass defense was superb limiting the Golden Knights to one completion in seven attempts and nine yards. In addition to Hoban's interception, Bob Kinsella and linebacker Matt Sabetti had interceptions. Cornerback Jack Ryan also had one which was nullified by a penalty.

Newton mounted their first sustained drive of the day starting at their own 34 and ending at the Walpole 20 via a fumble. Newton held defensive tackle Ron Collins partially blocked the punt. Newton then marched in from the 33 with halfback Kevin Hoban scoring. Conversion points failed.

The Walpole coaches declared Newton as the "team to beat" after observing the game.

One of Newton's bright spots was the defensive unit which was Greg Moan, Jack Ryan, Peter Toyias, Dennis Cameron, Dave Prince, Ron Collins, Rick Paglia, John Vizakis, Kevin Hoban, Bob Kinsella and Matt Sabetti who thwarted the last Walpole scoring threat with an interception. Halfback Paglia averaged 7 yards per carry while halfbacks Hoban and John Vizakis averaged 5.5 and 4 yards per carry respectively.

Other Newton Athletic Association action had the Junior Midget Mustangs tying the Norwood Red team 6-6. Outstanding players were fullback Ed Tompkins who rammed his way into the end zone for his team's only score. David Chused and Peter Arnold were also outstanding throughout the game.

The brand new Junior Midget Tigers in their first game ever bowed to the Walpole Jr. Midgets 40-0. Walpole, however, is picked to go the distance.

This Week

Saturday, September 19, the Tigers will host the Dedham Wildcats at Newton Highlands Playground at 10 a.m.

The Lions will meet the Natick Redmen in a battle of early undefeateds (1-0). The Junior Midget Mustangs will play the Natick team immediately following.

The Pee Wee teams will open their season the week of September 26. Teams continuing to work out at Oak Hill School, Newton Highlands, Newton Centre and Waban.

good power blocking. Rick also rushed the conversion with some pro-type moves.

Walpole took the ensuing kick-off at their own 20 and marched to the Newton 7 before the Lion defense stiffened and took over on downs. In a third and seven situation from the 10, Quarterback Hoban with nifty footwork and aided by a Greg Moan block scampered 90 yards only to be called back for a motion penalty. Two plays later Punter Bob Kinsella was nailed at the three and Walpole quarterback Bob Iaello scored Walpole's only T.D. The conversion attempts failed.

ARMY TAKES OVER JORDANIAN GOVT.; CIVIL WAR THREATENED

KING HUSSEIN of Jordan placed his government in the hands of the Royalist army Wednesday, and 11 Palestinian guerrilla groups united under the command of Yasser Arafat in twin moves, which although aimed toward peace, threatened to spark a civil war. Arafat, chief of both the Palestinian Central Committee and the major commando unit, Al Fatah, accused Hussein of trying to crush the Palestinian movement and make peace with Israel. But he issued an order to all guerrillas in Jordan forbidding them to fire on army troops except in self defense. There was some shooting in Amman after nightfall Wednesday, but gunfire is a nightly occurrence in guerrilla camps within the capital. Hussein announced the new military government following the resignation of the civilian cabinet led by Premier Abdel Moneim Rifai.

MILITARY GOVT. IMPERILS FATE OF 54 WESTERN HOSTAGES

THE INSTALLATION of a military government in Jordan Wednesday ensnared in further political complications the fate of 54 Western hostages held by the Palestinian guerrilla organization that hijacked their planes 10 days ago. "This is unfortunate," said a source close to the negotiators seeking release of the hostages. "It will almost certainly damage our chances of getting those people out quickly." Political sources said the hostages could become pawns for use by the guerrillas in any confrontation with the Jordanian army or government.

WAVE OF TERRORIST BOMBINGS SWEEP BUENOS AIRES

A WAVE of indiscriminate terrorist bombings swept Buenos Aires Wednesday as supporters of ousted dictator Juan D. Peron called for "war" in observance of the 15th anniversary of his overthrow. Principal targets of the Peronists were the homes of the military leaders and government buildings. By official count, 14 small bombs exploded for the most part scorching doorways and rattling windows. But two policemen suffered injuries disarming bombs. A "communiqué" issued by "Peronist Armed Forces" claimed responsibility for the attacks. The groups called for the overthrow of the government and vowed all-out "war" against the country's oligarchy and military.

COMMUNISTS BLOW UP 2 BRIDGES BEHIND CAMBODIAN FORCES

COMMUNIST TROOPS Wednesday blew up two more bridges behind an isolated Cambodian task force, preventing a relief column from reaching the unit which had been involved in the biggest Cambodian offensive of the war. Western sources said the entire task force command, headed by Brig. Gen. Neak Sam, flew by helicopter to Phnom Penh for high-level conferences on how to extricate the trapped force. It was caught in a Communist vise at Svay Meas on Highway 6, about 49 miles north of Phnom Penh. In South Vietnam, Communist gunners shot down 10 U.S.-built helicopters and destroyed four of them.

NIXON URGES COLLEGES TO CLEAR OUT 'ACTIVISTS'

PRESIDENT NIXON, making a rare visit to a college, declared at Kansas State University Wednesday that "destructive activists" should be cleared from the nation's campuses. He was heckled by a small group of the youths he criticized. In some of his toughest remarks so far on radical dissent on campus, the President told a Kansas State University audience of 15,500 that responsible students must "stand up and be counted." He continued: "Only they can save higher education in America. It cannot be saved by government. To attempt to blame government for all the woes of the universities is to seek an excuse, not a reason, for their troubles." As he spoke, a group of youths shouted obscenities. Although their number was small, their voices in the college fieldhouse in Manhattan, Kan., were loud. The President said "there is a growing, dangerous attitude among millions of people that all youth are like those few who appear night after night on the television screen shouting obscenities, making threats or engaging in destructive and illegal acts." He said colleges risk losing the support of the American people unless they curb the violence of dissidents who terrorize students and faculty alike.

AGNEW KEEPS TIME FOR OBSCENITY-CHANTING HECKLERS

VICE PRESIDENT Spiro T. Agnew, making like a band leader, kept time on an airport hangar podium Wednesday in Midland, Mich., for a band of obscenity-chanting hecklers who tried to drown out his words. He told them, "You're pathetic." The vice president scored "dissident elements—the carpenters and complainers, the run-downers" as he wound up his first campaign tour of the fall election battle with an airport rally and a GOP fund raising dinner in Grand Rapids Wednesday night. Agnew, aiding Mrs. Lenore Romney in her senatorial election campaign against Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., labeled Hart as a radical-liberal and took passing swipes at Sens. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and George McGovern, D-S.D.

CONGRESS TO DEPLORE INHUMANE TREATMENT OF U.S. POWS

SPEAKER JOHN W. MCCORMACK announced Wednesday that a special joint meeting of the House and Senate will be held next Tuesday to deplore North Vietnam's "inhuman treatment" of U.S. Prisoners of War. Former astronaut Frank Borman will address the Congress in the House chamber. McCormack said that wives of prisoners had sought the session. The decision to call the meeting was decided earlier Wednesday after a conference of House and Senate leaders of both parties.

JUSTICE RULES F. LEE BAILEY'S CONDUCT 'IMPROPER'

JUSTICE PAUL G. KIRK of the Massachusetts Supreme Court ruled Wednesday the conduct of famed criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey was "professionally improper" in several cases, including the Carl Coppolino murder trial. He ordered Bailey censured. The justice, in a 10-page decision, stayed the censure order for a month to give Bailey and his lawyers time to seek a review before the full bench of the Supreme Court. The judge's ruling involved Bailey's actions while defending clients accused in the 1964 Plymouth mail truck robbery and during the Coppolino murder trial in Florida and another murder case in New Jersey. Kirk said Bailey "contrived to get extensive newspaper coverage and time on radio and television and to use these media to generate a climate of opinion" favorable to his clients.

SPAULDING WON'T ENLIST HELP FROM SPIRO T. AGNEW

JOSHUA SPAULDING, admitting he needs all the help he can get in his effort to unseat Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said Wednesday he still has no plans to ask Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for any of that help. Spaulding said, "I'm an underdog and I will accept any kind of help I can get." He said he did not plan to ask Agnew to campaign for him, however. "I want the contest to be between Ted Kennedy and Si Spaulding," he said, "and not the administration and Ted Kennedy."

Arnold Forster Is To Be ADL Speaker Tues.

The Society of Fellows of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith will attend a dinner at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton Tuesday, Sept. 22. Best selling author Arnold Forster will report upon and analyze the current Israel and Mideast situation for the Society.

Recently returned from the most recent of many visits to Israel his series of taped radio programs on the Middle East conflict and current concerns add a new dimension of understanding of the problems of the area. His renowned eloquence is most evident in these nation-wide broadcasts.

Mr. Forster is general counsel and national director of the Civil Rights Division of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, trained as a lawyer, he is in a sense the advocate for human and constitutional rights of the Jewish community specifically and of the American people generally in the courtroom, including the court of public opinion. An experienced investigator and fact-finder, he oversees the League's steadfast, continuing observation of domestic hate breeders — the bigots and the extremists of the radical right and left who would undermine democratic institutions and impede democratic progress.

A best-selling author, he and his collaborator, Benjamin R. Epstein, have written books which have had a major impact upon the civil rights problems. Among these are Some Of My Best Friends, a documented case history of discrimination in America: Danger On The Right, an in-depth study and expose of right wing extremism; The John Birch Society — 1966, and most recently The Radical Right — Report On The John Birch Society And its Allies.

Mr. Joseph M. Linsey of Brookline, Chairman of the Massachusetts Society of Fellows, will preside at the dinner and Mr. Philip Krupp of South Brookline will bring greetings as Chairman of the New England Chapter of the Society.

Oak Hill Board Meets Tonight

BULLETIN From The Castle Keep Restaurant

Located in the Waltham Motor Inn Winter St. at Rte. 128 899-8700

Dateline Waltham: The Castle Keep Restaurant was once again the scene of mass gastronomic this past Saturday night. Talk about a buffet spectacular, maintenance crews worked around the clock, removing tattered, battered, and shattered girdles from the parking lot. One woman complained her living bra died. Our bus boys set a new record for the indoor mile, refilling the stuffed shrimp pan. The 85 pound steamship round, was reduced to a golf club. Six 30 pound turkeys diminished to a gobble, and what was left of 4 baked hams, wouldn't stock a pint of pea soup. Bulldozers brought in scallops, filet of sole, clams casino, cherry stones, steamed, tuna casseroles, seafood newburgh and mucho more calorie clustered goodies. Now we intend to keep right on gorging you with these Friday, Saturday and Sunday buffets, so please keep those fangs a coming. By the way, we are here the rest of the week with a menu you're sure to enjoy, so don't be bashful about dropping in. It's also not too early to be thinking about that Xmas party, and we aren't too proud to take the smaller ones. The cost for the entire shimmer will amaze you. Not only that, but you can name what you'd like, and we'll make it. Just call Pauline Nuttle, our lovely function manager for the delicious details. She's the sweetie pie who sets our buffets so beautifully, that Fran the Ham gets all the credit for. Art Polimer, our spent & bent food and beverage manager, is angry with me for not having mentioned his name, so here goes, ready or not: Arthur Polimer has a hernia . . . For the lady who wants the recipe on the steamship round: marinate for 24 hours, caress for two more, and place in a 400 degree oven. Baste on the hour, repeating over & over, I love you, I love you, I adore you. For rare remove as it begins to sigh. For medium, when it starts to moan, and at well done, it will just lie there and whimper. Sure hope to see you this week-end, why not give our Friday night Seafoodrama Buffet a shot? You'll have a whale of a time. Till then, I remain, with love & spatula:

Culinarily yours, Fran Raimer, Chef X X X P.S.

train to attend that '60 convention. He vetoed all suggestions that he fly.

But when Sam Rayburn died, John McCormack went to Texas by plane because it was the only way he could get to Sam's funeral on time.

This writer interviewed John McCormack on the night of Dec. 7, 1941, the infamous day the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. He was in his home on the second floor of a three-family house on Columbia road near the Dorchester-South Boston line.

Franklin D. Roosevelt had summoned him back to Washington, and Mrs. McCormack was packing their bags. They were planning to take the Federal at 11 p.m. John McCormack talked about the war grimly shaping up, about the disaster that had occurred at Pearl Harbor and about his great confidence in his country and his President.

There was the time in Philadelphia when John McCormack was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Vice President, and word came from Washington that Harry Truman wanted Alben Barkley as his running mate.

John McCormack abandoned his own candidacy on a moment's notice to champion the cause of Barkley.

One of John McCormack's proudest days came in April 1956, when the people of Massachusetts voted him to be the Democratic party's favorite son candidate for President.

Unfortunately, some of the Democratic delegates from Massachusetts refused to stay with him for even one complimentary ballot. They were too anxious to get on the bandwagon of Adlai Stevenson who quite obviously had no chance of defeating Dwight Eisenhower. Most of them now are back in well deserved obscurity.

For the last month of 1963 and the full year of 1964, John McCormack stood a heart-beat away from the Presidency. If anything had happened to Lyndon Johnson during that period, John W. McCormack would have become President.

Now John McCormack will conclude his service in Congress, officially at the end of the year, ac-

Symphony Here Starts Season With Rehearsal

The Newton Symphony begins its fifth season with a full rehearsal this Sunday, September 20th.

The orchestra under the musical direction of Conductor Michel Sasson will undertake the presentation of a gala "Pops" concert with Arthur Fiedler sharing the podium with Mr. Sasson, in addition to the three Sunday evening subscription concerts, one of which will be conducted by Gunther Schuller, famous composer and conductor.

Auditions for first horn and associate first flute are being held. The eighty-five member orchestra has a full complement of string players who are coached by outstanding Boston Symphony violinist Max Hobart.

A few openings exist in the viola and double bass sections, however. Qualified players of these instruments may contact Mr. Sasson now.

Orchestra rehearsals are held regularly at Meadowbrook Junior High School, Newton, on Sunday evening between 7 and 10 p.m.

Peru is bordered by five nations - Ecuador, Columbia, Brazil, Bolivia and Chile.

Kiddie Courses Being Readied At Newton Y

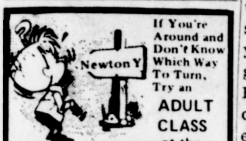

The Newton YMCA announces that registrations are being accepted for three youth programs for the child with creative and aesthetic ability. The first program is a new course in piano instruction with small groups of six children, ages six and up. They will be taught melody, harmony, and rhythm in the understanding of music. Piano theory and history will be covered in this course with emphasis of the reading of music. The instructor, Mrs.

Janet Giannotti, has taught piano for eight years, the last five of which were at YMCA's on the West Coast. She attended Immaculate Heart College School of Music.

The second course is painting taught by James Lochiatto of Vesper George School of Art. This will be Mr. Lochiatto's third year teaching at the Y. The course consists of pencil sketching, proceeding to poster paint and water colors. Instruction in learning the color wheel, value scales, proportions and dimension will also be covered.

The third course is sewing for girls ten years old and up. Mrs. Barbara Riley and Mrs. Laura Karobis are the instructors for these classes.

Mrs. Riley who has extensive teaching experience in sewing will begin her third year. Mrs. Karobis is a graduate of Copley School of Fashion Design, and a teacher of sewing at Newton High evening classes. Class content will include hand sewing, using a pattern, fitting, and use of sewing machines. Information concerning fees and times for these and other courses may be obtained by calling the YMCA at 244-6050.

Workshop To Open For Women With That Back-To-Work Yen

Housewives and mothers who have been considering the pros and cons of going back to work will have the chance to compare notes and wonder out loud during a local workshop program planned just for them.

A four-day Returners' Workshop opens October 6 at the Y.M.C.A. Program Center, 1191 Greendale ave., Needham. Sponsored by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston, the workshop continues on October 8, 13 and 15.

Designed to help women explore all the financial angles and family adjustments that accompany their return to the work-a-day world, such workshops are an established program in Boston, according to Persis S. Blanchard, Wenham, director of the Union's Career Services department.

The Needham workshop — with other suburban and Boston sessions also scheduled — mean extra commuting for Mrs. Blanchard and staff counsellor Helen P. Hayward, Wilmington.

"But the back-to-work boom is not limited to Boston women alone," Mrs. Blanchard explains. "Career opportunities, and the women who want to know about them, are everywhere."

Guest consultants to the Needham workshop will be: John D. Fox, personnel director of Newton-Wellesley Hospital; Miss Mary Harrington, professional employment manager, Hewlett Packard Company; and Mrs. Lucille Knight, assistant to the personnel director of Wellesley College.

The consultants will discuss jobs and job opportunities in general as well as in their particular fields. Throughout the workshop, both the full-and part-time aspects of employment will be considered. "Of the 2400 women who sought counseling and placement through the Union last year, many were 'returners,' mature women whose families no longer needed their full-time attention," Mrs. Blanchard says. "They wanted to take up careers they had left for marriage and families — and for them, part-time work is ideal."

"We designed the workshops to help them update old skills, explore the changing job market and — most important — anticipate and ease their families' adjustments to having working mothers."

"At the Union, where we are just part of the changing picture, part-time jobs we handle have more than doubled since 1968 when we started the Returners' Workshops," she says.

Sponsoring the workshops does not mean the Women's Educational and Industrial Union insists all women must join the back-to-work bandwagon, Mrs. Blanchard adds: "For those who want to, or must return to work, the workshop is a practical assist; for women who prefer home and hearth yet feel pressured by the trend, the workshop is a chance to put their own priorities in perspective."

The four-day workshop, with sessions from 10 to 11:30 a.m., includes evaluation of each returner's skills and potential, exploration of the family financing involved when mother goes to work, discussion of part-or full-time employment, and tips on today's job market.

Workshops are limited to women with some vocational or college background, whose families no longer need their full-time attention. Fee is $5. Women may register by phoning Carr Services at 536-5651 in Boston.

Sister M. Fidelma Leaves Today for Philatelic Tour

Sister M. Fidelma, executive director of the Cardinal Spellman Philatelic Museum on the campus of Regis College in Weston, leaves today, Thursday, September 17, on a four-week European tour including two international stamp exhibitions.

At Phillypia '70, scheduled at Empire Hall in London September 18-26, Sister Fidelma will meet with philatelic leaders from all over the world. She also plans to visit the National Postal Museum in London and consult with Anthony Rigo de Righi, curator.

At Roma '70, honoring the centennial of the unification of Italy, at the Palazzo dei Congressi in Rome October 2-5, the Cardinal Spellman Philatelic Museum is among the invited exhibitors. Dr. Enzo Diena, director of this exhibition, requested for the honors section selections from the Museum's unique collection of covers (stamped envelopes) and stamps of the Old Pontifical States.

Under the jurisdiction of the Pope, these states issued some of the world's earliest stamps from 1852 until they came under the jurisdiction of Italy in 1870. Many in the Museum's collection are the only known specimens now in existence.

Dr. Diena knew the collection and specified exactly which covers and stamps should be exhibited. As a double check, museum volunteers preparing the exhibit sent him photographic slides of all 54 mounted pages for verification.

Besides the exhibition cities of London and Rome, Sister Fidelma plans to travel around Ireland, Switzerland and Italy. The cost of her air transportation was contributed by Museum founder - members, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Stalow of New York City.

The only museum of its kind in the United States, the Cardinal Spellman Philatelic Museum houses a comprehensive collection of postage stamps from all over the world. Gifts and bequests continue to add new issues and specialized collections.

The gallery of changing exhibits from its permanent collection, and the Museum's extensive philatelic library, are open to the public without charge every Sunday from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. as well as Tuesday and Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

This non-profit non-sectarian educational institution also offers a variety of lectures, courses on stamp collecting, and a training program in philatelic research.

Hebrew Coll. Aux. to Hear Dr. Antelman

"The Chemicals We Eat" will be subject of a talk by Dr. Marvin S. Antelman, chemist and Rabbi, who will be guest speaker at the Fall meeting of the New England Women's Chapter of the Hebrew College to be held at the home of Mrs. Aaron Silver, 26 Bothfield road, Newton Centre.

The meeting, which will begin at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday (Sept. 23), is open to all.

The program chairmen are Mrs. Robert Docker and Mrs. Philip Levine. Hospitality committee members are Mrs. Isiah Tarmy, Mrs. Albert Levitt, Mrs. Alexander Stein and Mrs. Eric Unger.

Nebraska ranks 15th in land area among the 50 states.

FASHION SHOW COMMITTEE MEETS — Completing plans for a Champagne Fashion Show to be held Sept. 29 in Our Lady's Auditorium in Newton are Wives and Friends of the American Legion of Newton. France Is Hard Hit By Thefts Of Great Art

The abundance of paintings by classic and modern masters in France has made this country a favorite target of sophisticated art thieves.

Ever since Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" was stolen from the Louvre Museum in 1911, art collectors in France have lost millions of dollars worth of canvas to burglars.

The latest big heist here netted an estimated $1.8 million worth of Impressionist paintings from a chic Paris apartment near the Opera House Aug. 4. Five Renoirs were among the 17 paintings stolen, including Renoir's "Two Girls Seated at the Piano," which the owner estimated was worth $727,000.

French police say 440 paintings were stolen in France in 1969 alone, and that worldwide art thefts amount to some $18 million lost every year.

The situation has gotten so bad that owners of important works do their best to stay anonymous. Close friends are asked not to talk about the collections, and unfamiliar visitors are discouraged.

The owners cannot be too cautious. In the Aug. 4 raid the burglars appeared to know their way through an intricate maze of electrical alarms set up on doors throughout the interior of the eight-room apartment. Nor were the burglars lacking in technical know-how. To short the circuit on the main door's alarm, they poured mercury over the wires, and used false keys to open the lock.

"The burglars were connoisseurs," said owner Jean Chardeau, a descendant of French Impressionist painter Gustave Caillebotte.

"The 17 paintings which they stole were the most beautiful and the most celebrated of the collection . . . Renoir, Manet, Monet, Pissaro."

After a thief has executed a professional job such as that one, his work has just begun. He then faces the problem of getting rid of what he has just stolen.

The best paintings are too well-known to be resold in European art circles, so the thieves usually resort to one of two alternatives.

Held As Hostage

First, they can hold the paintings hostage, and demand ransom from the companies which have insured the works. Lloyd's of London has become accustomed to such transactions with clandestine art dealers.

Because masters' paintings in France are all catalogued and registered, a painting cannot be sold to one of the 400 galleries in Paris, for example, without a certificate proving ownership.

This obstacle often leads thieves to sell to rich amateur collectors in foreign countries who are glad to get a good price on a painting, and who ask no questions about its former owner.

Police suspect a n

Andover-Newton Opens on Sunday

The convocation opening the 163rd academic year at Andover Newton Theological School will be Sunday afternoon, 4 p.m., at the People's Baptist Church, Boston.

The Reverend Eddie S. O'Neal, associate professor of pastoral theology at the school, will preach the convocation sermon. Community leaders will also participate in this service.

elaborate underground system exists which connects thieves to buyers through a network of middlemen.

Unless certain paintings were destroyed after being stolen, it is conceivable that someone somewhere has amassed a fantastic secret collection of works by Rubens, Rembrandt, Watteau, Fragonard, Goya, Delacroix, Van Gogh, Picasso, and countless other paintings that disappeared mysteriously and were never seen again.

Gala Fashion Show By Legion Wives Sept. 29

Plans for the Champagne Fashion Show by the Wives and Friends of the American Legion of Newton have been completed with this fund-raising event set for Tuesday evening (Sept. 29) at 8 o'clock in Our Lady's Auditorium in Newton.

Proceeds from this gala affair will be used for aid in building the new American Legion Headquarters which will include a workshop facility for those afflicted with cerebral palsy and other handicaps as well as community rooms for the benefit of many veteran organizations.

Yolanda, a former finalist in the Miss America Contest and TV personality in this area, will present this season's total look with fashions from Yolanda's of Belmont. Committee members arranging the show under the chairmanship of Mrs. Betty Sabetti and Mrs. Mary Gentile are:

Mrs. Olympia Pasquarosa, chairman of fund-raising activities; Mrs. Dona Gonfradi, decorations; Jill Sampson, tickets; Mary Lou McNulty, secretary; Joan Mulcahy, treasurer; and committeewomen, Jacqueline Adams, Phyllis Arico, June Arnold, Catherine Chandonait, Terry Civetti, Louise Comisky, Ruth Dumm, Marilyn Parker, Virginia Pecanari, Joan Pellegri, Anita Shea, Mary Siciliano, Eleanor Tocci and Mary Williams.

Recent Deaths

Donald H. Ryder
Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 1:30 at the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre for Donald H. Ryder of 27 Bacon place, Newton Upper Falls, who died on Monday, (Sept. 14) at the Chetwynde Nursing Home in Newton.
Born here and a resident for the past 35 years, he was a graduate of Newton Schools and Northeastern University. He was a member of the American Society of Metals and of Dalhousie Lodge A.F.M. and the Scottish Rite Bodies of Boston. He was an engineer for heavy machines for the Reece Corp. of Waltham for 38 years.
Surviving him is his wife Margaret (Tyler) Ryder, a son David F. Ryder of West Townsend and two daughters, Mrs. William Tyler of Middle-town, Ohio, and Mrs. Robert de Hass of Okinawa and eight grandchildren.
The Rev. Dr. Gene E. Bartlett will preside at the services and burial will be in Newton Cemetery. Funeral arrangements were by the Eaton Funeral Home, 1351 Highland avenue, Needham.

Mrs. Virginia McNamara
A requiem high Mass was celebrated Tuesday morning, Sept. 15 for Mrs. M. Virginia (Towne) McNamara, 49, of 126 Derby St., West Newton. Mrs. McNamara died Saturday, Sept. 12 in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, after a long illness.
She was the wife of the late Robert E. McNamara, who died suddenly of a heart attack three weeks ago.
Mrs. McNamara was born in Waltham. She had lived in Newton for 15 years.
She is survived by three sons, Raymond P. and Kevin J., both of West Newton; and by Robert E. "Robin" McNamara of New Jersey, who has a leading role in the musical "Hair"; by two daughters, Mrs. Mary K. Ciraso and Marcia J. McNamara, both of West Newton.

Mabel J. McKay
Mrs. Mabel (Jones) McKay, 85, of Needham, former Newton Highlands resident for many years, died on August 30 at the Hamilton House in Needham. Funeral services were held for her at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church, where she was a life member, on Thursday (Sept. 3) with the Rev. Budney Breeze officiating.
Mrs. McKay was a graduate of Newton High School in 1904 and of Smith College in 1908. She was a member of the Smith College Club, was a charter member of the Newton Highlands Woman's Club and also of the Newton Highlands Garden Club serving as garden club president in 1937-39. She was a former member of the Shrewsbury Women's Club.
Mrs. McKay is survived by her daughter, Miss Frances M. McKay and a sister, Mrs. Warren B. Kennedy of Newton Highlands.

Harry E. Moore
Harry E. Moore, founder of the insurance firm of Moore, Olive and Co. of Boston, died on Saturday, Sept. 12, at the age of 91.
He was the husband of Marion (Burrage) Moore who survives him at their home at 87 Ridge avenue, Newton Centre. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Lillian Jrome of Phoenix, Arizona.
Funeral services for Mr. Moore were held on Tuesday, Sept. 15, at 2 p.m. in the chapel of the Newton Cemetery.
Mr. Moore was borne in Butler County, Kan., and lived in Davenport, Iowa, before joining the American Cereal Co. in Chicago. He started his insurance

Back*

DRIVE SLOWLY!

Observe These Safety Rules:

- Make sure the car you are driving is safe—bad brakes or faulty steering, for instance, could cause an accident.
- Be sure and make a full stop at all intersections—don't just slow down!
- Pay special attention to signs warning of school traffic and obey signals of special guards at all times.
- Look before you back out of driveways!

Country Players Seek Talented Youngsters For Children's Play

An intensive search for two unusually talented youngsters from the Newton area to appear in the new Newton Country Players' production for children, "The Tale of the Donkey," has resulted in the casting of Jorinda Margolis, 14, and Jeffrey Magaw, 11, of Auburndale.

The year-round offering will have its initial matinee performance on Sunday, Sept. 27, at 2 p.m., at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton. Gratuities are 75¢ per person. Director of the play is Mrs. Joel (Ruth) Dorfman of Chestnut Hill.

The four-character script involves a mother and her young son on the way to market to sell their donkey, their confrontation with a man of many faces, and the consequences suffered by those who do not think for themselves. Co-authored by Bette Butterworth and Muriel Sharon, the message play has a running time of approximately 40 minutes.

The production is available for programming to sponsor groups and theatre parties interested in fund raising, either as a "road show" or for performances at Pomroy House. Seating capacity at Pomroy House is approximately 150.

Jorinda Margolis, 14, will portray Mercedes, the Donkey.

Previous experience includes her characterizations of F. Rotto in "Heidi" for the Young Newton Players and the Dwarf in "Seven Dwarfs" for the Creative Theatre Workshop. She is also credited with her vocal rendition of "Second Hand Rose" at Boston Pops.

Jeffrey Magaw, 11, will play the Boy. Besides his participation in various school plays, he also engineered the role of Gypsy in "Gypsy's Reward" for the YMCA. On a theatrical technical level, he has worked on lights and sound effects.

Stage manager for the production is Joyce Narins, 21, a graduate of Wellesley College, where she received her B.A. in Psychology this Spring. Her acting roles while at Wellesley include Prudence in "Camino Real," Jessica in "The Merchant of Venice," and the Daughter in "Home on the Range."

Technical experience credits Miss Narins with the direction of "Purgatory" and "Sleeping Beauty." She also worked as stage manager for productions of "Misalliance," "The Lover," and "Madame de Sade" (American premiere), and as head of make-up for the Wellesley College Theatre.

Plays for children previously produced by the Newton Country Players include "The Sleeping Princess" and "Sam Stiller, Private Eye." Entering its 15th season, the Players is a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels. President of the Players is Mrs. Marilyn Krassin of Newton Highlands.

For additional information concerning the children's production, phone Mrs. Dorfman at 232-1330 or Mrs. Krassin at 969-9737. For further data regarding individual memberships or theatre party sponsorship, write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159 or phone 969-9737.

FAMED FILMS HERE — Dr. Kenneth Clark, author and narrator of the BBC Civilisation Films, which will be shown in their original version at Newton College of the Sacred Heart on each Wednesday at 8:00 P.M. beginning September 23rd in the Barry Science Auditorium.

Noted British TV Films To Be Shown At College

The Kenneth Clark Civilisation Films, much publicized recently on Boston television, will be shown in their original version by Newton College of the Sacred Heart this fall in preparation for the 25th Anniversary of the Sacred Heart College.

The films will be shown to the Newton public each Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. beginning September 23rd in the Barry Science Auditorium. Admission is open to the public and without charge.

"Civilisation" is a series of thirteen 52-minute color films, a personal view of the ideas and events of the last sixteen hundred years in the history of Western man, written and narrated by Kenneth Clark, produced by the British Broadcasting Corporation and presented by Time-Life Films.

The films were played on the BBC in the spring of 1969, and in museums of Washington, New York and Boston in the following year. Universal praise was accorded to the film series and to Kenneth Clark, author and narrator.

From the Apollo of the Belvedere to Chartre, Botticelli to Cezanne, the Sistine Chapel to a New York skyscraper; here, in a series of 13 color films, is the story of Western man. His arts. His dreams. His cultural achievements.

Here is a personal view of the splendors of civilisation — from Kenneth Clark, who conceived, wrote and narrated this monumental series.

The London Times described them as "not merely a definition of civilisation, but also a sustained and nourishing celebration of it."

The study of world cultures is the basis of the liberal arts program at Newton College, a four-year women's college conducted under the auspices of the Religious of the Sacred Heart.

The Newton community is invited to the experience of 1600 years of civilisation, and to view, in their original beauty, the universally acclaimed Time-Life Films.

Teens Cited For Service To Hospital

Newton - Wellesley Hospital was the beneficiary of 26 Newton girls who desire to help people. The group, part of the hospital's Candystriper program, were cited by (Mrs.) Marguerite D. Roggeveen, Director of Volunteer Service "For dedicated service to the hospital at a time when help is greatly needed."

The Candystripers from the Newton - Wellesley area gave a total of 1230 hours of service during July and August. Those from Newton participating in the program were:

Auburndale — Marie Carten, Barbara Galton, Debra Kendall, Donna Pucciarelli, and Margaret Tunstall.

Newton — Karen Gershman, Annette Laferriere, Carol Pendergast and Lynda Pollen.

Newton Centre — Elise Brenner, Marie Keefe, and Ellen Scanlan.

Newton Highlands — Nancy Gillis, Donna Penzo, and Roberta Weiss.

Newton Lower Falls — Linda Healy.

Newtonville — Robin Charbonnier and Donna Turner.

Waban — Mary Disabato, Catherine Gilles, and Anne Terner.

West Newton — Denise Breton, Susan Green, Sharon O'Brien, Anne Rogal, and Mary Tobin.

Also, the following college girls volunteered: Newton, Joyce Rich; Newtonville, Kathleen Sweeney; and West Newton, Nikki Kirschner and Marilyn Rowser.

Not to be outdone by these dedicated young people were the Newton and Wellesley adults who gave 2500 hours of volunteer time for a grand total of 3730 hours.

Men's Fitness Program At Y Starts Oct. 5

The Newton YMCA will begin its Fitness Program for men beginning Monday, October 5. This progressive exercise program will meet three times weekly — on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Participants may have their choice of a 7:15 a.m., 12:15 p.m., or 5:30 p.m. class.

A pre-program clinic will be held on Saturday, October 3 at 9:30 a.m. to discuss the aspects of exercise, as well as going through a battery of Physical Fitness Tests designed for men between the ages of 25 and 60.

All interested parties must have a written statement from their doctor, stating that they may participate in a program of moderate exercise. All men are screened very thoroughly before beginning the progressive calisthenics, jogging, and running.

Executive Fitness classes will run for twelve weeks, at which time the men will be re-tested for comparative results. Upon finishing the first twelve weeks, the men will graduate to the mid-high gear program.

All classes will be led by qualified leaders who have worked with this program from three to five years. The YMCA can accept the first 75 men who register for the program.

For further information contact the Newton YMCA's Physical Department at 244-6050.

Doctor Named To Board Of Heart Assoc.

A Newton physician, Dr. Herbert J. Levine, was elected to the board of directors and executive committee of the Massachusetts Heart Association at the organization's statewide annual meeting held recently.

Dr. Levine, is chief of the cardiology section at New England Medical Center Hospitals and associate professor of medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine.

He served for several years on the research allocations committee of the MHA and is a board member of the Association's Greater Boston Chapter.

A graduate of Harvard College and John Hopkins Medical School, he is president of the New England Cardiovascular Society, a professional education arm of the MHA.

The author of numerous scientific papers, Dr. Levine is on the editorial board of the "AHA Journal," "Circulation."

He is a member of several professional societies including the American Federation for Clinical Research and the American Society for Clinical Investigation.

Dr. Levine and his wife, Sandra, live at 16 Fountain St. with their two children.

Symbol Sought for City Report on Free Library

Symbol . . . symbol . . . who can create a symbol to identify the Newton Free Library Annual Report for 1970, to be published by the city in 1971?

Virginia A. Tashian, acting City Librarian, announces a symbol contest to open on September 21, and closing on December 18, for all high-school students and other Newton adults.

Entries, in black and white, or in color suitable for black-and-white reproduction, must be no larger than 3" square, and should be sent to Mrs. Tashian at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton 02158, in envelopes marked SYMBOL CONTEST.

Judges for the contest are Mr. Al Hurwitz, Coordinator of the Arts for the Newton Public Schools, Mrs. Virginia A. Tashian, Mr. Joseph Selame, president of Selame Design Associates and a nationally recognized creator of award-winning symbols, and Mrs. George Michaels of the library staff.

If a high-school student wins, a gift certificate for an art book will be awarded to his school. If the winner is an adult who is not a high-school student, a certificate will be awarded either to his school or to the school of his choice.

Winners will be announced in Newton newspapers before Christmas, 1970.

Fifth Federal Grant Awarded Junior College

The Newton Junior College Library has received a federal grant in the amount of $2,500 under the Higher Education Act of 1965. This is the fifth consecutive year the library has been the recipient of federal funds for library materials.

In the past the grants have been used to support new programs, to establish the microfilm collection, and to add definitive reference works in all subject areas represented in the College curricula.

In addition the collection of color slides has been increased to over 2000, and all annuals have been updated. This year the grant will be used to increase the audio-visual materials in the library resources.

The College Library occupies the entire third floor and part of the second floor of Clafflin Hall.

Its present holdings number over 22,000 volumes, 186 periodicals, and a fine collection of records of the spoken word, which includes poets reading their own work, full length plays, speeches, and other materials.

Under the direction of Librarian, Mrs. Mabel Greeley, the College Library has developed the best available resources specifically adapted to the educational and philosophical goals of the College.

It has maintained its place as the intellectual center of the College, and it has become a teaching and learning center for the College community.

It has also sponsored exhibits of students' art work and has contributed to the role of Newton Junior College as a Newton community college, serving the needs of local citizens and groups when called upon.

3 Injured With City Truck In Sunday Accident

A City truck was involved in one of four accidents reported in the Newtons over the weekend. Three were injured when the vehicle collided with a car at Chestnut and Beacon streets.

Two Newton children were injured in a Sunday accident and another Newton driver was hurt in an accident Saturday.

The truck collision occurred as it proceeded north on Chestnut, driven by William L. Ferguson, 44. It collided with a car driven by Joseph H. Gordon, 58, of 52 Kelvedon Rd., Waban.

Ferguson received a lacerated arm. Two passengers in the truck were also hurt. They were Edward F. Saunders, 25, of 229 River St., West Newton, and Thomas H. Moody, 17, of 128 Jewett St., Newton.

Three-year-old Patricia A. Proia received head injuries and her 12-year-old brother, David, a sprained leg when the car driven by their father, Pasquale A. Proia, 34, of 2 Morgan Pl., Newton collided at the corner of Mill St. and Walnut with one driven by Michael J. Pavan, 17, of 6 Wessex Rd., Newton Centre late Sunday afternoon.

Edward F. Davey Sr., 35, of 143 Bridge St., Newton, suffered a chest contusion Saturday night when he was involved in an accident at Chapel and Middle Sts.

It was reported that in negotiating a turn, his car bounced off a parked car and hit the home of Donato Cedrone of 6 Middle St. and that damaged the St. and frame and the brick foundation of the structure.

Newton Fire Dept. Covers Out-of-Town

Newton fire apparatus was out of town twice over the weekend on mutual aid calls.

Saturday morning they were called to cover the Wellesley headquarters while that town's fire vehicles were out on fires. Sunday night they went to Boston to cover during a four-alarm fire.

Saturday morning also, Asst. Chief Charles W. Cassidy, Engines 3, 6, 9, 10 and two ladders were called to Beacon St. and Langley Rd. for an automobile on fire.

That afternoon Engine 2 went to the Rumford Ave. incinerator and to a home at 21 Jennifer St. That evening they had another motor vehicle fire on Armor St.; Engine 4 responded.

One brush fire broke out Sunday, at Carthy Circle. Engine 3 covered it at 5:21 p.m.

At 7:56 p.m. Box 53 was rung in and Engines 2, 4, 5, Ladder 1 and Asst. Chief Henry L. Murphy answered to find it a false alarm call.

Funeral Rites Are Held For Arthur Cronin

A solemn high Mass was celebrated on Saturday morning, Sept. 12, at St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, for Arthur D. Cronin, a dean of the insurance field and a civic and philanthropic leader.

Mr. Cronin died suddenly of a heart attack Tuesday night, September 8, immediately following an 80th birthday party held in the Algonquin Club, Boston.

He was the husband of Mrs. Helen (Robinson) Cronin and they had made their home at 29 Sylvan Ave., West Newton for the past 31 years.

A large funeral cortege left from the late home for the 10 a.m. service at the church. Monsignor John M. Quirk celebrated the Mass, assisted by the Reverend Paul E. King, deacon, and the Reverend John Toomey, sub-deacon.

The Reverend Frank Gartland, brother of the deceased's business partner, Arthur J. Gartland, and chaplain of the Kings College, Wilkes Barre, Pa., was present at the altar.

Burial was in Calvary Cemetery in Roslindale. Born in Dorchester, Mr. Cronin had been in the insurance industry since going to work for Travelers Insurance Co., after his graduation from Boston English High School.

After serving as an ensign in the U.S. Naval Reserve in World War I, he started his own agency in Boston. Later, he joined Kaler, Carney, Liff,

Youth Concerts Resume Series on November 7th

Youth Concerts at Symphony Hall, an annual musical event for thousands of Massachusetts students, will return to Boston's famed Symphony Hall next Fall for the twelfth season.

Under the musical direction of Harry Ellis Dickson, members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be heard in classical and contemporary works selected to appeal to young people and to stimulate their interest and appreciation for fine music.

Programs for last season explored the musical scene from Mozart to Benjamin Britten's "Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra," and included a highly acclaimed performance by Newton Wayland and the Carl Atkins Jazz Group who joined the Youth Concerts' Orchestra to demonstrate the versatility of musical instruments for playing both symphonic music and jazz.

The enthusiastic response of the youthful audiences testifies to the relevance of this popular musical series for today's young people.

The concerts are played in two series of three programs each. Series One will be presented on Nov. 7, 1970, Jan. 30 and Mar. 6, 1971; Series Two on Nov. 14, 1970, Feb. 6 and Mar. 13, 1971.

Tickets are sold for the series only for three concerts, and may be ordered from local chairman incities and towns all over the State, and supervisors of music in the schools.

In Newton, please contact Mrs. Saul James Stolper, chairman, or the Creative Arts Chairman in your school.

Photo Contest Sponsored By Newton Library

A photo contest for young people is featured by the Newton Free Library this month, a contest called "Shoot a Friend . . . at the Library."

Students in grades 1 through 8 are invited to enter the Library photo contest in one of 4 categories, submitting black and white or color prints of a child or children using the Newton Free Library; teenagers using the Library; adults using the Library; or prints showing the Library in action as a reference and research center for Newton.

Entries should be sent to Acting City Librarian Virginia A. Tashian at the main Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton 02158, before Thursday, November 1, when members of the Library Camera Club led by president James Saret of Newton Centre will act as judges for the contest.

Winners and their prizes, a book in each category, will be revealed on November 19, during National Book Week for Children.

All entries will belong to the Library, and will become part of a collection of photographs illustrating library activities in Newton.

The contest closes November 1.

Three Local Girls Enroll At Barnard

Three young women from the Newtons are among the freshmen students enrolled in Barnard College, the women's undergraduate college affiliated with Columbia University.

Beginning classes next week are Sara Jane Cohen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Melvin I. Cohen of 23 Rotherwood road, to major in French and Art History; Andrea Beth Estes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Estes of 75 Commonwealth park, who will study biology; and Judith Rose Sebestyen, daughter of Dr. John G. Sebestyen of 44 Montvale road, who will major in comparative linguistics.

"In these days of rapid and complex economic and technical developments," Rep. Mann continued, "we must provide our children with the education that will help them keep pace in today's world."

It is for this reason that I have sponsored legislation in the House which has provided substantial financial assistance for the Newton Junior College. I am convinced that the needs of our community and the merits of the college justify my continuing efforts which I hope will be successful.

The charge against Johnson of assault with a dangerous weapon, stemmed from the allegation that while attempting to leave, he drove his car at one of the service staff members.

The case is being continued until Sept. 30. Both men were released on personal recognizance.

Heavy Vote Seen Registrations Drawing Few To Local Stations

With a considerable population in Newton eligible to register to vote in the November 3rd election, registrations to date have been extremely light, Alan Licarie, of the Election Department, told The Graphic yesterday. October 3rd is the deadline.

The election official foresees the usual last minute rush to register and warns that this is always accompanied by long lines of waiting potential voters.

He predicted that better than 85 per cent of the total registered vote would trek to the polls on November 3rd, and would not be surprised if the total rose to 88 or 89 per cent.

In the meantime, however, citizens who have intentions of voting in the election and have not registered, are approaching the sign-up stations in less than scanty numbers.

The first night registration session was held last Thursday and produced one new voter each in Wards 7 and 8 and about 20 people at city hall. Registration last night was equally light.

Next Tuesday evening, registrations will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. at city hall, the Auburndale library, Hawthorne playground field house, and the Department of Instruction, 88 Chestnut St.

Newtonite Is Promoted

GEORGE K. WALKER, left, Officer-in-Charge, congratulates Arthur V. Connolly, of West Newton, on his promotion to assistant director of operations for local services for the Boston Postal District.

Named to New Post

Arthur V. Connolly of 175 Parmenter Road, West Newton, former superintendent of the Back Bay Annex, has been promoted by the Post Office Department to the position of Assistant Director Operations - Local Services for the Boston Postal District.

In his new position, Mr. Connolly will be responsible for the day to day operations of the 97 Stations and Branches of the District which encompasses the 25 cities and towns in Metropolitan Boston.

George K. Walker, Officer-in-Charge, officiated at the promotion ceremonies held recently at the Federal Building, Boston.

Mr. Connolly received his education in the Newton Public Schools, entering the postal service in 1927 as a clerk, moving up through the supervisory ranks to his present position of assistant Director.

Arthur resides at the West Newton address with his wife, Agnes and is the father of three children, Janice, Marilyn and Arthur Jr.

Karoff Named New President For Freeport

At its first Board of Directors' meeting since becoming a non-profit, charitable corporation, Freeport, Inc. (formerly Freeport Foundation) elected H. Peter Karoff of West Newton as its new president and named David W. Fitts chairman of the Finance Committee. Bruce Rosenblum was chosen to be Coordinator for the coming year.

Mr. Karoff succeeds Frederick M. Whitmeyer, who in early July moved to North Carolina to become Dean and Director of Admissions of the new Graduate School of Business Administration at Wake Forest University.

H. Peter Karoff has been involved in Freeport as an advisor since its inception over a year and a half ago. He is active in many different Newton Community

At a public hearing at Newton City Hall on Monday night 42 people appeared in opposition to the concept of a public housing zone for this City while 24 said they were in favor.

At issue was a proposal to establish a new "public residence" zone which would allow only construction of low and moderate income housing by governmental agencies or non-profit groups.

Creation of the new zone was proposed to quell fears that if land were rezoned for low and moderate income housing and it was not con-structured, private developers could move in and build whatever the zone change permitted.

The hearing was somewhat confused since the original draft of the ordinance change, proposed by Alderman William Carmen was officially before the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen and the Planning Board.

However, since that proposal was advertised for a public hearing changes were made in the suggested ordinance and other changes have been proposed.

As a result Alderman Carmen asked that a second public hearing on the matter be held on Oct. 22 for presentation of the final version of the ordinance.

The original draft of the ordinance change called for an entirely new zone to be established. The first revised version called for modifications of present zoning laws. The final version will probably be essentially the same as the latter.

Most of those who spoke in favor of the changes said they would like to see action taken that would facilitate the construction of low and moderate income housing in the city.

In presenting the proposal for the public residence zone, Alderman Carmen said "in a time of high real estate taxes and general inflation, several hundred Newton families, young and old, newly married and retired, welfare recipients and fully employed low and moderate income breadwinners, most of whom were born in Newton and some of whom come from families which have been in Newton as long as four generations, cannot afford decent housing in their city."

Some of those who spoke in favor of the ordinance change were Robert Kraft, HEARING—(See Page 3)

6th Annual Awards Dinner On Nov. 15

Two noted area residents were designated this week as chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of the Jewish Theological Seminary's 1970-71 New England Campaign and of the Seminary's Sixth Annual Awards dinner to be held Sunday, November 15th in the Statler Hilton Hotel, Boston.

Ollie A. Cohen of Brookline, prominent in civic, religious and philanthropic activities and co-founder, board chairman and chief executive officer of the nationwide King's Department Store chain, was named chairman of both the campaign and the dinner. The dinner will inaugurate the Seminary's regional campaign effort.

Lawrence L. Suttenger of Newton, a leader in health, child welfare and Jewish communal activities and a partner in Ernst and Ernst, a national firm of certified public accountants, will serve as dinner and campaign co-chairman.

The dinner will bring together more than 500 New England leaders of the Conservative branch of Judaism. A main feature of the dinner will be the presentation of National Community Service Awards.

The awards are given each year by The Jewish Theological Seminary of America to outstanding leaders in recognition of their efforts in behalf of Jewish and general causes.

The award in the form of a bronze plaque cites the recipient's "dedication to the high principles of Judaism," his support of the programs of the Seminary, and his work in

Local Clean-Up Of Charles Due On October 3rd

Two city-owned trucks will be available October 3 when a local Charles River clean-up will replace a previously-scheduled MDC general river-wide project.

Last May, when the initial MDC-sponsored clean-up took place, the emphasis in Newton was on sections of the river between Rte. 9 and Rte. 30.

Several areas on the south side of Newton now require help, and Mayor Monte G. Basbas and Street Commissioner Edmund C. Bolduc are cooperating.

Jews Here Prepare Solemn Observance

At sundown Wednesday, September 30th, Newton's residents of Jewish faith will mark the beginning of the year 5731 and begin their observance of the most solemn days in the Jewish calendar.

The New Year (Rosh Hashanah) will be observed with special religious devotions in the synagogues of the community.

Orthodox and Conservative congregations will observe two days of worship, this year falling on Thursday, October 1, and Friday, October 2.

Solemn prayers will be recited during these days of memorial and judgment, with the shofar (ram's horn) sounded in the course of the services, marking a dramatic moment in the devotions.

The Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) which this year begins at sundown Friday, October 9, and continues through to sundown Saturday, is the climax of the period known as the Ten Days of Repentance.

Political Fence - Jumping To Mark Sargent - White Battle

The battle looming ahead between Governor Francis W. Sargent and Boston Mayor Kevin H. White for the right to serve as the next Governor of Massachusetts promises to be an unusual one, with many thousands of voters crossing party lines in making their choice between the two gubernatorial contenders.

Governor Sargent undoubtedly will cut into the Democratic vote, especially in sections of Boston. Mayor White will counter this by picking up independent and Republican support in communities which normally are solidly in the GOP column.

Some factors will militate for and against both Sargent and White.

Action Delayed On School Land Parcel

Action on a new proposal to resolve the dispute over a small parcel of land adjacent to the new Day Junior High School in Newtonville was postponed by a charter objection at Monday night's meeting of the Newton Board of Aldermen.

A charter objection, in this case presented by Alderman Alan Barkin, automatically cuts off debate or action on a measure until the next meeting of the Board.

Under discussion was a recommendation from the City Solicitor that 514 square feet of land owned by Mrs. Florence Avery Moore be taken by eminent domain by the city.

According to City Solicitor Melvin Dangel, Mrs. Moore would be paid by the city the appraised value of the land.

Action on a second piece of land owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Hedlund has been resolved but the board also postponed formal approval of the matter so that both related purchases could be taken up at the same time.

Both parcels are desired by the city as a result of the error of the contractor building the new school in placing the structure in the wrong place on the land.

Because of this mistake the aldermen considered that a Lack of Priority in School Repairs Is Cited in Report

That a gymnasium floor was damaged by a roof rain-leak and that the floor was repaired before the roof, was reported to the School Committee by the School Building Facilities Commission recently.

Mrs. Eleanor Rosenblum, a School Committee member is chairman of the 20-member citizens Commission set up last winter to study the School Department buildings; set priorities for repairs and space changes; and submit a master plan in these areas to the school and city administration.

She gave an oral progress report to the School Committee. The Commission aims to submit a preliminary report before the end of the year which will outline levels (not exact priorities) of urgency, and procedures for approaching long range planning.

The Commission has met regularly in the past eight months. Reporting to it have been three subcommittees: a "process" committee; an educational facilities subcommittee; and a communications subcommittee.

In her report to her fellow School Committee members Mrs. Rosenblum cited the leaky roof floor repair instance as an example of the need for better inter-departmental coordination.

She also reported that the process subcommittee had first made recommendations to the city's Charter Commission.

Proposals on transfer of building to school committee jurisdiction were modified because of requirements of state law she said. The two committees agreed, however, on the need of school building maintenance policy with clear-cut responsibilities and clear priorities.

Michael Ferris, director of Newton's Planning Department, met several times with the subcommittee in looking for ways to define the long-range school planning process. He had worked jointly with members of the Planning Department and the School Committee too.

Richard M. Douglas, a co-member with Mrs. Rosenblum of both the School Committee and Facilities Commission, noted that Newton's 30 school buildings add up to a $75 million replacement cost.

He pointed to the rigidity of design in the eight buildings which are now more than 50 years old as complicating the definition of standards for the planners.

This rigidity, he said, makes it difficult to adapt them to today's education, with its current space needs for tutorial counseling, team teaching and individualized instruction.

Newtonite Accepts Post In Field of Medical Education

A prominent young Boston industrialist recently accepted a key position in the field of medical education.

Founding president of Damon Corporation, David I. Kosowsky became a member of the Trustee Council of the Boston University Medical Center. Announcement of Mr. Kosowsky's appointment was made by Dr. Lewis H. Rohrbach, Vice President for Medical Affairs, Boston University and Director of the Medical Center.

Mr. Kosowsky formed Damon Corporation in Needham, 1961; it has since expanded to include branches in Europe and Latin America. Damon provides medical diagnostic testing services, and manufactures medical instrumentation, educational equipment, electronic frequency control services and systems, and engineering plastics.

Prior to forming Damon, Mr. Kosowsky was Vice President of Itek Electro-Products Company. Before that he was Director of the Crystal Filter Division of Hermes Electronics Company.

Mr. Kosowsky received his Sc.D. and S.M. degrees from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and his B.E.E., summa cum laude, from City College of New York. He was given the New York State Scholarship Award, the Masonic Award and the Prager Memorial Award. In addition to his new trustee position, Mr. Kosowsky is a Trustee of University Hospital, Children's Hospital Medical Center, and the New England Aquarium. He is a member of the Corporation of the Museum of Science and the Joslin Diabetes Foundation; and a member of the professional societies, Sigma Xi, Kappa Nu, Tau Beta Pi, and the I.E.E.E.

Mr. Kosowsky, 48 Littlefield Road, Newton Centre, will serve five years as a Trustee of the B.U. Medical Center which was formed in 1962. At first including only the University Hospital and the B.U. School of Medicine, the Center has since added the unique B.U. School of Graduate Dentistry; the extended care facility, Medcenter; the partially underground Sherman Radiation Therapy Building, housing the world's largest betatron; the Doctor's Building, and has added 19 affiliated institutions throughout the New England area.

It will help if Newton can continue using No. 5 and No. 6 too, he said.

Plans for priority setting in municipal oil use are being considered and the Newton Mayor will support the efforts of the New England Governors to ask federal assistance with the problem.

Sen. Kennedy Visits Newton And Discusses Issues With Students

Senator Edward M. Kennedy carried his campaign for reelection to the U.S. Senate into Newton on Tuesday and said in a brief interview that he would oppose American military intervention into Jordan.

"I hope we are taking some action to get the 400 Americans out. There are other ways to do it besides sending troops in," he said. There are also other ways to aid governments, he stated when questioned about the possibility of American troops being sent to lend military support to King Hussein.

Sen. Kennedy had an outdoor open discussion with more than 1,000 Newton High School students on the school grounds during the morning.

The senator appeared totally unruffled when a muffled explosive sounded on the outskirts of the crowd he was addressing. He completed his statements and ended his visit to the school, as scheduled, a few minutes later.

Police reported that after an investigation they felt the "boom" was created by a firecracker.

Kennedy discussed the 15 year old vote and said he felt the Supreme Court would uphold the action of Congress.

He then solicited questions from the crowd and asked a few himself.

When questioned by Sen. Kennedy the students indicated by a show of hands that they preferred a specified time for withdrawal from Vietnam such as was spelled out in the Hatfield-McGovern amendment over immediate unilateral withdrawal, the present policy or a military victory. Their preferences were expressed in that order.

Responding to the question of whether marijuana should be legalized, students, also by a show of hands, indicated a slight preference for legalization of the substance over modification of present laws. The hand vote, however, appeared close.

The Senator then invited two students to the platform with him to give their opposing views. Both seniors, David Hunt spoke for legalization and Kathy Humphrey spoke against. Kennedy said he favored modification of the law rather than legalization.

He drew a large round of applause at the conclusion of the discussion when he glanced at school officials and asked, "Should we give them the rest of the day off?"

They reported the new CBS shows to be "ultra brief" with half the time given to commercials. ABC's shows had introduced a literature-inspired program with "no attempt to translate the charm and originality of the stories into TV terms."

NBC got good marks for "Hot Dogs" and "Tom Foolery" but poor ones for "The Bungalows."

All were criticized for excessive commercials, some of which were already pressuring children to demand items for Christmas. At present ATC has a petition before the FCC asking 14 hours a week of children's TV with no commercials.

Some CVS Stores to Have Own Prescription Center

CVS (Consumer-Value Stores), the health and beauty aids division of Melville Shoe Corp., has announced plans to include owner-operated prescription centers in several of its stores.

Martin Rabb, CVS director of pharmacies, said this decision was reached after the success of a recent six month test program at the chain's Nanuet, N.Y. store.

"CVS entered the pharmacy business because it seemed to be a natural way for the company to expand," explained Rabb. "CVS is not typical of most health and beauty aid chains. We're similar to a drug store chain... only without prescription departments."

Rabb said the franchised pharmacy operations will be located in high volume CVS stores designed for maximum prescription sales and will incorporate the latest and

Adult Leaders Are Needed For Boy Scouts

The Norumbega Council of the Boy Scouts of America is undertaking a new campaign to enlist the support of men and women in the Newton community.

At a recent meeting of Boy Scout leadership, Paul D. Slater, growth chairman for Newton, emphasized the need for more interested Newton adults who would provide the leadership for a greatly expanded Boy Scout enlistment program.

Mr. Slater stated that before the Norumbega Council could seriously consider taking on large new numbers of Scouts and Cubs, more mothers and fathers of these enlistees would have to demonstrate a willingness to lead newly created Packs and Troops.

Mr. Slater further emphasized that Newton, in comparison to many other communities in the Greater Boston area, has traditionally been deficient in the number of willing adults to participate in the scouting program.

The 1971 enlistment effort commences with the annual Roundup from October 1st to October 17th. During this period, both the boys and their parents will have every opportunity to express their interest in and support of the Boy Scout program.

Garden Club Of Auburndale 1st Meeting Oct. 5

The Auburndale Garden Club will hold its first meeting of the 1970-1971 season on Monday, October 5th at 1:30 p.m. at The Church of the Messiah in Auburndale.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. Phyllis Church Maloney whose subject will be "Fleurage," Mrs. Maloney, a distinguished artist, best known for her flower paintings, has created a new type of collage which consists of creating a picture made exclusively of preserved flowers which have been arranged & pasted, then framed under glass.

Mrs. Emerson Sylvester, president, will preside at the business meeting following refreshments served by Mrs. Richard A. Crosby, Chairman, assisted by Mrs. N. Grendell Cate, Jr., Mrs. J. Wendell Yeo, Mrs. Chester E. Borden and Mrs. Paul H. Tardivel. Poursers will be Mrs. John B. G. Palen and Mrs. Charles A. Higgins, Jr.

Of special interest to members will be a workshop at the home of Mrs. Nelson O. Johnson on Thursday, October 15th, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Unusual items for the "Silent Auction" will be made at this time.

During the summer, flowers have been placed in the Auburndale Library by the following members: Mrs. F. Payson LeBaron, Mrs. E. Graham Bates, Mrs. N. Grendell Cate, Jr., Mrs. Frank C. Meyer and Mrs. Howard N. Atwood, Jr.

Art Center Staff To Demonstrate On TV Sept. 29

Classroom 5 on WHDH TV 5 will feature the Newton Community Service Center's Creative Art Program in a half hour show Tuesday, Sept. 29, at 9:30 a.m.

The program is geared to parents and children and has been coordinated by the art teachers at the Center under Linda Janover, art director.

The purpose of the program is to demonstrate what parents and children can do together in art at home and what is being done at the Center.

Mrs. Janover will interview on TV six groups of parents and children. Many of the parents teach at the Center also. They will show things which can be done at home, including make-up, wood and wire sculpture, waterplay, fabrics.

The age of the children to appear is two to 12 years. Among those to appear are: Mrs. and Mrs. John Holland and children Jena, Bruce and Allan; Mrs. Sandra Olansky with Jason and Justine; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kelleher and Timothy and Christine; Mrs. Kathy Jones and Renee and Harlan; Stanley Jacobson and son Arthur and nephew Michael; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis and Adam and Shara; and Mrs. Murray Janover and Julie and Amy.

All are from Newton.

chairman of the Newton Democratic City Committee; Robert Casselman, president of the Newton Community Development Foundation; Henry VanUnen, executive director of the Newton Housing Authority; Dorothy Sparrow representing the Newton Coalition for New Politics; Alvin Glazerman, president of the Newton Committee for Fair Housing and Equal Rights; Robert Mackay; Sumner Darnan; and Elizabeth Pines representing the Newton Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action.

Some of the arguments of those opposed to creation of the new zone expressed fears of increased density in neighborhoods.

Mrs. Sylvia Apfelbaum, representing the Newton League of Women Voters, said a zoning study by that organization found Newton's zoning ordinances not restrictive.

She also maintained that there is a question as to the rationale of a new ordinance which lowers zoning requirements without consideration of density.

Robert Stiller of 21 June Lane, Oak Hill, said "No one should give a blank check to a program which has not been analyzed." He favored some residency requirement if a public housing zone were established.

Observance-

The Day of Atonement is a fast day, a day of self-evaluation and confession when the worshipper confesses his mistakes, admits his sins, and seeks to bring himself into harmony with the will of God.

The solemnity of observances this year is heightened by anxieties for peace, the safety of our country, and for brethren overseas.

In Newton, religious services during these Days of Awe will be held in several congregations, among them, Agudith Achim, Temple Beth Avodah, Beth El-Atereth Israel, Temple Emanuel, Temple Mishkan Tefila, Temple Reyim, and Temple Shalom.

We'll replace your furnace with a heating system that will make your house feel like a Florida resort all winter.

And we can guarantee the operating cost in writing.

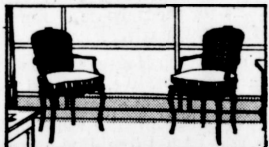

Heat eater. This 24-room house was heated for $15 a week with Radiant Electric Glassheat. It used to cost $24 with oil. No wonder the contractor was glad to guarantee the operating cost.

Thousands of people all over this country and Canada enjoyed Radiant Electric Glassheat in their houses and apartments last winter. Some people have been enjoying this amazingly comfortable, trouble-free heat for over 20 years.

Glassheat is the easiest heating system in the world to install. There are no ducts. No pipes. No tanks.

And Glassheat is direct heat. Unlike other heat systems that only warm the air, Glassheat warms you direct. Glassheat is almost instant heat; seconds after the panel is turned on, your skin begins feeling heat rays like the rays of the sun.

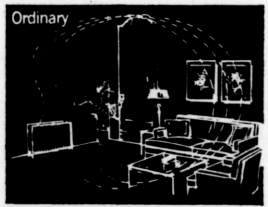

Handsome baseboard installation. Original slab hot-water heat system in this Levitt-built home ruptured. Conversion to Radiant Electric Glassheat was made easily.

Clean heat. This Radiant Electric Glassheat wall panel never deposits a speck of dirt on these lacy curtains. For the first time in years the curtains haven't needed monthly washings.

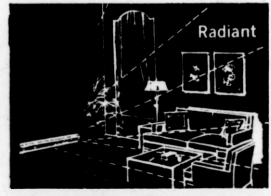

Ordinary convection heating. Pushes hot air around in a sweeping, circular motion. Pushes dust and dirt too, streaking walls.

Radiant heating with Glassheat. It "broadcasts" heat rays evenly. There's only a 2-degree temperature difference from floor to ceiling. With conventional heating systems, the difference may be as much as 20 degrees.

Since Glassheat is electric heat, there is no burning. So there is no dust or soot. No moving parts either, so there's nothing to break down. And you get a thermostat in each room. If you aren't using a room, turn the heat off and save money.

Why we can afford to guarantee the cost of operating Glassheat.

We expect you to spend less on heating after you install Radiant Electric Glassheat than you're spending right now. For one thing, electric heat is more efficient. No heat goes up the chimney. No heat is wasted in rooms you aren't using. And glass, which is the heart of Glassheat, loses heat more slowly than metal constructions. What's more, if you're in the Boston Edison or Massachusetts Electric area, your power company will give you a special low electric rate and a generous installation allowance. We're glad to tell you how much lower your annual heating bill will be with Glassheat—and guarantee it in writing.

In just a few minutes, without obligation, we can show you how Radiant Electric Glassheat will turn your house into a toasty warm, Florida resort, eliminate heating problems, and cut the cost of heat compared with your present system.

Fill out the coupon or call 237-3994 and ask for Bill Doherty.

Service Center Nursery School Starts Season

The Nursery School of the Newton Community Service Centers entered a new year as it got underway this past Monday, headed by Mrs. Herbert Stearns.

Under the direction of Mrs. Stearns, the School is conducted Monday through Friday morning for boys and girls 3½-5 years of age in the spacious facilities of the first Unitarian Society in West Newton.

A varied program which tends to stimulate the creative and searching minds of youngsters enrolled is offered.

Mrs. Stearns begins her fourth year as the Teacher-Director of the program. Miss Judith Freed, who has been a staff member of the Centers for the past five years, assumed the position of Teacher.

Classes are scheduled during the hours of 9:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon each day. For additional information contact the Centers at 969-5906.

In the past decade community hospitals have increased intensive care facilities four-fold, family planning service to 74 percent, outpatient services by 33 percent, and have increased the employee patient ratio to 280 people caring for every 100 patients.

Doctor Output and AMA

For many years the American Medical Association has been accused of dragging its feet in encouraging a greater output of physicians from the nation's medical schools and of failing to employ its influence in the establishment of new medical schools.

The day of the old-fashioned family doctor who made his daily rounds, treating many of his patients in their homes, even climbing out of bed to handle an emergency summons after midnight is gone, never to return. The specialists will still increase in number as the general practitioner continues to disappear.

Smaller communities will continue to seek to persuade a physician to locate in their towns by special inducements.

Dr. Water C. Bornemeier, new president of the AMA, brings to his high office a seemingly different approach to his job than many of his predecessors.

"I think," he continues, "it will still be a private dous changes and I believe we'll have a much better system of medical care," he says.

"I think," he continues, "it will still be a private fee-for-service system in 1980 and we will have enough doctors so that we can take care of everybody, and everybody will have an insurance policy so that they can obtain the medical care they want."

Those are pretty strong words, and coming from the ivory tower of the AMA they become stronger in their import.

Down through the years the AMA has had its critics. Often it has been the target of unjust criticism, occasionally based on misunderstanding. It has been steadfast, however, in its determination to maintain the highest possible ideals of the medical profession.

No right-thinking American wishes to see any weakening or compromising of those ideals.

Dr. Bornemeier, however, indicates he has a good grasp of one of the most basic problems with which medicine has been temporizing too long. No single factor can carry greater weight in reaching a solution to those problems than the AMA itself.

Courts' Overload

In California a firefighter, asserting his civil and constitutional rights had been violated, asked a Federal Court to rule null and void his department's regulation banning mod male hair-dos and whiskers.

The judge threw the case out of court. The firefighter was obliged to get a shave and a haircut.

Some schoolboys have been bringing similar complaints before Federal Courts in New England. Some have enjoyed more success than the firefighter out on the coast. To the dismay of school officials they went back to their classrooms, unshorn and sort of heroes to their teenage classmates.

Such cases are brought to mind by remarks made by Chief Justice J. Edward Lumbard of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit which covers New York, Connecticut and Vermont. He was addressing the annual conference of Federal judges in that jurisdiction.

He minced no words.

He told the judges that they and their colleagues did too much "meddling" in state criminal cases. He told the listening judges that confidence in all courts was "sorely lacking." And — while he devoted most of his address to the criminal aspects of the overloaded court calendars — there was no doubt he was considering the increase of comparably trivial civil rights cases, too.

Justice Lumbard made it clear he was fully cognizant that Supreme Court rulings had increased the number of appeals by prisoners who had been convicted and jailed by State Courts. He said he found most of the appeals "frivolous."

"For all our (Appeals Court) work on thousands of state prisoners cases," said the Justice, "I have yet to hear of one where an innocent man was convicted."

He continued, "The net result of our fruitless meddling in the search of the nonexistent needle in the ever-larger haystack has been a serious detriment to the administration of criminal justice by the states."

Those are pretty strong words.

They paint a most disturbing picture. It is a picture that should be minutely scrutinized by the U.S. Supreme Court — the sooner the better.

LETTERS TO THE GRAPHIC

Yale Senior Answers Editorial

Editor of The Graphic:

I am writing in regard to your recent editorial entitled, "Silent Mr. Brewster." I find it hard to contain my sense of anger and frustration over the gross misrepresentation of fact, distortion of events, irresponsible misquoting, and weak political analysis that my home-town newspaper apparently is capable of.

I am a senior at Yale, and a lifetime resident of Newton, so you can understand my concern over an editorial that is more a political diatribe than a lucid expression of opinion.

The distortions are so great I don't know where to begin. Most of the people coming to the May Day rally were anything but volatile; the lack of significant violence attests to that. There was little anti-American rhetoric; what little there was was spoken by an admittedly irresponsible man, Jerry Rubin, who was in fact received poorly by the audience.

Reports from a wide selection of first-hand observers confirm that American flags were not burned; and if your reporters saw a "plentiful supply" of Viet Cong flags, they must have been at another rally.

Moving on to your next fallacious paragraph, it was simply not a "small segment" of Yale students who hosted the visitors. I can only guess at a precise figure, but the overall spirit on campus was to welcome the influx of people to New Haven not in order to make a political statement, but rather, to deter any potential violence. The feeling was that if "radical" minded visitors saw Yale in a receptive posture, providing food and bed-space, they would be less inclined to make Yale the target of their antagonism.

Hopefully, antagonistic feelings could be reduced to a safe level, and the threatened violence could be subdued or stopped altogether. This is in fact what happened, much to the credit of Yale and all participants in the weekend.

I should add that the rally was not conceived or created by Yale, or even Yale students. It was, I believe (and I may be wrong), sponsored by a national committee for the Panther defense. Yale's actions as regards May Day were in fact reactions to what you rightfully called "an unenviable, near-crisis."

Now comes your coup de grace. You say that President

Brewster "expressed the opinion that it would be impossible (bold added) for a black revolutionary to get a fair trial any where in this country." In fact, Brewster said that he was "skeptical" of the possibility of such an occurrence. The difference is more than trivial.

An absolute statement is rarely defensible; but Brewster's was not absolute. Furthermore, his statement did not say, "Let us therefore act outside the system," or "Let us therefore take the law into our own hands." Rather, it was actually the reflection of what was then the predominant view on campus. It was not untimely, as you say; instead, it united students and administration, and somehow provided the impetus to work for a fair trial.

For the most people were convinced of the fact that the trial would indeed go on. The May Day rally could not stop it; violence certainly could not, nor should it have. All that could be done was arouse the consciousness of the New Haven community and of the nation to the possibility of injustice. This Brewster's statement did, largely as a result of his status as president of Yale.

It should be clear that a problem can not be remedied until it is identified. If one sees the possibility of injustice as a problem, then he should speak out. Brewster did; and he should not be condemned for it.

He may well have been wrong. But it is also possible that the scrutiny given to the trial proceedings by Yale law students and professors, and by a watchful nation, in fact helped insure a fair trial. This is problematic, certainly, but it serves as at least a partial justification of Brewster's remarks.

In closing, let me say that your implied invective against Mr. Brewster is useless. Regardless of who is right and who is wrong on the issue, your attack on Brewster is more than unjustified; it is mis-directed. With all the men in this country who may in fact be impeding the cause of justice, why level your gun-sights on Brewster?

Sincerely,
Peter L. Freeman

Political Highlights

In order to have a real chance of winning the election, Mayor White must draw into his camp the great majority of Democrats who voted for one of his three opponents in the primary.

He will be aided in this endeavor by the support of his three primary adversaries — Maurice A. Donahue, Francis X. Bellotti and Kenneth P. O'Donnell — all of whom have endorsed him. But one unity meeting will not accomplish this. It will take some hard work by Donahue, Bellotti and O'Donnell.

Governor Sargent appears to be an exceptionally strong Republican candidate. His problem is that he is standing for election in a basically Democratic State and that President Nixon is not popular in Massachusetts. A man who has lost his job because of Mr. Nixon's policies is not likely to vote Republican.

President Nixon probably would have been a greater political burden to Governor Sargent if Josiah A. Spaulding had not defeated John J. McCarthy for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator. McCarthy made it crystal clear that if he toppled Spaulding one of his first actions would be to request Vice President Spiro Agnew to come into Massachusetts to speak for him.

A sharp difference of opinion exists as to whether a visit by the Veep would help or hurt Republican candidates in the State, but it certainly would make President Nixon a greater issue in the gubernatorial campaign than he now is.

As it is, Mayor White probably will try to run against Mr. Nixon to as great an extent as possible, while Governor Sargent campaigns against the Legislature and the refusal of all but 69 of its members to support a proposed change in the State Constitution cutting the size of the House of Representatives from 240 to 160 members.

Organized labor was carried off the primary battlefield on its own shield when Mayor White edged out Senate President Donahue for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

But White needs the good will of labor and its leaders in his fight with Governor Sargent, and Patrick J. Bocanuso, one of the State's most popular labor chieftains, already is working quietly to see that he gets it.

Bocanuso, business manager of the Glaziers and Glass Workers Union, endorsed White before the primary and is now striving to heal any rifts in the ranks of organized labor. He appears to be making real headway in his efforts to line up for White those trade unionists who backed Donahue in the primary.

"I am sure that organized labor will be solidly behind Mayor White before the Nov. 3 election," declares Bocanuso.

Governor Sargent's aides, of course, will try to woo any labor leaders they can for their man, but the indications are that most of the unionists will finally wind up in the White camp.

Political analysts are still trying to figure out why Mayor White was more popular outside Boston than he was in his home city. The obvious answer is that his

IT'S THAT SEASON AGAIN!

Newton Boys Club Opens Sept. 28th

Registration for membership in the Newton Boy's Club is open and the fall and winter season at the Club begins at 2:30 p.m. Monday (Sept. 28).

The Club will be open to its members daily Monday thru Friday from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 9 pm and on Saturdays from 10 am. to 4 p.m.

All boys between the ages of 7 and 18 years are eligible for membership and are advised to register soon. Early registration will give the opportunity to sign up for favorite projects before they are filled and to schedule the activities planned for the season.

A record membership of 691 boys and young men were served last year. Alterations have been made in the Club rooms, a new gymnasium floor has been installed and a new teen age play room has been assembled to insure the best possible accommodations for the increased membership.

popularity in Boston eroded under the tough problems he faced and the hard decisions he had to make.

Louise Day Hicks Can Hold Council and Congress Posts

A number of questions have been directed to this writer asking whether Mrs. Louise Day Hicks could serve both in Congress and the Boston City Council at the same time.

We know of nothing either in the law or the Boston City Charter which would prevent her from doing so.

During the year 1946 the late, fabled James M. Curley served as both Congressman and Mayor of Boston.

Mr. Curley apparently forgot this one day when he spoke out sharply against moonlighting and decreed that city employees could not hold state or federal jobs in addition to their municipal positions.

They would have to give up one or the other, he declared.

When it was pointed out gently to him that he was holding two jobs and he was asked which one he planned to give up, Mr. Curley said he would solve the situation by donating his congressional pay to charity. It was then far below the present $42,500-a-year figure.

Will Mrs. Hicks come back and run again for Mayor next year? It isn't likely when she discovers how good the job of Congresswoman is.

Incidentally, Mrs. Hicks faces a fight with former Congressman Laurence Curtis before she becomes Congresswoman. She will be an overwhelming favorite in a heavily Democratic district. But Curtis is about as strong a candidate as the Republicans could put up against Mrs. Hicks.

College Students May Kill Candidates With Their Help

If we were running for public office (it isn't likely to happen), we would hope that some ill-mannered, long-haired, shaggy-bearded, barefoot, unkempt college students got into our campaign — on the side of our opponent.

That, of course, is intended to be a facetious comment and is not meant to reflect upon the great majority of young men and women who go to college to get an education.

However, the word is that a number of candidates involved in hard fights are nervous about the unsolicited and unwanted help they may get when more than 20 colleges throughout the United States give their students time off to campaign in the closing period before the election.

The office-seekers realize that the aid they get from college students, if not properly controlled and handled, could turn public opinion against them and cause their defeat.

Most of the seasoned politicians, particularly those who might get a "helping hand" down the road to disaster from the college boys and girls, wish strongly and sincerely the students would remain in their lecture halls and devote themselves to their studies.

An interesting aspect also has developed. Officials in some colleges are concerned that their institutions might lose their tax-exempt status if their students are allowed time off to go campaigning. As a result they got the Internal Revenue Service to specify guide lines under which students could interrupt their studies to campaign.

One provision is that the time spent away from college in campaigns must be made up later in the year. It seems that has chilled the enthusiasm of some students which is indicative of something.

Question No. 1 on Ballot Poses Issue of Taxation

Several questions will be listed on the November election ballot.

Question No. 1 will ask the voter to approve or disapprove a proposed constitutional amendment which would grant the Legislature unlimited authority to classify real estate for taxation at different rates according to its use. The wording of the proposal is as follows:

Article IV of Section I of Chapter I of Part the Second of the Constitution is hereby amended by inserting after the word "and to impose and levy proportional and reasonable assessments, rates and taxes upon all inhabitants of, and persons resident, and estates lying, within the said Commonwealth," the following words: —except that the general court may classify real property according to uses, and may provide for the assessment, rating and taxation thereof at different rates in the different classes so established, but proportionately in the same class, and except, further, that the general court may grant reasonable exemptions and abatements.

That is a mouthful if we ever mumbled one. But it poses an important issue, and the voters should understand it before they go to their polling places to cast their ballots in the Nov. 3 election.

The Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation has made a detailed study of this proposal and has distributed a report explaining it.

Approval of this proposal in itself would do nothing. It is only permissive and would allow the Legislature to tax different types of real estate at different rates. What the Legislature would do if given this authority is uncertain. It might not do anything.

It is generally assumed that this proposed constitutional amendment, if adopted, would be the vehicle to allow the Legislature to classify homes at a lower taxation rate than business properties.

However, the study by the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation found that in a majority of the states where such a provision is in effect commercial and industrial property is taxed more favorably than residential property and that manufacturing property generally is taxed more favorably than other business property.

That is done, of course, to attract manufacturing industries and to create additional job opportunities.

Incidentally, the Executive Committee of the Taxpayers' Foundation is recommending to its members that they vote "No" on Question No. 1. But a spokesman for the Foundation said the organization will not be involved in any campaign to influence the voters one way or the other on the question.

Drastic Change Seen Coming In State's House Districts

Another question which will appear on the Nov. 3 ballot provides for a change in the State Constitution which would result in the creation of 240 legislative districts in Massachusetts for the purpose of representation in the House of Representatives.

This would mean that each House district would be served by one State Representative. It would cause a revision of the legislative districts in many of the cities and a few towns of the Commonwealth which presently are served by two and even three House members.

It is generally anticipated that this change in the Constitution will be approved by the voters and that this will be the last year in which two or three law-makers are elected from double or triple legislative districts.

That has important political implications. In many instances two House members will be battling for a single seat two years from now when they find themselves living in a district with a colleague.

It will be difficult but not impossible to divide a city such as Boston into equal legislative districts. It will be necessary to ignore ward lines which now generally create the basis for the creation of the House districts.

In some instances two wards now are placed together in a House district. In others three legislators represent a single ward. This probably is the last election in which that system will be in effect.

Women Voters Coffee to Open Season Here on Next Tuesday

Fall activities are underway for the League of Women Voters of Newton. The season will be held Tuesday evening, September 29th, at the Speakers Bureau has been organized, and a new book about State government written by League members has just been published. The first membership coffee of the season will be held at the home of Mrs. John Montgomery, 36 Hyde Avenue at 8 p.m., Tuesday, September 29th. Members of the League will talk on different aspects of the League. Then there will be an informal question period and refreshments. This is the first year that 18 year old women will be able to join - previous to this time, the age had to be 21. Anyone interested in joining or just coming to find out about the organization is welcome. For further information or house directions, please call Mrs. John Montgomery, Vice President in charge of Membership at 527-2153, or members of her committee,

Mrs. A. Arthur Lowenthal at 332-3008, or Mrs. Arthur Johanningsmeier at 969-6454. There are also displays at all the libraries where one can fill out a slip to receive further information. The League of Women Voters of Newton now has a Speakers Bureau under the chairmanship of Mrs. Antranig DerMarderosian. Members of our Voters Service Committee are ready to come before groups in the city to discuss election issues in the upcoming election. Human Resources Committee members are ready to discuss problems facing the suburbs in terms of new housing. Education, zoning, water resources, state legislation and public welfare are other areas we have studied. For further details on the Speakers Bureau, contact Mrs. DerMarderosian at 527-4954.

The second edition of Massachusetts State Government, written by the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts and published by the Harvard Press is available to the public. This book is a comprehensive and critical guide of the history, development and functioning of all aspects of the government of the Commonwealth. For further information about obtaining a copy, contact Mrs. Arthur Johanningsmeier, Publications Chairman at 969-6454. Dates to keep in mind for October activities of the League of Women Voters of Newton are as follows: Monday, October 19th and Tuesday, October 20th, Voters Service Units, and Wednesday, October 28th, Candidates Night.

MRS. ALVIN H. HARTMAN

St. John's Church Scene of Hartman-Patteson Bridal

At St. John's Episcopal Church, West Newton, on Saturday, September 19, Mrs. Garland W. Patteson of West Newton was married to Mr. Alvin H. Hartman of Wellesley Hills.

The Rt. Rev. Frederic C. Lawrence, retired Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts, the Rev. Edwin B. Kron, C.S.P., of Tucson, Arizona, and the Rev. Edward S. S. Sunderland, Jr., rector, officiated at the 7:30 o'clock candlelight service. Mr. William D. Merkle of Greenwich, Ct., gave his sister away. She wore an original American beauty colored imported lace over taffeta and tulle gown. The molded bodice had a scalloped portrait neckline and long petal point sleeves. She chose a matching Dior head bow and carried Rhubrum lilies accented with greens.

Her three attendants were Miss Eleanor F. O'Neil, Winchester, Mrs. David Winton, Little Falls, N.J., and Miss Patricia M. Zippodt, New York City. Identically attired in burgundy crepe dresses designed with modified portrait necklines, they wore matching Dior bows and their flowers were white lilies.

Mr. Donald C. Kneale of Wellesley served as best man. The ushers were Mr. F. Peter Merkle, Jr., Long Grove, Ill., brother of the bride, and Mr. William W. Reynolds, Jr., of Haddonfield, N.J., son-in-law of the groom. The bride's four children were seated in the family pew. They are Marcia, 10, David B., 13, Clark W., 16, and SR Bruce H. Patteson, Navy Air Corps Reserve. In the groom's family pew were his daughter, Mrs. William W. (Mollie) Reynolds, Jr., of Haddonfield, N.J., and his two sons, Peter J., of Hartford, Ct., and Robin J. Hartman of Wellesley Hills.

Following a reception at the Wellesley Country Club, Mr. and Mrs. Hartman left for Bermuda. They plan to live in West Newton.

Mrs. Hartman, the former Barbara Merkle Patteson, is the widow of the late Mr. Patteson. Mr. Hartman was married to the late Mrs. Marjorie Moul Hartman.

Canadian Honeymoon for Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Magee

Two rings were exchanged at the recent marriage of Miss Amy Carol Cutler to Jeffrey Francis Magee, which took place at the Sacred Heart, Church, Newton Centre.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Cutler Sr., of 63 Fisher Avenue, Newton Highlands, and Mr. and Mrs. William Magee Sr., of 4 Rockledge road, Newton Highlands, are the couple's parents. The Rev. Michael Doocey officiated at the six o'clock nuptials ceremony. The Chestnut Hill Country Club was the scene of the reception. Given away by her father, the bride chose a beau de soie gown marked with Alencon lace and designed with a high neckline and bishop sleeves, en traine. A becoming lace cap was fastened with her bouffant illusion veil. She carried a bouquet fashioned of self material flowers mixed with hand made pearl flowers.

Miss Susan Jane Cutler of Newton Highlands was her sister's honor maid. The bridesmaids were Miss Maureen A. Cutler of Natick, Miss Martha Borgeson of New York, Miss Joanne Rattigan and Miss Barbara J. Paulini, both of Newton, as well as Miss Jorie Ftorek of Needham. William Magee Jr., of Dover served as his brother's best man. The ushers were John Magee of Rhode Island, Francis Cotter Jr., of Natick, James Rooney of Westwood and John Rattigan of Newton. Canada was the honeymoon destination of the couple who are now living in Framingham. The bride is a dental assistant in Framingham, and her husband is a graduate student at Babson College. Ballet, Dance Classes At 'Y' For Young Folk

The Newton YMCA announces that registrations are being accepted for youth classes in ballet, creative dance, and folk dance.

John Duane, the ballet teacher, begins his third year teaching at the YMCA. Mr. Duane has a background of many years experience in the theatre, both on Broadway and throughout the United States, Mexico, and Europe.

He was also a member of several leading ballet companies as a choreographer. As a performer, Mr. Duane was solo dancer with the American Ballet Theatre and with the Ballet International.

Classes will be held for beginners and advanced, for boys and girls six years old and up.

Creative dance, where children create and move to their own music and rhythm while enacting stories, animals, and emotions, will be offered to boys and girls four years old and up.

Miss Wendy Martz will teach this group. Miss Martz attended the University of Rochester, Erick Hawkins School of Modern Dance, and the Don Farnsworth School of Ballet.

Folk dancing for girls ten years old and up will be offered this year for the first time under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Lob. Mrs. Lob has taught dance at the Newton Y for many years and has extensive experience in this area.

2 Local Girls Are Students At Berklee

Two Newton girls are among those studying at the Berklee College of Music in Boston this year; both are taking piano.

Leslie Danis, 14, and Allison Danis, 17, of 5 Evelyn Rd., Waban, will be taking private lessons. Leslie is in the 8th grade at the Weeks Junior High School. Allison is a senior at the Newton High School.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

The annual Newton South Kick-Off Dance will be held tomorrow night, September 25, from 7:30 to 11 p.m. The dance will follow the first football game of the season which is against Rindge Tech.

The band is an excellent group from Roslindale called "Two Back Home". The four members are recently back from shows in California. The hard-rock music will play all evening.

The tradition of introducing sports teams, coaches, and cheerleaders at the dance will be carried on this year.

A new French curriculum is being offered to all seniors in curriculum one and curriculum two this year. Every student choose his own French course for each semester.

This semester courses such as Conversation, French art, and French music were all available in three blocks. Subsequent semesters will include courses ranging from seventeenth century literature to twentieth century theatre.

Miss McLane, one of the initiators and teachers of the elective program noted that it "leaves room for flexibility and individual projects."

She further explained that ideally seventh to tenth grade French will eventually be sequential study, and eleventh and twelfth grade students will pick electives. Therefore, once language skills are acquired, students will use the knowledge in studying related areas.

Students are still evaluated according to their own curriculum.

A similar program is being used for English classes in Cutler House.

Principal William D. Geer Jr. is enthusiastic about the new program. He explained that it "maximizes course selection choice to the student". He feels it will be a chance to meet and develop relationships with teachers.

If these programs prove to be effective they will be expanded next year.

Other new courses this year include a work-study program in auto mechanics. The vocational program received a state grant. Students receive five credits for the course and five credits for the work segment. The latter consists of ten to twelve hours per week working as a service station attendant after school.

The A-B-Dick production center will also form a work study program.

Teddy Bears and building blocks are now a part of the Newton South curriculum. A nursery school for two and three years olds began Monday, September 21.

The nursery school is in conjunction with home economics classes. It serves as a lab for these courses.

The fifteen two and three year olds include about ten from the Newton South Community area and five who are children of faculty members.

The first issue of Denebola, Newton South's newspaper appeared Tuesday, September 22. The newspaper will be available on alternate Tuesdays throughout the year. David Freeman, editor-in-Chief, looks forward to an exciting year.

Parcel-

roadway to the school would be too narrow, especially during the winter snow months, for fire apparatus or other heavy vehicles to maneuver. It is to make this roadway more adequate that the land is being sought.

Finance Committee Chairman Edward C. Uehlein said that the contractor would bear all costs involved including payment for the time involved by the city's law department.

If Mrs. Moore is not satisfied with the price offered after appraisals of the property she can proceed to seek damages through court action, Uehlein declared.

Negotiations were successful with the owner of the other parcel of property, Mrs. Hedlund, but it had been reported at previous board meetings that Mrs. Moore was asking the city for $15,000 for the portion of property she owns and that was felt by city officials to be too high a price.

Since only 16 of the 23 aldermen were present when the matter came up for a vote at about midnight, and since an affirmative vote by two-thirds of the aldermen was required for the landtaking, the charter objection was made so that the matter may be considered again at the next meeting of the Board on Oct. 5.

In other action the board granted a license to store 20,000 gallons of fuel oil and 1000 gallons of waste oil at the new Newton High School. The vote came after a lengthy discussion of the possible oil shortage this winter, air pollution and the wisdom of conversion to gas heating.

The majority of board members seemed to feel they should not intrude on engineering matters. They deleted a reference to #5 fuel oil in the petition and approved the oil storage request.

The aldermen also approved a request from Police Chief William F. Quinn for an appropriation of $13,345.25 to implement two grant projects under the Federal High Safety Program. The money will be reimbursed from the federal government, Uehlein reported.

The funds will be used to purchase four computerized speed clocking devices to increase and improve surveillance of speed in the city and to buy two video tape machines.

Three Attend Mt. Hermon

Among the 656 boys registering for the 89th academic year of Mount Hermon School were Bruce J. Kapsten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour C. Kapsten of 60 Puritan Road, Newton Highlands; David H. Stoneman, son of Mrs. Joan S. Stoneman of 101 Hammond St., Chestnut Hill and Mr. James M. Stoneman of Swampscott; and Michael N. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. White of 69 Homestead St., Waban.

Mt. Hermon is in Mount Hermon, Mass. broadcasts heard and seen weekly over the NBC radio and television networks, the "Directions" program on the ABC-TV network, and the Jewish Museum of New York.

Court Our Lady, CDA, Plans For Year at Meeting

A new program of activities for the up-coming year for Court Our Lady, CDA, was disclosed at the business meeting held recently in the Pope John Room, Our Lady Help of Christians Parish, Newton. It was the first monthly meeting of the new year.

Rt. Rev. John J. McManmon, pastor of Our Lady's parish and chaplain to the membership offered Benediction prior to the meeting.

Mrs. Phyllis Arico, newly-elected Grand Regent presided. Congratulations were extended to out-going Grand Regent Florence Coen who has been elected a District Grand Deputy.

Eight members of Court Little Flower, Wellesley, were welcomed into Court Our Lady due to the fact that their court has been disbanded.

Other announcements for the evening included the Annual State Communion Mass and Breakfast which will be held on September 27th at St. Peter & Paul Church, South Boston; and that the next monthly meeting for Court Our Lady would be held on Monday, October 5th rather than on the holiday, October 12th.

New York—Female immigrants outnumbered males three to one in 1946 in the U.S., reflecting the number of war brides brought home.

Long-Time Insurance Firms Merge In New Building Here

An important addition to the Newtonville business scene was marked recently when the Alfred E. Fuller Insurance Agency of Newtonville was consolidated with the John P. Nixon Insurance Agency of Boston under the name of John P. Nixon Insurance Agency, Inc. and opened the doors of its newly completed headquarters office building at 425 Newtonville Ave.

Founded in 1890 by the late Alfred E. Fuller, the Fuller Agency has long served the insurance needs of the Newton community.

The Nixon Agency, established in 1926 by the father of the new president of the combined organization, John P. Nixon, was well known throughout the metropolitan Boston area. Today, the combined organization offers a full line of insurance coverage as well as real estate brokerage to both individuals and business firms alike.

Commenting on the occasion, John P. Nixon said: "Increased modern office space, an easily accessible location plus the greater efficiency of a single facility for our operations will, we believe, make it possible for us to give even better service to our many clients."

Mr. Nixon, a graduate of the Newton schools, completed his education at Dartmouth College in 1928. Long active in civic affairs, he served seven consecutive terms as Alderman at Large from Newton's Ward 3, and was Chairman of the Finance Committee for four years.

A former director of the Chamber of Commerce, he now serves as a member of the State Affairs Committee of the Greater Boston Chamber. Currently, he is an incorporator of the Newton Savings Bank and a director of the Newton Taxpayers' Association.

A veteran insurance man, he has held a State broker's license for forty-two years.

Married to the former Ethel Saunders of Newtonville, he makes his home in West Newton.

John P. Nixon Jr., CPCU is treasurer of the new corporation. A Newton native, he is a graduate of the Newton Public Schools and Babson College in 1959. He is a Marine Corps veteran.

His entire business career has been insurance, and in 1969 was awarded the coveted designation of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriter which involves five years of study.

Jack has been the manager of the Alfred E. Fuller Insurance Agency and is expert in the field of commercial package insurance. He now makes his home in Sudbury with his wife and two children.

David S. Nixon of Dove, who joined the firm in 1968, is the youngest member of the organization having been associated previously with a multi-line insurance company in their Boston office.

A native of Newton and a graduate of the Babson Institute and the John Hancock Agents' Course in 1969, he will head up the life insurance department as well as accident-sickness and income protection.

Managing the real estate department will be James J. Wells of Everett, a licensed insurance and real estate broker who has been associated with the insurance business for the past twenty-four years.

Conservators To Hold Walks In Fall Season

"The City of Newton contains several large parcels of open space for the enjoyment of its residents; yet these lands are under-used. Have you been planning to look for the deer at the Webster estate, follow the trails through Edmonds Park, find out what's in Cold Spring Park, take the River Path along Norumbega?"

Newton Conservators, Inc. has decided that it's time to take some informal walks through these areas, and four such walks are scheduled for this fall.

The Committee on Information and Education is assembling material on the history of the sites, their geological features, their flora and fauna, and of course projections for their public use.

The walks planned are October 4, portions of the Webster land; October 18, Edmonds Park; November 1, Cold Spring Park; and November 15, the uncommitted

To The Voters Of Newton:

Your overwhelming support of my candidacy is greatly appreciated. Our great victory was the result of a lot of people working in a common belief.

The primary is over, but there is one more step — the final election. Let us continue our efforts for a Democratic victory in November.

"SAFETY for SAVINGS"

To PREVENT CRIME
INCREASE SAFETY
SPEED-UP TRAVEL

The "EXACT FARE" PLAN Begins SEPT. 27, 1970

On this date and thereafter, patrons of the M & B must have the exact fare before boarding a bus. This should prove no problem when measured against the safety of the men who operate the buses and the patrons who ride. Bus Drivers, under the "EXACT FARE" PLAN, will carry no money and therefore will not be subject to assault and robbery.

The "EXACT FARE" PLAN has been requested by the ATU (Bus Drivers Union) for the safety of their drivers and the public. It is also the same plan that over 100 city transportation systems have adopted throughout the United States, and they report these criminal incidents have been drastically reduced as a result.

When the change-over to the "EXACT FARE" PLAN takes place, it will only involve the rider dropping the exact fare into the farebox. Travel routes and time schedules will not change.

Please co-operate, remember the date, September 27, 1970. Have the exact change handy. You'll lend a big helping hand in preventing crime. Thank you.

Miss Delulio, Mr. Burns Married In Newton Church

Miss Linda Marie Delulio, daughter of Mrs. Mary K. Delulio of 27 Hamilton place, Needham, and the late Mr. Alfred B. Delulio, became the bride of Mr. Frank Marshall Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Burns of 43 Barrows street, Dedham, at a two o'clock, double ring ceremony performed recently in Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church, Newton Upper Falls.

The Rev. Msgr. Daniel F. is now stationed in Newport, R.I. She wore a full-length gown of silk organza over followed at "The Colonial Restaurant" in Medfield. Her floor-length detachable train had laced and beaded edges.

MRS. FRANK MARSHALL BURNS

A three-tiered silk illusion veil was attached to her headpiece of flowers and seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Rosemarie Delulio of Needham was her sister's maid of honor. She wore an orchid gown fashioned with an empire bodice and bow headpiece which had a silk illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of purple carnations, pink daisies and pink roses.

Wearing lilac empire gowns with bow headpieces and silk illusion veils were the bridesmaids, Miss Joan Ehrets and Miss Janet Ehrets of Needham and Miss Jean Folan of Norwood. They carried bouquets of purple carnations and pink daisies.

Grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. Salomaa. Miss Carol Downing of Newton was in charge of the guest book.

Serving as best man for his brother was Mr. Thomas Burns of Walpole, and sharing usher duties were Mr. George Blanchard of Plainville, Mr. Richard Brooks of Walpole, and Mr. Valentino Rizzi of Dedham.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Delulio chose a blue knitted dress with matching accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Burns, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a pink knitted dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink and red roses.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to Canada, the couple will reside in Hyde Park. For her going-away ensemble, the bride wore a white knitted dress with red shoes and bag and a corsage of red roses.

The bride was graduated from Needham High School. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin McGrath and of Mrs. Santo Delulio. The bridegroom, a graduate of Dedham High School, is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. Salomaa.

Miss Wragg and Mr. Dwyer Wed In Wellesley Church

Miss Suzanne Marie Wragg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wragg of Wellesley Hills, became the bride of Mr. Vincent Courtney Dwyer, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent C. Dwyer, Jr., also of Wellesley Hills, at an 11 o'clock nuptial mass on Saturday morning, September 12, in St. James the Great Church, Wellesley. The Rev. Robert I. Turner was the officiating clergyman, and a reception followed at the Framingham Motor Inn.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Dohoney of West Newton and of the late Hon. and Mrs. Samuel H. Wragg of Needham. Mr. Dwyer is the grandson of Mrs. A. Bard Steigerwalt of Wellesley Hills and the late Mr. Steigerwalt and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Vincent C. Dwyer of Pittsburgh.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a silk organza over ivory taffeta the gown fashioned with a Victorian neckline, long sleeves and scalloped hemline and applied on the Empire bodice, A-line skirt and chapel-length circular train with re-embroidered Alencon lace trimmed with seed pearls. Her two-tiered cathedral-length illusion veil fell from a Camelot cap, and she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Neal L. Taffe

Jeanne Bourassa Becomes Mrs. William N. Locke Jr.

The marriage of Miss Jeanne B. Bourassa to William N. Locke, Jr., took place earlier this month at the Church of St. Thomas Moore, Durham, N.H.

Dr. and Mrs. Roger J. Winslow, Me., and Madison, Wisconsin, was the bride's sole attendant.

The best man was John F. Locke of Newtonville and Harpswell, Me. Paul R. Bourassa of Winslow, Me., were the ushers.

Following a trip to the White Mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Locke are living on Durham, N. H.

The bride, a graduate of Mount Meric Academy attended the University of Maine, Colby College and the University of Connecticut.

Grandson of Mrs. John W. Locke of Waltham, the groom was graduated from Hebron Academy, American University and the University of New Hampshire where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He is a member of the Naval Reserves, Officers Candidate.

Miss Louise M. Buraassa of MRS. WILLIAM N. LOCKE, JR.

Accepted at Tech School

Arthur J. Gallant of 9 Edinboro Terrace, Newtonville, has been accepted in the class starting at East Coast Aero Technical School, Hanescom Field, Lexington, where he will prepare for his Federal Aviation Administration examinations to become a licensed technician.

He is the son of Mrs. Phyllis P. Gallant of Roslindale.

ROBERTA FELDBERG

Miss Feldberg Is Bride-Elect Of A. E. Lasker

Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Feldberg of Newton Highlands have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mrs.

Roberta Feldberg, to Arnold Elliott Lasker of Newton Centre.

Miss Feldberg is a graduate of Green Mountain College, Putney, Vermont. Having received her B.S. degree from Suffolk University, she is now teaching in the Lowell public schools.

Mr. Lasker received his B.A. degree in political science from Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, and his master of education degree from Boston University. He has been associated with the Brookline public schools for the past five years.

of Wakefield, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Alan T. Saclabrin of Providence, R.I. cousin of the bride, Mrs. Harold Messner of New York city Miss Anna-Maria Pittella of Jersey City, N.J., Mrs. Thomas Villata of Bronxville, N.Y., and Miss Catherine A. Cahill of New York city. The attendants wore sleeveless oriental pink satin-backed crepe gowns, with front and back gathered panels over satin pants, with gold and silver braid at the empire waistlines, and carried cascades of miniature carnations.

Mr. Robert E. Grant of Westport, Conn., was best man. Ushers included Mr. Steven D. Cline of Newton, Mr. George Leone of Mt. Prospect, Ill., Mr. Thomas Roehn of Pittsburgh, Pa., Mr. John E. Lafferty of Wellesley Hills and Mr. Robert Steigerwalt of Pittsburgh, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride is a graduate of Marymount College. Her husband attended Shady Side

Soccer Talk

BY PAUL ELDRIDGE

Well, here we are again. As I said two weeks ago, we are going to go into Law 14 (the Penalty-Kick) deeper. If you remember this play is just like the penalty shot in hockey. One man against the goalkeeper. This happens when a defending player commits a foul that calls for a direct free-kick. The ball is put on the penalty spot and all the players except the one taking the kick and the goalkeeper must be ten yards away from the ball and out of the penalty area. The goalkeeper must stand (without moving his feet) on his own goal line, between the goal-post, until the ball is kicked. The player taking the kick must kick the ball forward; he shall not play the ball a second time until it has been touched or played by another player.

If a player on the defending team infringes on the penalty area, the kick will be retaken if a goal has not resulted. For any infringement by the attacking team, other than the player taking the kick, if a goal is scored, it will be disallowed and the kick retaken.

If the player taking the penalty-kick infringes, then a player of the opposing team shall take an indirect free-kick from the spot where the infringement occurred.

Scuba Course At Y.M.C.A.

The Newton Y.M.C.A. is offering a Scuba Diving Course for certification, starting Tuesday evening (Oct. 6) at 6:30 p.m. to 8:15 p.m. The course will be taught by qualified scuba diving instructors, and will be capped by an ocean dive. Classes are held once a week.

Those applying should be strong swimmers with a working knowledge of the crawl stroke, side stroke, and breast stroke. All applicants will be screened in the pool the first night.

All equipment is supplied by the instructors. Class size is limited to twelve people on a first-come basis. For further information and application please call the Physical Education Dept. of the Newton Y.M.C.A. at 244-6050.

Women's Two League Banquet Gives Awards

Speakers, awards, music and dancing were all a part of the banquet for the Women's Twilight League of Newton last Thursday, September 17.

The banquet which celebrated the league's first year was held at the Needham Motor Inn. Approximately ninety (90) people participated in the festivities.

At the head table was guest speaker Larry Garron of the Boston Patriots; Mrs. Worthing L. West, Recreation Commission Chairman; John B. Penney, Recreation Commissioner; Mrs. Penney; League Director Miss Fran Towle and Dave Supple. The guest speaker, Larry Garron, talked of the Boston Patriots and then opened the floor for questions.

The awards were presented by Recreation Commissioner Mr. John B. Penney to the championship team, "The Hunnewell Market," coached by Nancy Caruso, and to the runner-up team, "The Bradley Bunch," coached by Jean Cole.

Class A Football Preview

By BOB WORDEN

Things do not look good in Mudville or is that Tannertown. After chalking up a 9-0 record, capturing the Northern Conference Championship and the Class A Title the Peabody Tanners chances at repeating are slim.

Coach Art Adamopoulos noted "We lost 29 seniors. We have two starters back on defense and got wiped out pretty clean in the offensive line."

Dale Peterson, Peabody's fast charging tail back will have the task of carrying the squad on his own shoulders as Adamopoulos' troops will have to go back to the fortress and rebuild.

Serious contenders from this point come from the Suburban League. Brockton, who is favored to win the always tough Suburban League for the first time in ten years, looks almost unbeatable on paper.

The citizens from the shoe city have 10 starters returning plus seven lettermen. Brockton, which had trouble winning early in the season has momentum carried over from last season.

Brookline could also pose a threat at the Class A crown as they have star quarterback Rich Patnaude and speedy halfback Tom Fleming returning. But, Brookline, as does Thanksgiving Day rival Newton, lacks the depth needed to overcome injuries and the long schedule. Newton lost 18 seniors and will have to build a side of a line on offense and most of the defensive line. The Tigers have an excellent running attack and are very strong in the defensive back field and must be considered contenders.

Six Attend Tabor Acad.

Six Newton area boys began school on the 94th opening day at Tabor Academy in Marion offering a full range of college preparatory courses as well as instruction in Naval Science, Tabor has an enrollment of 434 boys, 383 of their boarding students.

Attending from Newton are: Elliott T. Pryor of 131 Clark street and Roger E. Taber of 43 Drummie road, both of Newton Centre; James A. Kaitz of 77 Beaumont avenue, Newtonville; Stephen F. Cowen of 24 Crafts road and Robert I. Smierling of 60 Priscilla road, both of Chestnut Hill and Richard N. Edlin of 251 Doreset road, Waban.

LEADS U.S. WINNERS — Edwin Richards of Newton, an instructor at the Academy of Physical and Social Development and fencing coach at M.I.T., has led the U.S. International Fencing Team to its first victory at the Fencing Masters' World Championship Tournament held in London this August. The U.S. team won over Italy with a final score of 46-44. Ed Richards was the big winner with 21 of the victories. Mr. Richards, a graduate psychologist, has also been a member of the Olympic Fencing Team. He was the North Atlantic foil champion in 1964, 1967 and 1968.

'Y' Fitness Program For Men Starts on Oct. 5th

The Newton YMCA will begin its Fitness Program for men beginning Monday, October 5. This progressive exercise program will meet three times weekly - on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Participants may have their choice of a 7:15 a.m., 12:15 p.m., or 5:30 p.m. class.

A pre-program clinic will be held on Saturday, October 3, at 3:30 a.m. to discuss the aspects of exercise, as well as going through a battery of Physical Fitness Tests designed for men between the ages of 25 and 60.

All interested parties must have a written statement from their doctor, stating that they may participate in a program of moderate exercise. All men are screened very thoroughly before beginning the progressive calisthenics, jogging, and running.

Executive Fitness classes will run for twelve weeks, at which time the men will be re-tested for comparative results. Upon finishing the first twelve weeks, the men will graduate to the mid-high gear program. All classes will be led by qualified leaders who have worked with this program from three to five years. The YMCA can accept the first 75 men who register for the program.

For further information contact the Newton YMCA's Physical Department at 244-6050.

Gath Pool To Remain Open For September

The Newton Recreation Department announces that its heated outdoor swimming pool located on Albermarle Road Newtonville will remain open for swimming for the remainder of the month of September on a restricted schedule. The pool water is heated to a comfortable temperature by the heating system.

Pool hours will be as follows: Monday through Friday 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. The pool will not be open on rainy days, but will operate on all other days until September 30.

Regular 1970 season swimming permits used this summer at the pool or Crystal Lake are still valid for the remainder of the season. A charge of 10c per session will be made for those who do not have permits.

Adults will be given preference each day from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.; and children under 16 years must be accompanied by an adult during these hours.

Newton YMCA Begins Floor Hockey League

A Floor Hockey League is being started at the Newton Y.M.C.A. for boys who are members. There will be three classes of competition according to age: Class D - 8-10 years; Class C - 11-12 years; Class B - 13-14 years.

Official gym hockey rules and equipment will be used. Participants will not only play in the Newton Y.M.C.A. league, but also in the Northeast Area Gym Hockey League. Games will be scheduled with other Y.M.C.A.'s and played on Saturdays.

Practice sessions begin on Monday, October 5, 1970, at 3 p.m. and will be held once a week. Boys may register in the Physical Education office of the Newton Y.M.C.A., 276 Church St., Newton Corner.

Tigers Top Boston English 30-8 In Last Scrimmage of Season; Open Saturday Against Everett

By BOB WORDEN

The Newton High School Tigers ended their pre-season football scrimmages by bombing a weak Boston English squad 30 to 8 last week. They open the 1970 schedule this Saturday against Everett in the Everett Stadium.

The Tigers in a tune up confrontation with the Boston City Leaguers, registered all 30 points in the first half.

Steve Hunter recovered an English fumble on the 3 yard line in the opening minutes of play, to set up the first Newton score.

Senior fullback Kevin Carver blasted his way through from the three yard line to open the scoring for the Black and Orange. Carver also added 2 extra points to the ledger as he scored on a power sweep.

Quarterback Jim Doolin playing in his second live scrimmage, due to a shoulder injury, combined on a 35 yard pass completion to end Ricky

Hayes, who made a spectacular over the shoulder catch, setting the stage for the second Tiger TD.

Carver posted his second touchdown of the morning contest, as he scored on a 2 yard plunge. Doolin fired a bullet pass to Mark Lennon for two extra points.

Chief Pendergast and Paul Johnson accounted for the two of the Newton tallies.

The Tiger defense yielded only 8 English points as Newton continually forced them into punting.

Saturday the Tigers will hope to keep up the record of the past two years in their Everett opener.

Over the years have not had the best of luck with Everett, as they own a sad record of 7 wins 26 losses and 6 ties since the year 1909. But, in the past two seasons, Newton has reversed the trend with a two game winning streak. Last year the Black and Orange shellacked Everett 34 to 14.

Everett's Head Coach Moody Sarno who rebuilt last season with 11 sophomores, has a big unit. Sarno has had only two losing seasons in 11 years. Everett began to jell near the end of last season and with the return of 16 letterman, they will have a lot of momentum going. Steve Arsenault injured last season, will be doing a majority of the ball carrying. Newton has its hands full with powerful Everett and will have to contain their big backs to win.

NAA Lions Bomb Natick Redmen, 44-0; Hoban Tallies 26 Points

The Newton Athletic Association Lions zipped the Natick Redmen by a score of 44-0 in a Pop Warner Bay State League game last Sunday at the Newton Highlands Playground. The victory upped the Lions record to 2-0 and dropped Naticks to 1-1 in league competition.

Right halfback Kevin Hoban scored 26 points, 20 in the first period, and rushed for 97 yards. Hoban's first score came on a 66 yard punt return behind excellent blocking. Kevin then broke for 31 yards and a score in the very next series. When Newton got the ball back quarterback Bob Kinsella hit Kevin with a 62 yard bomb. The Junior Midgets scored on a Tim Merrimee to Richy yard and a score. Tackle Pete Toyias threw the key block setting "Pag" free.

The third period saw Kevin Hoban score his 4th touchdown on a 41 yard keeper from the quarterback position. Kinsella then hit Vizakis for the conversion points.

In the fourth period "Scat back" John Vizakis with a few nifty moves raced 71 yards for part of a double-header as the Junior Midget Mustangs will host the Norwood Gold at 10 a.m.

On Sunday, Sept. 27, the Midget Lions will travel to Norwood High School to meet the Norwood Blue Devils and try to avenge last years 26-0 set back. The Junior Midget Tigers will face the Norwood Redmen immediately following.

Applications Available For Youth Hockey Teams

The Newton Youth Hockey Association program is accepting applications for boys between the ages of 9 and 12 for the PeeWee program and boys 13 and 14 for the Bantam program.

Applications are available at the Newton Recreation Department, Crescent St., West Newton, or at Newton public schools.

Applications should be sent with the enrollment fee to Newton Youth Hockey Association, Box 524, Newtonville, Mass. 02160.

The Newton ice program has expanded in recent years to over 200 boys.

In 1969-70 there were 6 PeeWee teams and 4 Bantam teams in the local program.

The 1970-71 season will commence on or about October 17, depending on the availability of ice.

To be eligible for PeeWee, a boy must be between 9 and 12 years of age; born on or after January 1, 1958.

To be eligible for Bantam, a boy must be 13-14 years of age and born on or after January 1, 1956.

The rate schedule for the current program, which runs from mid-Oct. to mid-March, is as follows: $25 for oneboy; 2 brothers $40; 3 brothers $50; 4 brothers and up will be negotiated.

The deadline for applications is October 10. For further information, call Ted Tossi 999-5616. Or Bob McLaughlin, President of the Association, at 527-5480.

John Hasenfus is Ice Director; James Coakley is Treasurer and James Walsh, President of the Association.

Eligible boys who were enrolled last year will receive their applications by mail.

2 Join Faculty, 11 Enrolled At Pine Manor Coll.

Pine Manor Junior College has announced two new faculty members from Newton. Eleven Newton girls are enrolled for the 60th year which commences on Sunday (Sept. 27).

Among 29 teachers joining the teaching staff at the Chestnut Hill campus are Mark I. Solomon of West Newton, instructor in history and Judith C. Stull, instructor in the behavioral sciences.

Mr. Solomon holds a B.A. from Wayne State University and an M.A. from the University of Michigan. Miss Stull is a graduate of Northwestern Univ. and has a master's degree from Boston College.

Edwina Brooke, daughter of the Honorable and Mrs. Edward W. Brooke of 535 Beacon St., Newton, is entering Pine Manor.

From Newton Centre are Marjorie Sage, senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sage of 6 Cynthia Rd.; Susan Frankel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Justin H. Frankel of 131 Brandeis Rd. a freshman and Susan White, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George White of 184 Grant ave., a freshman.

Another freshman, Cecilia Young, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Dwight W. Young of 1174 Boylston st., Newton Highlands, has enrolled at Pine Manor.

From Chestnut Hill this year are Margie Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Wagner of 32 Hammond Pond Parkway, a senior; and freshmen Cheryl Coulter, daughter of Mrs. Donald F. Cutler Jr., of 30; Hammond St.; Katharine Haffenreffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. McInerney of 62 Chestnut Hill Rd.; Gail Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack M. Roberts of 144 Reservoir Rd.; and Sheri Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Snyder of 286 Lagrange St.

Merloni, Jr., Cesare Pietrangeli is job coordinator for laborers graduating from MLTTP classes.

The month-long training program soon to be expanded to six weeks, is conducted by seasoned instructors who have themselves been general foremen on many construction jobs. They teach the trainees concrete placement, mason tender, scaffolding, pipe-laying using a laser transit system, proper use and maintenance of pneumatic equipment, small tools, paving breakers and concrete buggies.

The center admits between 30 and 35 trainees each month.

College Graduate Turns To Hardhat Construction Work

Bill McDonough is a hardhat construction worker who wears his hair a little longer than hardhats customarily do. A Berkeley graduate with a degree in psychology, he taught social relations at Weeks Junior High School in Newton and drove a cab before becoming a trainee at the Massachusetts Laborers' Training Center in Hopkinton and figured 'maybe that's for me.'

Besides acquiring the technical proficiency he will need when he goes on his first construction job, McDonough sees the training center as an opportunity to make new friends and build on his broad knowledge of human relationships.

"People really make it together at this place," he said. "I'm interested in what makes people work together without hassling each other. There's a feeling of good will among the guys here I never saw when I was in school."

"I think it's going to be a rewarding experience for me. And nobody cares about the length of my hair. Can you imagine that?"

One of the many jobs that McDonough had before coming to Hopkinton was that of psychiatric aide at Metropolitan State Hospital.

"I've seen young people at the brink of despair with nothing to look forward to. Here the guys are working towards something. They will see the results of their work."

Trainees such as McDonough are instructed at the center free of charge and receive, in addition, a salary of at least $100 per week plus travel expenses. Starting pay after graduation is about $200 per week and going up.

Tots, Kiddies and Moms Eligible To Sign Up for Creative Classes

Registrations are now being accepted for Creative Art Classes for children, mothers and tots and adults at the Newton Community Service Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton (969-5906).

Art Director Linda Janower announced today. A full range of classes are being offered to include the smallest tot (age two and up), children of elementary age, and adults.

Classes will begin the week of Oct. 12, but advance registration is strongly recommended, as many of the students from last year's classes will be continuing in the program.

FOR MOTHERS AND TOTS: This class offers the child his or her first introduction to creative work through the special effort of mother and teachers. Children will expand their sensory perception by experimenting with many forms of art media (visual and tactile) in an atmosphere which is free of restraint and worry about mess. Mothers gain ideas for home use with children, as well as a new perspective for themselves on the potentialities for an adult's use of the so-called Children's media.

Seeing mothers and children (ages 2 and up) involved in mutual creative efforts like puppet making, splashing in paint with bare feet to music, building constructions from boxes, etc. has made it clear to us that the values of togetherness and creativity make this venture doubly meaningful.

This group was photographed and publicized in the Boston Herald newspaper last year. The parents and children were so enthusiastic that new sections of the program had to be added to accommodate the demand. It is recommended when registering that you indicate a second choice of hour, in case the class you request is filled. Register early; spaces are limited and fill quickly.

MOTHERS AND TOTS as well as MOTHERS AND CHILDREN meet on Mondays, beginning Oct. 19. Bea Lewis and Judy Kelleher are instructors. There is also a Thursday morning section. The hours Monday are 9:20 a.m. to 10:20 a.m.; 10:40 a.m. to 11:40 a.m.; 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. for MOTHERS AND TOTS. There is also a Mothers and Tots class on Thursday morning at 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

MOTHERS AND CHILDREN will be offered on Tuesday from 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m.

FOR ELEMENTARY SCHOOL CHILDREN: An unusual program is offered geared to a wide-open experience for children. The staff is trying to build a child's awareness of himself and the world around him. With this orientation they draw on natural sciences and experimentation, improvisation, body movement feelings — all paths of communication and perception open to children and all culminated in the artistic experience.

The atmosphere is one of discovery. Children are challenged to solve problems in new ways. Last year in the fall semester many problems were considered: the art of make-up (with slides from the Audobon Society and pictures of people in natural make-up) provided for inspiration.

Another topic was the art of sounds, with a Match-box organ from the Children's museum of real instruments to stimulate enthusiasm. The class also visited the Antique instrument collection at the Museum of Fine Arts...the strummers, noisemakers, and resounding instruments they created out of junk, were a natural outgrowth of these activities.

Mask making, the problem of feeling your face and of exaggeration were considered around halloween and seemed to be a big hit with the kids. But the highlight event of last year's session was a LIGHT HAPPENING in which children experimented with still and moving color in projecting images on the wall and on themselves. (Slides, film strips, shadow play, transparent projections, were all created by the kids to provide individual discoveries as well as a total visual environment).

Last year's Spring semester projects included a discovery of environmental space (ever build a web of rope you could climb on?); microscopic life, batique and many different areas selected by the teachers. Color, design, and an appreciation of aesthetic concepts permeated all areas taught.

There are a great variety of two and three dimensional materials used in this program as well as outside resources from libraries, museums, schools, etc. However the emphasis is not on the finished product, but rather on TOTAL EXPERIENCE within the child.

If your child is drawn to projects which tap the intellect, the senses, the emotions the body — indeed involve him totally as a person, he will find this program very exciting, very meaningful and a great deal of fun!

The schedule for classes is as follows: KINDERGARTEN CLASSES: Tues., 9:30 a.m. - 10:30 a.m., Avis Jacobson; Tuesday, 2:15 p.m. - 3:15 p.m., Sandy Olansky; and Tuesday 12:50 p.m. - 1:50 p.m., Avis Jacobson. Other children may use the lounge for lunch.

GRADES 1-3, Tues., 3:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m., Sandy Olansky.

GRADES K-6, Thursday, 2:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m., Joanne Holland.

OPEN WORKSHOP, a new class for highly motivated kids who love art and want lots of time to work. (They may come at any time within the hours above).

FOR ADULTS, with babysitting available at the afternoon session there is a special PAINTERS WORKSHOP. This class is geared especially to the Installation Ceremonies For Post 48

Newton Post 48 American Legion held its installation ceremonies Thursday evening, (Sept. 17) at the Newton Lodge of Elks Hall, Centre street, Newton.

National executive committeeman Leo F. Malloy of Cambridge was guest speaker. Past Post Commander Mayor Monte G. Basbas was among state and local officials who attended. Installing officers were Department Commander Leo F. Barry of Hyde Park and Sergeant-at-Arms William Coughlin of Dorchester.

Murdoch Fraser was installed as Post Commander. Thomas Matthews as senior vice commander; Nicholas Nar-done, junior vice commander; Malcolm McVarish, P.C. adjutant; Francis L. Howley, P.C. finance officer; Carleton Merrill, P.C. service officer; Frank Herlihy, historian.

Also Edward Edmunds, P.C. chaplain; Henry Hurley, sergeant-at-arms; Dennis M. Cronin, judge advocate; and executive board members James Bergantino, P.C.; Joseph Fitzsimmons, P.C.; Dana Foley; Frank Giou; Frank Jordan; Frederick Joyce; Benjamin Malone; George Reynolds; Lionel Sadler, P.C.; and Dr. David B. Stearns.

beginning and intermediate painter. No previous painting or drawing experience is necessary to join. If you have always wanted to learn to paint but have been too timid to try this course is for you.

If you have painted and would like to develop a personal style that expresses what you want to say, this course will help you. The emphasis will be on how to use space well, create a good composition, use color expressively and freely and make a unique personal statement, rather than a photographic representation of reality. Students will progress at their own rate.

Acrylic paints will be supplied by the student as these are easier to paint with than oils. A complete list of materials will be sent to each student before the first class.

Information on Mothers and Tots, Mothers and Children, Elementary Children or Adults Creative Art can be obtained by phoning the Newton Community Center at 969-5906 or 969-5907.

Seasons Are Topsy-Turvy At Newton Free Library

The seasons are topsy-turvy at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, where a profusion of beaded flowers is blooming, the creations of Diane Korelitz of 136 Beethoven Avenue, Waban.

Mrs. Korelitz' elegant handmade collection includes the blues of the hyacinth spike, Japanese narcissus, bellflowers, the spring iris, and wild violets, as well as reds of the rose, the poppy and trillium. Also on view in what seems to be endless variety are golden mums and yellow daisies, orange poppies, yellow buttercups and yellow star daisies.

In a separate glass case in the Main Library exhibit Mrs. Korelitz has displayed pieces of a half-made buttercup, showing steps in the making of the flowers. Iridescent, opaque, cut and transported strands of glass beads from France, Japan and Czechoslovakia, plus gold and silver wires, tape and tools complete the case of flower components.

Wife of Theodore Korelitz, chief engineering programmer for the Badger Company in Cambridge and mother of 4-year-old Jamie, Ellen, a Beethoven School sixth-grader, and Lynne, in the eighth grade at Weeks Jr. High, Diane has been making beaded flowers since she saw some in Paris 2 years ago and decided to take lessons.

She began with buttercups, the easiest blossom to reproduce in beads, and graduated to the intricate hyacinth and chrysanthemum. She has now turned teacher, and instructs at the Newton Y on Thursday mornings, and at the Natick Y on Wednesday nights.

A creative woman with a M. Ed. in early childhood education, Diane student taught at West Newton's Davis School. She is currently also teaching the C's of cooking at the Newton Y, from crab-meat quiche to cornish hens and chocolate mousse.

Mrs. Korelitz is a Brighton native, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blumsack of 21 Portina Road. The exhibit continues through mid-October.

Census Bureau Seeking Info On Consumer Buyin

Questions on consumer buying and home improvement expectations will be asked by representatives of the Bureau of the Census in this area during October, according to James W. Turbitt, director of the Bureau's regional office in Boston.

The questions are asked four times yearly as part of a nationwide effort to collect information as a guide to Federal agencies and other groups in developing programs based on consumer spending patterns. A sample

Editor,
The Graphic:
This will acknowledge Mr. Stiller's letter dated September 18, 1970, concerning my statement deploring the veto by Mayor Basbas of the Stanton Avenue site zoning change.

While that statement, as specified therein, was issued on behalf of the housing committee of the Newton Democratic City Committee, since the full committee did not have a meeting during the period in question, the Democratic City Committee, itself on August 19 reaffirmed its long-standing support of the original NCDF proposal for the building of 506 units in this city.

The City Committee at that time also called for the erection of low-income housing by the Newton Housing Authority and for that body to review its proposed sites rather than simply rely on unwanted municipal land.

My criticism of the Mayor's veto was directed to the point of the city's planning department's having approved in June of this year the erection of 43 units on the Stanton Avenue site, and the indisputable fact that there are today some 51 families eligible for low-income housing on the Newton Housing Authority's waiting list.

My statement made no judgment one way or the other as to the practicalities or non-practicalities of NCDF building only on that site, but did state strongly, and I reiterate, that some qualified builder, be it NCDF, the Housing Authority, or a third party, should build upon it. In view of the reference to a "pilot project," may I infer that he would support this?

As with many controversial issues, there are Democrats, Independents and Republicans on both sides of this one, but the position of the Newton Democratic City Committee in support of the principle of the erection of low and moderate income housing in this city, and in support specifically of the NCDF proposal, has not wavered.

Answers Mr. Martin

Editor of
The Graphic:
I have read Mr. Martin's recent press release deploring Mayor Basbas's veto of the Stanton Avenue site, which had been rezoned by the Board of Aldermen on August 24, to permit the erection of low and moderate income housing.

I wish he would make it very clear in his press releases, that he does not speak for the Newton Democratic City Committee, but on behalf of the handful of individuals who represent its housing committee. I have spoken to many hundreds of Democrats throughout the city, none of whom profess any wish to have the Newton Community Development Foundation provide any low and moderate income housing in the City of Newton, nor have the "deploring" Mayor Basbas's veto of the Stanton Avenue site.

I am also amazed that for a gentleman who is so evidently concerned about low income housing being built in the city, that he has not chosen to "deploring" those twelve members of the Board of Aldermen who opted for the Passage of NCDF's Proposal, but TURNED down the proposed housing for people of low income on the land adjacent to the Myrtle Baptist Church, and on a portion of Victory Field. I would just hope that he would be consistent in his castigations.

It also is of interest to note, that he calls on the "Newton Housing Authority or some other qualified builder," to erect housing on the Stanton Avenue site, but excuses the Newton Community Development Foundation from building on just one site, and states that it is not practical or economical for them to do so.

It would appear from this philosophy, that all one site apartment houses throughout this, or any other city, are not practical, or is there some other reason why the Newton Community Development Foundation, with all its altruism would refuse a pilot project on one site.

It might do well for him to contact members of the Democratic party in the City of Newton, and ascertain their wishes and desires before he coaches his remarks under the aura of the Democratic party. Our organization numbers among its membership many loyal Democrats who do not share his views.

Yours truly,

ROBERT STILLER

Registration-

On Saturday, October 3rd, the final registration date, new voters may sign up at city hall from 12 noon until 10 p.m.

Mr. Licarie also pointed out that registration of new voters is accepted during each working day at Newton City Hall from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. He did advise all those who intend to register to vote in the state-wide election, to do so as soon as possible. He again pointed out that the city hall registration office is available throughout the week and that the evening sessions are provided to assist those who cannot take advantage of the daytime hours.

Those who fulfill only the six-month residency requirement must do so at City Hall, according to Alan W. Licarie, secretary of the Election Commission.

Independents who voted in the primary and who wish to change their party affiliation back to "none" may do so at any of the above listed times ne added.

Drinan Sees Rejection Of Nixon in 3rd

The people of the Third District have rejected Nixon's continuation of the war, Rev. Robert F. Drinan told an enthusiastic gathering of supporters following his upset victory in the Democratic congressional primary last week.

Fr. Drinan received 10,705 votes in Newton in an impressive effort in getting out his supporters.

"I want to congratulate my Newton campaign co-ordinators Gordon Martin and Mrs. Helen Drinan and especially the election day co-chairmen, Harry and Jean Crosby for their splendid work."

Speaking before a crowd of 2000 at the Chestnut Hill Country Club in Newton, Fr. Drinan said the people had expressed "profound dissatisfaction with the way President Nixon and his administration are failing to regulate inflation and are causing unemployment at astronomical rates."

"The voters of this district are too be commended for transcending any prejudice which might have surrounded a clergyman running for congress," he declared.

Fr. Drinan said that the voters wanted a congressman who would be "the architect of a more just and compassionate society."

McGlennon Tells Property Tax Control A Must

Campaign workers for the John McGlennon for Congress campaign last week received a boost from Mrs. Mary Ellen Miller, special assistant to the chairman of the National Republican Congressional Committee, which has named McGlennon's fight in the Third District top priority in New England.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. McGlennon attended together a coffee held in Newton at the home of Mrs. Francis McDonough at 227 Temple street for a large group of Newton campaign workers.

The two-term State Representative is stressing his look for a more fair method of paying for education costs in Massachusetts. In speaking to his workers and to voters McGlennon calls the real estate tax here "staggering" and looks to greater participation by state and federal governments.

The State government should increase contributions and work toward the national average of paying 34 percent of education costs, he says. The Federal government should contribute on the community level. McGlennon feels it is time for "a reordering of national priorities."

Jewish Center Offers Courses In Varied Agenda

Art classes, jewelry making, courses in conversational Hebrew and Black history are among the varied cultural activities for adults being offered by the Brookline-Brighton-Newton Jewish Community Center this winter, according to Ran Avni, Cultural Arts Specialist.

This year's program also includes art classes in painting drawing and ceramics, photography, and a new group "Treasures from Trinkets," which will specialize in the restoration of antiques and furniture. Courses in bridge, flower arrangement and modern dance are also being offered.

"This years program will offer several major additions, including: 12 session course on Israel and the Middle East, courses in conversational Hebrew and a 12 session seminar on "The Black Heritage," Mr. Avni said. "We also have informal Israeli Dancing groups, a theatre workshop and dramatic groups and, of course, the center's Choral Society will continue."

All of the groups will be limited in enrollment to insure individual instruction and maximum learning opportunities. Those interested in further information may contact Ron Avni at the Jewish Community Center, 50 Sutherland Road, Brighton, telephone 734-0800.

Scholarships By U. S. Army Offered Again

College scholarships for 1200 outstanding high school seniors who are motivated toward an Army career will be offered again this year, the U.S. Army has announced.

The scholarships, good at any of the 280 colleges and universities in the United States offering the four-year Army ROTC program, have been awarded annually on a competitive basis for the past six years.

Scholarship winners receive their full tuition, textbook costs and laboratory fees, plus a $50 per month allowance for the full four years.

Winners may select academic courses in the field of their choice, the only additional requirement being the completion of officer training subjects. Upon graduation, they are commissioned second lieutenants in the Army and fulfill their military obligation by serving four years on active duty.

Student selection is based on excellence, extracurricular activities, physical standards, results of college entrance examination boards, personal qualities and leadership potential.

Since part of the scholarship selection is based on the College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) Tests, it is essential that high school students who intend to complete for one of these awards take the tests this fall. High school seniors, their parents or teachers may obtain information by writing: "ROTC Scholarships, 1st U.S.

Alan King Show Benefits ORT's Jerusalem Project

On Sunday, September 27, 1970, at 8:00, the Prince of Monologues, Alan King, will hold court at the Music Hall Theatre in Boston, and will no doubt give his usual royal performance as befits a King.

This special one-night benefit, appropriately entitled "King for a Night," is being sponsored by the Eastern Massachusetts Region of Women's American ORT; and proceeds will go to help build the ORT School of Engineering at the world-renowned Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Every King should have a queen to help reign over this regal entourage, especially since he also doubles as the Court Jester. Julie Budd, the Barbara Streisand sound-alike, steps into that position with the same ease and ability that has enabled her to make a meteoric rise to fame since her first public appearance two years ago.

Miss Budd, who has been dubbed "the mini girl with the maxi voice" because of her near three-octave range, is certainly one of the more exciting female singers on the music scene today.

Jess Cain, a monarch in his own right since he holds sway in a good part of the New England area with his morning radio show on WHDH, will add to the evenings festivities by acting as Master of Army, Fort Meade, Maryland 20755. Deadline for submission of completed applications is January 15, 1971. Announcement of scholarship winners will be made in the Spring of 1971.

Whirlpool TRASH MASHER* COMPACTOR

Fights pollution on the home front. Takes little space and so easy to use. Everytime you toss cans, bones, bottles or paper into the drawer just close it, push a button and the trash is compacted to 1/4 its size. Takes the equivalent of three 20-gallon cans full of trash. (That's as much junk as the average family tosses away each week). A key lock keeps kids from tinkering with it. The tough bag can be taped so litter won't blow. No lid for dogs to pry off. And, plastic-lined bag is weatherproof.

$249⁸⁸

Swing-out panel on drawer makes bag removal more convenient. Lets you slide bag out instead of lifting straight up. Entire drawer removes for easy cleaning.

Chemical deodorizer automatically sprays a measured amount on each load of trash and garbage when drawer is closed to help control odor. Spray can is replaceable.

Can be built in cabinets later if you wish. Plugs into ordinary household current. Choice of edged avocado, edged copper or white. Measures 15" wide.

Honeymoon In Bermuda For Mr. And Mrs. Frankel

Temple Reyim in Newton was the recent setting for the marriage of Miss Leslie Ann Berger to Melvin Marc Frankel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin S. Berger of Newton. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Frankel of Brooklyn, N.Y., are the groom's parents.

Rabbi Philip Kieval performed the double ring service which was followed by a reception at the temple.

Mr. Berger gave his daughter away. She was attired in a full length gown made of silk organza marked with appliques of Alencon lace and styled with a wedding band collar, long puffed sleeves and a detachable court train.

Miss Carol Berger was her sister's honor maid, while Mrs. Ira Frankel of New York was matron of honor. The other attendants included Miss Margie Shecter of New York, Miss Jane Marcus and Miss Joan Ginsburg, both of Newton, as well as Mrs. Lawrence DuKatz of Chestnut Hill.

The best man was Lester

Frankel, brother of the groom. The ushers were Ira Frankel, Joel Frankel, Robert Frankel, Jeffrey Frankel, Steven Frankel, Reed Frankel and Michael Frankel, all of New

Sunday Services At 1st Church Of Christ Scientist

Newton residents are invited to Sunday services at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at 391 Walnut st., Newtonville, beginning at 10:45 a.m.

The reality of God's spiritual creation implies the unreality of material beliefs about the universe and man, according to the Lesson - Sermon on "Reality" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday, September 27.

One of the Lesson - Sermon passages from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, reads:

"All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good, and He makes all that is made. Therefore the only reality of sin, sickness, or death is the awful fact that unrealities seem real to human, erring belief, until God strips off their disguise. They are not true, because they are not of God."

The Golden Text is from Isaiah, "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."

Miss Patricia Joyce Wells Bride Of James Edward Gill

Miss Patricia Joyce Wells of Newton and Mr. James Edward Gill of Dedham were married at a one o'clock ceremony on Saturday afternoon, September 12, in St. Anne's Church, Readville.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Archibald Wells of Musselburgh, Midlothian, Scotland. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Gill of 103 Crane street, Dedham.

Rev. Lawrence Chane officiated at the double ring ceremony, and a reception followed at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Richard Toal of Bellmore, Long Island, N.Y., the bride wore a full-length gown of white dotted Swiss trimmed with white daisies and designed with long puffed sleeves and an empire waist.

Her four-tiered veil of illusion, trimmed with pearls, was caught to a Juliet cap, and she carried white daisies with a spray of white heather.

Mrs. Joan Sievwright of East Kilbride, Scotland, was matron of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids included Miss Patricia Anne Gill of Dedham, sister of the bridegroom.

Serving as best man for his brother was Mr. Ricard Gill of Dedham, and ushers included Mr. Thomas Gordon Gill, also of Dedham, and Mr. Frank Bamber of Braintree.

New York was the couple's honeymoon destination, and their future residence will be in Newton.

The bride, a graduate of Finner Secenary School for Girls in Scotland, arrived in the United States in January of 1968. Standing in for the bride's parents at the wedding were her uncle and aunt, Mr.

and Mrs. Richard Toal of Long Island, N.Y.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Dedham High School. His grandfather, Mr. E.A. Bachmann, arrived September 6th from St. Paul, Minn., to attend the wedding.

MRS. GERALD N. SWARTZ

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hallgren Mark 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert O. W. Hallgren of 73 North Newton Centre recently celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Mr. Hallgren's sister, Miss Sigrid Hallgren, and the couple's five children, Cynthia Lee, Christine A., Carl H., Clifford E. and Carla, all of Newton, gave a dinner party for the couple at Valle's Steak House in Newton.

The Hallgrens, who formerly lived at 25 Saxon road, Newton Highlands, were married in North Quincy on September 9, 1945, at the Methodist Church.

Guests from Hingham, Newton, Brockton, Randolph, Hyannis, Abington and Braintree joined the well known local couple in the gay celebration.

Often you do not express what you really feel. Sometimes you are not quite sure what you feel. You build elaborate façades to deceive others . . . and sometimes, yourself. You waste vital energies creating deceptions and erecting barriers. In the meantime you'll build even more walls (instead of bridges) and find more excuses (instead of joy).

They sound interesting. One of these days maybe you'll look into one.

ENCOUNTER, The Institute for Human Potential, now offers you the opportunity to discover yourself through verbal and non-verbal interaction with other alert, aware and intelligent people. ENCOUNTER programs have been prepared to fit easily into any schedule. You may start with a limited program and expand it as your awareness and desire to realize your full potential grows. The costs are minimal. The rewards immeasurable.

ENCOUNTERGROUPS meet Monday through Friday from 7:30 P.M. to 11:00 P.M. at our Boston ENCOUNTERROOM at 164 Milk Street. The fee for the introductory series of four meetings (one night per week for 4 weeks) is $35.00 plus a $10.00 registration charge. For a limited time only, to introduce you to ENCOUNTER, you send only half the registration fee ($5.00) with the coupon. At the end of the first meeting if you wish to continue you pay the balance of $35.00 for the remaining three nights of the series. If for any reason you do not care to continue there is no additional charge and you will have had a most interesting experience for only $5.00. Please indicate the day of the week most convenient for you and if possible indicate a second choice as well. We will notify you as soon as a group is formed for the night you have selected (about two to three weeks). Any questions? Call Mr. Baxter at 426-7263, 10 A.M. to 5 P.M.

Pessimistic Report Given On Minority Workers Jobs

The Community Relations Commission was told "it doesn't look to me as though its going to work," recently in a report on Mayor Monte G. Basbas' Equal Employment Contract Compliance Directive.

The Commission heard member Jerome Grossman, chairman of its subcommittee on finding minority workers for city projects, report that he has not yet received the "critical path study" from City Hall and therefore cannot plan when to have minority workers ready to go to work.

That qualified applicants sent by the Commission must be hired by contractors on a City job of over $100,000 is dictated by the equal employment directive, which has been in effect for the past eight months. The directive is subject to any contractor's union agreement, which means union work pools will be used ahead of any Commission-recommended workers. The critical path study looks ahead to the progress expected on buildings up to their completion. The subcommittee claims it cannot anticipate workers needed without it.

Currently applicable are the contracts on both the new high school and the Day Junior High School.

As soon as the City gets the study, the Commission will have it, according to Charles R. Herbert, public buildings commissioner. It is not in final form yet and is being prepared by the McKee-Berger-Mansueti Co. of New York.

A member of a local trade union also told the Commission he doubted the workability of the Mayor's directive.

"It's just a piece of paper,"

Mortality Rate
Rangoon — Burma's fatalities from snakebites are the highest in the world — about 15.4 persons per 100,000 population.

Car Steel
Chicago — About 60 tons of steel are needed to construct a Pullman rail coach, except for models which make use of structural aluminum.

The bullsake is one of the four largest reptiles in North America.

Howard Haywood said. To be really effective, he maintained, it should say that a percentage of workers on a job must be from minority groups.

Chairman of the Commission, Hirsch, reported that the contractors felt that union labor would not be able to supply all the men needed.

The Commission also heard a report that a strike by the plumbers union had not yet effected construction progress.

BARBARA S. RILEY
"Total Woman" Courses Start At Newton "Y"

New Classes at the Newton YMCA offer today's woman informal instruction in the "Total Woman" which covers such subjects as diet, exercise, facial care, make-up as well as social graces, correspondence and entertaining.

Special emphasis will be placed on wardrobe planning due to the revolution in hem lengths. Classes started Sept. 22.

The classes will be conducted by Barbara S. Riley, formerly staff member of a well-known Boston charm school. Women's Health Director of Sydney Hill Country Club and professional dance instructor. Mrs. Riley is now writing a book covering the Total Woman.

The Newton YMCA at 276 Church Street offers many and varied adult courses to the public. More information can be obtained by calling BI 4-6050.

Classes For Parents At NW Hospital

A series of five free classes for expectant parents will begin on Thursday (Oct. 1) at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. Class will begin at 7 p.m. and will meet on consecutive Thursdays.

The programs cover prenatal care of mother and infant, birth of a baby, and the care and development of an infant through its first year. Classes are conducted by members of the hospital's nursing and medical staff.

Bathing and diapering demonstrations, instructions about infant feeding, and films and discussions are included in the program. Refreshments and door prizes are presented at each session. Diplomas are awarded during the fifth and final class to mothers - and fathers-to-be.

Information about classes may be obtained by telephoning the hospital at 244-2800.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital and the Dy-Dee Service Company have presented the course to more than 1,000 expectant parents during the past four years. Enrollment in the series of classes, held three times annually, averages nearly 200 future parents.

Country Players Production For Kiddies Sets Matinee On Sunday

The Newton Country Players' new production for children, "The Tale of the Donkey," will have its initial matinee performance on Sunday, Sept. 27, at 2:00 p.m., at the Rebecca Pomroy House, 84 Eldredge St., Newton.

Featured in the cast are veteran performers Paula Grossman and Joel Dorfman, both of Chestnut Hill.

The message play, directed by Mrs. Ruth Dorfman of Chestnut Hill, also includes Jorinda Margolis of Newton and Jeffrey Magaw of Auburndale. Stage manager for the production is Joyce Narins. Gratuity is 75 cents per person.

The script involves a mother and her young son on their way to market to sell their donkey, their confrontation with a man of many faces, and the consequences suffered by those who do not think for themselves. Co-authored by Bette Butterworth and Muriel Sharon, the play has a running time of approximately 40 minutes.

The production, a year-round offering, is available for programming to sponsor groups and theatre parties interested in fund raising, either as a "road show" or for performances at Pomroy House. Seating capacity at Pomroy House is approximately 150.

Paula Grossman, who portrays the indomitable old mother, received her B.F.A. in Drama at Ithaca College in 1965. While at Ithaca, she performed as Nettie in "The Subject Was Roses," Grandma in "The Sandbox," Milly in "Picnic" and Brenda in "The Pajama Game." With the Town Meeting Playhouse, Jeffersonville, Vt., she essayed the roles of Charlotte in "Critic's Choice," Hattie in "Breath of Spring" and Widow Quin in "Playboy of the Western World."

Pembroke Club Harvest Day Is On October 3rd

The Pembroke College Club of Boston will open the year by attending the Harvest Day festivities at Drumlin Farm in Lincoln on Saturday, October 3rd. Families and friends of alumni are also invited to attend.

Recently elected officers are: Mrs. Harris Lang of Concord, President; Mrs. Milton Paul of Waban, Vice-President; Mrs. George Borodach of Needham, Treasurer; Miss Joanne Stewart of Boston, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Martin Feldman of Newton Centre, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Raymond Watts of Winchester, Mailing Secretary; Mrs. John Wells of Belmont, Chairman of Scholarship - Benefit.

Also Miss Lizanne Gwaltney of Belmont Program Chairman; Mrs. Ronald Bradshaw of Winchester, Hospitality; Miss Valerie Farnham of Boston, Membership; Mrs. Eugene Wells of Wayland, Publicity; Miss Carolyn Malkowski of Cambridge, Nominating Chairman; Mrs. Jerome Oleksiw of Weston, Past President; Miss Miriam Grace of Brookline, Junior Group Chairman.

For the Country Players, Fair Summer Theatre, Ohio: Miss Grossman appeared as the Girl in last season's production of "The Balcony" and was stage manager for their Spring play, "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running." In addition to directing "A Thousand Clowns" and "The Apollo of Bellac," she has had extensive experience in props, box office, public relations and stage managing.

Joel Dorfman, who creates Harlequin, the man of many faces, received his B.F.A. in Directing at Boston University, SFAA, in 1964, with additional experience gained at the Gene Frankel Workshop (off-Broadway production), the Helen Hayes Shakespeare Lab on a merit scholarship and Actors Workshop in Boston. He also studied with Jack Manning in New York.

Mr. Dorfman has seen last Spring in the Players' production of "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" as Herbert in "I'm Herbert." With the Pioneer Memorial Theatre, he appeared in the title role in "Pantagloze," as the King in "The Cave - Dwellers" and Jeff in "A Taste of Honey."

He was a member of the original theatre company at Loeb Drama Center, where he was cast as Jeriah Jip in "A Man's A Man" and in "Antigone." At Boston University, he performed in "Tiger at the Gates," "Measure for Measure" and "Twelfth Night."

Other acting credits include Squire Alworthy in "Tom Jones," for the Petoskey Playhouse, Michigan; Actor in "The Fantastiks," for the Arena Fair Theatre, Ohio; Young Man in "The American Dream" and Lomov in "A Marriage Proposal" for the Circle Players, Newton; and the King in "Sleeping Beauty" for Wellesley College.

His recent directoral credits include "A Delicate Balance" and "Middle of the Night" for Wig 'n' Whiskers, Needham; "Keep an Eye on Amalie," MIT Community Players; "Catch Me If You Can" and "The Dastard," Newton Country Players; and "Never Too Late" and "Three Wilder Plays," Circle Players, Newton.

Other staging efforts include "Ten Nights in a Barroom," Salt Lake Playmakers, Utah; "Death of a Salesman," "Diary of Anne Frank," "Dirty Work at the Crossroads" and "My Three Angels," Arena

Mr. Dorfman has also worked on production as technical director, stage manager, designer, lighting technician, shop foreman and crew chief.

Entering its 15th season, the Players is a non-profit, philanthropic association comprised of local residents who, as an avocation, are actively engaged in the development, expansion and assistance of theatre activity on community and educational levels. President of the Players is Mrs. Marilyn Krassin of Newton Highlands.

For further information concerning individual membership or theatre party sponsorship, write P.O. Box 9, Newton Centre, 02159 or phone 969-9737.

When Natural Gas heat comes into your home it brings along a good friend

Of course Boston Gas and your Gas Heating Contractor appreciate it when you decide to change to Gas Heat. What we appreciate even more is the chance to show you what kind of people we are after you switch. That's when you can tell people care about you as a person, not as "just another customer." And that's when you can expect your contractor's personal installation work to be as dependable as cheaper-than-oil Natural Gas heat itself.

"Consumerism" In Hungary

A consumers' research magazine newly published in Hungary has already stepped on many toes — capitalist and Communist. Nagyito Magnifying Glass is the first consumers' magazine in Eastern Europe that can be compared with no-holds-barred Western counterparts.

The first issue not only studied refrigerators, men's shirts and soft drinks, but gave tips on how to buy a house and land and how pensioners can defend their rights.

Consumer Guide According to the editors, Nagyito's aim is to "put pressure on industry and trade by guiding consumers in refusing to buy certain articles and waiting until goods of better quality are made."

The magazine began by surveying seven refrigerators. The only Soviet model, a Saratov, got a "so-so" rating because it was "out of date." Best buy, said the magazine, was a Hungarian Lehel.

The magazine then turned impartially to Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola and Sztar-Cola. All are made in Hungary from imported Western ingredients.

Nagyito like them all, but gave Sztar-Cola top rating — on the grounds it suited the Hungarian taste best.

Nine brands of men's shirts were studied and all but a Yugoslav import were panned. Too often, Nagyito said, Hungarian shirts carry the wrong sizes.

Pictures accompanying the article showed a series of wrinkled, crinkled shirts. Editors at the magazine said they later received a letter from one shirt factory admitting they were right.

Economist's Brainchild Nagyito is the brainchild of Mrs. Pal Takacs, an economist and sociologist

Community Council Agency Directory Available Here

Robert P. Freeto, president of the Newton Community Council, Inc., announces the 1970-1971 edition of the Directory of Newton Agencies and Organizations, compiled and published by the Council, has just been completed and is ready for distribution.

This handy Directory is the ideal book for quick and easy references, phone numbers, and names of leaders of Newton organizations. This is also an appropriate and inexpensive gift for board and committee members of your organization. A complete index for easy reference is contained in the back of the Directory.

Included in the Directory are the leaders of all public and private agencies, city departments, churches and synagogues, with their major affiliated groups, government elected officials, as well as public, private and parochial schools and colleges. Also contained in the Directory are all major social, civic, service, fraternal, political and professional groups in the city. Nursing and rest homes are listed, as well as all parent-teacher associations.

A brief description of each health and welfare agency and department is in a special section in the front of the Directory.

Copies of the new Directory are now available at all Newton Libraries, at the Newton Chamber of Commerce, and at the Community Council office, 12 Page Road, Newtonville, for $1.00 a copy.

who suggested it to the Internal Trade Ministry.

The ministry approved the idea but, Mrs. Takacs said, gives no financial help.

Mrs. Takacs said she edits the magazine with relative independence, helped by four full time staff members and a board of 14 experts, including engineers and economists.

DAR Fall Meeting To Be Sept. 28

Preserving American ideals and guarding the American way of life will be the themes of the first autumn meeting of Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, DAR, on Monday (Sept. 28) when the speaker will be Mrs. Martha Wheeler Heilmann, Chairman of National Defense, Massachusetts Society, DAR.

Meeting at the Workshop, 72 Columbus street, Newton Highlands, chapter members will enjoy a dessert and social hour at one o'clock. Preceding Mrs. Heilmann's lecture, the business session will be called to order at one-thirty by the new Regent, Mrs. William A. Hurley, who will report on the Fall Conference of the Massachusetts Society.

Mrs. Harrison Meserve is in charge of refreshments. She is to be assisted by Mrs. James S. Gove.

Rabbi Polak Is Academy Speaker

Rabbi Joseph Polak, Hillel director of Boston University and counselor to Jewish students at Emerson and Boston State Colleges, was guest speaker at the Membership Supper of the New England Hebrew Academy, Lubavitch Yeshiva in Monmouth, N.J., which took place last night at the Chateau Garod in Brookline.

Rabbi Polak, who received his B.A. degree from Sir George Williams University and was ordained at the Lubavitch Yeshiva in Monmouth, N.J., assumed his position here following a similar directorship at Ohio State University where he was also instructor in Judaic studies.

MRS. MELVIN H. BRILLIANT of 14 Scarsdale Rd., Newtonville, center, has been appointed chairman of the Life Membership Committee of the Boston Aid to the Blind, Inc., Jewish Guild, by BAB President, Mrs. Maurice M. Welling, right, of Brookline. Mr. Arthur Gabel of Quincy, left, Executive Director of the BAB, participated at a recent meeting outlining plans for the current season's membership drives that gets underway next Sunday, Sept. 27, at the 850 Boylston St., branch in Chestnut Hill of Bache and Co., Inc., investment brokers. The complete facilities and battery of 35 telephones of the firm has been donated to the BAB by Bache vice president Robert S. Schlesinger. A corps of women will be on the phones from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Orlick of Chestnut Hill and Mrs. Herman L. Marlin of Brighton, accepting annual and life memberships.

Course To Be Arranged For Special Students

The Adult Education Office of the Newton Schools has agreed to offer a course during the 1970-1971 school year to former special class students. A minimum enrollment of five students is necessary.

Candidates may have attended either trainable or educable classes and may now be fully employed, receiving workshop training, or at home.

Every effort will be made to design the course around the organizations, serves on the Board of Investment of the First Unitarian Society in Newton, and is a member of the Executive Board of FUND.

He is in the insurance business in Boston, and has also aided in the organization and development of small companies.

David W. Fitts is assistant trust officer of the Newton-Waltham Bank and represents the Perpetual Benevolent Fund Committee on Freeport's Board of Directors.

Bruce Rosenblum of Newtonville is a Newton high school senior, has been an active Freeport volunteer for over a year, and replaces Miss Nancy Myerson who graduated from Newton South High School this past June and is now attending Hampshire College.

Others serving on Freeport's Board of Directors are Rev. David Parachini (Executive Director), Mrs. Marion Kaufman (Secretary), Richard Friedman (Treasurer), Mrs. Eleanor Rosenblum, Aaron Fink, Mrs. Anne Wallace, Rev. Thomas Lehman, Rabbi Cary Yales, Mrs. Norma Mintz, Richard Weisman and Mrs. Marilyn Ostrow, as well as the following recently elected additional members: Frederick G. Fisher, Jr., David W. Fitts, Mrs. Ralph P. Hoagland III, Bruce Rosenblum, Nancy Myerson, Kathryn Humphrey, Jean Chaisson, Charles Goldberg, Ben Lovell, and Steven Cohen.

Under the direction of Miss Judith Davidson, a teacher at Newton High School, and Miss Kathryn Humphrey, one of the founding students, members of the Freeport organization are planning the details of the Hike For Freeport on Saturday October 3rd, in which more than 1,000 Newton students and adults are expected to participate.

The 25-mile long route for the marchers will begin at Boston College, cover the entire city and end at Grace Episcopal Church, with check-stations at various points along the way.

Individual marchers may be sponsored for each mile marched, at a minimum rate of 5 cents per mile. Persons interested in becoming marchers or sponsors are urged to contact Mrs. Janice Weisman (332-2942), Mrs. Marion Kaufman (244-3883), or the Freeport Office (969-2969).

Proceeds from the hike will be applied to the first year's operating budget of the Freeport house, at 361 operative home for teenagers in need of temporary separation from difficult family situations.

Money raised through the hike will also help pay for the completion of the renovations of the house which are currently underway in preparation for a fall opening.

After two months, both groups were sacrificed. The first group had brains with a heavier and thicker cortex, a better blood supply, larger cells, and more active enzymes.

Another pair of California researchers have found that infant mice have a greater supply of synapses — bridges connecting nerve impulses — if they are handled a great deal and exposed to all sorts of stimuli such as flashing lights and noises. The effects of early stimulation exert a strong influence on the rate of future learning and the so-called higher mental activities, including memory.

Experiments with human babies also show that they learn much faster if given early stimulation and experiences. Pretty soon all parents may be able to help shape better brains for their babies.

Baltimore — The human heart pumps five to six quarts of blood through almost 4,000 circuits in the human body.

Early Life Is Large Factor in Brain Capacity

Mice exposed to enriched environments in early life develop bigger-than-usual brains. The same may be true for human infants.

At the University of California, Dr. David Krech tested the theory with two groups of rats. One was given "the best and most expensive supervised higher education available to any young rat." This group got plenty of attention and new learning experiences. A second group was more isolated.

After two months, both groups were sacrificed. The first group had brains with a heavier and thicker cortex, a better blood supply, larger cells, and more active enzymes.

Another pair of California researchers have found that infant mice have a greater supply of synapses — bridges connecting nerve impulses — if they are handled a great deal and exposed to all sorts of stimuli such as flashing lights and noises. Scholarship Awards Given At Myrtle Baptist Church

On Sunday, August 30th, at the morning worship, the Myrtle Baptist Church of West Newton awarded their Mission Scholarship. The recipients were W. Kemp Harris, 17 Lodge Road, West Newton, who will be attending Boston University; Belinda Hunter, 13 Prospect Street, West Newton, who is a student at the University of Hartford; Paulette Jefferson, 15 Prospect Street, West Newton at Northeastern University and Gerald Edward Jones, 49 Curve Street, West Newton who is attending Pratt Institute of New York.

These young people are all members of Myrtle Baptist Church.

Money for the scholarship, $1,500.00 was raised from various sources, with the largest contributor being the Community Parents Organization of Newton, $500.00.

Their main function is to raise money for scholarships for deserving black students. Other contributors were the Myrtle Baptist Gospel Chorus ($200.00) and $300.00 from the Mission Treasury of the church. The other $500.00 was raised from interested individuals and churches and temples.

Accidents Over Weekend Send Five to Hospital

Five persons were taken to the Newton-Wellesley Hospital as a result of accidents over the past weekend. One was a cyclist and one a motorcyclist.

Jeffrey Stoller, 10, was released after treatment for contusions and hematoma of the leg. His bicycle had been in collision with a car driven by Herbert Kotzen, 46, of 45 Fenwick Rd., Waban, on Sunday morning. The accident was at the corner of Dedham and Nahanton Sts.

The motorcyclist, also released from Newton-Wellesley, was Dennis Gould 19, of Worcester. He received multiple contusions and abrasions when his bike hit a tree near 35 Wendell Rd., Newton Centre.

Mrs. Rita MacIvor of 50 Adams St., Waltham was hospitalized with fractured and dislocated teeth and a chin laceration suffered when in an accident early Sunday on Cherry St. in W. Newton. Her car struck a parked car belonging to Lois G. Lucente of 525 Lowell Ave., Newtonville.

This car was knocked into a second car owned by Michael Lyons of 287 Cherry St., W. Newton.

Joseph A. Sozonski of 123 Lakeview Ave., Waltham, a passenger in the MacIvor car was also taken to the hospital but refused treatment.

Ticket Demand Brisk for GOP Theatre Party

There is a brisk demand for tickets for Newton's GOP Gala Theatre Party, according to Mrs. William L. Bruce, Republican State Committeewoman and Vice-Chairman of the Newton Republican City Committee.

The theatre party takes place Tuesday evening, Sept. 29 at the West Newton Theatre.

Mrs. Bruce urged those who have not yet subscribed but plan to attend the showing of the comedy, "If It's Tuesday, This Must Be Belgium", to order their tickets as soon as possible.

Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. William L. Bruce (244-0250), Mrs. G.G. Nicholas Dawson (244-6425), Julius L. Masov, (332-0758), Joseph I. Weinrebe (969-9630), and Mrs. Morgan Campbell (527-5427).

An intermission and social hour will feature the theatre party which will be attended by Governor Francis W. Sargent and a list of distinguished guests.

A program in the tradition of the Black Church was a source of community enlightenment and a source of funds. The Reverend Rafe Taylor, Ebenezer Baptist Church of Roxbury was the guest speaker. Clergy and friends from neighboring church and temples were invited guests.

A token of appreciation ($100.00) was given to Mr. Stewart Gilbert who will be attending Harvard Medical School this fall. Mr. Gilbert was formerly Youth Director and active in the Senior Choir and the Usher Board of the church.

The Advisory Council of the church, along with the minister, Reverend Harold A. Pulley is responsible for raising the funds for the scholarship and for selecting those who will be the recipients.

The scholarship is awarded annually and we are now engaged in obtaining scholarships and funds to be awarded 1971-72. All contributions should be sent to Myrtle Baptist Church — Mission Scholarship, 21 Curve Street, West Newton, Mass. 02165.

Newtonite Sees Peru Earthquake Area; Says More Money Is Needed

Wigmore A. Pierson of Clark.

Newtonville, Chairman of the New England Affiliate of the Peru Earthquake Relief Committee, returned last week from a fact finding trip to Peru's earthquake devastated areas.

While in Peru, Pierson met with Captain Carlos Garrido Lecca S. who is Assistant to the President of Peru and spearheading Peru's Reconstruction Agency, United States Disaster Relief Coordinator Carson O. Crockett, the Acting Director of the United States Agency for International Development, George Creco, and Acting Ambassador Edward W. he visited.

Pierson travelled extensively throughout the earthquake damaged region, visiting the coastal towns of Casma and Chimbote and the principle mountain towns of Huaraz, Caraz, Vicos and Huaylas.

In Chimbote, Pierson handed the president of the credit cooperative which he formed in 1966 as a Peru Corps Volunteer a check for $500 which will be used to pay off the mortgage on the building which was not damaged by the earthquake.

In addition, he surveyed and made other commitments for projects in the several towns.

Pierson made a report to the Peru Earthquake Voluntary Assistance Group and Mrs. Richard Nixon at the State Department in Washington and to the New England Governors who met at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield last Saturday.

Pierson stressed in his report that, "funds are still urgently needed to continue the reconstruction work in Peru before the rainy season which will begin about October 15." Contributions may be sent to Peru Relief, New England Merchants National Bank, P.O. Box 9, Prudential Center, Boston 02199.

Prize-Winning Brotherhood Event

Newton Temple Planning Gala Annual 'Good Neighbor' Night

One of the year's highlighted events for Brotherhood Temple Mishkan Tefila has been announced by William B. Nathanson president, and Edward L. Kandib, executive vice-president, and general chairman: "The 11th Annual Good Neighbor Night."

This event will be held on Monday, October 19th, at the Temple Social Hall, 300 Hammond Pond Parkway, Chestnut Hill.

The theme for this year's program is: "Lasting Truth in a World of Change."

This spectacular occasion has fast become a milestone in the field of community and civic relations history.

In 1968, Brotherhood Mishkan Tefila was awarded first prize for "Best Program of the Year" by both the New England Region and the National Federation of Jewish Men's Clubs.

Again, at its annual Convention in June, this year, the National Federation again presented to Brotherhood Mishkan Tefila its 1970 Bronze Torch Award for "Best Single Program of the Year."

In last year's "Good Neighbor Night," special honors were bestowed upon His Eminence, Richard Cardinal Cushing.

This year's program will honor three main speakers: The Reverend George H. Williams, Hollis Professor of Divinity at Harvard University; The Reverend Edward H. Flannery, Faculty member at Seton Hall University, and Executive Secretary of the Secretariat For Catholic Jewish Relations; and Dr. Israel J. Kazis, Rabbi Temple Mishkan Tefila.

Professor Williams was ordained to the ministry in 1940. He served as assistant minister at the Church of the Christian Union in Rockford, Illinois. He served on the faculties of the Starr King School for the Ministry and at the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, California from 1941 to 1947.

In 1947 he came to Harvard and was successively lecturer, associate professor, and Winn Professor of Ecclesiastical History before being named Hollis Professor in 1963. He was Acting Dean of the Divinity School from 1953 to 1955.

Professor Williams is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

the Medieval Academy of America, and the Societe Erupenne de Culture.

He is a prolific writer and, from 1948 through 1969 has authored a considerable number of books which deal with religious education, Christianity, Catholicism, and Judaism.

He is on the editorial boards of Harvard Theological Review, Church History, Greek, Roman and Byzantine Studies, Studies in Romanticism, Colloquy, and Mennonite Quarterly Review.

Father Flannery has figured prominently as an exponent of Catholic social thought and action and in particular in the field of Jewish-Christian dialogue which he sees as presenting special problems for the ecumenist because of an embittered past.

In his talks he goes into the historic past to find the roots of Jewish Christian troubles, discusses the content and import of the Vatican Council's Declaration on the Jews, outlines what is being done today to implement it, and presents a broad scope of future possibilities.

His book, The Anguish of the Jews: 23 Centuries of Anti-Semitism (New York: Macmillan, 1965), is the first history of anti-Semitism by a Catholic priest. It has received six awards since its publication, and is now being translated into French and Spanish. A Portuguese edition has recently come off the press.

The Anguish of the Jews expresses Father Flannery's belief that the chief stumbling block separating Christians and Jews is not only the fact of anti-Semitism but Christians' ignorance of what has happened to Jews in history.

He is a member of the national board of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and other societies and organizations.

In the words of Dr. Israel J. Kazis: "In an effort to create a climate of better understanding among citizens of different faiths, the Brotherhood has been sponsoring an annual Good Neighbor Night which has served as an effective medium for presenting the views of distinguished religious leaders on the great issues confronting the American people in our time. This project represents a contribution to the enhancement of the democratic spirit in our community in that it gives concrete expression to a principle basic to the American way of life, namely, unity in the midst of diversity."

Dr. Kazis studied at Harvard University where he received the A.B. and Ph.D. degrees. He is also a graduate of the Hebrew Teachers College of Boston with the degree of Bachelor of Jewish Education. He was ordained at the Jewish Theological Seminary of American in 1940 from which institution he also received the M.H.L. degree.

Dr. Kazis was called to Temple Mishkan in 1946. He is at present serving as their Rabbi. Dr. Kazis served as President of the New England Region of the Rabbinical Assembly of America; member of the Committee on Jewish Law and Standards of the Rabbinical Assembly; member of the Executive Council of the Rabbinical Assembly; President of the Massachusetts Board of Rabbis; member of the Committee for the Study of Juvenile Delinquency in Massachusetts; member of the Task Force of The United Fund Campaign of Greater Boston.

Newton Art Assoc. Set For Season

The Newton Art Association begins its Twenty First year with its opening meeting at the Mason Rice School Pleasant Street, Newton Centre. This is a new locale for the meetings which are held twice a month.

Joseph L.C. Santoro will be the guest artist at this meeting to be held on Thursday, October 1 at 7:45 p.m.

Mr. Santoro, Director of Art at Cambridge School, is a resident of Watertown, and does a great deal of his work at his studio-gallery in Rockport.

He has received over 26 prizes for his art and has twice been awarded the Gold Medal of the American Artists Professional League.

The Newton Art Association invites its members and their friends to this exciting meeting when Mr. Santoro will demonstrate a water color.

Subscriptions For Concerts Must Be In By September 26

Mrs. Saul James Stolper of West Newton, local chairman for Youth Concerts at Symphony Hall, announced today that subscriptions for the 1969-1970 series of concerts must be returned by September 26.

Tefila was held in October of 1960 and with the initiation of this program, the Brotherhood wrote a page in Community and Temple history.

With each successive year's program, notably distinguished, and stimulating guest speakers have been presented, along with an impressive suite of prominent civic and educational leaders as head-table guest.

Brotherhood Temple Mishkan Tefila again looks forward with pride and anticipation, to the still further advancement of progressive civic thought, so effectively motivated by this program.

For reservations, contact Herbert Lerman, ticket chairman, at his telephone: 332-7245 or, the Temple office 332-7770.

The Youth Concerts, with Harry Ellis Dickson conducting members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, have been sold out each season since they began in 1959.

Two series of three concerts are presented on Saturdays, at Symphony Hall, at 11 a.m., with this year's programs scheduled for November 8 and 15, January 10 and 17, and March 14 and 21.

The programs are planned to stimulate young people's interest in good music by presenting both classical and contemporary compositions played by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the tradition - filled atmosphere of Symphony Hall.

In addition, The Ancient Instruments Room, with its priceless collection of rare and unusual instruments, is open to the young concert - goers before and after the concert.

For information or ticket application consult your school Creative Arts Chairman or Mrs. Stolper.

Tickets are sold by the series only for three Concerts. Since both series were sold out by October last year, those who wish to subscribe are urged to do so now and avoid disappointment.

Women's Clubs Federation To Meet Sept. 28

The first board meeting of the 1970-71 season of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs will take place at 10:15 a.m. at the Newtonville Library Hall, September 28. Mrs. Charles W. Laffin, president, will preside.

Following the business meeting, Anthony Bilbo will speak on the work of the Newton Community Service Center.

Members of all Newton women's clubs are invited to hear the talk by Mr. Bilbo.

Retiring Church Organist To Be Honored Sunday

Sunday, September 27th at 4 p.m. the Myrtle Baptist Church of West Newton will honor Miss Geraldine Robert who has resigned after serving as organist and choir director for the past 22 years. She came to Myrtle in 1947 after attending the New England Conservatory of Music.

Her first teacher was the late Jessie E. Shaw, widow of the late Rev. D. Shaw, pastor of the historic Twelfth Baptist Church in Roxbury and a popular physician and lawyer.

Miss Robert was also a student of the late Doris Dandridge of Boston, a well known soloist and teacher who studied in Paris, France. Mr. Elwyn Barrow, who still resides in Boston, taught Miss Robert organ.

Miss Robert has recently undertaken academic studies at Northeastern University majoring in sociology. Her many friends at Myrtle thank her and wish her well.
